James E. Whetstone and Dilla Bressman, both of this county, were yesterday united in marriage at the office of 'Squire Schurz. M. McKenzie yesterday shipped forty-eight head of fine cattle to Omaha, and Eugene Stupfell, of Hardin township, sent over twenty-four head for J. M. Frazier.

J. R. McPherson, the well known dealer and grower of vegetables and fruits, has a large lot of nice yellow Jersey and Sansamond sweet potato plants, which he will sell very reasonable.

Squire Schurz yesterday rendered his decision in the Hill arson case. He has had the matter under advisement for several days, and decided to bind the defendant over to the grand jury in the sum of $300. The work of picking up some of the rub bish about the court house has commenced. It is hoped that the grading and sodding will soon follow, and the grounds thus be made somewhat in keeping with the beauty of the

It is understood Mr. Merriam is finding no difficulty in securing tenants for his building, even before the foundation is laid. It is now thought that he will make it at least three stories in height, and there is a propability of the commercial college and the Y. M. C. A. occuping the west of the third floor. The location being so central it seems that four stories would prove a pro fitable investment.

Next Sunday the Germania society will have a great gathering, the occasion being the presentation of a flag by the ladies. The gathering will be at Bock's garden. Several societies from other places are expected to be here. A programme of exercises and other details will be made public later. Ar rangements are being made to provide for the visitors, who with the ladies, will probably number several hundred.

The plate glass for the government building is arriving. Two cases, containing 1,400 pounds each, came yesterday, and not a light was broken. The glass is heavy plate, a quarter of an inch thick, and is as clear as crystal. Glaziers have already begun work setting it, and the work will be pushed to completion. In about ten days the windows will be in place and the building will then assume a different aspect. The grounds are being sodded, and the improvement is very Broke an Ankle.

Daniel Kavanaugh, of Mills county, arrived here on a mixed train yesterday afternoon. He was in such a hurry to get up town that he did not wait for the train to fairly stop, but jumping off took a tumble, which resulted quite seriously. His chief injury was to one of his ankles. He was taken to Dr. Planey's office and there cared for.

The School Board.

The regular monthly meeting of the school board was held last evening. The usual routine business was transacted and bills al lowed. The resignation of Miss Manguer was accepted, and several appointments of teachers made permanent. The janitor of the Hill school was discharged and the com-mittee on janitors instructed to fill the vacance.

The C. B. & Q. will run a special train to accommodate the democrats, their friends and the general public, who desire to attend the National Democratic convention at St. Louis, June 5, or the Derby races June 4. This train will leave Council Binffs Sunday, June 8, about 1 o'clock p. m., (exact time given later) arriving at St. Louis in the morning for breakfast. It will be finely equipped throughout with chair and one fare for the round trip. M. M. Marshall, general agent.

Saloonists Squeezed By Lawyers, the City and Prohibitionists.

A PEEP AT THE RACE STABLES.

A Demented Old Man-Bowman's Burglar Goes Weeping Behind the Bars-The Police Find a Few Offenders.

Squeezing the Saloons.

The saloonists are slowly dropping into the city clerk's office to pay the fine inflicted by the mayor. Thirty-two have thus far made the necessary deposit, six of them paying $50 each. One of these, however, was for two months, as the party did not wish to keep open after 11 o'clock. The order in regard to closing Sunday was only partially obeyed, as the majority of the saloons did considerable business on that day. The crowd that kept pouring in and out of the back doors was about the same that usually enters by the front doors, and many of the saloons were as brilliantly lighted during the evening as on week days. The police reported all the places closed, but the statement was far from true. It seems to be the intention of the saloon men to yield a partial obedience as far as front doors are concerned for a while at least, with the hope that the matter will blow over in a short time, and then run as openly as ever. The mayor says, "They seem to be paying up pretty weil, and will probably all come to time in a day or two." He claims that the matter is now out of He claims that the matter is now out of his hands, and throws the responsibility of enforcing his orders on Judge Aylesworth. Said he yesterday, "What I am after is their money, and I must have it. If they won't pay it they will be closed up after awhile, but I want to give them a chance." The fact is that the mayor rather has the odds against the salon men as they are doing business. the saloon men as they are doing business unlawfully, and he has made up his mind to follow the example of several of the lawyers and bleed them for a neat little sum each month, and they must pay it or shut up shop. "Prohibition does not prohibit," nevertheless the road is getting very rocky for the liquor dealers. The laywers say to them, "Give me $25 a month or I will file an information against you, and out, you go." They sadly pay it. The mayor then steps up and says, against you, and out, you go." They sadly pay it. The mayor then steps up and says, "Walk up to the city clerk's office every menth and deposit $25 or $50, or I will turn loose my police force after you and freeze you out." They kick, but have to comply. The temperance alliance folks then enter the ring and say, "You must shut up anyway, or we will prosecute." Then comes the fight, and by the time the saloonist has bought off witnesses, dedged injunctions and steered witnesses, dodged injunctions and steered clear of one enemy he runs slap against a new one, and comes to the conclusion that the man who wants "snaps" and "picnics" must keep out of the liquor business in Council Bluffs.

