The Coroner's Investigation of the Fairbury Tragedy.

ROSEBUD AGENCY'S BIG ROW.

Affairs Generally Torn Up and the Old Employees Resigning—A License and Anti-License Fusion—State News.

The Trouble at Rosebud Agency.

VALENTINE, Neb., April 2.—[Special Telegram to the Bee.]—General Armstrong, special inspector of the Indian department, returned here from Rosebud agency where he had been three weeks investigating the howlings of the agent and his employees, during which Agent Spencer and Superintendent of Schools Boyle had a personal encounter, Boyle being prevented from using a knife on the agent by the half breed interpreter, who knocked him down. As yet the full result of this investigation is not known but an exodus has commenced which, if reports are true, will be kept up for some time. George Wright, the only employe under the old regime, who did well as a farmer, but who really acted as chief clerk, has left on reservation. Superintendent Boyle and Boss Carpenter Sloan have been allowed to resign. Two teachers have been discharged and four have resigned rather than serve under the present agent. It is rumored that more are to follow, among the number, the employes holding the highest positions next to the agent. A point of view is taken in terms of office depends upon the report of the inspector, and his removal must be authorized by the president himself. General Armstrong remains here three days and has now gone to Pine Ridge agency.

Shot While Sealing Feeds.

FAIRBURY, Neb., April 2.—[Special to the Bee.]—The facts in connection with the finding of the dead body of a man near here last Saturday, as brought out by the coroner's jury, are as follows:

Last Wednesday night Allen Ireland, a brother of the sheriff of this county, who was employed as watchman by the Mill company, discovered two men stealing from the trough where the sealers were filling their buckets. He undertook to capture them but they ran and as they ran he fired at them two or three times, but did not know that he had hit one of them, as they had got a distance from him when he shot and he could not see them very distinctly. He did not mention the matter and no one seems to have known of it until the body was found two days later.

Items From Crete.

CRETE, Neb., April 2.—[Correspondence of the Bee.]—The Young Men's Christian association of Nebraska will soon begin the erection of a suitable headquarters on the Chautauque assembly grounds at a cost of $2,000. Mr. E. C. Parkinson, of Seward, has been in town for three days making strenuous efforts to bring about the erection of commodious headquarters for the Methodist church in Nebraska on the assembly grounds. He speaks very encouragingly of the prospects. The proposed building will cost in the neighborhood of $3,000.

Weeping Water Notes.

WEeping WATER, Neb., April 2.—[Special to the Bee.]—Charles Drewcock, the old man who cut his throat here Saturday at noon, died here this morning of the effects of suffering. He was buried by the country.

Fairbury's Building Boom.

FAIRBURY, Neb., April 2.—[Correspondence of the Bee.]—The basements for the two fifty-room brick buildings of Steele & Hansen and Lindell & Hansen were commenced last week. Small residences are being built in all parts of the city. From present indications the building boom will be very much greater this season than last, although we beat the record time. Mr. Linton has an iron-clad store building to be erected on the board of trade has raised between $1,200 and $1,500 with which to advertise Fairbury, and has hired Mr. Franklin, of Lincoln, as agent. A. J. K. (Linton) has organized a manufacturing joint stock company, whose object is to build up manufacturing enterprises seeking locations.

Politics and Business at Blair.

BLAIR, Neb., April 2.—[Correspondence of the Bee.]—The spring municipal election is on at Blair with all its attendant excitement and bickering. Two caucuses were held last night—one nominating W. D. Hotter, W. D. Graves and John McQuarrie for mayor and councilmen respectively; the other nominating B. M. Willsey, James Smith and W. G. Horton.

Even Mistakes the Judge.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 2.—[Special Telegram to the Bee.]—Jack Keith, the well known foot pad and highway robber, confined in jail to await trial and suspected of the murder of Allan Hyason, has applied for a change of venue to Clay county. He states that he is innocent of the crime and that he has a fair trial by a jury, and that this feeling has been imbibed by Judge White of the criminal court and if not granted he will ask to be tried before a special judge.

Took Some Public Timber.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 2.—[Special Telegram to the Bee.]—United States Marshal Willis brought in Oliver and Maxie Petrie, of St. Clair county, this morning, charged with cutting 5,000 oak logs on the public domain. The firm is a well known one, and engaged in the lumber business in that county. They will have an examination before Commissioner J. W. Craig, of Jefferson, who comes here in order to dispose of their cases.

To Clean the Home Product.

RAWLINS, Wyo., April 2.—[Special Telegram to the Bee.]—J. C. Crawford, of Cheyenne, to-day perfected arrangements for the establishment of a wool scouring mill at Rawlins. The works will be in operation by the middle of next May. They will have a capacity of 10,000 pounds of wool per day, and will employ a force of twenty-five or thirty men. An annual wool clip of nearly two million pounds is tributary to Rawlins.

A Lost Crew.

PHILADELPHIA, April 2.—It is feared that the crew of the ship John T. Berry, which burned off the Australian coast, last January, has met with the same fate as their unlucky craft, as not the slightest trace of them has been discovered.

Frederick Has a Troubled Night.

BREKID, April 2.—The emperor had a troubled night, coughing more than usual. He occupied the most of the day in writing.

THE MISSOURI RISING.

