OMAHA LIVE STOCK.

Cattle.

UNION STOCK YARDS, 6 p. m.,
Monday, April 16, 1888.

The receipts of cattle were the heaviest of any day since last Wednesday. There was a good demand on the part of packers, and the market opened early and was fairly active, quite a good many cattle changing hands. While a few cattle sold early at about steady prices the general market was easier, salesmen in most cases calling it 5@10c lower. The quality of cattle was not over and above good although there were some very fair cattle on sale. There were a good many western cattle among the receipts, and one string of 239 head, which were contracted some time ago, changed hands at $4.25. The offerings of butchers' stock were light and only a few odds and ends changed hands.

Hogs.

The receipts were light to-day, as usual on the first of the week. The market opened with the buyers offering steady prices, but with salesmen asking an advance. Two good heavy loads brought $5.40, but the general market was about steady. On account of the difference between the buyers and sellers trading was a little slow, but everything was sold in fair season.

Sheep.

There were more sheep here than any other kind of stock. While the demand was not equal to the receipts, the market was good and what sheep sold brought strong prices.
