CHICAGO PRODUCE MARKET.

CHICAGO, May 4 .- [Special Telegram to the Ber. |-This was the most uninteresting day the when: market has seen for weeks. Fluctuations only attained a range of %c throughout the session and for an hour at a time %o was the extreme variation. The Liverpool quotations for to-day-"quiet and steady"-would do very well for this market. There were no particularly strong influences either way. Foreign news was unimportant. One pleasant feature for the bulls is the falling off in northwestern receipts which is considerable. Not a few of the believers in higher prices think that the next upward impulse will come from a decided decrease in receipts at Minneapolis and Duluth. Foreigners are not taking our wheat to any considerable extent, but it appears from the diminished deliveries that we have but little to sell them and the effect upon prices would naturally be the same as if there was a better export demand. The most important crop news was that from the Missouri state board of agriculture which gives the prospective yield of the state as 14,199,393 bushels. If this is nearly correct it indicates a decrease, of about 18,600,000 bushels as compared with that of last year's crop. People found it difficult to reconcile this with the conditions given of the 1887 crop, but a St. Louis dispatch said this should have been 77.5. Other cropnews received to-day was not important, except as confirming previous reports. 'The volume of business to-day was not large, and very little of it came from outside sources. Hutchinson was a buyer early, but later sold some, and offered more in larger blocks than found buyers. Ream was also selling wheat. However, most traders seemed to be waiting, and the government crop report, which will come next week, is expected to decide in which direction the market must go. Expecta-tion that it will show a considerable falling off in the condition within the past month is encouraging many holders to "hang on" who would otherwise unload on such a market as this which refuses to advance for days at a time. That report also is a discourager of short selling. July wheat to-day opened at 83%c, advanced to 83%c, and for more than an hour only fluctuated between 83¼ and 83½c, then declined to 83¼ @83¼c and closed at 83½c. June wheat kept just under July. It is estimated that next Monday's visible supply statement will show a decrease in wheat of about 500,000 bushels.

The shorts were again active buyers of The shorts were again active buyers of May corn and the price for that delivery went up to 58c again, but dropped 14c before the close. The longs in that month who are fixing the price, are, to a considerable ex-tent, changing over into July at 2e difference in price. This serves to keep the price of July delivery steady in the face of increased receipts present and prospective. It was said that a considerable amount of short corn which is now being covered is for snort corn which is now being covered is for foreign account. July corn opened at 55%c, held between that price and 55%c for a long time, declined to and closed at 55%c. June corn opened at 55%c, sold up to 56c, down to 551%c55%c, and closed at 55%c. There was a very active speculative trade in oats, the demand being chiefly from shorts and for near delivaries. The shorts do not and for near deliveries. The shorts do not so much fear of manipulation in this market as they do the effect of manipulation and possibly much higher prices in corn, which would take the oats market with it. May oats opened at 33%c, sold up to 34%c, but late in the session fell to 33%c and closed there. June oats opened at 32%c, sold up to 33%c, down to and closing at 32%c. July oats opened at 32%c, sold up to 33%c, then down to and closed at 32%c. August oats sold down from 28%c to 28%c. For September oats 28c was asked at the opening and the close was nowing at 27%c. nominal at 27%c.

Provisions again displayed unmistakable strength. The extreme prices obtained dur-ing the day were not maintained, but the average was materially higher as a rule than yesterday. In pork an actual advance of 2234@25c and in short ribs of 234@5c was established. Lard closed unchanged but firm. The bull side was regarded with great favor

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

Crucago, May 5 .- [Special Telegram to the BRE. !- CATTLE-Receipts to-day were small, but the demand was quite as small or smaller. In fact there was almost no demand, orders for the week having been all filled by yesterday. Buyers had to be coaxed to do anything to-day. They figured on the chance of big receipts early next week and so could afford to move slowly The best prices were about 25c higher than on Monday, but sellers had to take of something to make clearances to-day. Hogs-Business was active to the extent of a run and prices generally a shade firmer. Best heavy touched $5.75@5.77½ and best mixed $5.60@5.65; a few common at $5.50@5.55; light, $5.45@5.60. Values have advanced 10@17½c during the past week. Wise ones are predicting a big run next week.

FINANCIAL.

