Mayor Broatch Talks About Wheeler, Cummings, Butler, et al.

BAKER NOTIFIED TO QUIT.

Actor George C. Miln Talks About the Past and Future—Excited Mr. Young—Troops Going into Encampment.

The Mayor's Views.

Mayor Broatch, in speaking about the recent strictures of the Bee with reference to the management of the office of building inspector, gave to a reporter the following figures showing the receipts and expenditures of the office in question since last April, when the mayor assumed his present office: Receipts, April, $770; May, $928; June, $1,108; July, $881; August, $736; September, $596; October, $250; December, $150; Total, $6,530. Expenditures during the same time, $1,037.83. Balance covered into the treasury, $2,992.12.

"Does this show," asked the mayor, "that the office has not been self-supporting?" He also claimed that the fees of the office have been as low as those of any city in the country. The mayor stated that his intention was to give the people an economical and an honest administration, and that he had made up his mind to give up the duties of his office as much attention as they required. He had done this before, but without much effect, but now that the council had taken the proper intention and attention would be productive of desirable results.

"I had no sympathy with Butler. He was of a faction over which I had no control. I recognized that the council could elect to the position of sergeant-at-arms whomever they pleased. When the council increased the salary to $75 per month, I felt that Butler could be of more service to the city at that salary than any other man who would be represented by the difference in his salary—$15 per month.

THE TWO HEROINES.

The Fate of the Heroic Action of Miss Minnie Freeman, the young teacher who saved the lives of thirteen children, has been read in the homes of every city in the Union. That which to her seemed an act of little moment save as a fulfillment of her duty has been commented on by the leading journals of the country, and through those prints the brave girl has received the plaudits her action deserves. It will be remembered that the Bee was the first to introduce this heroine to the public and published exclusively the account of her actions in its issue of the 10th inst.

No less deserving of praise is Miss Louise Royce, of Plainview, Pierce county. Her most successful efforts to save the lives of her little charges Miss Royce remained with them throughout the day of the storm, and her heroic actions were the first to introduce this heroine to the public and published exclusively the account of her actions in its issue of the 10th inst.

OLD MEXICO.

Dr. Miller's Lecture at the First Congregational Church.

Tuesday evening a large and appreciative audience gathered at the First Congregational church, corner of Nineteenth and Davenport streets, to listen to Dr. Miller's interesting and instructive lecture on "Mexico." He was followed closely by his audience, and was interrupted from time to time by applause. To all the lecture was a revelation, showing how little is known in this country about our next-door neighbor—Mexico. After a graphic description of the topographical features of the country, the doctor spoke of its beautiful scenery and other physical features. His description of the life and habits of the natives was full and exhaustive. He told of the elegant and refined people he had met, how the aristocrats lived, of life in the hotels, how funeral processions are carried in street cars, how the aristocrats ride on donkeys, and carry across their shoulders a yoke, from either end of which is suspended the most heavy and ponderous system of the city, and a crowd of men who traveled from door to door carrying water in leather bottles. He described the various cities, and gave a verbal delineation of the cathedrals and other grand public buildings.

Another attachment was issued against the property of John Comolly, at the instance of L. Kersch & Co., Omaha. In the suit of William Ogden and J. R. Ogden against Peter Hansen, the defendant obtained a change of venue from Justice Levy's court.

Yesterday Marshal McCracken was called on to render additional assistance to the family of John Landy, who is doing a thirty-day term in jail.

It is said there is trouble ahead for some of the South Omaha saloon-keepers who are not selling under their own license, or have not made proper application to the council for a permit.

Among the Exchange hotel guests are: P. Berlet, Fairmount; Henry Nob, Clarkson; J. S. Geon, Union; E. J. Wacker, Plainview; W. D. Bullard, Persia; I. Frank, McCune, Oshkosh; E. J. Miller, Lincoln; S. B. Knight, Chicago; and Frank Hertz, Chicago.

James N. Phillips, in his suit filed yesterday, complains that Sidney Smith agreed to pay him $400 for overseeing the construction of Harris & Smith's buildings, but up to the present time has failed to do so. Therefore he wants judgment to that amount.

