The case of the Ferry company against Brown, filed in the courts over the river, has in some way excited in the minds of many an impression that the title of Brown's addition is in some way attacked. Testing Titles.

Council Bluffs real estate is becoming so valuable that persons are ready to fight to possess it. Until within a comparatively short time certain portions of the bottom lands hereabouts were supposed to have no especial value. Now everything that looks like dirt and sticks to the boots is eagerly sought after. The impending legal controversy respecting the title to the land extending from Thirty-fourth street west and from Sixteenth avenue to the pumping works (about 240 acres) has already been referred to in the BEE. Within the past week things have come to pass indicating that the fight will be precipitated and assume definite form at

This land was squatted upon by number of persons years ago, when it possessed no value. They cleared it of brush, ditched it and put it in condition for tilling. Crops were raised with varying success until 1882 when the great overflow occurred. After the water had subsided it was found that great quantity of rich deposit had been left, and since then good crops, in good quantity have been produced there. Now that the grade lines of the streets have been run it appears that nearly the entire tract was filled to grade by the overflow of six years ago. Hence the property possesses great value.

At various times during the past four years notices of ejectment have been served upon the holders of this realty, but no notice has been taken of them. Various schemes have been devised by persons having no legal title to the property to secure possession by remov-ing those now there, so that all means, whether just or not, which are used for that purpose have come to be regarded with a great deal of suspicion. The present possessors claim to have the best possible title (based upon the government patent), and do not propose to re-linquish possession until forced to do so through due process of law.

On the 20th inst. notices were upon S. Suit, William Kimball, J. H. Marr, C. H. and J. A. Dolson, Egbert Hermes and John Anderson to surren der possession on or before March 1, 1888, "or abide the penalty of the lay therefor." These were served by N. P. Dodge, representing the actual claimauts. These claimants are as follows: John T. Baldwin and G. M. Dodge, lots 1, 2 and 3 in block 1, 1 in 4, 1 to 10 in 23, 4 in 31, 25, 26 and 27 in 49, 25 to 30 in 45, 11 to 20 in 49, 6 to 15 in 50, all in Brown's subdivision. C. F. Craver, lots 16 and 17 in block 32, Brown's subdivision. W. W. Farnam, trustee, lots 1, 2 and 3 in 7, 4, 5 and 6 in 8, 16 to 30 in 20, 1 to 15 in 24, 16 to 30 in 30, 10 to 15 in 34, 22 to 30 in 34, 4, 5 and 6 in 43, 1 to 6 in 44, 16 to 30 in 46, 1 to 15 in 48, Brown's sub. J. R. R. Rice, lots 18 to 23 in block 32, Brown's sub. James Leguin, lots 16 to 30 in block 22, 1 to 15 in 32, Brown's Messrs, Suit, Kimball, Marr, Dalson & Dalson, Hermes and Anderson will be made defendants in the suit, which seems to be forthcoming. They say they can be neither scared nor driven away; that they consider their title not only valid, but the only one possible to be secured, and they propose to defend that title by all possible means. The prospect is good for a lively legal battle. Fair estimates on the value of the property in question place it at from $50,000 to $75,000-enough to be worthy of a contest for its possession.

One thousand head of one, two and three-year-old steers for sale. Will give credit to reliable parties. Enquire o A. J. Greenamayer.

Charged With Crimes.

In the district court yesterday the ime was wholly taken up in the trial of Wilsey, one of the trio of young men arrested for burglarizing Mr. Maurer's residence. The three were jointly indicted, but demanded and were granted separate trials. The evidence was not over strong on the part of the state, but it received some help by the cross-examination of the witnesses for the defense. and the defendant himself, who went on the stand. The three were prowling about the city the night of the burglary, and among the incidents of their rounding up of the town was the stealing of an ax from Cole & Cole's hardware stare on Main street, which was taken by them to a dive near the Northwestern depot, where they sold the ax for 50 cents. One of the trio that night had a rag wrapped around his hand, and begged for money on the strength of his pretended disability, although as was afterwards shown he had $8 or $9 in his pocket, and needed no alms. One of the strongest bits of evidence against Wilsey was his identification by the girl employed in Mr. Maurer's family, who was awakened by his entering he room and saw him distinctly. Another strong evidence against him was the finding of a piece of knife blade in the sash of a window of the Bullard residence, where an attempt at burglary was made that very night. When Wil sey was arrested the knife in his pocket had a broken blade, and the piece fitted it exactly.

