CHICAGO PRODUCE MARKET. CHICAGO, June 15 .- [Special Telegram to

THE BEE.]-Here are two cablegrams posted together this morning:

LIVERPOOL, June 15.—Spot grain and fu-tures dull; prices tending down for wheat. LONDON, June 15.—The German emperor died at 11 o'clock; confirmed. Speculators who had bought wheat yesterday confident that the emperor's death would sharply advance the foreign markets, and another large class, who had held on to their purchases through several days of declining markets in the hope that this same event would let them out at least without loss and probably with profit, had to face this disappointing fact, that foreign markets were weak notwithstanding the emperor's death. It was little wonder then that there was a lot of long wheat for sale, and when Hutchinson and Ream began selling freely, and the longs could expect no help from that quarter, the anxiety to sell became a furore and the market broke ic even from the low opening price. On the way down the commission men were large sellers on stoploss orders, and a few buying orders were filled with but little effect on the market. Wheat was bought at 14@14c below the limits given in some cases, the descent was so rapid. Then the big bears began to cover their shorts, stopped the decline and put prices up again. It was only a temporary reaction, however, for after an advance of 14c the market sagged again, touched a still lower point, and the close of the morning session was very near the bottom, and weak at that. Ream and Hutchinson were credited with covering a large quantity of short wheat, but they were selling some at a decline and it was thought by many they were working for a further break. Jones, Kennet & Hopkins bought August wheat at the decline and were about the only support aside from the covering by shorts. The friends of wheat were apathetic. Aside from the bear-ish influences mentioned, the hot weather, the warmest of the season, was an encour-agement to short sellers. They argued that with the best possible weather and shortage in the crop as predicted would not be felt for months yet and that the weight of long wheat which tired holders would unload must further depress prices. The worst crop news yet received came from Indiana, but i was of no effect, or that effect was offset by a conspicuous exhibition of remarkably fine samples of wheat, oats, rye and corn grown in Texas. The exports of wheat were smaller than of late, but still fair, while receipts at primary markets showed a considerable fall-ing off, and indications were for a large de-crease in the visible supply. But this, like all other bullish influences, was disregarded. July wheat opened at 83%c, fell to 83%c, reached to 83%c again, declined with small reactions to $294@$256, advanced to $356, fell to $254@$256, advanced to $36, fell to $254@$256 again, and closed at 1 o'clock at 82%c. December wheat opened at 85%c, fell to 84%c, and closed at 84%c.

For the first time in weeks' the speculative corn market did not respond to the decrease in local receipts by an advance in price. To day it seemed that the hot weather, so favorable to the growing crops, and the extreme weakness in wheat were the conextreme weakness in wheat were the controlling influences in the corn pit. The market opened \( \frac{1}{2} \) c lower than yesterday's close and immediately dropped another \( \frac{1}{2} \) c with searcely any trading. Nobody seemed to want any corn. After that there were some slight reactions, but prices fell another \( \frac{1}{2} \) c before there was much show of improvement. There was \( \frac{1}{2} \) a fair reaction but another decline followed with the last drop in wheat and the close was near the bottom. wheat, and the close was near the bottom. Trade was not very large, as the interest of the day chiefly centered in wheat. July corn opened at 52%c, declined to 51%c, advanced to 52%c, declined to 51%c again, and closed at 51%(251%c. September corn opened at 53%c, sold down to 52%c and closed at 52%c. The depressing influences of the day were felt also in the speculative outs market, more particularly in the more deferred futures. particularly in the more deferred futures. Fine weather and sympathy with the weakness in corn was given as the weakening factors. Hutchinson was a free seller of August oats and M. Bodine & Co. sold year oats. June oats sold down from 33 to 323c.

oats. June oats sold down from 33 to 32%c, and closed at 33%c. August oats sold down from 28%c to 27%c, closing at 27%c(27%c. Year oats sold down from 28%c to 27%c, closing at 27%c(27%c. There was a fair degree of interest shown in the provision market, but trading was inclined to be supposed. clined to be spasmodic and in the aggregate was of only a moderate volume. At the stock yards prices for the raw material were yards prices for the raw material were stronger, notwithstanding the full average receipts of hogs and warm weather. At the opening there were numerous small country lots of long pork offered for sale and the weakness occasioned thereby was intensi-fied by Ream and Clifton selling considerable. The undertone of the market wa unqualifiedly bearish and on the whole list o speculative articles prices ranged slightly below yesterday's closing figures. In mess pork the futures decline up to 1 o'clock amounted to 12)4@15c, in lard to 5c, and in

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

CHICAGO, June 15 .- | Special Telegram to THE BEE. |- CATTLE-The supply was very large in numbers, but was made up in great part of grassy and inferior cattle. These cattle have been comparatively dull and neglected all the week and to-day buyers did not want them except at greatly reduced prices. Bids were away off. The market closed with many of these thin grass cattle which had not received a bid. The general market was 10@15c lower, being very uneven as they have been for several days. A good many cattle were unsold late. Runs of inferior cattle would break the market badly and country shippers had better go slow. They kept the market broken down with the They kept the market broken down with the reckless marketing of good cattle in April and May, and everybody knows it would be easy to flood the market with thin grazing cattle, so they had better go slow. ### FINANCIAL

NEW YORK, June 15 .- [Special Telegram to THE BEE. ] -- STOCKS -- The death of the emperor had no effect on securities in Wall street, and advices from London and the continent report a strong feeling on all toreign bourses. This created a better feeling on this side. There is a disposition among the leaders to give the market a boom after the republican convention. If Blaine, Sherman or Allison are put up it is expected that there will be a political boom like that witnessed in 1880 and 1881. But should Gresham be the nominee the boom is not expected to be of any importance. The opposition from Gould will, in all probability, prevent a material advance. It is argued by the bulls that prices of stocks are too low to sell and believe that all the worst features that can be brought out have already been discounted, and that any change must be for the better. There are still many aggressive bears who think that the worst is not over. Attempts were made to raid grangers on the action of the Iowa railroad commissioners in reducing the rates 25 to 50 per cent. Prices fell 1% points. The opening was strong and first prices from 1/4 to 3/4 per cent higher in the general list, though the market was very dull. Some slight gains were made over the opening prices, but the advantage was not maintained, the list giving way immediately Though there were no special features in the trading, declines of from % to %c were sustained, however, with Northwestern leading the downward movement. Reading and St. Paul were still the most active stocks, with Lake Shore, Northwestern, Union Pacific and Northern Pacific preferred in close attendance, while the rest of the list was dull and uninteresting throughout. A partial recovery took place at about 11 o'clock, and Peoria, Decatur & Evansville advanced 1 point. It was reported that $300,000 in gold was taken for export, making $2,100,000 for the week. This rather depressed the market again after midday. A decided change for the better occurred during the last hour. Some of the stocks were bid up 1/4 point at a time by traders, and last sales on a majority of native stocks were at almost outside figures. New England headed the list for gains, having a net of 136. On the rest of the list the advances were 1/03/4 per cent. Cotton oils were up 34, Lake Shore 14, Northwestern %, Reading %, Western Union %, Manhattan 14. The losses were 14 on St. Paul, 1/2 on Rock Island and 3/8 on Burling-Government bonds were dull but firm.
