A Slick Forger. A young man about twenty-one years of age, a genteel, good looking, fellow, dressed in dark clothes and a soft black hat appeared at the office of the Omaha Coal, Coke & Lime company one day the latter part of last week and ordered $9 worth of coal to be sent to the residence of C. W. Thomas, the grain dealer. In payment he handed the member of the company waiting upon him a check for $25. This check was signed C. W. Thomas, and after the clerk had scrutinized it closely, he seemed apparently satisfied that it was O. K., and handed the young man $16 in change. The latter then directed that the coal be sent up immediately as they were entirely out, and with a suave "good morn-ing," departed. The fuel was accordingly sent to Mr. Thomas', and in the evening the latter applied at the company's to as-certain who had given the order. This led to the discovery that the company had been the victim of some smooth gentleman, as Mr. Thomas most emphatically pronounced the check a forgery. The authorities were notified of the transaction, and the best men of the force detailed to look the matter up. Their efforts, however, were futile, and the common supposition was that the forger had common supposition was that the forger had made good his escape by leaving the city. Yesterday, however, brought most sub-stantial proof that the young gentleman who had evinced such a proficiency in the science of chirography, had not left the city, but was still here, and as active and prosperous in the pursuit of his little scheme as ever. Messrs. Little & Williams, grocers, 1407 Douglas street, called at the office of Chief Seavey, and informed him that they, too, had been victimized, and as evidence of this statement they handed him a check for $25 signed by they handed him a check for $25, signed by C. W. Thomas. From the description they gave of the utterer of the check, it was the same good looking, fluent talking young gentleman who had beaten the coal company. He had ordered some six or eight dollars worth of groceries, and received the balance of the check in currency. The detectives are diligently searching for the smooth youth, but with little prospect of apprehending hum. He is evidently a very skillful crook and one who knows how to successfully cover his tracks. Whether these two are the only instances of his rescality here is of course as yet unknown, but the likelihood is that other checks will turn up within the next twenty-four hours. This forger is undoubtedly the same party who has been working the same racket recently in Topeka and St. Joe. In the lat-ter place, according to the telegraph, different merchants were duped by this process out of something like $250, and in each in-stance the description of the man tallies ex-actly with that given by the coal company and Messrs. Little & Williams here.

The Press Club.

The Press club held a regular meeting at the new rooms Sunday afternoon. A large number of members of the organization were present. There was but little business transacted besides the election of four active and six honorary members. The fitting up of the new rooms is now nearly completed. Plans for the benefit entertainment which will be given at Boyd's February 20 were discussed and it can safely be said that it will be the most important amateur performance ever given in Omaha. All of the leading local musicians have volunteered their services and several ladies have signified their willingness to assist. Offers from Council Bluffs have been accepted. It is the intention of the club to give a refined and humorous enter-tainment and one that will long be remem-bered in Omaha. All of those who will take part are now working hard and regular re-hearsals will begin this week.

Commissioners' Salaries.

The new law relating to county commis sioners gives to the three elected in the last campaign $1,800 per year. To those holding over from the old board it allows but $3 a day. In the Douglas board the latter are Messrs O'Keefe and Mount. Under the old law it is held that the commisioners shall be paid at the rate above mentioned together with mileage in going to and returning from the board meetings which are supposed to be held but twice a week. The old commissioners for several years have been in the habit of occupy ing nearly all the time in attending to county affairs, holding that the necessities of Douglas county were such as to require this attention. Under the new law the later commissioners may spend their whole time, or if they attend but two their whole time, or if they attend but two meetings per week, they will receive the same amount of pay $1,800. That is at the rate of about $35 per week. Under the law the old commissioners would be able to earn exactly $6 a week independent of mile-age. "I do not propose," said Com-missioner O'Keefe, "to work for six dollars a week. I can't afford it. No-body can afford it. There is enough work to keep the commissioners going all the time. If the commissioners are working all the time, why shouldn't they be paid for it?

time, why shouldn't they be paid for it? There is more work outside than there is inside the office. Heretofore what was everybody's business was nobody's business. That has been changed. Now it is a matter of committees, and you know more time is spent in getting committee reports ready than there is in making them. Whese men than there is in making them. These men who are gotting $1,800 a year can afford to spend their whole time in the business, but we can not at $6 a week. To illustrate: There is now sufficient work for three commissioners, for three months to do nothing else, but check the tax list in the county treasurer's office. It will require the other two men to keep track of the applica-tions for more roled, which always require at tions for poor rehef, which always require at-tention. In the summer there is just as much to attract our attention in other ways. There is now pending before the finance com-mittee a claim of about $170, I think, of ex-Commissioner Timme. This is to make up the discrepancy between the old and the new salary. He holds that although he was an old member of the board he was entitled to the same salary as the new members are receiving, which generally averaged since the law went into effect about twenty dollars per month more than he received. The committee, I have spoken of have been instructed to get legal advice on the subject."

The Boys Are Honest.