There was considerable difficulty in getting this evidence before the jury, owing to the rulings on technical points but Colonel Daily in his arguments on these objections, and in his proffers of evidence made it clearly apparent what he was trying to prove on this point. The jury in the case of W. B. Cuppy, of Avoca, returned a verdict yesterday morning acquitting him of the charge of assault with intent to do bodily in jury. Cuppy had some trouble with the tenant of one of his farms, a man named Friel. The latter was going out of a field with a load of grain which Cuppy claimed he had no right to take, as he had received his full share of the crop before this. Cuppy closed the gate and refused to let him drive out with the load. Freil raised his whip, and Cuppy struck him a terrible blow. jury evidently thought he was justified thus protecting his property, although they were fifteen hours in reaching this decision.

The next case to be tried is that of Hugh Thompson. Thompson is charged with bigamy and with perjury. He is an Omaha citizen and has been inspec tor of waterworks in that city. A year or more ago he came over to this side of the river with a woman, got out a licence, and proceeding to Justice Barnett's office, was married. Soon after

She claims that wife No. 2 was a member of their household for some time, and that her hus-band became shamefully intimate with her before the ceremony on Iowa soil She has a long and rather sensational narration of her wrongs, and the case promises to cause considerable dirty linen to be hung out to dry on this judi

A Policeman Banker.

Nick O'Brien, of the police force, is doing a thriving business buying up fee bills of witnesses in attendance upon court. He gets them for about 50 cents on a dollar, which is a pretty fair interest on the use of the money, as the county board meets every three months and allows the bills. There has been some criticism of O'Brien's methods of doing this business, but he justifies him-self by declaring that he has the perfect right to buy up these fees as cheap as he can, and make what he can. He denies that he ever seeks to mislead those with whom he deals, and that they do not have to sell to him at a discount, if they prefer to wait until the board meets and allows the claims. He takes his chances on the board allowing the witness fees, but the chances seem pretty good. As he has several hundred dollars in the business it must be decidedly profitable, and he will soon be able to retire from the force.

No. 345 Middle Broadway. Telephone No. 29. Where's the Nearest Alarm?

It is a fact to which all will bear witness that Council Bluffs has one of the best organized fire services in the state. Its arrangements for transmitting alarms combines a police call with the fire alarm. Both can be used in conjunction or each separately. These boxes are well distributed over the city so that good protection in this department is given. This matter has been fully explained through the city press time and again. In addition to this, printed cards showing the location of the different boxes and the keys to them, have been distributed broadcast among the people, and yet there is a most general and lamentable ignorance upon the subject. This ignorance is in-excusable. More than this—where the interests of the whole are so closely allied with the individual, this neglect is almost culpable. The city as a whole is fully entitled to all the benefits intended to be secured by the expenditure of this money. It might as well be without this system, as, having it, the people will not learn how to use it. A great conflagration may some time visit us which might have been averted had the discoverer of the fire known how to use the alarm and where the nearest box was located. The same facts are true of the police call. Only two nights ago a lady living in the eastern part of the city dis-covered some one stealing coal. Notwithstanding the fact that an alarm box was located within a single block of the house, she sent a boy ten blocks to the police station for an officer. By the time he arrived the thief was gone. These instances are constantly occurring. The people have the appliance with which to protect themselves and every person should loose no time in familiarizing himself with the location of the box nearest his home. The same knowledge should be possessed by each wife, son and daughter. Then, and not until then, will the people of the city get value received from the investment. In this connection it may be noted that there is some complaint because more keys to the boxes are not furnished. It is said that in some cases there is only one key, and it is liable to occur that when this one is wanted it cannot be had on account of the absence of the family, or some other equally good reason. There should be at least two to each box, and they should be put into the hands of responsible persons. What the people want is the best possible protection, and if the best possible protection and of the suggestions herein given are followed they will have it.

For best quality coal and wood, call on Gleason, 26 Pearl street.

Sensitive Plants, Some time ago the school board de cided to introduce an innovation in regard to appointing principals for the various school buildings in the city. Previous to the change the same principals had been retained, and the policy had a tendency to create a kind of aristocratic feeling among some of those who occupied the positions, and caused them to think that they must be principals. It is now the custom to change the principalship about among the teachers of the various rooms, and so fit them all for the positions. In this way there are always some teachers in the building qualified to take the place of principal n case of sickness, and at the same time the teachers are fitted to take charge of schools in other places. When the change was made, of course it created a rather unpleasant feeling among some of the "old timers," and they were de-cidedly nettled at being required to give way to others. This feeling did not exist among all of them, and has now almost outgrown, but some of them still feel the change, and can hardly give up to their successors. Where this is the case it is very pleasing to the offended one to annoy the new principal as much as possible, and some of the means taken to do this are quite surprising. A few days since the teacher whose turn it was to watch the scholars during play hours at one of the buildings happened to be one of these dissatisfied ones. A dog ventured upon the grounds, and the watcher was not slow to improve the chance to annoy the principal. She im-mediately sent her a note informing her of the presence of the strange canine, and asking her to go out and drive it away. This is but one of the many similar annoyances that are devised by the disgruntled ones. The principal re-ferred to is saving all these notes, and will soon have a scrapbook that will be interesting reading.

