The State National's Affairs.

Mr. Griffiths, the examiner who has about finished his examination into the accounts of the State National bank, said that the ap pointment of a receiver, as tele graphed from Washington, was a surprise to him. Mr. Tibbits, who received the appointment, was a stranger to him. He would be ment, was a stranger to him. He would be required to give bonds possibly as high as $100,000. When he did so, Mr. Griffiths would check the bank over to him and that would require several days. The money in the bank, which was now under Mr. Griffith's seal, would be forwarded to Washington and the receipt of the same acwashington and the receipt of the same ac-knowledged by the comptroller. It would be possibly two weeks before the receiver would advertise for proofs of deposits and then ninety days would elapse before the accounts would be paid. Will Not Shut Down.

Mr. P. E. Iler, who has returned from Peoria, the headquarters of the distillers' trust, where the annual meeting was held ; seems confident that the Willow Springs distillery in this city will not be shut down, as reports have led people to believe. He says that the Willow Springs has distilled liquor at a cost of 3 cents less per gallon than that of any distillery in the trust, from the fact that it is located in the center of the corn and wheat producing section of the country. Certificates to the value of $28,000,000 were represented at the meeting.

Were After His Scalp.

The action of Mr. Doty, a railroad contrac tor at Creighton, at present engaged in constructing the grade for the Fremont, Elkhorn & Missouri Valley railroad, came very near getting a well-known labor agent in trouble on Tuesday last. Doty had ordered twenty-five laborers which were to be delivered on Tuesday. The men were procured, and at 11 p. m. on that day, in company with the agent they started for their work. Upon arriving at the scene of action they were met by Doty who informed them that he had hired all the men necessary and had telegraphed to that effect. Explanations developed the fact that the telegram was not sent until the men were over half way there, whereupon the labor agent disclaimed any further connection was gone. with the matter and left Doty to fight it out with the irate laborers who demanded work, a pass to Omaha or blood. Doly became somewhat alarmed and put up the necessary collateral for their board and lodging. The next morning they were offered work but refused to accept, and demanded transportation to this city which they did not get, and then finding it was a case of walk or work they determined to lay for the employment agent. That gentleman considering discretion the better part of valor hired a livery rig, skipped across the country and is now happy while Doty and the infuriated mob are still arguing the pass

One of the most conservative of Omaha's contractors said to a BEE reporter yesterday that the bricklayer's strike would soon have to come to a close. "I don't want to hire scabs'," he said, "and it I go to work, which I expect to, I shall have no choice but to hire union men. The cost of buildings, at the increased wages, is not noticeable, and I think there have been some hot-heads on both sides. The bricklayers, the contractors say, have not exactly treated them right and I guess that's so, but then the affair can be fixed up, and it ought to be and I think it will be, even if the bricklayers are conceeded some of their points. Here are two corners, (the northeast and southeast of Harney and Fourteenth streets) that were to have been built this season. I understand now that the owners, W. V. Morse and B. F. Smith, have postponed the building almost indefinitely, and the present occupants, who are living in rookeries, want extensions of their leases of One Young Man. For those who are seeking rest and quiet the general offices of the various lines in this city would have been a good place to congregate, there being absolutely nothing of interest to be learned there.

The only person who knew anything on the subject of railroading was the celebrated Eli Perkins, who was discovered in room 93 at the Paxton, engaged in a fierce struggle with a refractory collar button, to which he was striving to attach a strip of linen commonly called a collar. The reporter's timid knock was followed by "Come in" in very large capitals. Upon entering the room, Mr. Per-hins called "time" iet the collar button fall for a moment and exclaimed:

kins called "time" let the collar button fall for a moment and exclaimed: "Oh, yes, I know, you want to ask me where I have been, where I am going and when I am coming back. I have been west, am going to Creighton in fifteen minutes and will return Sunday. I—" but at this point the scribe intercupted him by inquiring if he (Ell) had been interviewed by an employe of a certain job office in this city on the subject of the strike on the "Q." "Inter-viewed," exclaimed the great humorist and prevaricator, "I should say I had; and do you know, I never until this morning had an idea that I knew so much about railroad mat-ters until a messenger boy brought me the paper mentioned this morning before I was up. Say," he added confidentially, "do you know that the youth that came up to my room last night, and then, after talking with me for an hour on Hill's chances for the dem-ocratic nomination, went off and perpetrated ocratic nomination, went off and perpetrated that article on me, has a wonderful imagina-tion! Wonderful, indeed, when I am noncommittal on the subject of this strike and do not wish to talk about it !"