Julius Rudowsky, sr., representing the parents of the boys mentioned in an article published in Saturday's BEE entitled "Where Jack Cades came from," called at the BEE office yesterday. Mr. Rudowsky says the report made by Patrick O'Donnell to the chief of police concerning the doings of certain boys in the vicinity of Twenty-first and Pierce streets was false as to the fact and malicious as to purpose.

Mr. Rudowsky makes the following statement: "About twenty boys in my neighborhood have organized a club; they dug a hole, on the bank of a small creek about 10x12 on a vacant lot in Shull's addition; for this they had Mr. Shull's consent and the purpose of the cave was for a meeting place for their club. Mr. Shull and several others donoted a number of trees, old boards and other things for the completion of the cave. Each member of this club was assessed

Each member of this club was assessed 10 cents per month for coal and oil. About two months ago Eddie O'Donnell came into the cave one evening and begged to be allowed to sleep in the cave as his father had driven him out of the house. The boys gave their permission to this and some of them furnished him blankets. By doing chores in the neighborhood young O'Donnell earned his meals. Some of the boys visited the O'Donnell home and secured the mother's permission for the boy to come home; when Patrick O'Donnell, the father came home, he sent the boy away again. The boy was very Patrick O'Donnell, the father came home, he sent the boy away again. The boy was very poorly dressed and bare footed but he went to the cave again and told the boys what his father had done. One of the boys, Fred Hamel, took him to his house, begging his mother to let him stay with him. The boys gave him $1.80, all they had in their fuel fund to hux medicine with with thin. The boys gave thin $1.50, all they had in their fuel fund, to buy medicane with, and waited on him in turn. After he got well they urged him to try once more, to come home, and his father, having heard a good deal criticising his doings by neighbors, let him stay, but instead of thanking the hows for their noble act he more to the chief boys for their noble act, he goes to the chief of police and pronounces them thieves and hoodlums

Franko's Farewell.

Wednesday evening, January 11, at Boyd's opera house, the farewell concert of Nahan Franko will take place. This will be the last appearance of Mr. Franko in Omaha, and those who have upon so many occasions been entertained with his excellent efforts will for the last time listen to the notes of his violin. The occasion will be marked by a large attendance of Omahans.

The following will take part in the pro-gramme: Mrs. Edith Franko, Mine. Muen-tefering, Mme. Young, Mr. B. B. Young, Mr. Martin Cahn, Philharmonic society.

Success of the Night Schools.

Two additional night schools opened last evening, the Hartman and Castellar schools, which make a total of five in operation. The other three are the Leavenworth, Center and Cass. This is proving a very meritorious innovation in educational affairs, as the attendance at each of the schools is very large, and the students are profuse in their expressions of appreciation and gratitude to the board for furnishing them with this opportunity to acquire an education, which otherwise would be denied them.

The Cable Line.

That the cable cars do not run more regularly is the matter of much commont and a BEE representative called on President Johnson yesterday to ascertain the cause. He stated that the two new grips received last week did not work satisfactorily and they had to be overhauled. These repairs would take several days yet before completion. The company have plenty of coaches but it will be two weeks yet before the cars will be run. frozen.

The Fatal Number.

The superstitiously inclined county officers at the court house are much exercised over an incident connected with the dinner given by County Commissioner Mount, January 2. Shortly after the guests were seated at the hospitable board it was noticed that Mr. S. S. Auchmoedy was deathly pale and that District Clork Moore's face bore a fright-ened look. Commissioner O'Keefe's soup remained untouched while Sheriff Coburn seemed about to faint. Inquiry as to these alarming symptoms disclosed the fact that the fatal thirteen guests were present. Much discussion over this omen of disaster was indulged in and finally it was determined to go on with the dinner and let fate take her course. It is the popular belief that if thircourse. It is the popular belief that if thir-teen guests sit down at a table one of them is sure to die within a year. Following is the list of the fated thirteen: W. J. Mount, D. O'Keefe, William L. Turner, P. C. Corrigan, L. M. Anderson, Frank Moores, William Co-burn, T. A. Megeath, G. W. Shields, C. A. Howes, J. B. Bruner, S. S. Auchmoedy and Miss Maggie Truland.

He Was Probably Drugged.

OMAHA, Neb., Jan. 9 .- To the Editor of the BEE: In the issue of your paper of January 7, an item appeared against one Andrew Evanson, who has worked for us a number of years. The item stated that Evanson had been on a prolonged spree, and that he had lost his diamonds, gold watch, money, etc. We wish to state that Mr. Evanson, for the past two years, has not been known by us to take a drop of any kind of intoxicating liquor. He has during this time been sober, steady, reliable and industrious, and we be steady, reliable and industrious, and we be-lieve that Mr. Evanson was, in some way, made the victim of some contemplated scheme whereby he was drugged and made to appear drunk. Mr. Evanson has not lost one cent of his money, nor his jewelry, and is still in our employ.
