Their Minds on Chicago. WASHINGTON BUREAU THE OMARA BER, 513 FOURTEENTS STREET, WASHINGTON, D. C., June 22.

Although the senate was not in session to-day, Sherman, Allison and Hawley were at the capital as early as 10:30 o'clock. Allison had to attend a meeting of the committee on appropriation, of which he is chairman, and Sherman and Hawley went there because they could get the convention news much quicker and more easily than anywhere else. Sherman was accompanied by his private secretary, who prepared a tabulated schedule for each ballot, giving the vote of each state for the several aspirants for the nomination. Other than these three senators and two or three members of the appropriation committee there was not a senator to be seen about the capitol. The day was intensely hot, and those who took an interest in the bulletins arranged with the sergeant-at-arms' office to have them sent to their residences by pages, mounted on horseback. About a dozen senators, both democrats and republicans, took advantage of this arrangement and the page boys were prdered on duty and extra horses hired for them to ride and deliver the manifold copy of the convention bulletins as they were received at the capitol. A half dozen or so bulletins would be allowed to accumulate when a mounted page would start over the town to deliver them at the residences of the various senators desiring them.

During the afternoon Mr. Ahison sat with his committee considering the salary appro priation bill, and when the bulletins were sent into the committee room, Allison would interrupt the proceedings to read them Beck, Plumb and other members of the committee libbed the chairman, and after a little interruption Allison would call his committee to order and business would go on till the next bulletin, when the same thing would be repeated with slight variations, according to the character of the news contained.

Hawley spent most of the time in Don Cameron's committee room, but after the bulletins began to come with more frequence he went over to Sherman's room and sat with him. He carried the same serious and grave air that has characterized him ever since his boom began to be talked about. It is said that he received a private telegram from Chicago last night telling him that every thing pointed to Blaine's nomination, and that it was no use for the Connecticut dele gation to hang on for him. His friends hope that some western aspirant will be nominated for first place and that Hawley will be taken

About an hour before the convention met Mr. Sherman was in communication with his managers over a special wire which runs into the office of the secretary of the senate. Dur ing the afternoon the wires were kept with private dispatches to and fron both Sherman and Allison, It is said that when the bulietin announcing that the state of Arkansas gave Alger fourteen votes was received. Shermar was very much surprised. He had confidently expected to get the bulk of the Arkansas del egation on the second or third ballot, and he was greatly concerned when the third ballot was announced that Arkansas stuck to the

The house puttered away with the considcration of the sundry civil appropriation bill, completed it, and took up the naval bill, but there was more interest taken in the bulletin business than in legislation The builtins received by the press associations and the telegraph company, in the reporters' gallery were dropped from the galleries on the floor of the house and distributed to members on both sides. In addition to these there were builetin boards up in a half dozen places in the corridors, around which congressmen.of-Relais and employes congregated as long as the dispatches were received. IOWA WOMAN CHARGED WITH MURDER.

Mrs. George R. Johnston, late of Villisca.
Montgomery county, Iowa, is in juli at Bal-imore, charged with poisoning her husband.
Johnston married his mother-in-law. He was a laborer and his wife took in washing weeks ago he sickened and suddenly. The doctor thought he had a billiou attack, but about the time of his death de-lected poisoning. He called another physi-pian, and they agreed that the symptoms were those of poisoning. A post mortem ex-mination was held and it was shown that the man had ded from "Rough on Rats." While the post mortem examination was in progress Mrs. Johnston was discovered secreting the box, which was hearly empty. She had been heard to re-hark that her husband was no good, and that she would be better off without him. The coroner's jury declared that poison was he cause of death, but did not specify as to the poisoner, simply saying that the poison was administered by a person or persons unknown. After the funeral Oscar Johnston, brother of the dead man, swore out an information, charging the widow with administering the poison. There was a prelimi-pary examination, and the woman has been held to answer the charge. She is 45 years bid, small in stature, sharp in Teatures, with but, smail in stature, snarp in leatures, with syes that are restless and keen. She is bold in her demeanor. Johnston was her third husband, and she his second wife. It is stated that her other husbands, who died in Kansas, came to their death under circum-flances that puzzled the physicians. It cooks as though the woman would go to the penitentiary.

CONDITION OF IOWA'S GROWING WHEAT.

