AN EVENING WITH DICKENS. Omaha Meets the Great Novelist's Sor in Theater and Club.

Charles Dickens appeared last evening at the Grand opera house before a large and cultivated audience. He read a number of chapters from "David Copperfield," and the famous trial of "Bardell vs. Pickwick." Mr. Dickens is not an elecutionist in the sense of the term as it is understood in the present day. In many instances the modern elocutionist is a machine. His greatest power lies in his voice. He may thrill you with a whisper, or frighten you in a roar. Mr. Dickens is not such a reader. There is nothing metallic in his voice. It is soft, and lacks resonance. But it is dominated by an intelligence which, like the soul, may illumine a homely face. He seems to appreciate his shortcomings, and his produced expressions by the seems to appreciate his shortcomings, and his produced according to the seems to appreciate his shortcomings, and his produced according to the seems to appreciate his shortcomings. dence prevents him from essaying delinea-tions beyond his power. As a consequence, there are none of his sketches, it matters how little soever they fail to realize one's ideal, which do not readily appeal to the warmest kind of appreciation. In "Copper-field" he was almost irresistible, and his pic-ture of the shipwreck which made poor Ham a victim to the battling waves and laid the scoundrel Steerforth dead, like the ark upon the sands, was life-like and forcible, despite the vocal peculiarities to which reference is above made. In the trial scene Mr. Dickens displayed wonderful versatility, and all of the well-known characters were successively received with laughter and applause. There is an ineffable charm about Mr. Dickens both as a gentleman and a reader, and the longer he appears in one's presence he more he is appreciated.

At the conclusion of the entertainment he was tendered a reception by the Omaha Press club in their rooms in the Continental block, and two hours of most social intimacy

CHAPTER TWO.

Lon George's Divorced Wife Tells Her Story.

There are two sides to every story and the case of Lon George as described in yesterday BEE is no exception to the rule. Yesterday Miss Jessie Taylor, the divorced wife of George, called at the BEE office and gave her version of the affair. Miss Taylor says that four years ago she was married to Lon George in Council Bluffs, the ceremony being performed by Mayor Vaughn. She says that since her marriage to George she has not been in Council Bluffs, and that at no time has any move been made on the part of either herself or George to again take up life together. Miss Taylor says that it is true that George is now at the home of her mother, 606 North Fifteenth street, and the reason for his being there is because he had no other place to go to recover his lost health. His wants are attended to by her mother and she is not connected in any her mother and she is not connected in any manner with his present existence. Miss Taylor says her little boy, of whom Lon George is the father, is cared for by her mother and George has paid the expenses of his keeping. That further than this there is no mutual interest between the two. Miss Taylor states that the allegations of "the weeping wife" in regard to the manner in weeping wife" in regard to the manner in which her ruin was accomplished are decided transparent. That instead of George following his present wife she hounded him and persuaded him to marry her. Miss Tay-lor states that at one time the present Mrs. Lon George was a "beer-jerker" at Jack Nugent's and will be remembered by many of the frequenters of that resort as "Sade" McIntyre. She further says that the pres-ent Mrs. Lon George is the Alice Clark who a few weeks ago was taken to the station for hurling a rock through one of Higgins' win dows. If Miss Taylor is to be believed the dows. If Miss Taylor is to be beheved the present Mrs. Lon George is an opium eater, an habitual drunkard and is far from being like Cæser's wife. According to her version the idea of Mrs. Lon George being 'rulined' at any date in very modern times is a hugh joke. To use the expression of Miss Taylor, "the present Mrs. Lon George is an old timer whose virtue departed with her teens, and long before she met her present husand long before she met her present hus-band." Viewed from either side the entire tale is one of such nastiness and domestic unhappiness that it is to be sincerely re-gretted that the name of wife or mother must be dragged through its slums.

STRIKERS GROW DESPERATE.

A Night of Terror in the Yards at Kansas City.

HANNIBAL SWITCHMEN GO OUT.

Monumental Competency of Artistic Railway Scabs-A Pinkerton Badly Pummeled-Strikers Arrested on Serious Charge *.

They Hate the Scabs.

Kansas Cirr, Mo., April 17.—[Special Telegram to the Ber.]—Last night was one of terror in the Hannibal switch yards, in which work for the Burlington is done The "Q" strikers say it was not the acts of their own men, but the sympathizers who are growing more desperate than the men. During last night trains were wrecked, switches misplaced, engines fired into and a car of hay burned. These accidents happened to the property only of the Burlington. By the misplacing of switches two trains were derailed. As the Hannibal freight, No. 77, crossed into the deep cut near the bridge, it was fired into by four men who were seen to run from it. Twenty feet further a large boulder crashed through the cab window. The officers on heavy roulied with shots and The officers on board replied with shots and a short fusilade was kept up by the marauders and officers.

