

THE CITY.

The trial of William Johnson, the assailant of little Frank Meeker, was crowded over till Monday. He said he had a brother here, and was turned over to the latter, who is a hack driver. Charles Anderson, who was arrested for stealing the horse of S. J. Burgstrom, waived a preliminary examination and was held to the district court in the sum of $1,000. Not being able to give the surety he went to the county jail. J. G. Giles, of Council Bluffs, wants to know the whereabouts of a fly-bitten gray horse and a top buggy. Said rig was hired by a club-footed man named Brown and did not return at the expected time. Samuel Crowley, captain of engine house No. 4, was anxiously seeking his lost son last night. The child is between three and four years old, with hair cut short. He wore a white straw hat and a blue dress. His name is Jimmie. Justice Anderson entered up three judgments against the Truth Printing and Publishing company yesterday as follows: In favor of the Western Union Newspaper union, $94.60; for the Carpenter company, $20.00; for James W. Everts, for lumber, $78.20. Dr. Lamm, pastor of the First Baptist church, will begin on Sunday night next a series of sermons on subjects of great interest to everybody. The first on next Sunday night will be "Capital and Labor." To be followed by "The Sunday Question." Was the man who created the Only Pair Created? "Shall Woman be Ordained to Preach?" "Where Do Infidels and Skeptics Get Their Morality?"

Railroad Men in New Business. Thomas L. Kimball, Charles J. Smith, Orris Young, J. M. Thurston and T. M. Orr gave notice to the county clerk yesterday that they had associated themselves together for the purpose of buying and selling real estate. The principal place of business will be in Omaha, and the capital stock is placed at $50,000. Take Down Those Signs. A great many persons have complied with the requirements specified, but a great many more have utterly ignored them. On next Monday the commissioners will commence to arrest all such offenders. BOUNCING THE SQUATTERS.

Formal Ejection of Encroachers on Byron Reed's Property. Deputy Sheriff George Stryker, armed with eleven orders in ejection secured from the district court by Byron Reed several days ago, yesterday went down to the bottoms to serve the papers on the unfortunate squatters and was received with considerable opposition and resistance. He, fortunately, was accompanied by two policemen from the regular force and their presence had a tendency to keep down the ruffled tempers of the residents. Mr. Stryker came in contact with awful sights of poverty and squalor, and the rickety constructed huts were unkempt and filthy. As the majority of the squatters agreed to leave the premises within a period of from five to ten days they were not interfered with, but one Frank Toucher insisted upon combating the mandates of the court and barred the door of his shanty against the officers. After a lively struggle, in which clubs and other missiles were hurled at the officers, they succeeded in razing the Toucher shanty to the ground and leaving the family without a roof to cover them. These severe means it is alleged were necessary and if the other squatters do not leave within the time stipulated they will be treated in a like manner.

Mr. Vroman was immediately notified of the action taken in reference to requesting the Union Pacific to prohibit the scab crews of the Burlington from drawing cars over the bridge, and he gave his full accord and sympathy in the matter. He expressed his warm regard for the city over to-day and to-morrow, and from here will proceed to Chicago on business relating to the order he represents. Last evening a box reporter met Mr. Vroman, and in answer to several questions he replied that in his opinion the demands made on the Union Pacific railroad were not out of place, and that they would be carried out to the letter. A DESPERATE FIGHT AT CARDS.

Charley Hansen of Omaha Kills Two Men and Wounds a Third. A letter from Peter Nolan, of Fargo, D. T., tells of a desperate fight witnessed by him in which Charley Hansen, formerly of Omaha, killed two antagonists and fatally wounded another, but received wounds himself from which he cannot recover. Charley was foreman of a gang of workmen on the Manitoba railroad and he and three of the men in his charge were accustomed to put in their spare time gambling. Things went along smoothly until a few days ago, while engaged in their usual pastime, a dispute arose. There was a big jackpot, and one of the men opened it with $10. Hansen alone staying after the drawing. The first man guessed and Hansen bet $40. He took the money, but the first fellow claimed Hansen did not have opened and wanted him to "put up." Hansen refused and all three of the other players arose and pulled their revolvers. Hansen, who is as quick as a cat, jerked out his seven shooter and two flashes in, it dropped the two of his antagonists dead at his feet. The third man sprung upon him and attempted to down him when a desperate struggle ensued. Both fell to the ground, but in a second they loosened their grips and jumped to their feet. Both then fired at the same instant, and both fell to the ground. Hansen raised himself on his elbow and emptied his revolver in his antagonist's body. None of these shots took fatal effect, and it is thought that the third man will possibly recover. Hansen is now lying in the hospital, and it is thought his days are numbered.
