SCORE BY INNINGS.

The Base Ball Injunction. The injunction against the Omaha Base Ball club will be argued this morning. The apprehension of a disposal of the club in case of the success of the application to restrain is widespread and is exciting much anxiety among the many admirers of the great and noble sport. The one sentiment expressed is that it would be unfortunate if the directors are compelled to succumb now and throw up the sponge after just having succeeded in getting together such an excellent team. A winning team is a guarantee of a live active, prosperous, enterprising city, and the emoluments that are derived through this channel alone by means of the extensive advertising, are so well recognized that many city governments throughout the country are directly interested in their ball teams. Again it is the most healthful, purest and ennobl-ing of all athletic sports, upheld and advocated by such masterly minds as the late Henry Ward Beecher, by De Witt Talmage, William M. Evarts, the late Roscoe Coukling and scores and scores of the most eminent men of the times. Omaha will make a mistake if she allows her ball team of 1888 to go.

Des Moines 4, Minneapolis 0. DES MOINES, Ia., May 4.-[Special Telegram to the BEE.]-About one thousand persons witnessed the second game between the Des Moines and Minneapolis teams to-day. The weather was cool, the ground in good condition, and an excellent game was played by both teams. It was largely a pitcher's contest, though the home team did good work with the willow. In the fourth inning. Quinn made a safe but, went to second on a safe hit by Shafer, and both crossed the plate on Halliday's long hit over the left garden fence, making a home run for himself. This was Smith's first appearance before a Des Moines audience, and he acquitted himself with great credit both as a twirler and in fielding his position. Klopf struck out six and Smith five, the score by innings being as

This is accounted for, however, by the presence of a brigade of blue-coats who were on hand to see that there were no breaking of jaws or smashing of noses. Killen gave the immense audience a sample of his extraordinary kittenishness, and made it very evident that he would have paralyzed Mr. Smith with one hand tied behind his back. Colone: Forbes esquired Killen and Anthony Rothery was behind the descendant of the discoverer of Virginia. There wasn't one good blow struck and again it is repeated, the exhibition was totally devoid of interest.

a Negro Lynching. MONTGOMERY, Ala., May 4 .- Since the re cent lynching in Lowndes county of a negro murderer by a white mob the negroes have been threatening vengeance, and to-day the sheriff with a posse at Sandy Ridge arrested fifteen negroes. On the way back to Haynesville, the county seat, the posse encountered mob of armed negroes. A conflict ensued, in which two white men were wounded and several negroes killed. The negroes dispersed, but are reported to be assembling again in large numbers, and the sheriff telegraphed to the governor for troops. Four companies, including artillery and cavalry, are now leaving for the scene.

Must Hang.

Boston, May 4 .- [Special Telegram to the BEE.]-The supreme court has sent down a rescript overruling the exceptions of Mrs. Sarah J. Robinson, the Somerville prisoner, convicted of the murder of Arthur Freeman her brother-in-law. It concludes as follows 'The evidence certainly tended to show a scheme or plan entered into before Mrs. Freeman's death to have the insurance money made payable to the prisoner." This means that Mrs. Robinson must hang unless the governor and his council commute the sentence to imprisonment.

GERMANY'S ROYAL AILMENTS

WORK OF BUNGLING PHYSICIANS.

The Theory of Hereditary Scrofula Controverted By a High Medical Authority, Royalty Failed to Unpend the Professor.

Why the Prince is Prejudiced. NEW YORK, May 4 .- [Special Telegram to the Bre. |-There will appear in this week's saue of the Medical Record, which has given the subject of the late Emperor William's and the present German em peror's illness more than ordinary mention in account of the Crown Prince William and the causes to which are due his crippled arm. It will go far toward disabusing the people of the belief that Prince William is afflicted with any disease of a scrofulous nature, reports to that effect having recently been sent to the English and American papers from Berlin. The authority for the Record's story is a physician who attended the gymnasium with Crown Prince William, and Dr. Shrady says his information is entirely trustworthy. The story is as follows:

The present difficulty of the Crown Princ William dates from his birth, when a frac-ture of the left arm occurred, which resulted n that member being about two inches horter than the other and has given rise to the stories of his being afflicted with scrot-ula. Prior to the birth of her child, Empress Victoria, then the crown princess, was seriously ill and her mother, Queen Victoria, dispatched from London two English obstetricians to attend her. These physicians found themselves unable to cope with the difficulty that presented itself, and then arrived the necessity for a consultation. A messenger was dispatched for Prof. Martin, the elder, since dead, who, at the time, was high in the circles of the court, and president of one of the universities. Piqued at the introduction of the Englishmen in the case, to the exclusion of the fatherland, the eminent scientist returned this answer: "II I was not able to attend to the crown princess in the first place I am not able to do it

Informed of this brusque reply of Prof. Martin, Emperor William, at that time king of Prussia, issued an imperial edict ordering the obdurate physician to attend the crown princess. Such a summons had to be obeyed. Prof. Martin went to the palace. He was conducted into the presence of the crown princess, where were the two English ob-stetricians. Saluting the crown princess, who was in the apartment, the German phy sician silently gave his attention to th royal mother, overcoming the difficulty that had puzzled the London doctors, that had puzzled the London doctors, placed the new-born infant in the arms of a nurse, bowed stiffly to the two professional gentlemen from England, and retired from he apartment without uttering a word. Here was the spectacle of a proud scientific man, who would not unbend for royalty. He had performed his duty in a taciturn manner, it is rue, but that was all. Prof. Martin was dis missed from the court. When the little prince was three or four

when the little prince was three or four years old, it was discovered that his left arm was fractured a short distance from the shoulder. Who broke it? Did the accident occur through the agency of Prof. Martin, or while the babe was in the care of the Eng lish attendants! That question has never been answered, and probably never will be. The doctor who broke the arm felt the snap of the infantile bone. From the nature of things he would keep the news to himself, fearing to have it known that to him be longed the blame. The fracture of a newly born infant's arm is not an unusual occurrence, and it is not regarded in the medical profession as serious or attended by any great danger. In this case, however, when the bones knit the left arm of the prince was shorter than the right, and thas ever since so remained. It has been announced at different times that Prince William's eyes were bad. Had this been the case he could never have passed through the gymnasium. When he graduated the young prince, though bright and possessed of a thorough education, stood number seventeen in his class. This shows the impartiality of the German professors in dealing with there can be no wonder at the deep rooted prejudice in the prince's mind against what he naturally considers the interference of foreign, and particularly English, doctors in the case of his father. Whenever he glances down at his shortened left arm there occur to him the thought that but certain bungling in his case it might have been as perfect as he is in every other par-

to Discuss the Question. New Yong, Mar'4 -Bishop C. D. Foss, of Minneapolis, presided at to-day's general conference of the Methodist Episcopul church. The order of the day, continued from yesterday, was the debate on the report of the committee on the eligibility of women as lay delegates to the conference. The debate was opened by Rev. Dr. A. B. Leonard of the Cincinnati conference, who argued in favor of the women's side of the case. He was followed by Rev. Dr. John Miley, president of Drew theological seminary, of the New York conference, and Rev. J. R. Day, of the New York conference, who spoke against the admission of women as delegates. The Rev. Day, in the course of his debate, said: "If vomen are admitted just so many men will be displaced. The force of the lay delegation should be weakened. Women have not the necessary experience. If she is admitted she would come in as an added force and not as

as 'old fogies." He criticized the bishop's admission of women at the present time be-cause the church at large had not expressed an opinion on the subject. Rev. F. B. Neally, of Philadelphia, said he was in favor of submitting the question to the annual conferences, and to this end offered an amendment to the report of the committee. The amend ment was seconded and will be voted on at the close of the debate. Leslie M. Shaw, a lawyer from Des Moines,

There were objections on the ground that he had already spoken to the question. He said he had not spoken to the amendment, and was permitted by the chair to speak. Then numberless points of order were raised with the object of shutting Dr. Buckley off. The effort was successful, as before he could get an oppor tunity to speak the hour for adjournment ar-

THE COUNTY CONVENTION. Greene Apparently to Secure the District Delegation. The republican county convention of Douglas meets in the exposition hall in this city this afternoon at 2 o'clock. It will nominate thirty-seven delegates to the district convention which is to be held in Ashland on the 10th of this month. This district comprises ten counties, which, with the number of delegates to which each is entitled, are as follows: Cass 16, Douglas 37, Gage 19, Lan-caster 25, Nemaha 4, Otoe 12, Sarpy 5, Johnson 8, Pawnee 8, Richardson 12, and Saunders 12, making a total of 163 dele-