About 7:30 o'clock last night an unknown man threw a switch just as the B. & M. train was backing out of the yards. The train was thrown off the track and the passage of the Fort Scott and Santa Fe trains obstructed for some time. The engineer of the train saw the man draw the switch lever, but it was too late to stop.

John Anderson, a Swede, was arrested by Railroad Policeman Junkins on the charge of attempting to wreck a train in the yards of attempting to wreck a train in the yards of the Kansas City, St. Joseph & Council Bluffs road. Anderson is only eighteen years of age and has been employed cleaning coaches in the Council Bluffs yards in this city for the past two years. He does not conceal his acts, and says that he is not a striker, but he desired to assist those who struck. Several employes saw him misplace the witch as well as throw an iron coupling-pin ntola cab of a passing engine.

Thirty-eight switchmen employed in the Hannibal & St. Joe yards here quit work to-night, the alleged cause being the refusal of the company to reinstate a switchman dis-charged for assaulting the night yardmaster. A meeting of the switchmen was held late to-night and it was resolved under no cir-cumstances to return to work. Business in the yards is completely suspended.

MONUMENTAL COMPETENCY. Ruin Stalks Abroad on the Burlington Line.

WYMORE, Neb., April 17 .- [Special to the BEE.]-The past three days have been crowded full of accidents and wrecks on the B. & M. system. Friday night six breakdowns, accidents and collisions occurred, and on Friday two collisions on the Kansas City road while Saturday night a collision occurred at Beatrice between engine 4, switching in the yard, and the Edgar freight, that completely demolished engine 4 and did other damage to the rolling stock. Sunday morning at about 4 o'clock a collision occurred at Kesterson, just west of Endicott, between train 77, going west, and train 40, the cannon ball, coming east at the rate of thirty-five miles an hour, that absolutely demolished both engines, one having completely mounted on top of the other, and obstructed the track so that the trains Sunday were run via Edgar and Chester to get them by the wreck No one was killed outright, but a number are more or less seriously hurt.

An accident near Falls City disabled an engine so that she had to be towed in for repairs. Eleven disabled engines are now re-ported here, and when the last day's disasers are brought in a "locomotive boneyard" will have to be established.

This is the work of the "scabs," about which the Lincoln Journal is so loudly prating just now. The damage done by incom-petency since the strike began is enormous and surpasses anything in the previous hisory of railroading in our state.

The striking engineers and firemen have just been paid for the month of March. They are firm and courageous, add determined to win this fight if it takes a year to The B. & M. railroad candidates are begin ning to bob up here and there for the legisla-ture. "Our own and only" General L. W. Colby is their preferred candidate for the state senate. They expect to carry Gage county by means of "the machine," I will report progress and ask "leave to sit again" as new developments occur.

A PINKERTON POUNDED.

Officer Raworth Makes Loud Threats and is Seriously Assaulted.

George Raworth, a recent graduate from the police force who has joined the ranks of the Pinkerton importations, got into trouble with a couple of striking engineers last even ing and was badly used up. Raworth is said to do his drinking, while on duty, at Dick Burdish's saloon, on the corner of Tenth and Davenport streets. A number of ex-engineers and ex-switchmen also make this their rendezvous, and it is said that Raworth has, on a number of occasions, in a Fallstafflan manner, told them what he would do with them if they attempted to interfere with the "scabs." Last evening he grew very insolent and blatant, and Pat Ford, who was near by, told him he must not provoke the boys to a fight and led him away across the street. But a few minutes later he re-turned in time to see a fellow named Malloney point to a passing train and say: "There roes six d -n scabs."

Kaworth stepping up said: "You black-guard, I want you to leave those 'scabs' alone. I am here to protect them."

This brought on some hard words between the officer and the engineers, and Raworth, drawing his revolver from his pocket, said:
"If you — — monkey about me I'll kill one of you."