Lambert Mitchell and Hugh McBride, the two men arrested for fighting in a saloon, were fined $37.50 each.

Pat McGarth, the butcher who so cruelly beat his wife got off with five days in the county jail.

Peter Smith, an employe in Fowler's packing house in South Omaha, came to the city in search of his wife. He found her in a questionable house on Capitol avenue. She consented to return home with him provided that he would pay her $250. He gave her the amount and then stepped outside to wait until she packed up her things. He had only been there a moment when an officer came along and arrested him. He told the police judge the above story who discharged him.

Thomas Lynch, charged with discharging firearms in a public place, explained to the court that he was examining a pistol and it fell from his hands. He was released after paying the costs.

The following prisoners charged with vagrancy were discharged: T. J. Murphy, Dan Duck, Bob Albert, Dan Smith, P. Fitzgerald, Samuel Beullier, Frank Purcell and Frank Gregory.

Drunks—James Dugan, Pat McGratte, E. Dickenson and C. Johnson.

"DR." REEVES IS SUED. One of His Patients Endeavors to Recover His Money. Yesterday one of "Dr." Powell Reeves' victims named James McInerney commenced suit in Justice Reed's court against that notorious "specialist" to recover $50 which he claims Reeves got from him under false representations. McInerney has been treated, and after reading Reeves' duplicate pamphlet of Dr. W. H. Betts' work, he went to Reeves for treatment. Reeves promised to heal him and make him perfectly sound in three months for the consideration of $50. McInerney was unable to pay this at once and gave his note payable at seven points, each garnison in getting there having to march possibly 200 miles. It is quite likely that the doctor's services were not of the highest quality, and that the patient was not cured.

THEY ARE COMING STRONG. A Delegation From Yankton, Dak., and Way Points For Omaha. Reports received from along the line of the proposed Omaha & Yankton railroad are to the effect that the people are heart and soul in the enterprise, and by word and deed are working to bring about its completion. In Yankton the citizens are zealous and ambitious, and have appointed a committee to confer with the citizens of Omaha in reference to the road. Other places expecting benefits from it have also selected representatives to come on to Omaha with a view similar to that of Yankton's. Yesterday Secretary Nattinger received the following: YANKTON, Dak., Jan. 21.—Secretary Board of Trade, Omaha, Neb.—Dear Sir: I am directed to inform you that a few of our representative business men, of the city of Yankton, our citizens, will visit your city between February 6 and 9 for the purpose of urging the building of the proposed line of railroad from your city to Yankton. More economical than the ordinary kind, and cannot be sold in competition with the multitude of low cost railroads that are being projected in this country. Showing the advantages of the proposed line to your country and the benefits to be mutually derived. Our committee will in all probability be joined by committees from towns in Nebraska along the proposed route. Very respectfully, Mr. Nattinger at once replied to Mr. Crenshaw, assuring him that the citizens of Omaha would be glad to receive the delegation, and would accord them all the data and information procurable.

The Kammandschaft. Tuesday evening, a very successful meeting of the German Kammandschaft, was held at Rosenmund's, on Farnam street. It was the first meeting since the holidays and those present enjoyed the spirit of the occasion with the old-time spirit and good fellowship. There were present the brothers from the Pacific coast, and the gentlemen of Chicago, one of whom is the authorized correspondent of that well-known paper, traveled in a number of lands abroad.

the impressions of which he contributed to his journal. Some of the most interesting of these experiences were related last night to great entertainment of the members present.

A Rainbow. Tea and social will be held at the St. Mary's Ave. Congregational church, Thursday evening, January 26, when supper will be served with the usual good flavor, by rainbow members of the Y. P. S. C. E., at popular prices.

SOUTH OMAHA NEWS. G. P. Watson is in from Plainview with a load of cattle.

One of the city councilmen has sold out his saloon for a $6,000 consideration.

Gov. Lientenberr is on the market with a lot of fine sheep.

Mr. Davis, of Davis & Carraigne, is in from Emerson with four loads of cattle.

J. A. Baldwin, of the firm of Baldwin & Wright, is laid up with an attack of malaria.

The coming assessment will probably double the value of taxable property in South Omaha.