do not wish to talk about it!" "Then the fireman in bed 'heartsick' at Hastings did not send for you!" queried the reporter. "Send for me! Well nit, I haven't seen any firemen in bed 'heartsick' and what is more do not expect to, and the idea of being quoted as saving that every railroad of being quoted as saying that every railroad in the United States sympathizes with the C., B. & Q.," and here Ell's indignation got the better of him and he returned to the struggle with the collar button. 'Bless me'' said he as he kicked the handle off a water pitcher, ''I don't know what the world is coming to; a man cannot onen his month but what some danger little open his mouth but what some dapper little fellow has to misquote him. Good day; I will see you Sunday morning." and snatching a toothpick Eli made a rush for the ele-vator. "You can say," shouled he as the carriage descended, "that Eli Perkins never goes back on the workingman engaged in a struggle for right," and with these words he

SENT TO THE POOR FARM.

Herman Atkins Ticketed There to Wind Up His Earthly Existence. Superintendent of Poor Mahoney was yes erday requisted to write out an order for the admission to the poor farm of a man by the name of Herman Atkins, who has become an imbecile through disease and neglect and whose days are numbered. The applicant for the order assured the county officials that he did not anticipate that they would have to provide long for the unfortun ate man, as a doctor had said he was liable to tie at almost any moment. The order was issued and Atkins was removed to the farm. Mr. Mahoney says he is in possession of proofs that Atkins has two sons and a son-in-law in comfortable circumstances who could care for him if they would, but this they have positively refused to do, insisting that he left a comfortable home and has lived apart from his wife without any cause whatever. In defense of these assertions Atkins says his home was made uncomforta-ble for him in various ways, and is laboring under the hallucination that if he remained there he would be poisoned. District Court. THREW HIS GOODS INTO THE STREET.

A GREAT MISTAKE.

Some men think that because they pay high prices for clothing, they get a better article than we sell for half the money. This is a mistake. To many customers who visit our store for the first time, it is a revelation that they can buy just as fine goods of us and just as well made as any custom tailor will turn out, and the fact that our prices are from 30 to 50 pe cent cheaper than other houses is also a revelation. The remarkable bargains we offer this season have never been approached by any house.

In spring suits we are opening every day new lots. All the latest styles are represented in our stock. The new Prince Albert suit in fine corkscrew and cassimere of different and beautiful shades and at prices almost one half what other establishments offer.

The most astonishing value ever given in a spring suit is offered this week is our new $7 cheviot sack suit. This is made of a splendid all wool cheviot, an elegant color, lined with fine serge, good trimmings and well made. Now, any house will show a seven dollar suit, but we positively assert that no one will show anything to compare with the quality we offer in this suit for less than $12, and we ask but $7 for it.

Our Spring Overcoats are on the wane; of 'the finest grades are but a few left, and we have marked them down to close them out. Of our $6 overcoats we still have a fair assort ment. This is the biggest thing ever shown in the way of an overcoat and everybody who has bought one acknowledges that it is as good a garment as is shown anywhere for $12.

In our hat department we offer this week 25 dozen fine light colored derbys, satin lined silk band and binding, goat sweat leather at $1. If you are asked $2 or $2.50 for the same hat you would not hesitate to pay it.

AMUSEMENTS. "Little Puck" Makes a Hit at Boyd's

Last Night. A fair audience greeted Mr. Daniels on his return to Boyd's opera house last night in the very taking new play "Little Puck." It is a three-act extravagant affair partaking largely of the spectacular drama and legitimate comedy. Daniels as "Old Sport" in the "Rag Baby" clinches his reputation as an exceedingly talented comedy artist, studions, carnest and effect. It is not the horse play that elicits such storms of applause, but his ingenious method of individualizing charactor. "Little Puck" is progressedly intercating until the final act, when instead of something better than anything before, there is a in the particular sector of a patering out into the spectacular so conventional that it bears no worthy comparison of the morits of the previous acts. There is a sparking array of beautiful females and in musical ber of worthless checks and bends were found in their possession. Didn't Finu Her Husband.