The convention to day, it is expected, will get through its work in an expeditious man-ner. It is a foregone conclusion that Charles H. Greene will secure, if not the entire delegation, at least enough of the members to guarantee his nomination at the district convention. In some of the local wards he had considerable opposition, but it looks as though he had secured all the city wards with the exception of perhaps the first, fifth and sixth, and in these he is not without some followers. It has been announced that C. E. Yost has withdrawn from the contest, being satisfied that he had allowed Greene to get in earlier and effective work. It has also been intimated that his declination has been recompensed by a promise to back him for lieutenant-governo that he would be pleased to succeed Church Howe on the national republican executive committee. When this fact becomes known it will not tend to increase the cordiality which South Platte country people will be likely to show to the Douglas delegation. THE SOUTH OMAHA BUDGET.

Last Night's Meeting of Independent Citizens.

TAX ON BUSINESS CONDEMNED.

Cases Refore the Courts and How They Were Settled-Who Were on 'Change To-Day-Notes About the City.

A Citizens' Protest.

There was no uncertain sound about the citizens' meeting last night. They denounced the action of the council in advancing their own sainries 500 per cent, while the city was in debt, and then taxing all legitimate business men to make up the deficiency. They denounced it more especially because the laws of Nebraska say they can not do it.

The Bue has already quoted the statutes on the subject. The meeting was a representative one, and Mr. John Doe, of the Stock Exchange, was appointed chairman, and O. S. Shannon secretary. J. W. Eugerton was the first speaker, and said the finances of the city were in a deplorable state, which might or might not be excusable. The suing of the city and obtaining a judgment was preferable to the course the council had pursued. The proposed tax would cripple present, and prevent prospective merchants from locating in South Omaha. It was evident on the face of it that, while the finances were admittedly so low, the council had determined to pay them selves well. The old council had been will ing to do the best they could for $50, but the present one thought their services worth 50 per cent more. They wanted all the law could by any stretch allow, and then they wanted to tax the business men to pay for it. They did this, notwithstanding that the provisions were against it. If they were really the patriots they claimed to be, they would take the old rates of pay and not ask the business men to settle for the uncalled-fo increase that they had voted for the uncalled-for increase that they had voted for themselves. J. A. MacMurphy next explained his posi-tion. Pedlers and itinerant traders might be taxed, but the proposed law was wrong. New cities naturally brought in men of limited means, and the ordinance would tend to drive out all those who were willing to stake their all in a new venture and then struggle for success. They were the men who built up a new city, and they were the men that the proposed law would drive out, if it was enforced. It was un-American and public opinion was against it. The proposed move would drive out more business than the revenue derived would amount to.

James H. Van Dusen said that he had it personally from South Onaha business men, that they would remove if the law was enforced. Omaha offered inducements to mer chants and South Omaha wanted to tax the same men if they came there. He had called on the city treasurer for information as to how the city stood financially, but had been how the city stood financially, but had been refused it because "the mayor and council might not like to have it published." He was in favor of paying officials the increase if the finances of the city would allow it, but at present he thought it was wrong.

Witham Kincade said the council had raised their own salaries when the finances of the city were in a jeopardized condition and he thought they ought.

ardized condition, and he thought they ough to think twice. They admitted the city was in debt, and yet they wanted to pay them selves more without knowing where the money was coming from. He claimed the city charter was not worth a cent, and that money could not be raised upon it. The council should offer privileges for nothing in stead of taxing them, and so help South Omaha into the front rank of Nepraska cities. At present the council seemed careless about the city, and were working al-together for themselves. Instead of stopping things from coming into the city they should try to help them.

A. J. Baldwin wanted to help the city but not in that way. He had been opposed to the idea from the start and was still there. Dr. Glasgow wanted to know if the four councilmen that voted for the tax had fany interest in the county, or if they could show a tax receipt in their own name. The services of the present council were worth no more than those of the old one, and he had served for six months without asking a cent.

