A Mysterious Case of Poisoning and One of the Witnesses Hastily Gets Out of the Way -Other Local News,

A Forced Marriage.

On the 28th day of January, 1888, the nuptial ceremony of Eaven R. James and Minnie A. Day, daughter of James H. Day, of this city, were celebrated. It was not a public wedding. On the contrary, the ceremony had but two witnesses and they were the father and the brother of the present Mrs. James. Neither of these witnesses, notwithstanding their close relationship to one of the contracting parties, was arrayed in wedding garments, but something they did have on their persons were forty-four calibre revolvers. The wed ding created no little comment, but at that time the acquaintances of the newly wedded couple were ignorant of the "persuasion" that was brought to bear on the new bene dict to enter into the contract.

A petition filed with the district clerk yesterday by Attorney J. C. Cowin, in behalf of his client, Mr. Eaven R. James, explains many things that have heretofore remained under the cloud of secrecy. The title of, the crse is Eaven R. James vs. Minnie A. Day, and the petition sets forth that the defendant resides with her father, James H. Day, in the city of Omaha, and that she has a brother named George F. Day. Prior to the 28th day of January, 1888, the defendant pretented to be an unmarried woman but this plaintiff alleges to have been dict to enter into the contract. defendant pretented to be an unmarried woman but this plaintiff alleges to have been untrue, as he believes upon good information that she lived for years in the city of Buffalo that she lived for years in the city of Buffalo with one Somers, was then recognized as his wife and so represented herself to be. Early on Sunday morning, January 27, the defendant gave birth to a child. The plaintiff at that time boarded with the defendant's parents and did not know that the defendant was enciente. He had always believed her to be a chaste woman, and had never even heard of anything derogatory to her character. At about 3 o'clock in the morning of the date mentioned above George F. Day into plaintiff's room and awakened hum. was asked to dress and follow Day. This he did and was ushered into the room of defendant, who was in bed. George Day then pulled down the bed clothes, and showed to plain-tiff a new born babe and asked: "Is this

James denied being the father of the child. Then the defendant's father, who was in the room, also became violently abusive and threatened the life of plaintiff, whom he charged with effecting the ruin of his daughter. In vain James pleaded his innocence Both the father and brother were evidently in a great passion, and swore that if the plaintiff refused to marry the defendant, they would kill him. Then they took plaintiff and locked him up in a secure room, where he spent the night.

Next morning both the father and brother Next morning both the father and brother of the girl renewed their threats, and told plaintiff that if he refused to go with them to the office of the county judge and secure a marriage license they would kill him. Plaintiff being in great fear of either death or great bodily injury, consented. The license was secured and James and the girl were married at noon of that day.

Judge Shields sat patiently for hours yesterday listening to the eloquence of three different lawyers in a suit where but $42 was at stake. These disciples of Blackstone made so much noise and fuss that it temporarily interfered with business in other parts of the building, and such words as "Go fog horn," "Give it to her, wind bag," rang through the halls and corridors.

J. F. Findley, the negro hack driver, who was arrested for complicity in the Cahn & Wells' burglary Monday night, was given a trial yesterday afternoon. Among the wit-nesses on the part of the defense was Monroe Lambert, the desperate looking negro who is believed to be the prime mover in the daring robbery. Lambert accounts for his possession of the goods by claiming that he was met on Eleventh street by a couple of white fel-lows who asked him to haul the goods to Tenth street between Capitol avenue and Daven-pent. Not having a team he says he gave Findley, the defendant in the present case, $1.50 to haul the goods. On arriving at the place where he was to take the goods he says the white fellows were missing, and he says the white fellows were missing, and he was trying to take care of the goods until he found them. Findley claimed he did not know what became of the goods, but as two of the stolen shirts were found in his possession, it was determined to bind him over in the sum of $500 to appear before the county court. Lambert's story yesterday differs from the original story he gave when he claimed he bought the goods, a $1,000 worth, from a man in Bellkamp's saloon. Pigram came here several weeks since from Red Oak, Ia, where he has a wife and four-children. He was agent too some patent right, and was meeting with much success in his sales. Saturday he got on a drunk, and has been drinking ever since. Yesterday norning Mrs. Morrili informed him that he could look for another boarding place, as she would not have a man of his habits in her house. He left, but in the course of a couple of hours retuened in company with another man, whom he called Frank. The latter asked Mrs. Morrill to allow him to remain there until he got sober, and that he would stay there with him and see that he remained quietly in his room. Mrs. Morrill gave her consent and the two men went up-stairs into the room Pigram had formerly occupied. They had been up-stairs but a few minutes when "Frank" came rushing down-stairs, and, bursting into Mrs. Morrill's room, he exclaimed: "Oh God! I am frightened to death; Pigram has taken poison! See here!" and he handed the lady an empty morphine and he handed the lady an empty morphine pill box. Then Frank went on to tell her that Pigram had secretly swallowed the pills, while he, Frank, was kneeling on the floor taking off his shoes. With this explanation Frank ran out of the house and heavy, been heard of size. ouse and hasn't been heard of since.

