THE DOCUMENT DISAPPEARED

The Board Meets But the Schedules and Papers are Gone.

SLIPSHOD BUSINESS METHODS

Business Failures—Sport on the University Campus—Normal School Commencement Exercises—City News.

LINCOLN BUREAU OF THE OMAHA BEE,

1229 P STREET, LINCOLN, June 9.

It is somewhat remarkable that after three months of delays and excuses and inventions that when the state board of transportation finally did meet with a quorum and had reached the point of considering the reduction of local freight rates, that all the prepared schedules and papers in the case had disappeared and were not found. It was a remarkable case of now-you-see-it-and-now-you-don't. For nearly three months they had been prepared and submitted and considered and examined by different members of the board, but at the day and the hour when they were wanted to be acted upon they were gone. The papers had disappeared with as much secrecy as an obnoxious bill disappears from the files of a hoodle chief clerk in a session of a legislature when a railroa lobby holds high carnival in the immediate locality. The clerk of the board of transportation, who practically has charge of the room and the files in the office, knew nothing of the whereabouts of the papers save that some time before one of the members of the board had taken them from the office. None of the members of the board yesterday could give any light on the subject, the least case goes over until new papers can be prepared and substituted for those lost. Whether the papers have been lost willfully or carelessly, the fact must become apparent to the most obtuse members of the board that business is handled in a very slipshod way. Many of the papers are equal in value with those which are lost, and it would seem that with three secretaries on a salary and a chief clerk with a salary, that a system might be inaugurated that would protect from loss what records the board has and requires.

The renewal of past attempts to secure reduction in freight rates in Nebraska at the present time is viewed by many with doubt as to results. Four of the five members of the state board of transportation have expressed themselves as being in favor of reductions in local freight rates and yet they are in power as one of the secretaries, Mr. J. H. Ayer, who is opposed to any reductions. This is inconsistent. It is a safe presumption that the other member of the board is in entire harmony with Mr. Ayer. It is very obvious and well known to the outside as remarkable how four of the five members of the board favor a reduction of rates, expect to work out plans for a reduction through the commission like Mr. Ayer. In any other business it is a safe conclusion that an employee who worked in this style of harmony with his employer would be dismissed summarily. And what is in the board of transportation to Secretary Ayer should be applied with equal force to the other secretaries should they take a like position. With Nebraska paying a fourth higher local rates than Iowa and Minnesota and Dakota under exactly similar circumstances, it will be interesting to watch the proceedings of the board at the proposed session, the coming week, when the last papers and schedules will be submitted with new ones and the latest element of delay be removed from the scene.

LABOR NOTES.

The loom harness manufacturers have organized. Cotton workers at Blackburn, England, have struck. The textile trades are somewhat backward this season. The Baltimore Builders' exchange has been organized. Millington (Md.) woolen mills have resumed operations. The employees of the Joidet (Ill.) steel works were granted a 10 per cent advance last week. The Consett Iron company of England, has granted a 5 per cent advance to its steel workers. One hundred brass workers in a New York shop have struck against a 10 per cent reduction. The ship carpenters in two yards in Bath, Me., have struck against a reduction from $2.50 to $2 per day. The iron and steel manufacturers of the Mahoning valley have formed the Iron Manufacturers' association. Framers in New York city get forty cents an hour, in Brooklyn thirty-seven and thirty-four cents in Jersey City. The workmen who make the Winchester rifles used by the Pinkertons are compelled to work twelve hours a day or "eight." The national convention of the Painters and Decorators' trade district will be held in Boston on the 19th of this month. Over 1,000,000 individuals are enrolled in the extra high labor organizations of the United States at the present time. A Swedish labor editor, Axel Danielson, has been imprisoned four months for criticizing the action of the courts. The shoemakers' national convention, which meets at Rochester next week is expected to be a very lively gathering. Sixteen trades unions in England report a membership of 12,000, of which 3,000 are unemployed as compared with 10,000 last month. The boss carpenters of Troy, N. Y., claim that they have all the non-union men they need to work on the new houses. The next convention of the Brotherhood of the Carpenters will take place at Detroit the first Monday in August. Delegates will be elected by local unions the first meeting in June. For three successive years the eight hour system has been established in Chicago in the building trades, although every season the men to whose trades have had to fight for it.

The bricklayers of Buffalo will work nine hours a day at 85 cents an hour for the coming year. Fifty cents an hour will be charged for overtime. The bricklayers union has 700 members. The total membership of the Cigar-makers' International union is 20,500. The total sum paid in by the membership during the year 1887 amounted to $488,880.78. After defraying the expenses of the international body and 300 local unions, the cigar-makers had, on January 1, a cash balance on hand of $227,228.24. During the year the sum of $49,281 was paid to members travelling in search of employment. Sick benefits were paid to the amount of $60,000 and death benefits to the amount of $8,550. They expended in strikes $13,571.

College Commencement. HASTINGS, June 8.—[Special to The Bee.]—Great preparations are being made for the commencement exercises next week of Hastings college, founded by the Presbyterian church and dedicated during the meeting of the synod of Nebraska in October, 1884, by Rev. Herrick Johnson, D. D., LL. D., president of the board of aid for colleges. The graduating class this year is the first to have passed successfully through the course of studies at this institution and to be awarded the diploma of learning. For this reason the event is invested with unusual interest. The class is composed of six students: Francis I. Cunningham, Edith L. Hayes, Gertrude Kimball, Alice P. Nowlan, Robert N. Powers, Alice T. Youm, all of Hastings. The number of students enrolled during the past year was 230, and the average attendance has been about one hundred and twenty, coming from various places in Nebraska, and not a few had from adjoining states. Hastings college is the leading Presbyterian educational institution of Nebraska, and has enjoyed from its inception a progressive and successful career. It is exceedingly bright, and the intention is to finally convert it into a large university of learning. Hon. J. H. Brewster, of this city, is president of the official board, and Rev. W. F. Ringland, A. M. is at the head of a strong and able faculty. The beautiful college campus, resting on large stone wall benches. One is named McCormick hall, in honor of Cyrus H. Great Improvements. AUBURN, Neb., June 8.—[To the Editor of The Bee.] Mr. James T. Jensen, machinist of this city, was before the city council last night asking for a franchise to operate an electric light plant in the city. Although the ordinance, which had been prepared to grant him that privilege, was only read the first time and placed on file, yet the members of the council expressed themselves as cordially endorsing the ordinance, and would, at the proper time, support and pass the measure. Mr. Jensen has been an indefatigable worker in this matter, and is ready to put in the plant in a short time, if allowed to do so. The prospects are certainly assuring that the city will be lighted by electricity.

THE PERILS OF OUR FAST AGE.

Boston Journal: The strain upon a man engaged in active business to-day is five, yes, ten fold more than it was forty or even twenty-five years ago. We live in an age of electricity, and it is not only along the wires that the fluid is passing, but it touches so many currents of thought and affects so many business interests that a keen, bright man is sensitive to the news of the whole world. In former times it was the arrival of the packet-ship with thirty days' later news from Europe; then it was the arrival of the steamship with six days' later intelligence; but now the morning paper brings the news, which, according to time, is being made in all parts of the world. It is impossible for an active, energetic man to cut his connection with this ever-pulsating agent. A flash and he opens a despatch from a friend in Bombay, and the tinkling bell calls him to the telephone to hear from a business agent in a neighboring city. He is kept at a high pressure, he is at market pitch from January 1 to December 31. It is no wonder that men who do not attend this high tension by judicious repose break down and are