A special bulletin has just been issued at the department of agriculture on the condi-tion of the growing wheat throughout the country, from which the following, relating to the crop in Iowa, is taken: The month of May was cold and wet and frosts have been frequent. The last week of the month was more favorable and corn planting was brisk in all northern Iowa. Winter wheat has improved considerably during May, although not brought forward as much as usual, and re-ports show its condition quite spotted. The sondition of spring wheat is fair, and with good weather from now on the crop will far exceed that of last year. The acreage of puts is disappointing, but the condition is generally good. Clover is doing better than anticipated a month ago. It has spread and s making a fair stand where it looked thin. Frosts damaged the fruit crop, but the crop Hill promises fair. Printy S. Heavil. still promises fair.

THE NICARAGUA CANAL.

A Meeting Held by the Stockholders in Denver. DESVER, Colo., June 22 .- [Special Telegram to Tue Bee.]-At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Nicaragua Canal Construction company, held here last night, it was decided to wait no longer for congress to grant them a charter, but to incorporate immediately under the laws of Colorado

This decision was arrived at for several reasons, one being that the laws of this state give them greater scope under which to work than they could expect to get from congress, or from any other state, and another important fact is that the railway facilities of Colorado are better suited to them than those of any other state in the union. Reports from engineers now the field were received giving the estimated cost 20 canal at $50,000,000. In order to have sufficient money to cover all expenses the company decided to double this amount and incorporate with a capital of $100,000,000 with the head office in Denver.

Among those present were Hiram Hitchcock, owner of the Fifth avenue hotel, New York; Frederick Billings, ex-president of the Northern Pacific; J. F. O'Shaughnessy, the southern cotton oil producer now of New York; Charles P. Daiy, ex-chief justice of court of common pleas, New York; Horace L. Hotchless, a banker of New York; J. W. Miller, manager of the Boston and Providence Steamship company, New York; Colonel H. C. Taylor, of the United States navy; C. Ridgley Goodwin, Baltimore; Alexander I. Mason, of the lawfirm of Daily, White & Mason, New York; Allen F. Hedges, of New York; R. A. Lancaster, representing Louisiana stock holders, A. C. Cheney, president of the Garfield National bank, New York, and Francis A. Stout, president of the Nicaraqua Canal company. The directors chosen were as follows: Francis A. Stout, Hiram Hitchcock, the southern cotton oil producer now of New company. The directors chosen were as follows: Francis A. Stout, Hiram Hitchcock, Frederick Billings, J. F. O'Shaughnessy, Charles P. Daly, Horace L. Hotchkiss, W. Miller, H. C. Taylor, C. Ridgley Goodwin, Alexander T. Mason, Allen F. Hedges, R. A. Lancaster and A. C. Cherey. The officers elected were: President, Francis A. Stout, New York; vice president, H. C. Taylor, United States navy; J. W. Milfer, New York, secretary; H. R. Hotchkiss, New York, treasurer; attorneys, Dally, White & Mason. The company decided to begin work on the canal September 1, and calculated to have it completed and in operation in five have it completed and in operation in five years. A meeting of the directors to take proliminary steps and act upon the reports placed upon file at this meeting will be held in the New York office in a few days. The route of the canal is from Graytown on the Caribbean sea to Brito on the Pacific coast. It goes up the river San Juan and thence to Lake Nicaragua. The total length is almost all water with the exception of forty miles o excavation. Its superiority to the Panama route has already been demonstrated in the press through the government reports and in the discussion in congress. The directors noted with satisfaction that a platform intro duced in the convention at Chicago about the

Blaine Refuses to Answer Pointed Political Questions.

HE NEITHER SAYS YES OR NO.

The Interview With Carnegie, in Which He Admitted "Barkis Was Willin'," Declared an Unmitigated Falsehood.

An Interview With Blaine.

