

THEY DIDN'T PLAY BASE BALL

A Miserable Exhibition on the Local Diamond Yesterday.

DES MOINES SHUTS OMAHA OUT.

A Very Cold Day for the Home Team and the Big Crowd in Attendance Realizes It Fully—Other Sports.

Des Moines 5, Omaha 0.

A detailed description of yesterday's game between Omaha and Des Moines would be a needless aggravation. It was simply rotten.

Still it would not be in good part, or consistent either, to jump on the home team and administer an excommunication.

An exhortation is a good thing in its place, as every school boy knows, but this is not just exactly the place.

Every good player and every good team has its off days, and yesterday was Omaha's off day—Omaha's awfully off day.

We were paralyzed. Our peerless battery, Lovett and Wilson, were unaccountably weak, and while the former was hit at will, the latter couldn't hold anything, and between the two they managed to pile up ten errors.

The balance of the team, so far as their playing was concerned, was up to their usual standard of excellence, but if Kennedy had not pitched street cars they couldn't have hit him.

The prohibitionists played their customary strong game, and won a decisive victory. The weather was raw and chilly, still despite the fact that there were fully 5,000 people on the grounds, among whom were more judges than ever attended any previous half dozen games ever played here.

The crowd, however, was unusually quiet one, however, for the cold water floods quickly mocked all of the enthusiasm out of them. Occasionally they would wake up and cheer, but there was little pleasure in witnessing the defeat of the home team, and the responding shouts which are always heard when the grit comes to the aid of the team, but there was little pleasure in witnessing the defeat of the home team, and the responding shouts which are always heard when the grit comes to the aid of the team.

But this is the way in which the avianch overtook us.

In the second inning Macauler, the first man at the bat, banged the piskin to the left for a pair of bags, and on Alford's out he made third and had a passed ball.

In the fourth Monkey Holliday hit a pass ball, and scored on Alford's drive to O'Connell, who pitched the ball all right, but nobody covered first and Alford was safe. Macauler was presented with a base by Lovett, and on Vandyske's safe hit, filled the bag.

Right here was the masterful play of the entire game—Lovett striking out the three batters, Kennedy, Sage and Stearns in succession.

In the fifth the visitors continued to smear it on.

Alford lined out a two bagger, and scored the next moment on a two base hit by a man who has dandled George Washington on his knee, old man Shafer, who also came in on the next hit, and scored on a muffed return of the ball to catch him at home.

In the sixth Kennedy hit safe to center, second score as a matter of course, and came back on the plate on a two base hit by Alford.

The prohibitionists had men on bases in every inning but the last, and the only wonder is that their score was not doubled.

Here is the score, read it and go lay down and die:

Western Association Standing. The following table shows the standing of the Western association teams up to and including yesterday's games:

Table with columns: Team, Played, Won, Lost, Pct. Rows for Des Moines, Omaha, Kansas City, St. Paul, St. Louis, and Chicago.

Kansas City is making a great second for Des Moines. Lovett, Burdick and Flynn will do the bulk of Omaha's pitching this year.

Sowers and Vian, two of last year's North-western typhoid stars, are starting the season with both the National league and American association to-day.

Sam Morton, of the Chicago, has his eye set longingly on Bryan, Duffy and Tebeau, and thinks they would fit the Maroons about right to cope with Omaha and Des Moines.

Manager Barnes, of the St. Pauls, has challenged Sullivan, Kilrain, Killen, Smith and Mitchell to a contest for the title of St. Louis piker. This is to prove that instead of being kicked like any common loafer out of a gentleman's office while here recently, he whipped the whole town.

Western League. Lincoln 12, Hutchinson 10. Lincoln, Neb., May 15.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—The last of the series of games between the Hutchinson and Lincoln teams was played to-day and won by the home club, their first victory since the opening of the Western league. The weather was cold and a stiff wind prevailed. The following is the score:

HE FOUND HIS CHILD.

Krusse Discovers the Whereabouts of His Little Girl.

A sensational story was recently printed about Mrs. August Krusse giving her oldest daughter, aged ten, to a reputed stranger from Ohio, who professed to educate and make a lady out of her. It was also hinted at the time that the woman was a black-hearted scoundrel who had gotten the girl for some purpose. It is now proven that the whole story is a fabric of falsehoods as the facts in the following late developments will show.

