MASONS IN SESSION.

They Hold a Week's Meeting in the Capital City-The Knights Journey to the Supreme Council-A. O. U. W. Council For Omaha.

Grand Lodge Meeting.

The following account of the meeting of the Supreme loage at Lincoln is compiled from Tue Bee's daily report: The grand lodge of Masons of the state of Nebrasan, commenced its annual session in Lincoln Wednesday, with Grand Master Milton J. Hull, of Edgar, presiding. At the opening of the session there were fully five hundred masons in attendance. The grand master's report and also the report of the secretary and treasurer were in print, and at the openng of the session were distributed to the delegates. The grand master's report showed that there were 169 chartered lodges now embraced in the grand ledge of Nebraska and there are eighteen lodges working under dispensation that were to apply for charters at this session. All the lodges represent a membership of 18,000 masons in the state; the increase during the year has been 650, and the death roll 80, an unusually large number. The report showed that during the past year there have been twenty-five schools of instruction held. One one lodge, that of York, met with serious loss, all of its property being destroyed by fire. However, the lodge rebuilt at once and has now a better property than that which was destroyed. During the year the order has laid the following corner stones: The Masonic temple at Hebron, the railroad bridge over the Mis-souri river at Nebraska City; the court house and school house at Benver City; Grant memorial hall at Lincoln. In addition two new Masonic temples have been dedicated in the year.

The call of the roll at the opening of Thursday's proceedings showed that from the 163 lodges in the state fully 250 delegates were in

The published report of the grand treas-urer showed a balance on hand of $12,361.10, and Secretary Fumas, managing trustee of and Secretary Funns, managing trustee of the orphan fund, reported $15,345.85. The membership increase of the year is 1,312, and the decrease by death and expulsion 579. The total number of names in the state is $,007. The committee on orphans home re-ported early in the day and it led to an animated discussion of two hours' duration, a large number in the grand lodge favoring active work in this direction at once. Mr. active work in this direction at once, Mr. Luninger stated that the best kind of induce-ments had been made by the people of Omaha for the location of the home there, and he spoke of the liberal contributions that the Masons in Omaha would make to build and sustain the institution. The design of the home is to have a place where the children of Masons left upon the world can have care, education and a home. The discussion re-sulted in the passage of a resolution instructing the grand master to appoint a special committee that will have the duty of soliciting and securing funds, and when $50,000 is raised it is left with the committee to decide whether or not to proceed in locating and erecting a home.

During the afternoon session the report of grievance committe was read and dis-ed. In the evening all the members present who have belonged to the order for over twenty-one years held a banquet in Temple hall. At the night session this city was selected as the meeting place for next year, and the following officers were elected: Grand master, George B. France, York; deputy, Dr. J. J. Mercer, Brownville; senior warden, R. E. French, Kearney.
At the Friday morning session Right Worthy

Grand Master France appointed the following office bearers who were duly installed:
Jacob A. Hood. Schuyler, grand chaplain;
L. H. Wilson. Lincoln, grand orator; Leo P.
Gillette, Beatrice, grand custodian; S. P.
Davis, Tecumseh, grand marshal; L. A.

Jackson, Blair, grand innior deacon; Lacob Jackson, Blair, grand junior deacon; Ed C. Jackson, Blair, grand junior deacon; Jacob King, Papillion, grand tyler.

The cost of holding the convention was over $2,000.

The Cincinnati Trip.

