Hurley was arrested and placed in the guard house to await investigation.

Sent Up For Stealing.

J. H. Moore started out on a thieving expedition yesterday that came to a sudden and notorious end. He first went into a shop at 117 North Eleventh street and stole a pair of cuff buttons. He then dropped into a "cigar store" next door and called for a cigar. While the young woman was busy waiting on him, he nipped her earrings that she had just laid down. Just after he left she discovered the goods were missing. She saw him going into a house across the way and called Officer Vanous. The policeman, after diligently searching the house and falling to see Moore, began an investigation of the lady early in the time to see him slipping down the alley. The officer started in pursuit and after a chase of two blocks succeeded in running him down. He was taken to the police house and was tried for his last offense.

that of stealing the earrings. He was found guilty and fined $40 and costs, and in default went to jail.

Major General Crook.

General Crook returned yesterday from Salt Lake. He appeared in excellent health and in going to his office in the military headquarters took one of the side streets to avoid the frequent meeting of friends whose congratulations over his recent appointment as Major general would detain him at almost every foot of the walk. The general wore a beautiful boutonniere which seemed to be of the most grateful and grateful nature to his charms. He told the Bee reporter that the news of his appointment had reached him at Fort Harker, just as he was leaving for Salt Lake. He said that his aides-de-camp, Lieutenant Kennon and Green, would accompany him wherever he might be located and that the location depended upon the action of his seniors, General Schofield and Howard. If the former should decide to go to Chicago, he should go to New York through a preference would be San Francisco, because in that vicinity he had seen his earlier service, and there were many associations there besides a number of friends, and a climate which he likes very much.

The Striking Mechanics.

Yesterday seven bricklayers arrived from the east in response to the advertisements published in eastern papers by the association of contracting bricklayers of this city. They were immediately put to work and the contractors say they will be protected in the same.

There are two members of the brick contractors' association now in the east looking after and inquiring into the reliability of the bricklayers who have offered to come to work here at the rates offered by the contractors. Many of the journeymen ask for transportation and the agents sent east will inquire as to the worthiness of the applicants before they are guaranteed or transportation furnished.

"The longer this strike continues," said a contractor yesterday, "the more difficult it will be to settle it. Men are coming in every day, and if they get work and are found reliable we must protect them, even as against old residents here who have gone back on us."

The stone cutters' strike has developed no new features since those published in the Bee of a couple of weeks ago were occasioned.

The strike of the brick molders still hangs fire. None of the brick yards have yet commenced work, but the proprietors claim this is because the season for making brick has not yet opened. When it does, the same people say, there will be plenty of molders to be had.

Spring Medicine.

The necessity of spring medicine is almost universally admitted. And the superiority of Hood's Sarsaparilla for this purpose becomes more and more widely known every year. That power to purify the blood, and those elements of health in the system which the system craves, and to which it is so susceptible at this season, are possessed by this peculiar medicine in a pre-eminent degree. Scrofula, pimples, boils, or any humor, biliousness, dyspepsia, sick headache, catarrh, rheumatism, or any disease or affection caused or promoted by impure blood or low state of the system, are cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla. Try the peculiar medicine.

A SOCIETY SENSATION.

Minnie Marries Without Papa's Consent and is Happy.

Miss Minnie Beindorf is the daughter of Charles Beindorf, a wealthy resident of this city, and for several years past has been the object of much attention on the part of Oliver Burnett, a young man formerly in the employ of Meyer Bros., but now connected with the Nebraska clothing company. Minnie appreciated the situation and soon gave it out to her friends that she and "Oll" were engaged. Papa and Mama Beindorf filed a demurrer to the proceedings and the old man served an injunction on his would-be son-in-law to the effect that he must never darken his doors again and that his parents on South is believed by parties acquainted with the facts that the engagement will not be of long duration, and very soon a reconciliation will be effected.

At the conclusion of the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Burnett repaired to a most little cottage at Twenty-fifth and Hart streets, where they are now enjoying their honeymoon.

Papa and Mama Beindorf are much excited over the matter and refuse to see their wayward child, but it is believed by parties acquainted with the facts that the engagement will not be of long duration, and very soon a reconciliation will be effected.

We ought not to be too anxious to encourage untried innovation, in cases of doubtful importance. Thousands of testimonials of its virtues, 50 cents per bottle. By druggists.

TEXAS TALK.

Dealing Somewhat of Fact and Adventure.

