DES MOINES, Ia., May 28 .- [Special Tele gram to THE BEE.]-About 1,000 persons witnessed the game at Athletic park to-day between the Kansas City and the home team The grounds were rather heavy for good play ing and numerous errors were made, some inexcusable ones, notably a wild throw by Wells to Stearns after two men were out in the first inning, allowing Kansas City to score two runs. In the third inning Holliday knocked the ball over the left garden fence chasing Quinn and Shafer around the bases In the fifth inning Des Moines also got three scores, which gave them a safe lead of seven to two against the visitors and everyone looked for an easy victory, but Kansas Cit, secured three runs in the seventh and two in the eighth which tied the game. Neither succeeded in scoring again until the thir senth when Des Moines crossed the plate wice and Kansas City once, which ended the game. In the thirteenth inning Johnson and Wells, third baseman and catcher respect ively of the visitors, collided in trying to capture a foul fly. The claret flew from both player's noses and Wells was compelled to retire, being reheved by Gunson. The

MINNEAPOLIS, May 28.-[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]-The home team and St. Paul to-day played off the tie game of last week and the apostles won easily. With three pitchers available, Manager Gooding put young Nicholson in the box again to-day, being his third game in five days, including the fifteen-inning game, and his second in succession. The result was very naturally disastrous to the home team, as the visitors had little trouble in finding the ball. Young Sowders did not exert himself, but nitched a very fair game. Umpire Hagan again distinguished himself by having a spectator ejected from the grounds for taking exceptions to one of his decisions in a manner more forcible than polite. The score:

far as could be learned there were no fatalition. WHEELING, W. Va., May 28 .- A terrible thunder storm, with a gale of wind, hail and an almost unprecedented rainfall prevailed here and for 150 niles down the river this afternoon. At Bridgeport, over the river, a six year old son of Joseph Taylor was caught by the swelling stream and drowned. The tent of Clement & Russell's circus on Wheeling island was almost demolished, and no show was given. At Ravenswood, Jackson county hail stones weighing four ounces feil, many windows were broken and fruit trees badly damaged. Near Charleston Robert Shannon was struck by a tree which was blown down and his neck broken. At Stevensville, oppo-site Ravenswood, Mrs. William Powell was killed by a stroke of lightning while sitting in her house. The Ohioriver train from here to Parkersburg had every pane of glass proken by the hail.

MORENCI, Mich., May 28 - A heavy thun-der storm swept over this end of Lawrence county last night, and it was accompanied by a cyclone some miles northwest of here, Fences were torn down, eight buildings wrecked, roofs uprooted and great damage done. It was one of the severest storms ever experienced in this section.

TITUSVILLE, Pa., May 28.—A cyclone which struck this city at 2:30 this afternoon was accompanied by a cloud burst which deluged the place. Whole avenues of trees were blown down, smoke stacks and chimneys demolished, outhouses and barns lifted into the air and smashed to atoms. There was general destruction to all property exposed to the fury of the storm. All com-munication with the surrounding country is out off. CLEVELAND, May 28 .- A terrific wind storm passed over eastern Ohio and western Pennsylvania this afternoon. At Canton, O., buildings were unroofed, fences blown down and trees snapped off like pipe stems. It was the worst storm ever known in Canton. That of the smaller and more emaciated of the morning Robert McNutt, of South Des Moines, found the hail so deep in his yard that when he ran a common sized shovel two was found to be 105 degrees, an increase of two and a half degrees over the showing made on Friday. Where Were the Pyramids Built?

The answer to this question, says the Trade's Supply News, is beyond modern conjecture, so imperfect is our understanding of the extent of the mechanical knowledge of the ancients. Their appliances are believed to have been of the simplest order, and the implements exceedingly crude, and yet they were able to convey these enormous blocks of stone for vast distances over routes most difficult; and, having accomplished this, to raise them to a great height, and fit them in place without the aid of either cement or mortar to cover up the errors of the stonecutter. How all this was done is one of the enigmas of modern science. It has been generally believed that inclined planes of earth were used to en-able the workmen to raise the huge stones to their places, the earth being cleared away afterward. But it is possible that the ancients had a more extended knowledge of mechanical powers than we usually give them credit for, and that they made use of the machinery very like that employed by moderns for lifting great weights. Large cavities are found in some of the stones in the pyramids which may have been worn by the foot of a derrick turning in them. That there were enormous numbers of men employed in the building of these ancient structures is well known. These results of their great aggregated strength we see, but they left no record of the means by which

The origin of the expression "bloody hirt" is said by a correspondent to be from a Corsican custom, now nearly obsolete. In the days of the fierce "vendetta" bloodshed was a common occurrence. Before the burial of a murdered man the "gridata" was celebrated. "Gridata," crying around. Let us trans-late it a "wake." The body of the murdered man was laid upon a plank, then

CHICAGO PRODUCE MARKET.