"The excursion of Knights of Pythias which went from this city to Cincinnata to the meeting of the supreme lodge," said a member of the order to a BEE reporter, "was certainly one of the most enjoyable affairs of the season, and from the way the boys talk of their entertainment in the Offic metropolis there was brotherly kindness existing, to say the least." In speaking of the trip the delegate said: "The train, consisting of some twelve coaches, left the Bluffs about an hour late, having on board some two hundred sir knights, many accompanied by their wives. The signal for the train to start was the signal for fun of which there was no cessation until 8 o'clock next morning, when we arrived safely in St. Louis. But lo! a change came over the 'fair women and brave men.' while women laughed men were sad. It was Sunday even in Missouri and the boys were Sunday even in Missouri and the boys were unable by persuasion, bribery or otherwise to obtain enough Anhausier-Busch to wash the coal dust from their parched throats. Various reasons for this freak of honest virtue were given, the most plausible being that a democratic convention hall just adjourned, and the supply was exhausted. But one of the sire brights of the democratic persuasion desired. knights of the democratic persuasion denied the assertion and gave as the reason that the doughty sons of St. Louis were informed of of the approach of a company of gallant sir knights and the mayor issued the order through fear of a famine in the amber fluid on Monday, and that it was merciy for "home protection." However, the boys enjoyed the day seeing the sights in the city, and at S o'clock, aboard the Ohio & Mississippi train. were whirled along in good style, and by o'c'ock next morning were ordered to "fall in" on the platform of the Ohio & Missis-sippl depot at Cincinnati. Here a band and an escort led the way to the headquarters, where an elegant breakfast was spread, and thence we were excepted to the Nebraska headquarters at the Sherman house. Once there we were welcomed and informed that this was the promised land; that the city was ours, and that we should take her speal as a prey; that there was neither, Amelekite. Camanite, subheau or pelicemen to molest or make us afraid. And it was literally true, A sir keight's uniform was a pass to all places of amusement of whatever kind or nature, and every son of Cincinnatus yied with each other in making us feel at home. During the whole week there was at a low estimate over sixty thousand sir knights in the city, and the parade on Wednesday was the most magnificent ever beheld in that city. There were over ten thousand sir knights in line, and the officers and their staffs glittering with gold lace on magnifleently capacisoned horses, the beautiful hanners bespangled with every device of northing is and the military bearing of 10,000 sir knights in their splendid in forms and the whole culivened by the most entrancing music from thirty-eight of the best bands in the United States, was a spectacle enough to make every sir knight

The Second regiment from Omaha turned out about one hundred men for its parade not received rounds of applause all along the line. Omnta division No. 12 and Black Fagle division No. 17, marching logsther under command of Cap-tein John Hayward, performed along the line of march some of the most difficult feats of Pythian tactics, and were greeted with remais of apphase.

Many of the boys on Thursday went on cust to see friends, and on Saturday meraing the remainder left for their Nebraska homes the damage of the part of their Nebraska homes. tired and worn, but more confirmed in their love for the noble order of Pythias.

A Good Showing.

The reports of the supreme officers of the Knights of the Golden Eagle show that the order has expended for the relief of its members $208,493,54, and that there is a balance on hand in the various castles of $250,423.04. The reports also show that the order has grown in membership from 3,000 in 1884 to over 40,000 on January 1, 1888. The supreme officers elected and installed for the ensuing term are: Supreme chief, J. D. Barnes, of Pennsylvania; supreme vice chief, R. Emory Ennis, of Maryland; supreme high priest, George T. Williams, of preme high priest, George T. Williams, of New York; supreme master of records, William Culbertson, of Pennsylvania; su-preme keeper of exchequer, Timothy Mc Carthy, of Pennsylvania; supreme Sir Her-ald, Irving W. Several important amendments to the constitution were made at the last grand ses-sion, one of which was that of permitting a ballot to be taken collectively on all candi-dates in each of the degrees except the first. Another was "that among the qualifications already named a candidate must be a be liever in the Supreme Being."

The supreme castle will convene again in Boston in May, 1889.

The Biennial Session. The assembly for Illinois of the National Union held its regular blennial session Tuesday afternoon of last week in the new National Union building. John N. Johnson, of the committee, called the meeting to order and appointed F. Fairman as temporary secretary, and named a committee on creden trals. The committee reported thirty-one representatives present and entitled to seats in the assembly. E. E. S. Eagie, of Commercial council, No. 76, was elected president, and F. Fairman, of Lincoln council, secre-

The first business being the election of two senators to represent the state for the next two years, a ballot was taken, resulting in the election of John Fairbanks and George W. Dexter. An executive committee of five was then elected, consisting of F. F. Haigh, of Continental council, No. 55; J. H. Johnson, of Press council, No. 71; E. E. S. Eagle, of Commercial council, No. 76; A. E. Bentley, of Sangamon council, No. 46, Springfield, and C. A. Kimball, of Elgin council, No. 15 Elgin

No. 94, Elgin.
After some discussion of the affairs of the rder the assembly adjourned sine die. In the evening a reception and concert complimentary to the assembly was given at Central music hall under the auspices of the Cabinet for Cook county, which was largely attended.