St. Louis Convention.

The Young Men's Democratic club, of Council Bluffs, has selected the "Wabash" route for attending the national democrotic convention, held in St. Louis June 5.

A special train of elegant day coaches and Pullman palace sleeping cars will leave Council Bluffs at 7:30 p. m. June 3d, arriving in St. Louis the following morning. Picked Up By the Police. The Monday morning grist in police court was rather light, but this result cannot be attributed to the closing of the saloons on Sunday. There was evidently no trouble in obtaining the fiery tarantula juice and several were rounded up by the blue coated minions of the law to answer for it to the court, J. J. Kittelle, a horny-handed soil-tiller of this great prohibition state, had come to the Bluffs to surprise his stomach, and succeeded. Judge Aylesworth then got his work in, and surprised Kittelle's pocket to the tune of $8.00 for a ride in the city's public coach and a night in the bastile.

John Jack was bled for the same amount for a similar experience. F. C. Kissel was given a little more time before being pulled in, and had improved his opportunities by spreading the carmine in very wide stripes. For his extra fun he was held up for $10.10.

Jim McAuley, a drunk, and James Harbosh, a vag, were discharged.

At the Driving Park.

Although the running meeting is over, the stables at the driving park are by no means deserted. Several stables of the runners have gone, but the trotters all remain, and the work of training for the July meeting has begun in good earnest. A. E. Davis and W. J. Weidener have shipped their stables to St. Louis, and J. F. Davis and W. J. Scoles will follow. E. G. Marlow and W. B Harriman have shipped home in the north-ern part of the state to train a little more before starting out again. J. C. Crall's and F. P. Porter's stables are already in fine con-dition and will enter immediately on the season's campaign. Some of the horses will remain here and train for the Omaha meeting, and others will soon start out to take in the Kansas circuit, and then return later to go to Chicago. Good work may now be seen on the track almost any morning. The on the track almost any morning. The entries for the July meeting close on the 11th of next month, and a large number of lively steppers are already booked for that event.

We would be pleased to know of a man or woman who has never had headache or been subject to constipation. As these seem to be universal troubles a little advice may seem in order. Why should persons cram their stomachs with nauseating purgative pills, etc., which sick-en and debilitate when such a plensant and sterling remedy as Prickly Ash Bitters will act mildly and effectively on the liver, kidney-stomach and bow-els, and at the same time tone up and strengthen the whole system; causing headache, constipation and all such distressing evils to quickly disappear.

A Cave in California. The opening to this wonderful cave or caves, says the San Francisco Call, lies about two miles from the road leading from Adkin to Linkville and southern Oregon, and some sixty miles from the former place. It is in Modoc county, and about fifteen miles from the famous lava beds where General Canby was so treacherously murdered by the Modoc Indians. Mr. Spalding lives some two miles from the entrance to the caves, and was one of the first discoverers, be ing attracted to the spot by seeing steam arising from the opening. This was during the last winter. Unlike the lava beds, the country here is covered with soil that produces feed for cattle, and also a straggling growth of juniper trees. The opening, as described, is in a slight depression, and presents the appearance [of an exaggerated badgerhole, just large enough to admit a man. From the opening the descent is a grad-ual incline for a number of feet, when suddenly it emerges into a wide passage or passages—for a number diverge from this point, and the explorer can choose his own course, the two exploring parties thus far having taken different courses. Mr. Spaulding's party con-sisted of three persons, and they walked in apparently one direction five hours by the watch before retracing their steps, and were apparently as far from the end as when they entered.

For a distance the floor is dry, but forther in it becomes muddy, a soft adobe clay covering the floor, which is smooth, solid rock. The floor of the cave seemed to be nearly level, while the roof in many places reached far above their heads, while at other places it came so near the floor that they were obliged to crawl on hands and knees. Much of the roof is thickly studded with stalactities. At short intervals all along the route taken by the explorers openings to other galleries were seen. The atmosphere is oppressively warm, and not a single current of air was met with to disturb the burning of the can-dles, which are a necessity to aid in penetrating the darkness of the place. Not an instance of animal life was met with, although numerous tracks were seen in the mud, some of which were large enough to have been made by the California lion. The conclusion arrived at by the explorers was that there was perhaps a number of openings at which the animals entered. About a half mile from the entrance a pool of water, as clear as crystal and as cold as ice, was encountered. Near this pool evi-dences of a number of campfires were seen, showing conclusively that the indians at some time had visited this place. At one place a curious pyramidal-shaped hillock was encountered, iso-lated from its surrounded by an open passage around and over it. The little pyramid is about fifteen feet high and and perhaps thirty feet through at the base. One agreeable feature of the exploration of this cave is that no drop-ping of water from the roof is met with. From the above it is evident that there underlies this wonderful section a laby-rinth of caves and passages which will take time and patience to explore and which when fully explored may add much to ethnology and other sciences. Don't Hawk, Spit.