NEW YORK, May 5 .- | Special Telegram to the BEE.]-The week in Wall street has been one of activity but uncertainty, coupled with wide fluctuations. The bulls had everything in their power during the opening days. Sen timent, which at times like present carries more weight than legitimate factors, favored higher prices and advances extending to 416 points were recorded. Long stocks came out too freely and during the closing days sharp reactions followed that carried prices down below the opening of Monday and instead of showing a gain at the close, as on the preceding weeks, there were losses of %@3 points compared with closing figures last Saturday. The largest gain was on New Eng land, which was ballooned to 46, but dropped to 40% on Saturday. Manhattan took one of its periodical spurts, but closed 2%c lower. Eric was down 1%, Onaha 1%, Burlington 1%, Lackawanna 1%, Reading 1%, Oregon Transcontinental 1%, St. Paul & Northwestern %, Lake Shore %.

The efforts of the security hold ers of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railway to rescue the property from its present managers are met by the latter with schemes and devices which make it apparent that the present board of directors is hostile to the best interests of the corporation. The company has gone already through some of the first stages which in the past, in the cases of other Gould-managed properties, have been preliminary to financial in solvency and disaster. The latest move of the directors in cancelling, while they had the power, the lease to the Missouri, Kansas & Texas, of the International & Great Northern show already their animus. The battle is a hard one, and the rescuing com mittee has to contend with men whose knowl edge, acquired through experience, covers all expedients in such cases. The report that Erie was in a bad way financially doubtless originated in their trying to borrow money in London to provide for its fixed charges, which they will be unable to meet unless business improves.

The market to-day was active for Saturday, with sales of 89,359 shares. Room traders were bearish, and despite the fact that mack's brokers were sellers, and under the endership of New England declines of 1/4 to 11se were recorded on nearly all active stocks, evcepting Reading, which crosed 1/c higher. The bank statement showed an increase of $2,053,550 in the resulve and $7,500,000 in deposits and cacsed the shorts to cover before the close, and prices rallied slightly. GOVERNMENTS .- Government ponds were

A Kiss in the Dark. Chicago Journal: I have just heard a story about a Dutchman, a pretty young married woman and a kiss, which is amusing at least. It came near break ing up a boarding house, too. The affair occurred in a fashionable Cass street boarding house-one of those imposing structures that look like private residences, but are not. There sojourning in this particular caravansary, among the quests, a young married couple and a gentleman of Teutonic brogue and parentage. Somewhere in the back regions rooms a pretty servant girl, who is a general favorite with the boarders. One night our German friend met a lady on the stairs, and, promptly embracing her, pressed a passionateno, a Baby Bunting-kiss upon her lips. There was a shrick and a struggle. The landlady hastened to the spot. Lights were struck and the gentleman of German extraction was found holding fast to the pretty young wife. When the lights were struck he let go and put in a plea that he thought he had hold of the servant girl of engaging ways. There was a scusation, and it took the good laudiady half an hour to explain and pacify all parties. At last accounts all was serene—the husband content, the wife mollified and the kisser quiet. The only one not satisfied is the servant girl, who lost her place. The landlady said the evidence was against her.

SEIZED BY A SAURIAN.

A Brave Mother Rescues Her Child From a Terrible Death. An Apopka (Fla.) special to the St. Louis Globe says: A family named Lambert, living on LakeApopka, or Tsala lake, na it is called, report a very thrilling experience at their place the other day. The family is composed of Mr. and Mrs. Lambert and three children, two boys and a girl baby, the boys being eight and fifteen respectively,and the girl just able to toddle about. They moved here some two years ago and pre-empted a homestead on the south side of the lake. The house is built about two hundred yards from the lake and on a slight elevation, the land in front sloping down gradually to the water's edge. At the left, off some lit-tle distance, is an immense saw-grass pond. Near this Mr. Lambert built an inclosure for his pigs, one side facing the lake, and up to a month ago he had a magnificent lot of porkers. weeks since one night he heard a tremendous uproar in his hog pen and hurrying out with his shotgun and lantern, he was just and lantern, he was just in time to see one of his fine hogs disappearing in the lake in the mouth of a huge alligator while the scores of balls of fire see glimmering in the darkness on the lake showed the presence of others of the saurian's friends, for, to the average 'gator, fresh pork is a luxury he dearly craves. From that beginning, their inroads were kept up with great regularity, and though he killed a dozen or more, yet the pork was too nice for them to relinquish their feeding ground. Lately have grown so bold as to crawl into his yards in the day time, and the predatory raids of these marauders on his hogs and fowls have rendered Mr. Lambert's life a burden to him. Last Saturday afternoon Mrs. Lambert, who was in the back part of the house, was attracted by the screams of her little girl, and her frantic eries of "Mamal" "Mamal" Hurrying to the ront of the house, she could not at first locate the little one's where-abouts, but her piercing screams