(Conversalit 1888 for James Gordon Bennett.) MELHOSE, Scotland, June 22. New York Herald Cable-Special to THE BEE, |- I saw Mr. Carnegle this evening. I asked him whether the interview the Sun reporter cabled to London reporting him as having said if Blaine was nominated he would ac cept was true. Mr. Carnegie replied: "I give you my authority to say that I emphatically dony having made any such statement I can scarcely believe that the Sun corre spondent could have sent any such message

as I never conveyed such meaning. On the contrary I may tell you that since our trip began, Mr. Blaine and myself have not talked a word of politics. We of the party have observed a courteous silence on the subject. Mr. Blaine has not tempted us to break it. What I have said all along, especially to the Herald correspondent weeks ago, is that under certain circumstances I thought Blaine ought to and would accept. Blame has seen that interview, in the Herald and has never said one word against it. "I asked Mr. Carnegie, "Who do you think is the likely man! Is it Sherman." "Well, I really cannot say, but he has gained ten votes you see over the second ballot, but it looks to me very like some dark horse. I am in hopes that everything will be settled to morrow. The coaching party will start at 9:30 to morrow. Blaine was presented at Jedburgh with a real Scotch plaid, as was Mrs. Car negie, by two admiring citizens, and Blaine looks highly presidential as, wrapped in it and looking over the folds, he re tains his sphynx-like silence on the political situation. He is kept well informed by cablegrams at every place. When the coach stopped here to-day- he said, "I have not seen any member of the press to talk to and I am not in a position to speak at present." I asked him whether in case he was nominated to-morrow he would accept. He peremptorily refused to answer this, but his demeanor suggested that he would accept if the convention became unanimous. Carne gie has been also generally silent on the subject. Mr. Blaine is silent to personal friends For instance, Mr. Joseph Cowen, late M. P. for Newcastle-on-Tyne, asked him for views about politics for publication in his paper, the Chronicle, when passing through Newcastle, but he refused and added: "Any accounts pu dished purporting to represent interviews with me are purely fictional." Thus in his own words he must not be credited with expressions purporting to come from Another of the coaching party said to me o-day: "Blaine does not talk a word about politics to any of us, except possibly Carne de. Although very loquacious on other sub jects, by common consent politics is taboed among us."

The drives the few past days have been short, each day an average of only fourteen miles, but to-morrow will come a very heavy day's work, thirty-six miles to Edinburgh, the longest day's travel so far. Then the horses will have to show what they are made of. After Edinburgh's roads have been traveled the route is very hilly all the way up to Cheny castle. If in Edinburgh Blaine should receive and accept the nomination it would seem that natur ized Scotsmen should owe him their bailet of allegiance. Then what a send off to a campaign could there not be evolved when the well coached candidate should enter New York harbor.

DILLON IN PRISON. The Daily Routine of Dundalk Irksome to the Parnellite.

[Copyright 1888 by James Gordon Bennett.] DUBLIN, June 22 .- [New York Herald Cable-Special to THE BEE. |-Mr. Dillon took three hours' exercise in the grounds at tached to the infirmary of Dundalk jail. He took his exercise alone and at one time anpeared in a very thoughtful mood. The doctor of the infirmary paid him an official visit and chatted freely with him. Mr. Dillon made no complaint, but spoke cheerfully and kindly of the officials of the jail, among whom there is naturally a desire to treat the distinguished prisoner with the deference becoming his position. There does not appear to be any intention on the part of the authorities at present to remove him to any other prison, but it is difficult to say how long he may be permitted to remain in Dundalk, since some of the local justices have shown an interest in his welfare. Messages of sympathy and indignation continue to arrive from every quarter of the empire but they do not reach Mr. Dillon. The officials have strict orders to prevent any communication being made to him except through authorized channels. The prison itself is situated in a healthy district and is considered one of the best in Ireland, but to a man of Mr. Dillon's habits, delicate constitution and sensitive nature, the routine of prison life must be very irksome for six months.

Beware of Scrofula

Scrofula is probably more general than any other disease. It is insidious in character, and manifests itself in running sores, pustular eruptions, boils, swellings, enlarged joints, abscesses, sore eyes, etc. Hood's Sarsaparilla expels all trace of scrofula from the blood, leaving it pure, enriched, and healthy.

"I was severely afflicted with scrofula, and over a year had two running sores on my neck. Took five bottles Hood's Sarsaparilla, and am cured." C. E. LOVEJOY, Lowell, Mass. C. A. Arnold, Arnold, Me., had serofulous sores for seven years, spring and fall. Hood's Sarsaparilla cured him.