Attractive Lodge Rooms. "Much has been said and written," says a writer in the Hartford Journal, "upon the question of 'how shall we make lodge rooms attractive,' and thus secure a better attendance and a more lively interest. Some lodges lament the want of this and are asking the question how it can be accomplished. Meetings should be made attractive and interesting by every possible means, and above all things else stengthen the tie that binds together in one common brotherhood. Let every meeting be a joyfui one—by the hearty hand-shake all around—with words of cordal geeting to each, and the manipulation of a kindly interest in the welfare of all. This will be sure to stregthen the bond of brothwill be sure to stregthen the bond of broth-erly affection which should exist between all members of the lodge. Another thing—avoid dissension of every kind, and especially that which frequently arises from the unfavora-ble result of the ballot—remembering that however much you may know in one's favor there may be some one who has positive worthy to become a member, which he cares not to publish to every one, and should not, if the principles of fraternity are regarded The lodge room is no place for slauder."

The Supreme Chancellor.

General William Ward, the new supreme chancelior of the Knights of Pythias, was born in Newark, N. J., on January 30, 1824. and is to-day an honored citizen of his native city. His facilities for education were limited to the common schools, and in his earlier years he learned the business of a hatter After obtaining his majority he was elected manager of several large manufacturing corporations, which prospered under his con trol. When the war broke out he entered the service with the rank of captain, to the utter ruin of his business. He soon obtained the rank of colonel, and was afterward commissioned brovet brigadier general in compliance with a special act of the legislature of New Jersey, bearing the date 1873, for long and meritorious services in the National guards, of which he has been a member since 1841. He was severely wounded at the second Bull Run engagement. General Ward is the rec-ognized leader of the Pythian movement of his native state, of which he was grand chancellor during the centennial year, and was representative in the supreme lodge in 1878, 1880, 1882 and 1884.

Legion of Honor Work.

The sixth call for 1888 for assessments 430 and 131 to the supreme council and 131 and 32 from the members, delinquent July 2 and 6, embrace sixty-six deaths. The order already report that the call has been fully met. The financial statement of the shows: balance from previous statement and assessment money received. $185,301.68; disburse ments for claims, $180,000; balance, $4,861.98 The following shows some of the bene-ficiary work done: From January 1 to May 12, 1888, relief has been extended to members 12, 1888, relief has been extended to members applying for it for 502 weeks' sickness, amounting to $6,872. On a membership of 65,000 this is very small. This feature of toe order, as also, the guarantee fund, is meeting with general favor in the east, especially as its operations are understood and witnessed.

Omaha Gets the Prize.

The delegates who left this city the first of his last week to attend the supreme lodge of the A. O. U. W., which met at Louisville, Ky., left with the determination of doing all in their power to have the next supreme oace meeting in this city. A telegram was received Thursday night by Mayor Broatch, which was signed by James W. Carr, J. D. Tate and S. R. Patten, saying that the prize had been wen for this city, and the members of the supreme lodge, together with deleor the squeme roose, together with determined the country, will meet in Omaha for their next supreme session. The action of the council of this order ought to have its effect on the officers of the Knights of Pythias order in selecting the place for their next supreme council.

A New Hall. The Odd Fellows of Canton, Ohio, decileated their new lodge a few days, ago with imposing ceremonies. There was a large procession in the afterneon, in which ten lodges, two encampments, and one canton were represented. The building was dedicated at 3 p. m. by Grand Master P. B. Zay, of Findlay, assisted by Post Grand Master C. L. Young, of Columbus, and Marshal A. C. Cable, of Covington, O. In the evening the third de-gree was conferred upon two candidates by the celebrated Mahoning team, of Warren, O. A number of teams from over the state were present to assist in the ceremonies. The building is one of the finest in the city.

