

CALLING FOR A QUARANTINE.

The State Live Stock Sanitary Commission Alarmed.

DANGER OF PLEURO-PNEUMONIA

The Dread Disease Still Exists in Many Eastern States—Meeting of the Agricultural Board and Breeders' Association.

[FROM THE BEE'S LANSLOW BUREAU.]

The Board of Live Stock Sanitary Commissioners yesterday handed the following official letter to the governor in regard to a new quarantine proclamation:

Whereas Contagious pleuro-pneumonia among cattle has been eradicated from several of the states now quarantined against, and

Whereas Danger from contagious pleuro-pneumonia may be apprehended by the introduction of cattle coming from infected districts in the states of New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Pennsylvania and Illinois, and

Whereas Experience has demonstrated that cattle shipped from the states of Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina and Indian Territory into or through the state of Nebraska, after the 1st day of March, and before the 1st day of November, are liable to convey Texas or splenic fever to our native cattle; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the governor be requested to issue a new proclamation to take effect February 1, 1888, prohibiting all railroad and transportation companies from receiving business in the state, as well as all persons or individuals from introducing into the state of Nebraska all cattle coming from the following named districts, to-wit: the state of New York; the counties of Philadelphia in Pennsylvania; the counties of Baltimore, Carroll, Howard and Prince George in Maryland; and the county of Cook in the state of Illinois. And be it further,

Resolved, That the governor also prohibit by proclamation the introduction and shipment into or through the state of Nebraska of all cattle that have been shipped all or in part of the way from the states of Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina and Indian Territory during the months of March, April, May, June, July, August, September and October, and be it respectively submitted. J. Gerrit J., Secretary.

H. Henry, Platte county; J. C. Warner, Webster county; J. W. Ferguson, Kearney county; G. W. Greig, Polk county; Stephen Morgan, Harlan county; W. H. M. Holt, Adams county; J. T. Mallahan, Buffalo county; President S. M. Barker, of Silver Creek; Secretary Furnas, Brownville; L. A. Kent, and a majority of the board of directors were on hand for the session. The afternoon meeting was given over to the seating of county delegates and the disposal of a contest claim, the regular business and submission of reports remaining for the evening session.

The evening session showed increased attendance. President Barker read his annual address, as follows: Gentlemen of the State Board of Agriculture, Citizens and Farmers of Nebraska: A year has passed since the last meeting of the state board of agriculture. While other states have been visited with extreme droughts and floods and other evils to the farmers our state has been comparatively free from such extremes and the year closed has been one of prosperity. The state of Nebraska stands to-day at the head of the list of states for its good crops and its extra good stock of all kinds and character. Other states are having largely on their farms grain to feed both the people and their stock. In looking over the live stock reports of Chicago and the other eastern markets, we see Nebraska's stock selling for the highest prices and also noted for its extra quality. Let me say to the farmers and feeders of Nebraska, the better care you take and the better you feed your stock the greater will your profits be enhanced. Even at the high price of corn this year it pays to feed liberally. You farmers and feeders through ability and energy added to your abundance of corn and hay, have become the best feeders in the United States. The Nebraska farmer is becoming the great stock state of the union and has already invested millions of money in the slaughtering and packing business in the state, and more of them are coming. Last year over one million hogs and a proportionate number of other stock were received at Omaha, besides large numbers at Lincoln, Nebraska City and other points in the state. This large amount of stock has returned large amounts of money each of you farmers that have done your duty have received the benefits. These home markets are worth everything to the farmers of Nebraska.

All other branches of trade can attribute their success to the farmers. You gentlemen farmers are the foundation of all successful business. Go to any place in the union and where you find poor farming you find business depression in all branches of trade. The fact is, farmers, merchants and all business institutions are dependent upon the farmer, both for their living and the business they transact.

The farmers have done more toward building up the cities scattered over the state than all other vocations, and on you farmers rests the continued prosperity of the state.

Our state fairs are organized and should be conducted for your benefit. From such fairs as are held much can be learned. Other states contribute exhibits in large numbers but farmers and stockmen of our state have shown to the world by exhibits made and premiums failed that no better stock or products of the soil can be raised than in Nebraska.

The officers and members of your state board of agriculture have worked hard to make your state prosperous. Therefore your officers do not try the experiment. In the matter of judges we have employed one expert judge in the stock department and I would recommend that an expert judge be employed in all classes. I think it will give better satisfaction to the exhibitors. The old way of getting three judges has always been attended with trouble and annoyance and it has been impossible to get good judges in that way.

