AMUSEMENTS.
"MR. SAMSON OF OMAHA."
 The new opera, "Mr. Sampson of Omaha," which has been written by Fred Nye, of this city, is being rehearsed with a great deal of interest and success. It is certainly worthy of the parties who have been instrumental in its creation and no less worthy of the city whose name it will place on many lips. Aside from the curiosity to see a home production, the merit of the work itself will commend it to all who enjoy the light opera of the period. The piece will be presented under the most favorable of social circumstances, the cast comprising nearly all the leading vocal talent to be found in the leading societies of the city. The opera will be produced at Boyd's three evenings and a matinee, commencing on the 31st inst.

To Develop Wyoming Oil.
 Mr. A. L. Gillespie, superintendent of the Rattlesnake Valley Oil and Mining company and the North Star Oil and Mining company of St. Paul and Stillwater, Minn., has been spending two days in Omaha arranging and purchasing goods and equipment for his company to ship to the Wyoming oil fields for the purpose of developing their oil lands at an early day. These two companies are solid institutions and backed by wealthy men, who go forth with the view of business in a practical way. Such institutions as these, with the ready cash in hand in ample quantities, are the best representation of a practical head as Mr. Gillespie possesses, mean business in that important field, and, further, it is quite a compliment to Omaha to say the least, that this market of supplies for the northwest is selected with such favor and not found wanting when her merchants were quoting figures on articles needed for the purpose of trade and it will continue to grow in great magnitude. Other parties will be here on similar missions, which speaks volumes.

District Court.

WANTS IT SOLD.
 Joe B. Hadfield asks that certain property upon which he holds a mortgage amounting to $545 given by Emma Gad, William S. Cook and the Nebraska Savings bank, be sold to defray the payment of the lien upon it.