He had voted for "Ennis, Dennis, Pat Row ley and reform" and the citizens had not got any of the four.

J. F. Ritchhardt thought it was an outrage rease in salaries. If they couldn't work for what the old council got let them resign. He wanted everyone to come to South Omaha, and, although a real estate man didn't want to be like Dave Anderson, and pay $100 a year to keep all other real estate men out. He wanted it to go on record that way, for the more business men, the more business and the more money for South Omaha.

Then speeches to the same effect were Then speeches to the same effect were made by Dr. Smith, Messrs, Hogle, Heyman, Graham and Mayfield. The chairman also spoke at some length. He said the men coming to new cities were generally men of moderate memas, and to tell them they would be taxed for a legitimate business, would be to keep them out. They should welcome all and especially manufactures, and if they taxed anything let it be real estate and not business.

Always being ready on such occasions goes a long way toward giving a woman a reputation as a good housekeeper, not only with friends, but where such a reputation is a much more powerful lever in the husband's eyes. One of the best things a woman can teach her cook to attain perfection in is how to make Welsh rarebit. Women all long for power (so they say) and the small insignificant roads to attain it must not be overlooked. I have seen a man, and a very nice man, simply beam with pleasure when on writing some friends to come up to his house his wife would give them a Welsh rarebit that was worth eating. His wife was a beautiful brilliant woman, a fine planist, a culti-vated singer-but it was her housekeeping the husband was proud of. and a tool chest were the centre of an admiring crowd of pedestrians on Twenty-sixth street yesterday and they were all there to vindicate the majesty of the law. City Attorney Doud was also there to look after the interests of the city. The tool chest was the only thing left to represent the suit of Pete McCaffrey vs. J. P. Tracy, and it had been sentenced to be sold. Ben was sentenced to sell it and contents, and at 11 o'clock he startled the crowd by calling out; "O yes, O yes, O yes!" No one was game enough to say, "O no," but they waited to see what was next. Ben then proceed to announce that "the state of Ne-braska, to-wit," through Justice Levy had ordered the tools to be sold, and although he had no license he proceeded to auction them off. PURIFY YOUR BLOOD. Impurities in the blood produce diseases, Bodily and mental health depend upon a healthy condition of the blood. The blood, particularly in the spring and during the hot summer months, becomes clogged with im purities, which potson it and generate disease. A harmless blood purifier, without a particle of mineral poison in it, such as mer enry or potash, is necessary to remove these impurities and to restore the healthy tone of mind and body. The best purifier and tonia known to the world is Swift's Specific (S.S.S.). In regard to its wonderful purifying and de powers we give a few testimonials as Mr Wm A Stebold with Geo. P. Rowell &

Co., 10 Spruce Street, New York, writes March 29th, 1888; "I feel it my duty, for the benefit of others who may be afflicted as I was, to write you this letter, which you can use as my testimony in any way you choose. I will answer any inquiry from others in relation to the facts herewith stated. In February last I suffered great pain and inconvenience from boils, all over my neck; I could not turn my head without acute pain and my blood was in poor condition. After trying all the usual remedies in such cases, and finding no relief, by the persuasion of Mr. J. W. Fears, Manager of your New York Office, I used one bottle S. S. S., and I improved rapidly and very soon I was entirely relieved of my 'Job's Comforters." Now not a sign of my affliction can be seen. I feel strong and cheerful. S. S. S. is a fine tonic as proved in my case. I sleep soundly and my appetite is good, Dr. J. N. Cheney, a well-known physician writes from Ellaville, Georgia : "I use S. S. S. in convalescent fever cases with the best results. It will, in my judgment, prevent summer dysentery, if one will take a few bottles in the spring, thus preparing the bowels for the strains of summer." Mrs. Scott Liston, 115 Zane street (Island), Wheeling, West Virginia, writes: "Having used S.S. S. for the blood, I can safely say that it beats anything I have used to cleanse the blood and make a new being out of a per-Mr. M. S. Hamlin, Winston, N. C., writes;

"I use it every spring. It always builds me up, giving me appetite and digestion, and bling me to stand the long, trying, enervating hot summer days. On using it I soon become strong of body and easy of mind." Treatise on Blood and Skin Diseases mailed
