A Declining Day in Wheat July Suffering Most.

CORN DULL AND UNINTERESTING

A Light Business in Oats With Fluctuations Following Corn-Provisions Quiet-Cattle and Hogs Strong-General Quotations.

CHICAGO PRODUCE MARKET.

Chicago, June 2 .- [Special Telegram to THE BEE.]-As compared with the closing prices of last night July wheat lost 1%c, August wheat Mc, and December wheat Mc. As will be seen the decline in the July future was out of all proportion to the others. This disproportionate decline, however, was only a readjustment of the relative prices of different futures which had, through a combination of circumstances, become greatly disturbed. At one time yesterday July wheat was at a premium of nearly 2c over August, and even a slight premium over December. It was this, more than anything else, which gave rise to all the talk of a July corner, which the course of the market to-day seems to prove to have been without foundation in fact. An explanation which does not involve manipulation may very readily be found for this peculiar condition of things. An enormous amount of short wheat had been sold for July, and much of it at prices which did not permit sellers to get out even within the past few weeks. Much of this was, of course, covered outright by purchases of July, but much more of it, and in this description may be included nearly all foreign short wheat, was transferred to later months. The effect, of course, was to advance the July delivery and depress later deliveries. To day there was a large amount of selling of July and and buying of August by traders who saw that prices must sometime be equalized and that there would then be a profit in the transthat there would then be a profit in the trans-action. Among those traders were the brokers of Cudahy and Linn, the lead-ers of the bull party, although it was thought that they sold much more than they bought. Ream and Hutchinson were large sellers and Jones, Kennett & Hopkins were probably the largest sellers of all. The market showed some strength and advanced a little early in the session, but from the time that the crowd saw that the bull leaders were really selling large quantities of grain and were simply offering it for effect, the market became weak and declined by spurts, dropping a little lower after each reaction. dropping a little lower after each reaction.
July wheat opened at 864c, sold up early to 803c, then dropped with frequent reactions of 4c to 844c, advanced to 85c, fell to 844c again and closed at 844c. December wheat opened at 864c, sold to 865c, then down to 854c and closed at 854c. Not much news was received and the little that was, was apparently without effect upon the market.
The most interesting was a report of the recent destroyers of wheat in southern Indiana.

There was but little of interest in the speculative corn market. Fluctuations were within a range of %c, the opening being at near the highest and the close at the lowest price of the day. Trade was not large, and was chiefly local. Hutchinson was the only considerable seller, but the wheat market was closely watched by corn traders, and the weakness in wheat had its influence in the corn-pit. The receipts were sixty cars under the estimate, but the estimate for Monday was thought to be liberal, and did not encourage buying. July corn opened at 50½c, sold up early to 50½c, declined to 55%6 55%c, advanced to 56c, declined to and sold up early to 50%, declined to 55%, object, advanced to 55% obelined to and closed at 55%. September corn opened at 55% c, sold at 55% c, down to 55% @55% c, and closed at 55% c.

There was light business in the speculative out market, with fluctuations following the course of prices. Corn strong early, bu declining later in the session. July oats opened at 34¼c, sold at 34½c, down to and closing at 33½c; June oats sold down from 34) c to 33% c, August oats from 29c to 28% c and September oats sold at 27% c.

In provisions the week closed in a quiet manner. The duliness lately prevailing was even more than continued to day, and in the general trade a featurcless, as well as char acteriess, condition of affairs existed. product, however, was well supported product, however, was well supported, and for lard prices were advanced fully 5c. Pork was unchanged, while short ribs were un

Chicago, June 2 .- | Special Telegram to THE BEE. !- CATTLE-Only a few native beef cattle were on the market to-day, and they sold at fully former rates. Values were nominally strong. Perhaps the late advance will induce heavy receipts next week, but the demand is good, and the market this week has advanced 25@10c; beeves, good to choice, $4.65@5.00; common to fair, $4.10@4.50; cows and mixed, $1.80@3.65; stockers and feeders, Texas steers, $2.80@4.00; cows, $2.25@2.50; bulls, $2.00@2.25. Hous-Business is botter with an up turn of about a nickel all around.

FINANCIAL.

NEW YORK, June 2 .- [Special Telegram to THE BEE. [- STOCKS-A duller or more uninteresting week than the one just closed has seldom been witnessed in the stock market, Transactions were below the average and confined chiefly to five properties, Reading, St. Paul, Missouri Pacific, Union Pacific and New England, the transactions in which constituted over three-quarters of the total business. London cut less figure in the market than for some weeks past, and transactions for foreign accounts were mainly of of an arbitrary character. The feeling among the majority of room traders who controlled the market was bearish, and the small quantity of news that came in from the outside favored that side. Reports of reduced rates in the west and the difficulty that has beset the granger roads in their endeavors to maintain even fair living rates, tended to create distrust and at times brought out considerable long stock held by weak and disgusted holders. But despite all discouraging features the declines were small, slightly exceeding 3 points. There appears to be a general equalization in values