Thursday evening a Bee reporter met Mr. T. J. McMillan, late from San Antonio, Texas, who is en route to Iowa in the interest of immigration for his section of the state. Asked about southwest Texas, he said: "That country is in many respects unique and is but imperfectly understood on here in the north. It is popularly supposed, for instance, that our heat is intolerable. As a matter of fact I suffered last August and September in San Antonio than I had suffered in St. Louis during July and the first half of August. Our thermometer through the summer runs along between 80 and 95 degrees, rarely touching 100 and as rarely sinking below 14 degrees above zero in the winter. But of course our heated term here is longer. I left San Antonio one month ago the peach trees were in bloom, the grass was ankle deep and the fields were yellow with wildflowers."

"Farmers there can plow all the year round and the industrious man can gather three crops per annum. There is no protracted little pains has been taken to make the most of the season and possibilities of the soil, but the late influx of people from the north, who have left the necessity of an industry and who have gone there with the intention of making the most of the situation, has rather revolutionized matters so that thrift comes and actively and accumulation is place of former indifference, quiet and plenty."

The capabilities of southwest Texas have been mainly made known through reports of invalids who sought health in that locality. You see consumption and suffer from catarrh find that climate a sure cure for any one at all curable. I myself know of an instance where a man—deadly ill with consumption—went to Texas to die, San Antonio being his goal. His insurance company even settled with him for $1,500 to get rid of the sick. To-day he is alive and well, and worth $10,000. That happened twenty-five years ago."

"We have an excellent school system, and the average attendance reaches 90 per cent. All southwest Texas is within the rain belt, so that we have little fear of drought, but if necessary we can irrigate and irrigation would cost less than war with a northern winter."

"What of adventure? Well, there is little of it left in our section, but I had two experiences of which you might care to hear. We went wild cat hunting near the Rio Grande. The first cat the dogs caught we cut up for the growling feline, his catch we found a rattie snake freshly eaten. The cat had seemingly relished the rattie, as the jaws were about the size of your thumb and were not masticated."

"In the other case a cat was treed and one of the horsemen threw up his lariat and caught the animal around the neck. He then started off with the rope attached to the saddle. The cat, finding himself 'urgently invited' took after the horse and there was a very pretty race. The horse placed the mesquite bushes and dragged the cat to exhaustion and finally clubbed him to death. But game and adventure is rapidly giving place to agriculture and civilization."

Among the people of to-day, there are few indeed, who have not heard of the merits of Prickly Ash Bark and Bitters as a household remedy. Teas and drinks have been made of them for centuries, and in hundreds of families have formed the sole reliance in rheumatic and kidney diseases. Prickly Ash Bitters now made in the old system and is more beneficial in all troubles of this nature.

DYING BY INCHES.

A Consumptive Paper Will Not Heed the Doctors.

Andrew Link, aged twenty-seven years, has been an inmate of the poor farm for the last seven months, and medical experts say that he can live but a short time. His malady is consumption, and ever since his removal to the farm he has stubbornly resisted all attentions and medicine from the doctors, maintaining that it is only chemicals that he is purging from his body, and that when the season of purification arrives he will get up from his bed, and make in six days go-as-you-please pedestrian march. Prayer, Andrew insists, is the only panacea required for his malady, and he has become so strongly imbued with this belief that he has surrendered himself completely to an ex-railroad man who has taken up the prayer cure doctrine, and has induced his pronounced apostle of the spiritual life of curing, and is doing everything within his power to invoke the Deity to spare Andrew's life and restore him to his natural strength. The attending physicians at the farm express great sympathy for the unfortunate man, and are more than willing to prescribe for him, but he is so obstinately set against them. He has no relatives in this country, and has been in Omaha little over a year.

THE UNION'S FIRST CONTRACT.

The Journeymen Bricklayers Contract for the North Omaha Sewer.

Mr. Thomson, who has the contract for the North Omaha sewer, told a Bee reporter yesterday that work on that improvement was proceeding satisfactorily. "I have set the work to the bricklayers' union at so much per foot, and it is being done in a workmanlike manner, too. The men seem to desire to distinguish themselves, and I have no doubt that they will succeed. There are only four of them at work now, because the great difficulty we have to contend with is scarcity of brick. We want hard-burned brick, and those we can't get without stripping the kilns, they are not wanted on the inside, and to get them the makers would have to strip the outside, which would cost a great deal more. We are now paying $11 a thousand for brick. We will be able to haul the brick from the sewer, on the 1st of May, and leave the street ready for pavement."
