Some citizens have joined in a com-plaint to the board of education in regard to Mr. Coggeshall, one of the teachers in the high school. They claim that he is not qualified to teach the branches which he is expected to. Mr. Coggeshall was formerly a teacher in St. Joseph academy, and left that school for some reason unknown. The queer feature to the affair is that if he is as really as incompetent as is claimed, why the board of education has not discovered this important fact befor this, or, having discovered it, why the in competent teacher has not been re moved. It seems odd that there should exist any necessity for citizens to take the iniative move in securing a teacher's removal on the ground of incompetency.

To-day's Carnival.

From the names thus far handed in it appears that fully 500 ladies and gentlemen will to-day take sleighs for Omaha, if weather proves favorable. There are over 200 sleighs listed for the line, and they will average over two persons to a sleigh. The committee of arrangements have selected a good road to Omaha, and they desire that all who go will please keep their places in the line both to Omaha and while driving about that to Omaha and while driving about that city. All parties having tandems or four-in-hands are requested to gather on the south side of Bayliss park, so that they may be given their proper places in the procession. Others will meet on First avenue, near the park. The line will be formed to start promptly at 1920 cicled today. It is promptly at 12:30 o'clock to-day. It is necessary that every one going on this jolly trip be provided with a badge. These badges can be secured at Moore & Kiplinger's, at the Council Bluffs company's store, or of Farrell. No one will be entitled to the privileges, nor be allowed to join in the festivities, unless provided with a badge. The arrangements in Omaha are such that it will be necessary there also to display the badges in order to be recognized as belonging to the party.

Elegant Hospitality. The spacious residence of Mr. J. F. Evans, corner of Sixth avenue and Sixth street, was the scene yesterday of two large and enjoyable social gatherings, one in the afternoon the other in the evening. In the afternoon a reception was given, to which about two hundred ladies were invited, nearly all responding in person, causing the large parlors to be filled with a brilliant assemblage of fair forms and faces. The Suests were received by Mrs. J. F. Evans, Mrs. Horace Evans and Mrs. Bert Evans, assisted by Mrs. William Evans and Mrs. T. J. Evans. Mrs. J. F. Evans was dressed in a black, corded silk with yellow roses. Mrs. Horace Evans and Mrs. Bert Evans wore heavy cream faille Francaise en train. Mrs William Evans was dressed in a rich golden brown silk trimmed with velvet. Mrs. T. J. Evans appeared in a heavy black satin. The parlors were grace-fully adorned, there being stands of potted plants, the chandeliers and other suitable places wreathed in smilax, while the mantles were banks of flowers There was low sweet music sufficient to give its charms without interfering with the happy exchange of greetings and the merry chatting. The dining room was made attractive, not only by loral decorations and the tasteful ar ranging of the table, but also by the generous and tempting viands, of which the guests partook at will, entering and leaving the dining room at their pleas-ure. The ladies receiving and enter-taining were relieved from all necessity of giving personal attention to the re freshment table, that being ably pre-sided over by their friends. Mrs. At-kins, Miss Belle Hatcher, Miss Lizzie Brown and Miss Merkel. In the center of the large table was a beautiful ar-rangement of flowers, and the guests were served, either sitting or standing, as they preferred, with ice cream, cakes coffee, chocolate and grapes. All of the arrangements were well planned and gracefully executed, the guests were happy, and the reception justly goes on to the record as on of the most success

In the evening there was another brilliant assemblage, the event being a dancing party given by Mr. and Mrs. Bert Evans to their young friends. There were about seventy-five invitations issued, and the company was a merry one. Dalby's orchestra furnished excellent music. The guests were refreshed at will during the evening by lemonade, while in the dining-room were served chicken salad, coffee, sandwiches, olives, ice cream and cake, Among the guests from out of the city were Miss Carrie Atkins, Miss Mollie Larimer and Miss Clara Brown, of Omaha; Miss Florence Root, of Keokuk; Miss Haskell, of Atchison. Kan.; Miss Dent and Miss Adams, of Winona, Ill. The evening hours were passed very happily by the young people.

