Omaha's Building Bill Agreed To. WASHINGTON BUREAU THE ONAHA BRE, 513 FOURTERNTH STREET, WASHINGTON, D. C., June 7.

The conference committee appointed some time ago on the part of the senate and house to consider the differences between the two houses on the Omaha public building bill have come to an agreement. Senator Spooner took upon himself to secure the adoption of the senate bill, and it may be said that success has crowned his efforts. The conferees on the part of the house were very obstinate and for several days refused to entertain the proposition to recede from the action of the house and to accept the senate bill, which appropriates outright $1,200,000. Senator Spooner had on his hands also, the Milwaukee bill, which is of about the same proportions as the Omaha bill, and Senator Vest, another of the conferees, desires an equal appropriation for the public building at Kansas City. Members of the house who are on the committee had also some favors to ask. At a meeting on Saturday last the conferees almost arrived at a conclusion and to-day there was further interchange of expressions when it was ascertained that the senate will have its way and Omaha will get $1,200,000 for a federal building. Mr. Manderson's amendment, providing that the present postoffice property at Omaha shall be retained by the government as headquarters for the department of the Platte, will be adopted by the conference committee. If this is done it is all, I believe, that Omaha has asked for

HOW THE NOMINATIONS ARE RECEIVED. Quite as flat fell the announcement in the house to-day of the nomination of Allen G. Thurman for the vice presidency as did that of Grover Cleveland for the presidency yesterday. Sunset Cox again came to the fore with a telegram breaking the news of the Old Roman's preference. There was matured preparation for a demonstration. Several democratic members had under their seats umbrellas with red bandana handker-chiefs tied up on one end. When the thiefs tied up on one end. When the telegram was read from the clerk's desk, the democrats got upon their chairs, waved their handkerchiefs and gave shouts of applause and approval. The demonstration, however, was very mild in proportion to the one which republicans made a minute later. When all of the democrats were through with their applause the republicans rose and gave Cleveland and Thurman and defeat a round of cheers, applause and hoots which were hearty, prolonged and impressive. The democrats were considerably angered at this de-cisive outburst and began to shout across the main aisle in a disapproving manner when such veteran republicans as Judge Kelly, Mr. Reed, Major McKinley, General Grosvenor, Reed, Major McKinley, General Grosvenor, General Browne and others shouted back, "Cloveland and Thurman are good enough candidates. We will knock out your votes, red bandanas and free trade." "We will meet you at Phillippi," etc., etc. Immediately following this there were a large number of telegrams sent to the clerk's desk to be read, those from the demo-crats describing the enthusiasm in the St. crats describing the enthusiasm in the St. Louis convention and those from the repub-licans telling of the steadily increasing republican majority in Oregon, or amouncing the changes being wrought in favor of the re-publicans by the democratic tariff policy. In the midst of the excitement Mr. Outhwaite of Ohio hastened from the floor of the house to the committee room whence he brought forth a large photograph of Mr. Thurman en-closed in a broad gilt frame. This he took up to the clerk's desk and throwing three or four bandana handkerchiefs over it, stood it up against a pile of books where every one on the floor of the house or in the gallerie the nor of the house or in the gatteries could see it. There was an outburst of ap-plause at the proceeding. After the picture had stood there some time a little page slipped in, walked up to it and taking from his pocket a toy rooster with real feathers and a red flannel comb, pinned it on top of the frame. The picture, the bandanas and the rooster were in position during the remainder of the afternoon.

REPUBLICANS CONFIDENT OF SUCCESS.

As a general thing there is a complete lack of enthusiasm on the part of the democrats over the nomination of Cieveland, but they by the homination of Cleveland, but they brofess to be pleased with Mr. Thurman and to endorse the straddle on the tariff. The republicans are confident of success, The Ber correspondent has in written form almost one hundred interviews with demecratic and republican senators and repre-sentatives, from which these appended are selected as best representing the views of both sides.

both sides.

MILLS SPEAKS FOR THE DEMOCRATS.

Chairman Mills said: "I am extremely glad to see that they toed the mark on the tariff question. It was the proper thing for them to do, and not only reaffirm the tariff plank in the platform of 1884, but to endorse the president's message defining that plank. I am especially gratified at the specific endorsement the gratified at the specific endorsement the convention gave of my tariff bill. This settles the passage of the measure in the house. I was pretty confident of it before but now there can be no doubt of it. I expect to see there can be no doubt of it. I expect to see every democrat in the house vote for it. The national democratic party has spoken and I know of no individual democratic member of the house who can afford to refuse to obey the command. The tariff is to be the sole issue of the campaign. The troops are in the field now ready for the fight. The president is in command."

"Are you satisfied with the possibility of

"Are you satisfied with the nomination of "Are you satisfied with the nomination of Mr. Thurman!"
"Thoroughly," answered Mr. Mills, "thoroughly satisfied in every particular, and think we will win with Cleveland and Thurman and the tariff. The president is a personal as well as a general quantity and quality in the democratic party. He will be an issue with the teriff. He is the foremost than of the party. The Mills bill was compiled directly under his supervision. We did hot go as far as the president desired, but we went in his direction. Thurman is the best went in his direction. Thurman is the best man that could have been nominated. To my mind it settles who will lead the republican licket. It makes necessary the nomination of Sherman. I presume an eastern man will be second on the ticket, and probably Morton

Two REPUBLICAN VIEWS.