Constable Snowden's Pension and Mexican War Career.

The Bee's telegraphic columns recently announced that W. P. Snowden of this city, had been allowed a pension as a survivor of the Mexican war. Mr. Snowden is one of Omnha's oldest citizens and for years has filled the position of constable. He enlisted in Liberty, Clay county, Mo., May, 1846, and became a member of C company in the First Missouri mounted volunteers, as the cavalry was called in those days. A. W. Doniphan, who recently died in the place of enlistment, being colonel. Private Snowden's career was not a very long one, though it was quite active. The command reported at Fort Leaven worth and then to General Kearney at Santa Fe. It passed through several brisk engage ments, among them being Brazedo, about thirty miles from Ei Paso: Sacramento about fifteen miles from Chihuahua, where 920 Americans assaulted 4,400 entrenched Mexicans and put them to route. In those days each mounted soldier furnished his own horse and food and was paid $22 per month. Snowden's horse was killed in February of 1847, and in 1860, thirteen years later, the government paid him, for the steed. After Sacramento, the command proceeded to Buena Vista, and reported to Taylor, and was discharged July 26, 1847. The pension is but $8 per month, payable quarterly. Snow-den is the second of the old Mexican veter ans in this city who have lately been granted pensions, and it is a source of some satisfaction to the other veterans, of whom there are about a dozen in this vicinity, who have also filed application for Uncle Sam's remem-

BELL'S STORY.

The South Omaha Shooter Speaks in

His Own Behalf. Harry Bell, the man who shot John Mc Nuity in Johnny O'Gorman's saloon in South Omaha, Tuesday night, was seen at the county jail yesterday and asked if he wished to make any statement. He said that the papers had misrepresented the case and that he only pulled his gun and shot in self defense. His statement in detail is as fol-

"I am the shipping clerk in the refining department of Fowler Bro's packing house. Tuesday I came into town to purchase some household articles and amongs others a stove from the Omaha stove works. One of the employes of that concern went home with me and assisted me in setting up When he got ready to return to Omaha it was very dark and he requested me on the way the depot. This I did and then started back home. On the way I met Harry Dennett and together we went to the ball given for the benefit of Johnny Ryan and for which I held a ticket. We remained there until abou 12 o'clock and then started for home."

"As we were passing O'Gorman's saloon Dennett proposed dropping in and having a glass of beer, to which I consented, There were a large number of men in there nearly all of whom I know. Now you must funderstand that there is a bitter feeling among the Orangemen and Catholics in South Omaha, and if it is known that an Irishman be a Protestant he will be the object of persecution as long as he remains ject of persecution as long as he remains there. I come from the north of Ireland and am not an Orangeman."

"Well, some one asked me to sing a song.
I complied and gave them 'No Irish Need Apply.' There is not a single line in the song that reflects upon Catholicism. I had no sooner finished the last verse than Bryan Burke, the bartender, exclaimed, he's an Orangeman, the dirty and immediately threw a beer glass at me. Then followed a fusillade of bottles and glasses. I succeeded in dodging them and then some one kicked me in the ribs and I got a blow in the ribs that. blow in the ribs that partially stunned me Believing that they would dill me I drew my pistol and, as I thought, fired toward the floar. My only idea was to clear a passage to the door so that I could get out."

Bell has a wife and two children and is a respectable looking man. He claimed never to have been arrested before.