The words were hardly out of his mouth before Malloney, springing forward, wrenched the revolver from Raworth's hand. He then beat the Pinkerton proselyte over the head with the butt end of the weapon, inflicting an uncanny gash over his left eye and a couple on the side of the head. While thus pounding the officer the revolver was exploded and Malloney, thinking that Raworth was mortally wounded, took to his heels and has not been seen since. Raworth was taken to his home and his wounds dressed. No trace of the bullet was discovered and it is thought it did not strike discovered and it is thought it did not strike

Edward Goody and C. Moore, a couple of B. & M. ex-switchmen, were arrested yesterday on the charge of assault with intent to kill. The complainant is J. W. Fox, a union switchman who has joined the scabs Goody and Moore were first astonished and then amused at the charge against them. They say they cannot account for anything they have said that could be distorted into even a threat. They admit they have hailed

IS HE INSANE?

The Curious Freak of an Alleged Cattle Buyer.

From Mr. James B. Horton, a stockman from Bloomington, Neb., a BEE reporter learned of the actions of a man who gave his name as Charlie Curtis, and who claimed to be a cattle buyer for the Swift Packing com pany at South Omaha. On Tuesday last Curtis, who is a young man perhaps twenty-five years of age, alighted at the station at Bloomington and at once began making inquiries for parties hav-ing cattle for sale. He was directed to sev-eral, among the number being Mr. Horton. Curtis visited several parties having cattle for sale, all of whom were offered very liberal prices for their stock, which was to be delivered on Thursday at the station, Curtis stating that the B. & M. had agreed to furnish him all the cars required. He stated that all cattle would be weighed at the depot and the money paid over as he was not particular whether the cattle were in first class condition or not, the owners were in high glee at the prospect of fingering such large quantities of ducats and early on Thursday morning the hired men rounded up the stock and drove them to the railroad, According to all accounts the cars required to load the stock would, if put in one train, to load the stock would, it put in one train, have reached half way to Beatrice. Steers, bulls, cows, heifers, oxen and calves all mingled together in a neighborly fashion. When several hundred head had been collected it was discovered that no cars were there, then it was learned that none had been ordered. It was also found that Curtis was not present and their lamentations and profanity filled the atmosphere. After working until nightfall the stock was driven home and now the cattlemen in that vicinity take turns in parading the station platform with a shot gun hoping that chance may send Curtis in that direction, but as yet their wishes have not been gratified.

Billings' Lame Defense. WATERLOO, Ia., April 17.—[Special Telegram to the Brs.]—The morning session of the thirteenth day of the Billings trial was largely spent in the introduction of evidence of threats made by the deceased against the defendant. Some of the threats were not threats at all, but only expressions of dislike for a man who had attempted blackmail on him, and whom he had been able to foil. If the testimony introduced is to be believed, however, Kingsley was more confidential with the dregs of creation who have already sworn to Kingsley's threat that he would settle Billings with something like a 32calibre and other kindred expressions. A notable exception to this class of witnesses however, is Mr. Husted, an attorney of Waterloo, to whom Kingsley stated that he would send Billings to the pen, or to hell.

A large number of witnesses were introduced this afternoon to show that Billings' deposition was not cruel or vindictive, or malignant, or merderous. The however, is Mr. Husted, an attorney of Wa

CICHRO, HAMILTON CO., IND., Bept, 19, 1987.

The following is a true account of what your S. S. S. has done for our little daughter, Hazel, now four years old. When 12 months old a lump appeared on her heel, which slowly grew larger. The family physician thought it was caused by a piece of broken glass or needle, but failed to bring anything to light. The child became foebler all the time, seeming to lose the use of her leg, and finally quit walk-ing entirely. The middle finger and thumb of either hand became enlarged, the flesh be-coming hard. The hip joints became involved, so that when seventeen months old she and arm. Partial curvature of the spine also followed. The nervous system was wrecked, muscles contracted, and there was general wasting of flesh and muscle. At eighteen treatment of a prominent physician of Bos ton, Mass., but at the end of ten mouths she had declined to such a degree that she was in a dying condition. This was in April, 1886 to do. In this dreadful dilemma we were over-persuaded by friends to try "one bot-tle" of Swift's Specific, which we did, and before it had all been taken we saw a change for the better in her symptoms. We kept up, and have done so to this day, and will keep it up, if the Lord wills, for many day to come, for it has brought our dying Hazel to life, to vigor, to strength and health again. The ashen hue of her cheeks has changed to a rogy tint. She is able to walk anywhere, her languor and melancholy have passed away, and she is now a blithe, cheerful, happy romping child. Should you wish to in-crease your testimonials of proof of the virtue of S. S. S., our names and what we have said is but a portion of what we owe to you, should you wish to use them.

Kindly yours, BEN. F. SWIFT.