Representative McKinley of Obio had this to say: "For republican success the ticket and the platform pleases me immeasurably, to say: "For republican success the ticket and the platform pleases me immeasurably, and I think I express the sentiment of the entire republican side of the house. Allen G. Thurman is a good old man. I have long been his personal friend. He will lend character to the ticket but he will not give it strength. The most that can be hoped for from his nomination is a full democratic vote in Ohio and that cannot make the state democratic. It will be republican no matter who will be nominated by the republican party. Any of the men suggested for the first place on the republican ticket will secure Dhio's electoral vote. Take it in any way you will, the democrats made a fist of it on the question of taviff. It tried to straddle and in its efforts to run fast and loose has made the worst record that it possibly could have made. The democratic party is for free trade. That is the truth of it. There is no other way to look at it. The record shows that fact. The president wants free trade; he has said as much in his message to congress and he would abolish every customs duty and maintain the internal taxes. He kneps pace with England, herebjects and her wishes. We have got them on the tariff and we will get them when it comes to character in presidential and vice presidential nominations." in presidential and vice presidential non-

General Browne of Indiana expressed him self as well pleased with the selection of Thurman over Gray. He said: "With any respectable republican candidate Indiana will add no strength to the ticket in my state. The rank and ille of the democratic party oppose Cleveland. He has not kept his pledge in any essential particular, has disapphysician.

pointed the democrats, individually as well as collectively, and he and his Old Roman will be defeated in November. The democratic party in Indiana is now unorganized, and the leaders are at personal as well as poand the leaders are at personal as well as political war. There is nothing to bring them together because there is no hope for either personal or political gain. The tariff platform is a three-horse circus affair. It is a triangular balance act. The party has tried to run away from the real point of issue, but has put its foot into it at every step. We have got it in chancery and will pound the life out of it at the November elections.

An Assurance of Health. Among the assurances of health af-forded us by the regular discharge of the bodily functions, none is more important and reliable than that which regularity of the bowels gives us. If there is any—even a temporary interruption of this—the liver and the stomach suffer conjointly with mactive organs, and still greater mischief ensues if relief is not speedtly obtained. A laxative above all cavil on the score of mineral composition or violent effect, is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, ap-proved by the medical profession and a most important item of the family materia medica of American households It is botanic, painless in action, and if persisted in effectual. The stomach and liver, in no less degree and no less promptly and thoroughly than the bowels, are regulated and toned by it, and it is an admirable defense against malarial and rheumatic ailments, and a benign remedy for kidney complaints, nervousness and debility.

LINCOLN, June 7. The board of managers of the state board of agriculture met at the Windsor hotel last night and finished its session this forenoon. Besides S. M. Barker, president, and R. W. Furnas, secretary of the state board, the following members of the board of managers were in attendance: E. McIntyre, M. Dunham, R. R. Greer, R. H. Henry and J. B. Dinsmore. The resignation of H. H. Wing, superintendent of the agricultural depart ment, and L. M. Benton, superintendent of the winter corn exhibit, were accepted. The appointment of a successor to Prof. Wing was postponed until after the board of re gents shall have appointed his successor as superintendent of the state farm, Sheriff Melick, of Lancaster county, was appointed superintendent of police to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Sheriff J. H. Hamilton, of York. The whole subject of the plan of advertising was discussed and it was agreed to authorize the secretary to proceed in the same way as was adopted last year The fair will be more thoroughly advertised than ever before. The purchasing committee was authorized to receive bids for forage and to contract for a supply of ice. The committee will advertise for bids for furnishing forage, but the arrangements for the ice are already made Resolved, further, That the secretary of the board be instructed to write the Draft Horse Breeders' association and all other kindred associations to meet with the state board at its next annual meeting for purposes of CATTLE AND HORSE DISEASES.

John D. Freese, of Logan county, writes to the governor giving a description of a disease which is affecting a considerable number of horses in his vicinity and which is undoubtedly aztoria, a disease that prevails niore or less in eastern states but is very rare in No-braska. This is what the disease is pro-nounced by a local veterinarian who exam-med them and the state veterinarian agrees that his diagnosis of the case is correct. The principal feature of the ailment seems to be congestion of the kidneys, accompanied by an entire loss of control of the muscles of the back and hips. The governor turned the let-ter over to the live stock sanitary commission, who wrote to Mr. Freese that while the disease was usually fatal it was not contagious or infectious and did not necordingly come within the jurisdiction of the board.

Mr. C. G. Wilson, of Blue Hill, Webster county, reports a disease among his cattle which somewhat puzzles the commission until they can learn something more about it-The symptoms are wild and glassy eyes, ner yous manner and tendency to fight other cat-