Stocks that have paid 6 and 7 per cent for years, but whose earnings have for months past been on the retrogade at such a rate that made it almost impossible for them to continue paying fair dividends, and in some instrances, particularly St. Paul and Rock Island stock, was sold down on rumors that dividends would be reduced. St. Paul common has paid 5 per cent for years, and preferred 7. The latter sells at 108 and the former at 66. Northwestern common pays 6 and sells at 108%, or % above St. Paul preferred, which pays 1 per cent more and 43 points above St. Paul common, when the difference in dividends is only 1 per cent. This irreguality is only explainable by the fact that St. Paul has built a large amount of new road within a year past and issued new bonds so freely that its fixed charges have increased faster than its earning capacity. Much disappointment is expressed by Reading stockholders in the issuance of 5 per cent income bonds, which increases the fixed charges ahead of the stock to an amount which renders it almost certain that the company will not be able to earn a dividend on the stock. The fixed charges, including interest on three classes of 5 per cent bonds, amount to $11,400,000, and the most sanguine estimates place the net earnings this year at but little over $11,000,000, and this estimate. it is not probable, will be realized, for the condition of all branches of trade, especially and necessarily coal, is growing worse rather than better. The stock of the company, therefore, has lost many friends. The market to-day was dull, total sales being only 51,281 shares, including 11,400 Union Pacific, 9,000 shares Reading, 6,700 Lake Shore, 4,000 Missouri Pacific, 3,000 New England. The feature of trading was the life and strength in Union Pacific, which advanced 15c on a reported increase of April carnings of $197,050. The bears made an attempt to force prices down on reports that Gould was too seriously ill to continue his western trip. The reports were too conflicting, however, for the majority of traders to believe, and it had little effect, and the stock advanced 14c, but later broke %c. The strength in Union Pacific helped the rest of the market and slight advances were recorded, but at the close the changes from yesterday were unimportant. The bank statement showed a decrease in the reserve of $2,578,875, an increase deposits of $2,726,500. It had no effect on the market, however. The changes for the week are, with a few exceptions, insinifi cant, the most important being the loss of 31 on Missouri Pacific, 136 on New England, 25 Rock Island, 1 on St. Paul, and 71s on Read ing. The gains were 1%c on cotton oils, 1/2 on Northwestern, % on Union Pacific.

GOVERNMENTS-Government bonds were

OMAHA LIVE STOCK. Cattle.

Saturday, June 1, 1888. There were fifty fresh loads of cattle at the yards to-day. The market opened active with choice fat beeves in demand and about all the offerings were taken before the close. Prices advanced about 5c on tidy fat cattle. Cattle weighed between 1,000 and 1,500 pounds sold as high as $4.40 but they were choice. The market has been in very good condition all the week, the demand has been more than equal to the receipts and the general tendency has been higher.

The market opened stronger and more ac-tive with sixty three fresh leads on sale. The general market was a shade stronger. In some instances hogs brought 5c more while some sold at steady prices. The market closed early with all sold.

Sheep. There were no fresh receipts and the pens were empty.

"Walking Out" Together. London News: A breach of promise case, just reported, throws some ligh upon the etiquette of courtship in that lass of life in which "walking out together" is the recognized mode of making acquaintance. The defendant said that he had never intended to marry the plaintiff, whose counsel immedi-ately protested against this statement by remarking: "But you walked her out." This was met by the defendant with the reply: "It would be a fine job if a man had to marry every girl he walked out with." It is to be feared that this gentleman was inconstant, and, in fact, the jury took that view. Walking out with a girl, if the promenades are sufficiently frequent, is re-garded in much the same light as "askng papa" is in social circles of a somewhat higher range. Some months ago, in a case of defamation of character, the young woman who had been libelled said in evidence that she had walked out with the young Frenchman who was defendant in the action, but that she had only done so to try if she liked him, and finding that she did not, she gave him up. It is a nice question of etiquette now many walks would be allowed on either side for the probationary stage, and whether a greater number would be and whether a greater many, as being permitted to the walking lady, as being difficult of choice. Etiquette more difficult of choice. Etic books are silent on the subject. fly too high to touch these humble alks of life, and always seem to be written for those classes which ought not to need them. The unwritten law would seem to be that after a tentative walk or two, if the couple still persevere in selecting each other's com-panionship, the affair may be regarded is an engagement. An Adventure in a Subway.

London Times: Recently, having some business to transact in Bermond-sey, I entered the Tower subway about 4 o'clock, wearing a valuable gold watch and chain. As I walked through the lismal, nasty little tunnel, I noticed that there was considerable traffic going on there, and I thought that it was a very unlikely place for the perpetration of robbery or a murder. I was followed by three young men, apparently respectable, and when I arrived at the ottom of the stairs at the Bermondsey terminus I stood on one side and allowed the young men to pass me, as I felt sure that they would ascend the ninety-six steps of the circular staircase more nimbly than an old gentleman in his seventieth year would be disposed to do, especially as I was burdened with a well filled black bag. The young men readily availed themselves of the precedence I granted them, but before I had mounted twenty steps one of the young men flew suddenly at my throat, suried me backward down the stairs, selzed my watch and chain, both of which he managed to secure, and then ill three culprits made off with the greatest celerity. The whole business did not occupy more than five seconds. At the same time that I was attacked I observed that one of the party slipped behind me and descended a short dis-tance, evidently with the purpose of justling and impeding anyone who might be ascending, while another of the gang hurried up the stairs, doubtless on the same cautious errand of keeping the coast clear while the robbery: was being perpetrated. I screamed for help unavailingly. No auccor was at hand, and no policeman could be found within half a mile of the spot. It was a providential mercy that was not killed or seriously when I was thrown backward down the