Pythian History. From June 1, 1886, to March 31, 1888, says the Pythian Knight, there were organized 205 new divisions of the Uniform Rank. From March 1, 1888, twenty-eight new divisions. Total number of divisions March 31, 1888, 555; total member ship, 21,200. To which may be added since March 21, twenty-eight new divisions with 875 members. This as against a membership of less than 3,500, when General Carandan and May 1,831. It is

A Special Edition. The Pythian Knight published a special edition, during the meeting of the supreme lodge, that was a great credit to the proprie-tors of the paper as well as a source of general knowledge to the knights. The edition consisted of thirty-six pages, beautifully il-lustrated and filled with interesting biographies and historical matter about the order. The paper was bour i in an elaborate cover of rainbow tints. The edition consisted of 10,000 copies:

Western Association Standing. The Western association race is a pretty

one. Des Moines is in the lead by reason of good, honest ball playing. However, the prohibs will find it difficult to hold this envied position unless they speedily develop greater batting strength. The alleged sluggers are proving themselves the veriest pigmies at the bat-old man Shafer, the great and only Holliday, and all. In fielding they are strong, and in running the bases up with the best of them. They are weak in the box, and the combination uncertain and unrelia-

Omaha is yet assured of a good place in the race. She is provided with a trio of excellent twirlers, and if they once get back in their early spring fielding form they'll go un toward the top with a whirl. Pitchers alone carnot win games. That day is passed. They must be commensurately supplemented in the field and at the bat, or their work goes for naught. Omaha so far has been lamentably weak at the bat, and of late their garden play has been ragged and rocky. With the new material engaged a change for the bet-ter is confidently expected. They won a pretty game at Kansas City yesterday, and it is to be hoped this is the inaugural of successful work.

St. Paul, early in the season rated as one of the weakest clubs in the association, has developed unlooked for strength and are developed unlocked for strength and are near the top. The team is composed of good stickers, fair fielders and above the average on the lines. However, they may be looked for to take a rapid tumble on their coming southern trip.

It was just the contrary with Minneapolis. Commetent base ball judges rated them as among the very strongest teams, and lo! they have turned out among the very weak-est. However, they have been reinforced by some splendid new material, and will do better work from this on out. They are reliable at the bat, and have no less than three years line hatteres. They will elimb steady very fine batteries. They will climb steadily upwards. Walsh is putting up a great game apwards. Walsh is putting up a great game at short, which is pleasing to his old Omaha friends.

Kansas City seems to have flinked miserably. They have not nearly come up to expectations and predictions. However, they lit well and their batteries are inferior to none. In the field they are very erratic, one day playing a perfect game and the next disgracing amateurs.

Kansas City, June 23.—[Special Telegram o The Bre. |-There was some very good playing at Exposition park yesterday, and there was also some that was very bad. The ewly sodded ground held the water from the recent rains, making it bad for all the players, but the blues managed to make heir rankest errors just when they did the post harm, while the visitors were very for tunate in timing theirs. The home team could not solve Lovett's delivery, and although he did not do much in the way of strike outs he managed to keep the boys guessing to such an extent that they only got three hits. Campau made a splendid drive for three bags over into the right field and brought home Johnson, cofning in himself on a wild throw. For the visitors Miller distin guished himself by remarkably good playing in the field and getting a home run from a long drive to center. The fielding of the Omahas as a whole was worse than that of the home team. The score:

Men without selfcontrol die, as a rule, young, whatever their occupations. In other cases, how-ever, the conditions under which the class named exist are the most favorable. The two things that most readily kill men who attain middle age are anxiety or loss of interest. The man who goes to bed not knowing whether a turn of the market may elevate him to wealth or steep him in ruin dies of soft ening of the brain, he who has made his fortune and retires feels, unless he has cultivated a hobby, that he has no place in the world, and dies of inanition As a rule, the professional man of fifty has learned what he can do. If he is unfit for the line he took he has slipped out of it: if he is making a fortune t is a career full of interest and with ittle trouble or anxiety to himself. It is not his own case that the barrister pleads, the physician combats, and the parson arraigns. If, again, he is but moderately successful, his carnings, though small, are pretty safe. He gets as near an approximation to security as fate in a world such as this accords, and he may hope, barring exceptional cirsumstances, that the future will be as the past. His occupation, meanwhile, brings him consideration and intelligent surroundings, and his life is fairly and pleasantly varied. In these things lie, I make bold to say, the secret of long life on which the world is given to comment. Once the philosopher temperament is reached, the combustion of
