

Constitutional Catarrh.

No single disease has entailed more suffering or hastened the breaking up of the constitution than catarrh. The sense of smell, of taste, of sight, of hearing, the human voice, the mind, one or more, and sometimes all, yield to its destructive influence. The poison it distributes throughout the system, by its vital force, and breaks up the most robust of constitutions. Ignored, because but little understood, by most physicians, it is properly assisted by the best of catarrhals, those suffering from it have little hope to be relieved of it. This side of the grave, it is time, then, that the proper treatment of this terrible disease by remedies within the reach of all, passed into the hands of the general and trustworthy. The new and hitherto untried method adopted by Dr. Sanford in the preparation of his Catarrhal Remedy, has won the hearty approval of thousands. It is instantaneous in affording relief in all head colds, sneezing, sniffing and other irritating affections, clearing the head, sweetening the breath, restoring the sense of smell, taste and hearing, and neutralizing the constitutional tendency of the disease towards chronicity.

Dr. Sanford's Radical Cure consists of one bottle of the Catarrhal Remedy, one box of Catarrhal Balm, and one box of Catarrhal Pills. For sale by all druggists. At all druggists, 25 cents per box for 100 boxes. Dr. Sanford's Catarrhal Remedy, Boston, Mass.

How a Dying Child Was Saved!

CINCINNATI, O., Feb. 15, 1887. The following is a true account of what your Dr. R. S. has done for our little daughter, Hazel, now four years old. When two months old and impounded on her neck, which slowly grew larger. The family physician thought it was caused by a piece of broken glass or needle, but failed to bring anything to light. The child became feebler all the time, seeming to lose the use of her leg, and finally quit walking entirely. The middle finger and thumb of either hand became enlarged, and the coming hand. The joints became involved, so that when seven months old she could not stand, having lost the use of her legs and arms. Partial cure of the spine also followed. The nervous system was wrecked, muscles contracted, and there was general wasting of flesh and muscle. At eighteen months of age she was placed under the treatment of a prominent physician of Boston, Mass., but at the end of ten months she had declined to such a degree that she was in a dying condition. This was in April, 1885. We took the child away not knowing what to do. In this dreadful dilemma we were over-persuaded to try "Paine's Compound." The "Dr. Switzer's Remedy," which we did, and before it had all been taken we saw a change for the better in her symptoms. We kept it up, and have done so to this day. It has kept it up, if the Lord will, for many days to come, for it has brought our dying Hazel to life, to vigor, to strength and health again. The broken bone of her chest has changed to a rosy taint. She is able to walk anywhere, her language and melancholy have passed away, and she is now a happy, cheerful, happy, happy child. Should you wish to increase your testimonials of proof of the virtue of R. S. R., our names and what we have said to her father, and what we wrote to you, should you wish to use them.

LOVE'S MASQUERADE.

OR A SOCIETY BELLE'S FARMER WOOD. "Aunt Sarah, I have an idea and I want your help to carry it out," said Bob Russell earnestly to Mrs. Briscoe. "I want you to help me win Gertrude Stone."

"Why, my dear boy," was the reply. "I did not know you had seen her," said the old lady wonderingly. "Well, my acquaintance with her is rather short, I confess. I only saw her talking with you this morning. I heard her say that if she ever fell in love it would be with a farmer and that she was tired of everything connected with the city, but I am going to transform myself into a countryman and live out as a farm hand to Miss Stone."

And unfolded his plans for winning the young lady and had soon enlisted his good-natured aunt on his side. Miss Stone was very much pleased with her new hired hand, Eben, as he called himself. He did not act with a knife, and his grammar was singularly good for a farm hand. She did not wonder, when he drove her home one night, that he should talk a good deal, and he was certainly very respectful.

"You are fond of farm work and the country?" Eben asked. "Very," Eben rejoined, with much enthusiasm. "You were brought up on a farm?" she asked. "Well, not entirely," the hired man responded. "But you chose farm-work because you are fond of it," said Miss Stone warmly. "In that respect we are exactly alike; I love it! I suppose," she added gently, "that you were obliged to choose something?"

"I support myself," Eben responded, with his eyes on his companion's fair face. "It is nothing to regret—indeed it is not!" Miss Stone declared comfortingly. "I admire anybody who is independent and ambitious; they're the only people I do admire."

THE OLD AND NEW LOVE.

Ray troubled to explain why she jilted Arthur Oxford and became engaged to the elderly millionaire, Mr. McDaniels. It was not the money that attracted her, but she felt that she did not love Oxford any more and told him so frankly when she returned his ring.

Oxford could not forget her, though he made many ineffectual efforts, and he became very indignant when his friends attempted to commiserate him. To show the public that he had entirely forgotten Ray's existence, he took Nannie Rawdon, a notorious little flirt, to the great picnic where he knew Ray and her elderly admirer were to go. Everybody was curious to see what the one-time lovers would do when they met.

But these two, whose hearts the people were so anxious to see lacerated, were used to the thing now, and were too bright not to know they were on exhibition. Arthur came down the gang-plank with the tenderest solicitude for Nannie's safety in his eyes, and when Ray appeared she looked up into Mr. McDaniels' face as though her life depended on what he was saying.

Some people were disappointed; and then the dancing began, and the young folks had their own affairs to think of, and the matrons were obliged to watch their little Sallies, and Annes, and Johnnies, who were always in mischief. The little tug pulled briskly along the river; the barge, with its gay streamers and its music, followed in its wake. At last they reached the spot where the picnic was to take place, and landed as merry a crowd as one could wish to see; and oh, the pain that shot through Ray's heart when she saw Arthur sitting on the grass beside Nannie!

"Oh, Arthur, don't you remember our last picnic?" she thought. "Ray, I've asked you five times whether you will have a sandwich," said Mr. McDaniels, in rather a testy tone. "I hope, my dear, you are not getting deaf."

Rescued from Inaction.

The precursor of their disease and destruction, the kidneys and bladder healthfully stimulated and toned with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, actively resume their functions. Thus Bright's disease, diabetes, catarrh of the bladder, and neuritis are prevented. For irritating diuretics, and those unmedicated and fiery stimulants which, used even in moderation, excite both the renal and vesical organs, this is the best and most salutary remedy. Its composition, and so congenial to the stomach, the digestive processes of which it helps in no ordinary degree, that it is promptly assimilated by the system; and its tonic effects are speedily manifested.
