Have Banded Together.

It is understood that the brickmoulders and setters have formed a co-operative society with a view of manufacturing brick, and the promoters of the enterprise feel sanguine that they will be able to compete with manu-facturers already in the field. A meeting of the men was held last Tuesday night, and it is no secret that the subject was thoroughly discussed then and details entered into. Funds to the amount of $3,000 were sub-Funds to the amount of $5,000 were sub-scribed, and communications were read from several well known property holders, who agreed to furnish grounds for the purpose for one year. FLORENCE'S MAYOR.

More Trouble Growing Out of the Election Bulldozing.

Henry Hall, the mayor of Florence, is under arrest for assaulting Mr. Finkenkiller, a fellow citizen, adding thereby another aurel to the brow of Florence as a city of brawlers and bulldozers. Finkenkiller went to the mayor to give him the subprenas for Henry Shomer, the repeater now awaiting trial in the county jail. The mayor seems particularly sensitive about the disgraceful scenes in Florence on election day, and when Finkenkiller appeared with the legal papers for Shomer it is said the mayor became very How shows the standard and the mayor obtaine very surity. When Finkenkiller politely informed Hall that he would not be brow-beaten even by the mayor of the great city of Florence, his excellency arose in his might and kicked and pounded his visitor until he was out of breath. Finkenkiller indignantly sought a jus-ticals office and successful a survey to block tice's office and swore out a warrant, which was served on the mayor yesterday. He will probably be tried before Justice Anderson. Henry Shoner, the alleged repeater, was arraigned before Judge Anderson yesterday fternoon and had his trial fixed at 1 p. m.

Two More Licenses

Two more saloonkeepers came into the city treasurer's office yesterday and paid the $750 required, making the total number 213. There are remaining forty men who have not liquidated. A portion of these will contest the law governing the case, while a number claim they are unable to pay. It is claimed by those who are in a position to know that but for the assistance of the brew-ers of the city the number of those who have paid would have been noticeably less, and that in several instances the greater portion of the $750 was advanced to the saloon-keep ers by the brewers.

Measuring the Walls.

There was another meeting yesterday of the committees appointed to measure the material and estimate the cost of the labor already employed in the construction of the city hall basement. The committees met in the city engineer's office and afterwards inspected the work, and still later computed the value of the same. There were present the value of the same. There were present Contractor Ed Brennan, who is represented by Contractor Coots, and Messrs. D. Shane, Baker, superintendent of the work, and City Engineer Tillson, all three of whom appear for the city. These sessions have opcupied nearly all of the days upon which they have been held, and it is thought that the meeting of to-day will bring the investi-ration to a close. gation to a close.

County Officers' Reports. The clerk of the board of county commis sioners yesterday received quarterly reports from the register of deeds, county judge, treasurer, superintendent of instruction and county treasurer. The report of the register of deeds is a very volumnious document, and shows the total amount of cash received for the quarter ending March 81 to be $1,579.35. County Judge Shields reports a balance of $281.19 above expenditures. The superin-tendent of public instruction reports $42 re-ceived for examination fees, which, added to the amount on hand, shows a balance of $168.26. The fees collected in the county treasurer's office between June 6 and April 1 amount to $3,195.95.

Labor Notes.

A meeting of the contracting carpenters was held yesterday in their room in the Paxton building, but there was little business transacted. One of the brick manufacturers was present and asked one of the carpenter association men what the journeymen penter association men what the journeymen expected to do. "They won't do much," said the man of planes. "In fact there isn't enough of them left to do much. They said they would de-mand 35 cents per hour on the first of this month, but that's all I've heard about it. They are all working. If you had as little trouble from your blockingers' union as we have from our carmentees' union as we have from our carpenters' union, you'd be all right." "How much do you pay them, now?" asked the brick contractor. "From 25 to 30 cents per hour." said the carpenter boss. "And our men won't work for less than 50 cents per hour," exclaimed the brick man.

Fell With a Crash.

Yesterday morning about 2:30 o'clock two sections of the roof of the Paxton store-house, in the rear of the hotel of that name, fell with a loud crash and startled some of the guests as if the north wall of the Murray adjoining had fallen. The vault beneath was filled with empty boxes and barrels and when these were crushed beneath the mass of mortar, brick, iron, broken neath the mass of mortar, brick, iroe, broken stone and granite, the sound might easily have been mistaken for that which aroused the slumberers. The payement behind the potel was noticed settling as early as 6 o'clock in the evening. Danger lights were hung out and a barri-cade was erected preventing teams and em-ployes of the hotel fram passing over the danger spot. All the valuable material stored in the storeroom had been removed, so
