A number of Burlington ex.engineers and firemen were present out of courtesy and fellowship. Various rumors that have been afloat for a few days past to the effect that the feeling against the Burlington was to be revived was discounted.

The groom looked very handsome in the conventional suit of black. After the extending the guests repaired to a fine wine support in the basement, where the time was passed in a jolly manner. A long programme of dances followed.

text of a sermon adapted to the anniversary which takes place on next Wednesday.

Mr. Foster delivered a very entertaining address, and among other things held that while there was a great deal that was commendable in remembering, by the decoration of their graves, the heroes who had passed away, at the same time the heroes who were still in life should not be forgetten. He favored the drawing up in line, on the High school grounds, of soldiers who had fought for the union, decorating their breasts with as fine bouquets as could be secured, and then allowing to take par later in the decoration of the graves of their deceased brothers.