It is said that Mrs. Krusse and her husband have not had a very happy wedded life and at one time they parted. Meanwhile the girl went to live with her mother. Krusse finally induced his wife to come back to him, but it appears that she has been in love for some time with an engineer at Lincoln.

Whether an elopement was being planned with the engineer, or not, is not yet positively known. The strange girl at Lincoln is the daughter of one of his employees, and she is a stranger, as she stated. The stories she has since given of the affair have so contradicted the truthfulness of any of her statements, and through the aid of an attorney the husband instituted an investigation that led to the discovery of the girl at Lincoln.

The girl, who is now in the charge of the engineer, who passed her off as his daughter, Mr. Krusse left for Lincoln yesterday morning, but found considerable difficulty in getting the girl, the engineer, and finally had to call the sheriff to his aid. At last he secured possession of the child and returned home last evening a happy man.

Cats in Berlin.

The public cab of Berlin is a thing of unfathomable mystery to the man who has preconceived notions regarding cabs, says Hakeley Hall in a Berlin letter to the New York Sun.

It is analyzed and dogged experiment with masterful and sagacious inertia. In New York a man takes a cab because he wishes to flaunt his wealth in the public eye; in Chicago it indicates abject poverty and business cares; in Brooklyn it is put down as a mark of eccentricity; in London a handsome man takes a cab because there is less danger of being run over by fifteen or twenty of them when one is inside a big one and holding fast with both hands. Why Berlin cabs never ever born and have their being can never be known. They are too heavy, too low, too narrow, too slow, too dirty, too rickety and too vacillating for comfort or expediency. They can stand in one place for hours without attracting attention for any other thing on earth.

There are two breeds of the Berlin cab, the dead and the comatose. The driver is the only man in Germany who has no social status. He is socially abhorred that natives of Berlin never patronize him. If they are weary, they sit down in a beer garden and rest. If they are in a hurry, they board a car or sit down in another beer garden and wait with Teutonic placidity till it is too late to be in a hurry. They never take a cab. The cabman looks as though he felt his degradation. He is monstrously unclean when he is awake, but he sleeps with such steadfast enthusiasm that his uncleanliness is not apparent. The average cab driver appears as a cabman briskly, and after poking him violently in the ribs, cries: "Take me to Charlottenburg, quick!"

The cabman opens his eyes and stares heavily while his assailant repeats the demand four times. Then the cabman slowly lights his pipe, after borrowing a match from his prospective fare, and loses himself in thought. Finally he says: "It is five miles away."

He looks at his horse and shakes his head. The stranger shrugs his misgivings, for the horse is a moving sight. A long silence ensues, during which the man who is in a hurry looks at his watch many times. Finally the driver shows signs of returning consciousness.

The Boisterous Atlantic is a terror to timid voyagers, scarcely less on account of the perils of the deep than the almost certainty of sea sickness. The best curative of mal de mer is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which settles the stomach and prevents all sea sickness. To all travelers and tourists, whether by sea or land, it presents a happy medium between the nauseous or ineffectual resources of the medicine chest, and the problematical benefits derivable from oranges and other alcoholic stimulants, no matter how pure. The jarring of a railroad car often produces stomachic disorders akin to that caused by the rolling of a ship. For this the Bitters is a prompt and certain remedy. The use of brackish water, long and short voyages in the tropics, inevitably breeds disorders of the stomach and bowels. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters mixed with pure water nullifies its impurities. Similarly it counteracts malarial and other periodic influences, and the climate of a malarial atmosphere, as well as the effects of exposure and fatigue. Use it for kidney complaints, rheumatism and debility.

A Wonderful Cave. A Truly (W. T.) special to the St. Louis Republic. In a cave, G. Fuller, of this place, dug the biggest well in his premises that has ever been dug in this county, and did it in less time than has been consumed in digging any other well near the salt district. His men have excavated a few feet when the bottom suddenly fell out of the well at a time, fortunately, when all the men were in places of safety. There was left in the bottom of the well a broad hole, leading into utter darkness, apparently of enormous depth. In a short time an exploring party was formed, ropes and windlasses were procured and several men were lowered to the bottom. It was found that the well led into a cave, whose bottom was about forty feet below the level of the surface. The cave was lit with torches and lanterns and found to be about a mile long. It extends under a lake but is entirely dry, no water whatever having been found. A number of stone columns and some fine stalactites and stalagmites were found with fossil formations, and in English, the geologist, who subsequently descended, found two very fine specimens. William Payne also found a number of fern formations. A party from Syracuse is to explore the cave to-day.