tic mother soon discovered the flutter or her child's dress near the lake shore, the palmetto bushes nearly hiding her from view. Snatching up an ax from the woodpile she flew to the water's edge, and as she rounded the palmetto patch a sight burst upon her that nearly drove her crazy. On the edge of the bank, with its body half in the water, was a huge alligator, with its forepaws outstretched, raising it from the ground, while its tail lashed the water into foam. Just in front of it, and clinging to a palmetto root with its tiny hands, for dear life, was the little girl, her dress being held in the jaws of the 'gator, who was slowly dragging the child to a terrible doom. The 'gator's dull eyes gleamed with anger, like coals of fire, and when Mrs. Lambert appeared the monster uttered a hoarse bellow and started backward, tearing loose the child's slight hold. The latter's infantile features were drawn into an agonized appeal, and as the animal dragged her down she was too completely paralyzed to even cry out. The peril of her baby banished all fear from Mrs. Lambert, and she rushed up and struck the saurian over the head with the ax, and, seizing the child with both bands, tried to pull her away. The sharp blade cut into the alligator's eye, and, mad with the pain, he opened his jaws and half sprang at the woman. This left the child free, and they both fell backward. Mrs. Lambert said afterward that at this moment she never expected to save her life. As she fell the 'gator swung around his tail with a terrible-sounding whisk, but the fortunate fall of the two placed them outside its deadly sweep. The alligator advanced as last could, with unwieldy waddle, and Mrs. Lambert attempted to rise and escape. Her dress caught on a root, and before she could free herself the gator made a snap at her and missed, catching hold of her dress instead. Finding that it had secured something, it commenced backing toward the water, dragging along the prostrate woman, who now fully realized her peril, and filled the air with her cries for help. She frantically clutched at the roots as she was dragged over them, but her dress was of stout material, and the 'gator's strength

soon overcame her feeble resistance.

Suddenly, with a heavy sinking of the heart, she felt that her foot was in the water, and that, if no help came, she was doomed to a terrible death. The horror gave her strength for a moment and she made another frantic effort to free herself, but it was vain, and she felt herself being drawn into the water. Suddenly her hands, which were nervously clutching at any and everything that seemed to promise a support passed over the ax handle. With the swiftness of thought and with superhuman energy she seized the helve and scrambled up, how she cannot say. She managed to deal the 'gator a heavy blow with the blade. With rare good fortune it struck his other eye and crushed into the head. The maddened and wounded animal opened its jaws with a roar of pain and rage, and Mrs. Lamberts's dress slipped off its huge teeth. Scrambling up she seized her baby girl and fled wildly to the house, and fell on the porch in a dead faint. Her husband, on returning home at night, found her there unconscious, with the child patting her mother's cheeks and trying to arouse her. Doctors were at once summoned, but at last accounts the sorely tried mother was living over again her heroic fight in the fevers's delirium. The next day Mr. Lambert went to the lake and at the same spot found out the old 'gator lurking in the weeds. As footsteps were heard approaching, he came forth menancingly with a 44-catibre Winchester soon placed him hors de combat. The wounds in his head were deep and showed that the mother's arm was nerved to strike a terrible blow. The little child was not hurt, as the 'gators teeth caught in its dress. But the dresses of both the child and Mrs. Lambert showed the hard usage they were subjected to. This is one of the first cases reported here where a 'gator has attacked human beings.

ON DUTY TO STOP A MEETING.

Simply An Innocent Young Man Standing Between An Old Boozer and a Young Gambler.

Detroit Free Press: A policeman observed a young man hanging around the door of a well-known gambling house the other evening and felt it his duty to give the kid a little fatherly advice.

"Oh, I haven't been up there, and don't intend to go up." was the reply.
"But you are hanging around."

"Yes, but I'm on the watch. There's an old fellow drunk around the corner. There's a young fellow up-stairs who is going to marry the old fellow's daughter. Neither wants to be seen by the other, and I'm on duty here to prevent a meeting. If they get the old chap loaded into a coupe before the young one gets down it will be all right. If they don't I've got to be steer the young one somewhere else. See? I'm simply an innocent young man standing between an old boozer and a young gambler.1
