Governor Thayer's Reception.

Fully conscious of the admiring gaze of a balcony crowded with fashion and beauty, the Edward Creighton Guards, N. N. G. stood three ranks deep in Exposition hall at 10 o'clock Friday evening, each man as immovable as a statue, awaiting the entrauce of the chief executive of the state and his staff. The company stood at the west end of the hall, and south of them was the Second Infantry band, whose inspiring strains added greatly to the pleasures of the occasion. Over the west end of the hall were the floral letters "Welcome to Our Commander-in-Chief." The hall was prettily decorated with bunting and the ceiling swung with green festoons On the north side were three camp tents The orchestra was almost concealed behind the luxuriant plants in front of them, while the balcony was thronged with a bewildering profusion of pretty faces, beautiful dresses, swallow tails and military trappings.

Just before 10 o'clock the bugle sounded and the company fell into line. Almost ou the stroke of the hour the east door opened and the governor and staff entered and the band struck up "Hall to the Chief." The governor appeared in a black Prince Albert coat and slouch hat, and his staff were re-splendent with gold lace and buttons. After the formal presentation of the company to the governor, inspection of arms followed, the party being escorted along the ranks by C. J. Symth, captain of the company,

The adjutant general reported everything satisfactory to the governor, and a drill followed. The movements were all executed with promptness and decision showing prac-tice in drill. The boys had on their fa-tigue uniforms and presented a very hand-The next feature had been put down upon the programme as "special num-ber," and had excited some curiosity as to the significance of the two words. It was fully explained when Captain Smyth stepped forward with a handsome gold mounted sword and handed it to Governor Thayer, who, on behalf of the company, presented it to Licutenant Kennon, of Gen-eral Crook's staff, who has kindly put in considerable time drilling the company and otherwise encouraging them. The governor's remarks were brief and appropriate. The gallant lieutenant, though very much sur-prised, was equal to the occasion and made a graceful response.

The governor next addressed the company, telling them of the value of such organiza-tions, the interest he felt in them, and trusted the interest would only be main-tained. His remarks were throughout very complimentary to the boys. More military evolutions followed, which ended with the stacking of arms in front of the tents and breaking of ranks. The enthu-siastic militiamen then gave three cheers for Governor Thayer and almost everybody else concerned with the affair. concerned with the affair.

The grand march next followed, the gov ernor and Miss Kate Murphy leading. Among those seen in line were General Crook and a number of other military officers from the fort, all in full uniform. After this came the reception to the governor, the band mean-while playing a beautiful serenade. Danc-ing followed with an order of fourteen Literary and Scientific. The pupils of the Sacred Heart academy in Park place seem to attach considerable importance to the æsthetic principle that "one may as well be out of the world as out of the fashion." In proof of this, the graduates held a scientific congress Friday evening, and, if one may judge from the programme of the gravity of the subjects discussed, these wise young ladies must have ventured into pretty deep waters. One thing is plain, and that is that they are taught to follow up the burning questions of the day, and that they apprehend the purpose and importance of such gatherings as the International Scientiffe Congress which is now holding its ses-sions in Paris. In the introduction Miss Nash made a clear exposition of the plan to be pursued, and, discussing modern scientists in general, she showed how their researches are fair for naught, since they fail to recognize the Divine origin. The Agnostic school, with its rep-resentatives, J. Stuart Mill and Sir William Hamilton, was ably heralded. The conclu-sion to be drawn from this essay is the fact that the impress of the eternal mind may be stronge on the soul of a simple child, poor in knowledge but rich in faith, than on that of the skeptic who walks alone through the mazes of science. The pioneer of the natur-alist school, Charles Darwin, figured largely in the essay devoted to the subject. The Hegelian, or idealistic school was dealt with in a scholarly manner. A Delightful Social. The young ladies of St. Agnes Guild gave one of their delightful socials on Wednesday evening at the residence of Mr. A. M. Weir, 1914 North Twenty-sixth street. The even ing passed very pleasantly to all those so fortunate as to be present. The entertainment consisted of a carefully selected programme of both literary and musical nature, executed largely by the young ladies of the guild. Among the numbers worthy of special com mendation was the recitation of Miss Lizzie Moorell, who exhibited decided talent in that line. The piano duct by Miss Weir and Prof. Charles Thomas elicited enthusiastic ap plause, as did also the song by Master Archic Pratt, and the select reading by the Rev. Pearson. After the programme was finished a delightful collation was served, the enjoy ment of which was greatly enhanced by the