To the transportation companies of the state the board is under obligation for their interest and assistance. The people of Lincoln during the year last past, have, as in previous years, been active in promoting the success of the fair and the press of the state have had an abundance of good words both for the exhibition and the state board in its management. To all these in behalf of the board I desire to return our thanks for their cordial assistance and cooperation.

In conclusion let me renew my thanks expressed a year ago to the officers and members of the board for their continued generous cooperation and kindness on every point that has made the work of my office and your board not and not without profit to the society.

The report of the treasurer shows a balance of $8,226.20 in the treasury. The report of that officer was received with the same degree of approval. Secretary Furnas, in a long and interesting report, made a number of valuable recommendations, among them being one favoring premiums for individual displays of fish, provisions for monthly agricultural reports, state prizes and premiums for essays and papers on agricultural subjects and others. The reports of the secretary and treasurer were referred to a committee.

Nominations for members of the board to fill the term of those expiring were made and the same were referred to a committee of five to select members and report at 10 o'clock. To-day was fixed for the time of election of officers and 1 o'clock the time to hear papers by Prof. Bossey on "Pests of Plants," Prof. Hicks on "Irrigation," and W. E. Taylor of Peru on "Birds of Nebraska." There is a general feeling of satisfaction over the good work of President Barker and Secretary Furnas the past two years, and a desire to select them to a committee of five to select members and report at 10 o'clock. CITY BRIEFS. Christian G. Herald has been again arrested on a new charge of wrongfully coveting property and has had his bail fixed at $500, pending a preliminary hearing January 25. William Meagher, a saloon keeper in the city, has been arrested on the complaint of a party named Bartlett, the charge being, selling liquor to minors. His case has been continued until the 25th.

Yesterday Water Commissioner J. L. Lyman, Chief Newbury, of the fire department, and delegates from the hose companies and the hooks, departed for Plattsmouth, where they attend the annual meeting of the State Firemen's association.

Report was brought to the city yesterday that the dead body of a man had been found six miles north of Lincoln, where he had perished in the great storm. The report stated that his team with a portion of the wagon was found in a farmer's yard and the search was then made, resulting as above.

A MYSTERIOUS FOREIGNER.

Strange Life at Lawrenceburg, Ind., of Lyron Krona.

St. Paul Globe: Lyron Krona, the man supposed to have been guilty of the Swedish bank robbery and murder, who lived in Waukesha county, Wisconsin, for a time, and then disappeared, about March 1 arrived in this city with his wife and family. He assumed the name of Count Adolph Thuren, and claimed to be unable to speak a word of English. His wife, however, could talk English. Coming with her household goods and with limited wardrobe, rooms were at once furnished luxuriously and regardless of expense, while the wardrobes of the family were replenished with the richest and most expensive robes. Cash was paid for every article, and the purse of the mysterious stranger seemed to be without limit, says a Lawrenceburg, Ind., special to the Chicago Times.

After settling his family he at once entered upon a protracted spree, and within twenty-four hours afterward was notorious on account of his eccentricities. These were continued at intervals, when he squandered money with reckless abandon, and his name has become the most famous stories of "Coal Oil Johnny's" career. Twenty and ten-dollar bills were distributed among saloon-keepers and bar-room loungers with great freedom. The spree continued until the purse was empty, and he would then leave for the west, shrouding his movements in greatest mystery. After an absence of three or four weeks he would put in an appearance unexpectedly, making his arrival as mysterious as his departure had been. He would be paid, the lender replenished with stores, and then the spree was repeated and money squandered with the nonchalance of a royal spendthrift.

WITH AN ESCAPE UNLIMITED. These sprees were repeated periodically during the entire time of his residence here. He was arrested frequently, and spent many days in the city jail and paid several hundred dollars in fines and costs until a jail sentence was imposed on him. No papers were ever found on his person to give any clue to his identity. During his absence the wife often suffered for the necessities of life, and at one time, when he was absent longer than usual, she was obliged to seek employment as a domestic. Upon the return of the husband amends were for the neglect, and expensive jewelry and the finest fabrics were purchased for her. It is positively known that seven gold watches were presented to him as many chance acquaintances, and other valuable articles were distributed, the stranger seeming to possess a mania for present-making. Two members of the police force, the jailer, the Ohio & Mississippi railroad porter, and others were recipients of gold watches, in addition to the immense sums of money spent in saloons and prodigality.