Another Disastrous Flood Threatened Along the Muddy.

STOUT CITY, Ia., April 2.—[Special Telegram to the Bee.]—The flood on the Missouri river has at last reached this point and the results are serious, although the water in the river here had reached a very low stage. It fell two feet yesterday forenoon, then in the early afternoon suddenly rose two feet, and has since continued to rise. The great ice gorge at the mouth of the Sioux river, nearly five miles above, held firm. For more than five miles above the ice is packed solidly in the channel. This acted as a dam, and above it the water rose with incredible swiftness. Towards evening it burst the banks and rushed over the lands on the Dakota side.

By half past 8 o'clock last night the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul depot at Elk-point, twenty-five miles from here, was surrounded by water. The lower portions of the town were flooded and the people had to flee to higher ground. The situation at the town of Jefferson, between here and Elk-point, was equally critical. A portion of the railroad track between Jefferson and Elk-point was cut off by this morning, the whole country on the Dakota side for fifteen miles above the Sioux river was one street of water. The water was rising rapidly, coming from the Missouri into the Sioux river, endangering the railroad and other bridges. This country is thickly settled and all the farmers have been compelled to seek refuge on the higher ground, next to the bluffs.

So sudden has been the rush of the water that the loss of live stock must have been enormous. It is estimated that the loss of human life has been reported. Relief parties were organized early this morning at Elk-point, and at other points. A relief train was started from the Milwaukee company, started a relief train this afternoon, but could get no further than Jefferson, and it is reported that it is carrying down immense masses of ice. The current is wearing away the river front at present the water is running out of the river. On the Nebraska side further up and in front of the town of Covington, the water is cutting out the bank, and threatens to overflow. The ice which is running out of the river is cutting out the bank, and threatens to overflow. At 6 o'clock it is reported that the water is rising above the bluffs. The water is now two inches higher than during the great flood of 1881.

The Citizens Triumph.

DEQUETTE, Ia., April 2.—One of the most exciting elections ever held in the city closed to-night with the triumph of the entire Citizen's Union ticket over the Knights of Labor ticket. The former was headed by George B. Hark, who has 941 majority over C. A. Vogel, who was elected a year ago by 74 majority. On the Citizens' ticket the candidates for treasurer, auditor, auditor, and clerk were: J. H. Hark, J. H. Hark, J. H. Hark, and J. H. Hark.

IOWA LEGISLATURE.

Senate. Des Moines, Ia., April 2.—The bill passed authorizing the second class to require the construction of viaducts over or under railroads on public streets.

The special order, senate file 35, by Mr. Clark, relating to pools and trusts and as to evidence in such cases, was taken up. Amendments were adopted fixing the penalty of not less than $1,000, that the insurance agent shall act for more than one company, excepting local agents; providing for the fixing of rates of prices by professional men for professional work, providing that the provisions of a contract do not interfere with house file 373. The bill was ordered to the floor for consideration.

House.

Des Moines, Ia., April 2.—[Special Telegram to the Bee.]—During the morning session of the house the bill by Mr. Redmon was ordered engrossed, providing that the state pay, at the rate of 10 cents per pound, a bounty of not exceeding $10,000 for the manufacture of sugar in Iowa from cane, beets and other plants.

BENNETT SCALPS THE GOULD.

The New York Herald Pays Its Compliments to the Wizard.

SECOND-HAND REMINISCENCES.

His Debut as an April Fool a Notable Success—Trying to Divert Attention From His Alleged Rascalities.

NEW YORK, April 2.—[Special Telegram to the Bee.]—The Herald, this morning, editorially, referring to the Gould letter, says: "Poor Gould. His debut as an April fool was a notable success. A dealer in second-hand reminiscences, the whirling victim of a newspaper, a cable company, and a woman, he seeks to direct public attention from the main issue—certain alleged rascalities—and to evade that justice which he has every reason to fear. It is the old story of Faust and his bargain with Mephistopheles all over again—history repeating itself once more. Gould's last weapon is the weapon of a coward. Lacking moral courage to face the contempt of an outraged community, he takes refuge in personal malignity, drenched to the skin with financial intrigue, this speculative trickster stands dripping before the world and prates about the cardinal virtues. When the Herald chooses to enter the lists it equips itself from the arsenal of honorable warfare with a pen and a pencil, and a pen and a pencil is not a coward's weapon. Not a word has passed our lips about this man's private life. When he closes the door of his house, he enters the field again for the war is renewed. As an element of our business life he becomes public property, and finally we are bound by his duty and obligations to the public to comment on his methods, to examine his transactions and to denounce them in the name of personal integrity, drenched to the skin with financial intrigue, this speculative trickster stands dripping before the world and prates about the cardinal virtues. As an element of our business life he becomes public property, and finally we are bound by his duty and obligations to the public to comment on his methods, to examine his transactions and to denounce them in the name of personal integrity, drenched to the skin with financial intrigue, this speculative trickster stands dripping before the world and prates about the cardinal virtues. When the Herald chooses to enter the lists it equips itself from the arsenal of honorable warfare with a pen and a pencil, and a pen and a pencil is not a coward's weapon. Not a word has passed our lips about this man's private life. When he closes the door of his house, he enters the field again for the war is renewed.