Main st. Benjamin at the Bar.

About one week or ten days ago proceedings were filed to disbar Fremont Benjamin. The accusation contained four counts:

That in the month of July, 1885, he was retained and employed to defend A. W. Coffman in all legal proceedings growing out of the killing of J. K. Main. That from that time until about the 1st day of January, 1886, he acted as such attorney, and while in such employ obtained the confidence and secrets of his ellent, and that afterward he quit said employment and went over to the pro-secution, gave away the secrets of Coff-man, and betrayed his confidence and helped to prosecute Coffman on the trial for the killing of Main. 2. That on or about the 7th day of January, 1886, he began an attachment case against Coffman for $2,500 for services performed in defending him, and filed an attachment bond with the clerk of courts at Avoca, Ia., and caused an attachment to be issued in said case and had the same levied on the real estate of Coffman and that afterward or between that time and the 11th day of January, 1888, he erased and scratched the case from the records, as well as erasing and scratching out the record of the levying of the writ of attachment and took the papers in the case includ-ing the attachment bond, out of the Miliner he learned from Miliner while consulting with him as such attorney, that there existed a judgment in favor of Whitney & Holmes Organ company vs. John Roseboom, which said judgment was a first lien on a certain eighty acre tract of land situated in this county, which the said Miliner had conveyed by warranty deed and by reason of which said warranty, Miliner was legally liable to clear the land of said judgment amounting to about $400. Miliner also conveyed to Benjamin the fact that he could buy the judgment for 25c on the dollar.

and asked to have it continued to the February term, 1888. C. R. Scott, who appeared as attorney for Benjamin, then said they would have all the witnesses asked for, and the court then set the case for trial at 1:30 p. m. the 17th day of January, 1888, at which time the parties all being in court and the most material witnesses for the prosecution not being present, an application for continuance was filed, claiming the absence of certain witnesses and as to what they would testify. The court, deeming the showing sufficient, sus-deeming the showing sufficient, sustained the application. Then Mr. Scott stated that they were willing to admit that the witnesses, if present, would testify as stated in the application. It was then discovered that by clerical error the most material testimony of Lodge Loggie Parkey and head to be a positive of the control of the co

Judge Locfbourrow had been omitted.

As the application had been passed upon it was too late to remedy the defect.

save the state all her rights and to pre vent a "guilty man going unwhipped of justice" he would withdraw the accusa-ions and retile them, which was accordingly done. So now the result is that after having occupied the boards here for several days the disbarment proceedings against Benjamin are now exactly in the same position as in the start. The charges still stand and it now looks as though the charges would have to be met when all the state's testimony has been thoroughly mar-shalled. It having been stated that G.

W. Robinson, who is the relator was urged on by A. W. Coffman and A. W. Askwith, Benjamin's old partner, Mr.

That as soon as the note was presented to Peterattorneys made lengthy arguments, and it was nearly noon when the case was submitted. Judge Aylesworth thought the evidence sufficient to bind the prisoner over to the grand jury, and did so in the sum of $1,000. In the afternoon the cases of James Dunn and John Francis, for larceny, and W. F. Prayey, for burglary, were called. They all waived examination, and were also bound over to the grand jury, which meets on the 6th of February. There was no business of the regular January term transacted.

The Fairmount Park Case.

The wrangle over the possession of Fairmount park has not attracted much attention of late, and it is not generally known that the case will be called in court on the 2nd of February, at which time the city's interest in the matter will be looked after by City Attorney Holmes, Finley Burke, and Messrs. Sapp & Pusey. The city was not espec-ially made a party to the suit, as all outside parties are notified to appear and defend their claims. Notwithstanding the ungraciousness of the invitation, Park Commissioner Graham says, "We propose to take a hand in the game whether we are asked to or not, and I guess we will stay with them for a while anyway."