Adapted from the French by LOUIS NATHAL Eqs. Scene LAID IN FRANCE UNDER NAPOLEON I Negroes For Chinamen. About five years ago the idea of subtituting negro labor for Chinese, on the Pacific coast, was conceived by large land owners of the San Joaquin valley. About one hundred negroes were sent there, but proved to be dissolute fellows picked up along the wharves and levees of New Orleans. Later a Rio Vista farmer succeeded in securing some seventy or eighty experienced farm hands from Georgia and the Carolinas. The result was a success. Since that time a regularly organized agency has been located in the south for the purpose of furnishing negro help in central and southern California. J. M. The torrents of rain and sea of mud on Thursday evening had but little effect upon the second annual calico ball of the Ladies' Harmony assembly, No. 9379, K. of L., at Masonic temple. The ladies' costumes were mainly of calico, and many of them had been fashioned with exquisite taste, becoming wearers greatly. The various colors gave the dance hall their the brilliant appearance of the more pre-tentious balls where sons and daughters of wealth congregate. Some good old fashioned dances, now rare in the ball rooms, were re-

They All Went Home.

A woman up at St. Helen's says the Astoria Pioneer, is the wife of a man who loves to hand around a certain grog bazaar, and in so doing he sorely neglects the helpmeet who sits patiently at home. Many a time and oft has she reasoned with him in her quiet, motherly way, and tried to point out to him the disgraceful way in which he was using her, but all to no purpose. She even went so far as to request the teller in the aforesaid booze emporium that he cease selling her husband liquor. But the poison-mixer bade her go hence and exchange New Years calls with herself; but she turned on her heel and left his hateful presence. That evening as she sat alone she heard a racket down cellar, and upon investigation found that a skunk had got its tail in the rat trap. Now, it is a well known fact, that a skunk will hold its peace as long as his bushy tail is held, whether in a trap or the hand. and remembering this she had no fear.

The clock in the house was striking l and she wanted papa to come hom With a quick movement she threw a bag over the animal's head, and, after grasping his tail, opened the trap, and thus armed headed for the saloon. It was only a short distance away, and finding the door partiy open, she tossed the skunk into the midst of the crowd and swiftly stolo'awdy. It had the desired effect and paps came home. The saloonkeeper, who

A Timely Decision.

The United States supreme court has ustained the validity of a Kansas law making railroad companies responsible in damages for injuries to their em-ployes growing out of the negligence or carelessness of fellow employes. This is contrary to the common law rule, and the ruling will in good time have most salutary results. If railroad companies have to pay for all the maining and killing done to their employes it will lead to the adoption of improvements and precautions which will add much to the safety of the general public.

The Missing Dollar.

A large, fashionably dressed man recently entered the Philadelphia Press office, accompanied by two others, and extending silver coin, inquired: "Can you tell me the value of this?" A glance at the coin caused something of a sensation, for unless it was an imitation, the missing dollar of 1804," the piece of silver for which coin collectors had sought in vain for more than threequarters of a century had turned up at ast, and suffered so little from the effects of time and usage that the ran-dom appraisement of $800 placed upon it would not nearly represent its value to calculating coin dealers or enthusiasic numismatists.

"There are," say the catalogues, "but three silver dollars of the coinage of 1804 in existence. Two of these are accounted for; the third is somewhere in circulation about the country. The value of this missing dollar of 1804, as uoted in the numismatic circulars, is SOO.

When asked where he got the coin, the gentleman said: "From a lingtning rod agent, who received it in part payment for work done for a farmer . near Auburn, Ind. It was an heirloom in the farmer's family, and had descended to him from his great grandfather. bought it from the lightning rod man for $7. When it first came in my posession it was black with age, but was easily brightened up. From its fine condition it could not have been long eirculation."

'Have you received any offers for it?', "Several. Among others one from a riend in Denver, who thinks he knows a wealthy real estate dealer who will e willing to give $3,000 for the coin. Of course I would sell in an instant for such a price." The gentleman who now possesses the coin is D. Gumper, of Fort Wayne, Ind.