It is estimated that the merchants have received upward of $40,000 for articles of silver and furniture. The stranger treated his family with great kindness when sober, but when drinking was a terror, and repeatedly drove his wife and child from the house clad in their night gowns, and sought to seek shelter with the neighbors. During these times the furniture was converted into kindling wood, and the costly carpets and fine silks into rags, only to be replaced after recovery from the drink, and presented to the wife and child. The stranger was once compelled to leave there because he made an attempt to murder his wife, firing two shots at her. A butcher and furniture dealer, in considering the 1,000 furnished bonds for Krona, and he was released from custody and came to this city. The wife claims to know nothing whatever of his history or his business, and pleads ignorance of his whereabouts when he is absent from the city. It is known that Ottumwa and Indianola, Ia., Fort Scott and Westphalia, Kan., and Dakota towns have been visited by him on these secret trips.

Some time ago Monday night for Cincinnati and informed his family that he would return this week with money to pay all debts and to supply immediate wants. He only had a few dollars and did not intimate that any other means than Cincinnati was available. The wife is not uneasy about his absence, and, although in a delicate condition and entirely without funds, is resting contentedly, believing that Krona will return as promised.

Krona is about 35 years of age, heavy set, and has a beard covering his entire face. He acts nervously and is never quiet a moment. He claims to be an Odd Fellow and a thirty-second degree Mason.

Great Names. San Francisco Examiner: George Washington and Daniel Webster are high at the American Election ball. The former halls from Clark and the latter from Manchester, N. H. Last week Ethan Allen got dinner at the International, and as late as Thursday Andrew Jackson registered his name at the Russes. As if that were not enough Captain Kidd put in his appearance last night and Henry Hudson arrived on the City of Chester from Mendocino. Henry Clay got jugged at the old city hall the other day as a common drunk, and the great John Marshall has just served out a ninety day's sentence for being in a private house without being able to give any satisfactory reason therefor. Most of these are able to quote immediately the famous sayings of their alleged revolutionary sires. Mr. Clay has written a concise memorandum of the doings of the "Millions of the Slashes," which, he says, has never yet appeared in print. Mr. Allen says that utterance of his great-grandfather at the time of the great English forces—"in the name of the great Jehovah and the continental congress"—has for three generations been a heirloom in his family. Andrew Jackson, who is a tall gentleman with piercing black eyes, from Memphis, refused to be interviewed yesterday when the reporter called. Sam Houston, however, who is now a raising grower of Fresno, cheerfully told thecribe of the press of his views.

B. Arnold, who was at the Lick last week, disclaimed any relationship with the gentleman who got $50,000 and a brigadier generalship for his little expedition with the British. William Pitt is a cowboy in Modoc county, Lewis and Clark run a ranch five miles from Visalia, Wadsworth Longfellow and C. Columbus are among the rising men of San Diego, while Mollie Stark and Grace Darling recently ran a dressing-making establishment on Powell street. Among modern names figure engineers, poets and statesmen. John C. Fremont, John C. Breckinridge and John G. Saxe have long resided here, worthy sons of noted sires. The first makes his home on a large grant in Southern California, the second is district attorney at Merced, the third resides in this city. It is somewhat astonishing, though, that Cardinal McCloskey is keeping a saloon in Tacoma, while J. J. Astor is an inmate of the Oregon Home of the world, during the greatest arena would seem to be Philadelphia, 12th, London, 11th; New York, forty-one; New Orleans, New Orleans, forty; Chicago, thirty-six square miles. Paris covers only about thirty square miles.

Area of Largest Cities. New York World: The statutory area of New Orleans is 150 square miles; that of Philadelphia is 129 square miles. New Orleans occupies about 40 square miles; Philadelphia over a hundred. So, probably, justice will be done by holding that Philadelphia is the largest city in the United States in point of area. As to the five cities of the United States, Philadelphia will lead again; New York comes next with forty-one square miles; New Orleans third, with forty; Chicago fourth, with thirty-six, and Brooklyn fifth with twenty-five square miles. The five cities of the world, during the greatest arena would seem to be Philadelphia, 12th, London, 11th; New York, forty-one; New Orleans, New Orleans, forty; Chicago, thirty-six square miles. Paris covers only about thirty square miles.