Salt Rheum

Is one of the most disagreeable diseases caused by impure blood. It is readily cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier. William Spies, Rlyria, O., suffered greatly from erysipelas and salt rheum, caused by handling tobacco. At times his hands would crack open and bleed. He tried various preparations without aid; finally took Hood's Sarsaparilla, and now says: " I am entirely well." "My son had salt rheum on his hands and on the caives of his legs. He took Hood's Sarsaparilla and is entirely cured." J. B.

THE SPORTING WORLD.

Local Base Ball Affairs. Kansas City, too, had rather a rocky expe The northern teams will all take a tumble rithin the next two weeks. The Sporting Life says Omaha is weak at first, third and behind the bat. Menges' cowboys will be here for a brace of cames on the Fourth. The Omahas have been unable to play for four days on account of rain. O'Cornell hopes to be able to resume his place on the team by Tuesday next. An immense crowd will assemble at the ball park Tuesday next to welcome the boys

Secretary Worley says that no expense will be spared in strong bening up the team and giving the people the kind of ball they were so confidently led to expect this season. The energetic secretary is in no wise discour-aged over the team's standing and avers that when once upon their own cellar door again they will pull up rapidly in the fight.

The John J. Hardins and the Cranes play at the ball park Sunday. Hardin says he's oin' to smash 'em. Harry Salisbury and Frank Bandel will constitute the C. E. Mayne battery at the ball park this afternoon.

Omaha's weakest point is behind the bat, she must have at least one more first class, reliable catcher or kiss her hand to the pen The team will be home Monday evening for a month's stay. Tuesday they open up a series of three games with the emasculated St. Louis Whites. "That's the Way Harry" Crooks, of the St. Louis Whites, has been purchased by the Omaha management, and will probably be played at third. Doran will be released. Omaha is after the veteran catcher. Tom Dolan. When not playing he would be a good attraction for the Eden Musee as "the man almost us old as Orator Shefer." uan almost as old as Orator Shafer." Lop off all useless timber and put mone cently strengthened, and a stubborn contest may be looked for.

Jack O'Conner, of the Cincinnatis, is the kind of a catcher the Omaha's need. The old, played-out veterans of a quarter of a cen-tury ago are not the staff to infuse renewed life and energy in a team in hard luck.

STOLE THE DIAMONDS. Two Young Ladies Rob a Jewelry Store-One Arrested.

The arrest of Kitty Hammond yesterday brings to light a rather daring diamond theft perpetrated at S. Frackman's jewelry store Thirteenth and Howard streets, on last Friday. On the afternoon of that day Nora Brown and Kittle Hammond, two stylishly dressed and attractive appearing young ludies, stepped into that jewelry store and asked to see some rings. The accommodating clerk showed them a number of trays, and among them one containing a number of diamond rings. The clerk was called to another part of the store, and on returning the young ladies told him that they could not flud any to suit them and left the store. Shortly afterwards the clerk discovered that two diamond rings were missing from the tray and informed Mr. Frackman of heir disappearance, and also who the persons were to whom they were shown. M Frackman, fearing a recourse to law wool be too expensive a luxury, resolved to wer the matter out himself. Yesterday afte neon a third young lady named Mrs. Sara Izard, and an intimate, friend of Norah Brow Izard, and an intimate friend of Norah Brown came litto Frackmans jewelry store to get some work done, when the proprietor discovered on her hand one of the stolen rings. He informed the police of the matter, and the officers, on hunting Mrs. Izard up, discovered that Kitty Hammond was with her. At first both ladies denied all knowledge of the missing rings, but finally confessed that each of them had one of the stolen articles. The rings, they said. nauly conlessed that each of them had one of the stolen articles. The rings, they said, had been taken from the tray by Norah Brown, but before leaving the store she had given one of them to Kitty Hammond. The other she had temporarily loaned to Mrs. Izard. The officers decided to arrest Kitty, but Mrs. Izard insisted on remaining with her and and the two were locked up together in the woman's apartment at the centering the stolength of the sto rether in the woman's apartment at the ce gether in the woman's apartment at the cen-tral station. A warrant has been issued for Nora Brown's arrest, but as yet she has not been found. Only night before last she was married to Fred Lebold and on one of her fingers sparkled the stolen jewel. Yesterday she loaned the ring to Mrs. Izard. Both rings are now in pressessing of the relies.