CHICAGO, May 28 .- [Special Telegram to The BEE. |-Wheat traders spont most of the morning session waiting for supply figures, and when they came there was not enough surprise in them to cause much movement either way. The decrease of 1,360,000 bushels was not so much as the bulls hoped for, but was rather more than the bears predicted, and so there was no encouragement in it for either party. Estimates had varied widely because of the uncertainty regarding the amount on the lakes, and then about the opening of navigation each year, and for a few weeks afterwards, wheat disappears and reappears in a manner which puzzles all but the official recorders. Duluth showed another large decrease, but this was not as significant as the fact noted by the friends of wheat that the four principal primary winter wheat markets of Toledo Detroit, St. Louis and Kansas City have now in store in the aggregate but 1,855.000 bushels of wheat. They claim that farmers who are still holding their winter wheat are those who are able to carry it, and they will do so unless there is a very considerable advance in prices. In view of this and of the small reserve in farmers' hands anyway, these small stocks in winter wheat markets are thought to be very significant. Chicago increased her stock of winter wheat during the week 23,382 bushels. Trade was in small volume 20,352 busiels. Trade was in small volume during the early part of the session, while traders were waiting for the visible supply figures which came more slowly than usual. The opening was 4(@%c higher than Satur-day's closing on the natural reaction from the sharp break of that day, but the disposi-tion of the local crowd was rather hearing the shalp break of that day, but the disposi-tion of the local crowd was rather bearish. There was nothing new to stimu-late prices, and upon this absence the bears counted for sagging the market. However, the downward tendency was not marked and at one time, when the returns seemed to indicate a large decrease in the visible, there was an advance in July wheat of %@%c from the lowest point touched, but of 3_{3}^{10} (3_{3}^{10}) cross that he lowest point touched, but this was all lost later and the close was at the bottom price of the session. July wheat opened at 87c, sold during the early trading at 86% (3_{3}^{10}), then dropped to 86% c, ad-vanced to 87c, fell to 86% c, then advanced to 873 (3_{3}^{10}), and gradually declined to 86% c, which was the price at the 1 o'clock close. which was the price at the 1 o'clock close. much to the surprise of a number of traders who reckoned upon the extraordinary large receipts to depress prices. The receipts were 1,257 cars against Saturday's estimate of 950 cars. Of these receipts 954 cars were of contract grades, nevertheless the price advanced. A large part of these re-ceipts did not come on the cash market ccipts did not come on the cash market and there were two explanations offered for this circumstance. One was that they were delivered on old contracts for May; another that they were controlled largely by parties who rushed them in just at this time, and who proposed by that means to break the market so that they could profitably cover their May sales and sell June or July against this grain, and thus make, something in carthis grain, and thus make something in car rying charges or, if that plan failed, deliver the grain about the last day of the month. For such spot grain as was offered there wa an excellent demand. The bull point was that the wet weather would prevent shipping and loading to the extent that that has prevailed for the past few days, and that a falling off in receipts might be expected. However, the estimate is for 1,123 cars for to-morrow, but the correctness of this estimate was by some who lisputed

Street Auction.

The two "pluggers" who feed from the receipts of one Rothschlinder, who conducts a snide jewelry auction house on South Tenth street, had a job of slugging on their hands last night and the fellow who wears : checkered suit of a similar pattern to that worn by convicts presented himself as the principal pugilist. The main guy of the es tablishment mounted on his high platform was giving vent to his lung power in raising the price of a $2.50 watch to $20, through the sham bids of the "pluggers," and occasionally deploring inwardly the fact that it was a bad night for suckers. Finally an unfortunate, whose mental and physical powers wer stultified by liquor, strayed in and looked in wonderment at what was going on. In him the "pluggers" thought they had a victim, and when he refused to tumble to their oily representations they attacked him most shamefully. The fellow who wears the prison coat of arms kicked and beat the way. farer frightfully. Cries of police failed to bring "the finest" to the scene, and the "plugger" made good his escape.

Bartholdi's Great Work.

The statue of Liberty enlightening the world, which stands on Bedloe Island, in the harbor of New York, is one of the most sublime artistic conceptions of modern times. The torch of the goddess lights the nations of the earth to peace, prosperity and progress, through Liberty. But "liberty" is an empty word to the thousands of poor women enslaved by physical aliments a hundred fold more tyrannical than any Nero, To such sufferers Dr. Pierce Favorite Prescription holds forth the promise of a speedy cure. It is a specific in all those derangements, irregularities and weaknesses which make life a burden to so many women. A False Report Denied.

MASON CITY, Ia., May 28.-[Special Tele gram to THE BEE.]-The report that John B. Cleiland has forwarded to the governor his resignation as judge of the Twelfth judicial district is untruthful. He received and is now entertaining a proposition to go into the banking business at Fargo, but he has taker no action whatever in the matter. Should he withdraw his successor would probably be John C. Sherwin, of Cerro Gordon county.

A Model's Romance.

The artists say it is almost impossible to get beautiful female models, says a New York letter. There is a romantic story told of a wealthy young artist who advertised for a model, naming a high price; scores of women came, among them a woman who wore a mask when she posed for him. She was absolutely perfect, so he engaged her and painted a picture of her that made him famous He never saw her face. Some years afterwards he met a beautiful gir living with an invalid mother in Venice. He wooed her and they became engaged. One night she fainted, and he, in loosening the throat of her gown discovered on her neck a little dark mark he remembered seeing on the throat of his beautiful model. He told her of it, and she confessed. Her mother had met with reverses, was ill, and they were in desperate want. She could not leave her long enough to work all day. She saw his advertisement and answered it. Soon after that a relative left them enough property to live abroad comfortably. Of course, he loved her all the more, etc. If this murdered man, armed to the teeth, stood around, mad with thirst for ro venge. One of the women-the wife, or mother, or sister of the murdered man-with a yell would snatch the bloody shirt, and, waving it aloft, begin the "vocero" (lamentation howl). The rythmic howling was made up of expressions of love for the dead and liternate howls of hatred of his enemies, and its startling images and tremendous curses were echoed in the faces and mutterings of the armed mourners. By transition the phrase "bloody shirt" was applied to the