It is said that there will be an attempt made to have the plat of the park declared illegal, and to have the city ousted without ceremony. If this grasp ing law firm obtains possessions of Fair-mount park, it will be after the liveliest and bitterest legal fight known in the history of Pottawatamie county.

The Ebb and Flow. There are some quiet moves on foot which will soon be ready to announce in detail. One of these is the purchase of lots near Tenth avenue for the establishment of a large wholesale lumber yard. The nearness to the railway tracks, and the short distance, too, from the heart of the city, makes the location very desirable for such purposes, and this enterprise will speedily be followed by others. The sale is reported of thirty-two acres, near Wickham's brick yards, for the opening of another brick yard. On the other hand it is whis-pered that Mr. Geise is considering the idvisability of closing his brewery here and removing the machinery to Chatta-nooga, and there going into business more extensively than ever. The closing of the brewery will be looked upon by many as a great loss to the city, and the hope is expressed that the rumor may be unfounded. Mr. Geise is absent from the city, but those connected with him, who ought to know, do not deny but that there is some ground for the report that he will remove from here.

Some Hints Upon the Art of Kissing

Other Men's Wives.

Barboursville (Ky.) News: Never kiss a young girl if she doesn't want you to. The main ingredient that makes kissing endurable is a willingness on the part of the female. If it deepens into anxiety, so much the better. When a girl claws a man's hair and scratches his face like a little fool—drop her at once. She is destitute of good sense and natural affection, and the sooner you begin making love to her sister the better. As long as a girl don't claw and yell and struggle like a panther it's perfectly safe to continue prospecting. Get a little behind her, pass the right arm around the waist in front, take her left hand in your left, and if you don't know what to do next go and associate with the boys in Greenland. If you are just beginning to teach a shy girl who has only been kissed heretofore by her brothers and father, touch your lips gently to her forehead. She will take this for an exhibition of profound respect. That portion gained, working the way down to the lips is as natural and as easy as the course of a log sliding down stream.

Never sit down to kiss. It appears awkward in case anybody is looking, and seems awkward anybow. Stand up, and the closer you press the girl the higher estimate she will place on your good taste, common sense and experience. Kissing married ladies is a separate branch of the art and requires constant practice. While tenderness and a little hesitation and bashfulness if well put on go a long way with a young girl, such nonsense is not swallowed by a ing. The large court room, which is of the height of the second and third stories, is connected with the venti-lator shaft by a six foot register in the ceiling. This room is heated by hot married woman to any considerable extent. Be warm, vigorous and hearty, and above all things be frequent. One of the prime requi-sites on such an occasion is a quick ear air blown by a huge fan through 10.000 for the footstep in the hall and a nice feet of pipe in a steam chest, thence through pipes to the court room. The post office on the lower floor is to be calculation as to how long the husband will take to reach the door after he has passed the head of the stairs. A house heated in the same manner, although it is now warmed by means of radiators. The method of placing the registers is heavily carpeted with Brussels requires eternal vigilance and sometimes rare presence of mind. By the time the worser half of the family gets his hand on the door knob you must be seated in the far corner of the room seriously perusing Talmage's sermon on Covetous-

A kiss can sometimes be snatched when the husband is in the room, but this requires an expert and is risky. Our young man once knew an instance. A married lady asked her husband to wind the clock, and a young man in the room thought he saw his golden oppor-tunity and went for it. If the clock hadn't had a clock just before the face that young man would have been all right; but for three weeks after his Sunday school class had a picked-up teacher and he had the appearance of having bucked against a cyclone. This is one of the vicissitudes of kissing from mere impulse. Mothers do not fail, at the first indications of a cough, to give your enildren a few doses of Dr. J. H. McLean's Tar Wine Lung Balm; 25 cents a bottle. SPECIAL NOTICES.