Toasts and refresh ments were indulged in under the presiding care of A. B. Davenport. The responses were made by John Francis and W. N. Babcock, past exalted rulers, as also by F. R. Morrisy, E. F. Whitmore, Thomas Boyd, I. W. Miner, D. W. Van Cott, Harry F. Hall, W. J. Cartan, C. C. Hulett, D. W. Haynes and others. A humorous recitation was delivered in a very successful manner by Charles Ott The history of the order was afterwards de tailed in a most entertaing manner.

FALLS VIEW was unknown until created by the Michigan Central Railroad, which stops its trains at this point to enable its passengers to enjoy the grandest and most comprehensive view of the falls that is to be anywhere obtained. Before that time people came in carriages from the American side to "Inspiration Point," the view from which Howells said was "unequalled for sublimity," but Falls View, being more elevated, the scene from it is much finer. BANKRUPTCY AVERTED. The Supreme Court Saves Omaha From Hundreds of Law Suits.

The supreme court of this state Wednesday handed down an opinion in the case of Schaller vs the city of Omaha. This is a rather important suit in that upon its termination depends the result of thousands of cases which, under nearly the same circumstances, were brought against the city. The plaintiff is the widow of the late Mr. Schaller, whose property is situated on the corner of Twenty fourth and California streets. Both thoroughfares were so graded as to leave the house of fares were so graded as to leave the house of the plaintiff about twenty feet above the streets, and almost inaccessible. Suit for $5,000 damages was brought in the district court in August, 1885. The cause was tried before Judge Wakely, whose son Ar-thur appeared for the plaintiff. The jury returned a verdiet that no damages whatever had been sustained on the ground that the property had been so benefited as to be a stand-off to the damages claimed. Upon this the appeal was taken, and the syllabus pub-lished recites that "in awarding just compenlished recites that "in awarding just compen-sation for property damaged for public use, general benefits shared by the public at large cannot be considered, while special benefits to the property damaged may be." Mr. Wakely, the attorney for the plaintiff, was asked by a Bre man as to the meaning of the quotation and replied that it was not very clear to him, and he would be compelled to send to Mr. Brown at Lincoln for the text of the opinion.

Mr. Connell, who at the time the suit was brought officiated as city attorney and fought the case, was seen and asked to explain the phrascology of the syllabus. He said he had seen people who had read the opinion, and thought he understood the matter himself very vell. It was, he said, in effect, the reognition by the supreme court of the rule re-lating to damages laid down by the district court in the Peabody, the pioneer case of the that kind against the city, which is that as against the cost of changing the property so as to make it conform to grade, it is proper to take into account special damages to prop-erty by reason of grading, but that it is improper to consider benefits of a general

"What then is reversed by the opinion?" asked the reporter.
"The reversal is on the ground that th evidence did show that the plaintiff was en-titled to some damages, whereas the jury al-lowed none whatever." "What effect will the opinion have upon the city!"

"No effect whatever."
"What effect would a contrary decision "It would swamp the city. There is not a lawyer in the city who has not almost a similar case and some of them have as many as fifty.

GOMPERS' MISSION.

How Will He Be Received by the Knights of Labor?

The announcement has already been made in these columns, that on next Saturday a man named Samuel Gompers will address the working people in the exposition half, to which admission will be free. It is claimed that this man is vice president of the eigarmakers's union, as also vice president of what is known as the American Federation of Labor. Mr. Gompers, it is claimed, resides in New York, and some of the papers published there which have preceded him do not give him an introduction which is cal-culated to make warm friends for him among all he meets. A recent number of the Ray, published in Troy, details the attempt made y the state workingmen's assembly and the New York state branch of the Federation of Labor, to effect a consolidation of the two bodies. A committee was appointed by each organization, with this end in view. Each committee made a number of propositions as a basis upon which to build the new society and which when adopted was to be reported back to the two organizations. One of the propositions made by the representatives of the American federation of labor was "that all Knights of Labor assemblies shall in the future be denied admission." Of course the proposition was rejected. Thereupon the Ray speaks of Gompers alleging that he is an expelled member of the Knights of Labor, and who, after his expulsion, it is claimed, betrayed the signs of the order to children working in the cigar factories. It further ciaims that he was denounced by Powderly upon several very important grounds. upon several very important grounds. Gomper's visit to Omaha has been made under the auspices of the Cigarmakers' union, as also for the purpose of placing upon a solid fonudation the branch of the fedration solid foundation the branch of the fedration of labor.