A member of one of the lumber firms of this city stated yesterday that the books of his company would show sales of over $200,000 worth of lumber to be delivered to various parties in this city within the next three months, and that this amount did not include the Merriam block or the Pacific hotel. Another gentleman, who is in a position to know as much about such things as any one, pulled out $1,000, and offered to bet the whole amount that there would be 500 new houses built and occupied in this city during the present year. Throughout the city the lumber dealers, real estate men, architects and contractors all say the same thing, and express great satisfaction at the present pros-pect for the year. The retail dealers are all stocking up heavily for the spring trade, and the general impresion seems to be that this will be a "big" year. Over a carload of garden seed has been received, and more is on the road. Preparations are being made in all branches to feed and care for the thousands who are coming here during the year to establish their homes.

A STRANGE STORY.

A Wife's Confession of Murder-The Victim Turns Up Alive.

Rochester (Minn.) Post: A few days ago a man sat in the office of County At torney Eaton, a man who is the central figure of a queer story, neither a romance, a drama nor a comedy; but containing some of the elements of each William H. Fisher, the man referred to. is a typical poor man. He is fifty-three years old, while his wife is a robust, en-ergetic woman of forty. They have two sons and a daughter. During their married life of twenty-four years they have lived around in different places in Michigan, Fisher working at such jobs as he could get, generally wood chopping in the winter. While working in wood camp last winter he became acquainted with I. W. Wallace, a man of forty-two; a healthy, robust sort of a fel low. From that time Wallace has lived in the Fisher family, and he and Fisher have worked together. Last October the family moved to a place in the woods; in the town of Monitor, eight miles from Bay City Mich., the place being rented by Wallace. They lived there in apparent sat-isfaction to all parties till the 4th of No-vember, when Fisher left his home. He says his only object in leaving was to go to Dakota to take up a claim and make a home for his family. He claims there was no unusual intimacy between Wal-lace and his wife, and that when he left home his wife bade him an affectionate good bye, and he suspected nothing wrong. But it has been ascertained that his send-off was a peculiar one. Fisher, Wallace and Fisher's oldest son Charley, a boy of sixteen, went to the officer at Bay City having charge of the county poor, and Wallace represented himself to the officer as being the head of the family, that Fisher was stopping with him, and he could not keep him any longer, and if the officer would pay Fisher's fare to Chicago, Wallace would contribute $6 towards it.

The officer seeing a chance to get rid of a prospective county charge, took Wallace's $6 and went out and bought the ticket, and Fisher started on his pilgrimage. It has been ascertained that Wallace gave Fisher $9 more, to send him beyond Chicago Fisher being thus got rid of, Wallace had a clear title as head of the family and seems to have been such to all in-tents. Soon the suspicion became gen-eral that Wallace and Mrs. Fisher had made way with him, and they were both arrested on the 3d of this month At the preliminary examination held at Bay City, Mrs. Fisher testified that she murdered Fisher in the house in the woods, pounding his head with a hammer; and she told of washing away blood, then stais of which were found on the flood and walls and are still there. The boy Charlie testified that he was present and saw his mother murder his father with the hammer, that he helped Wallace to carry the dead body to a place in the woods about a mile from the house, and that his mother went along carrying two spades with which Waltace and the boy buried the murdered man. The boy claimed that he could show the spot where the body was buried, and a party of twenty men, nine of whom were officers, went with the boy, and he led them through the snow and among the roughest kind of fallen timber, to a place which he pointed out as the spot. The men scraped away the snow and searched thoroughly, but could find no sign of a buried body. Mrs. Fisher, Wallace.and the boy were committed to jail to await trial for the murder. A few days ago it was found that a letter had been re ceived at Bay City by Mrs. Fisher, the writing of which was believed to be the same as that in a contract that had been written by Fisher. The letter was from Kendall, Monroe county, Wisconsin. James Gilbert, an intelligent farmer, who lived adjoining Fisher, and who was well acquainted with him, went to Kendall and rom there traced him to Winona thence to Rochester. Marshal Kalb soon found Fisher and took him in custody. He was readily recognized by his neighbor, Gilbert. Fisher seemed greatly surprised to learn that he was a murdered corpse, and said he had not even been struck by his wife and could not account in any way for the blood stains in the house. His wife and son had lied without the least apparent reason. He said he was trying to make his way to Carrington, in Dakota, near Devil's Lake, where he had been told that he could probably get work. Mr. Gilbert did not seem to have any use for Fisher after finding him, beyond get-ting an affidavit from him as to his movements since leaving his home. The county commissioner, however, objected to entertaining Fisher, and finally on Tuesday Fisher was given money and started back for the Michigan woods.

DR. CARVER.

Description of Some of His Famous Feats in Shooting.

Dr. Carver recently gave an account of his exploits with a gun to a San Fran of his exploits with a gun to a San Francisco Call reporter. He said:
"When I left this city the first match
I had was at Omaha. I shot a rife against my opponent's shot-gun. I broke 99 glass balls out of 100 with the rife and won. In fact I had several matches in America before I journeyed to England to meet all comers, and won every match I engaged in. "In Europe I gave exhibitions of rifle and shot-gun shooting before the prince of Wales, Emperor William and many of the great magnates and aristocrats of the European countries.

"I challenged any man in England to shoot a match with a rifle, even offering liberal handicaps, but not a single one would accept. That is why I had to give so many exhibition shoots; but they were paying, however. "I matched Crayshaw, a famous English pigeon shot, to shoot me a match. 100 birds, for $5,000 a side. He killed seventy-eight out of that number, and grassed ninety-three, the remaining seven birds falling dead just outside the boundary. This is the biggest record ever made on blue rocks with any kind of a gun; the boundary was

"After this match I engaged in another bout of 100 birds with Scott, the great English pigeon shooter, and defeated him.

"One of the biggest and hardest games I tackled in England with the shotgun was a freeze-out match wherein fourteen of the crack shots of all England participated. Each man put up $250, the winner to take all. The match lasted three days, and the betting on the outside was something surprising. At the start the betting was eight to two against me, but later on it came down to even. Scott, my old opponent, downed all his men, and so did I, until we came together for the shoot-off. The betting was then about even, and I won, with my American colors flying, and about $6,000 in pocket after the last bird

"Just before I returned to America I engaged in another glass-ball match shoot with Scott. He came at me like a good fellow, but I lowered his colors by breaking 999 balls out of 1,000. "Between small and large matches !

participated in I won 207 straight. "On my return to America I beat Bogardus at pigeon and glass-ball shooting. Our last match was at bats and I also beat him at that style of shooting. The bats are thrown from the hand, the handler standing twenty-one yards from the gun. They are all wings, and unless you pepper them well wh shot you can can't kill the little varmints. I have shot 100 birds in seventy-one minutes, loading my own

"At an exhibition shoot in Kansas City last fall—the 1st of October, I believe it was—I broke 500 glass balls in fourteen minutes with a shot gun. And at Cedar Rapids, I broke 100 balls in two minutes and ten seconds. Three years ago, at New Haven, Conn., I shot a six-day match; 10,000 glass balls a day, or at 60,000 balls in the week. The ast thousand I broke in thirty-eight minutes.

"I beat Bogardus on live birds twice. first at Louisville and afterward at Chicago. Bogardus shoots a 10-gauge, I always use a 12-gauge.

"Well, I could keep enumerating matches I've had since I left this city that would fill your paper, but as it is getting late you can just say that I intend to retire from public life after I finish my business in Kentucky; but before retiring I will meet any man in the world in shooting at glass balls with rifle or a shotgun at live or artificial birds, for any sum from $100 upward. "I have heard considerable about Clar enden Robinson as being a grand pigeon shot. Now, I would like to go Mr. Robinson a match under any terms he may be pleased to designate, or in fact any man in the state. I will be only too happy to attend to any and all challenges that will appear in the coi-umns of the Call. "I have a farm of 4,000 acres in southern Kansas. I am negotiating for its sale because I think California is the finest country on earth, and I intend to settle down here and make the Golden West my future home. When I left Kansas City a few weeks ago it was cold enough to freeze the old fellow himself, and, as I remarked to my old friend, Ed Shay, this evening, at the Baldwin, people here think this weather is cold. Why man, all they need to expel any such thought is five minutes for refreshments at Kansas City or any of those eastern towns on the other sid of the mountains.

"I will be here for the next three months, and hope to have an acceptance to my challenge from some Californi wing shot.'
