Des Moines 10, Omaha 5. Fourteen hits, among which were three three baggers and a home run, coupled with some slouchy playing on the part of the home team, were the potent factors in the victory yesterday afternoon. The boys fought stubbornly, but vainly, to

While the Prohibs hit like Trojans, the Omahogs did some slugging too, Billy Annis getting a hit every time he went to the bat, five in all, with a total of nine bases. His beautiful drive to the left field carriages was a home run hit, but he purposely halted on third to keep Sage close up behind the bat. Kennedy has been a puzzle to the home team, but yesterday they just began to solve his tricky "ins" and "outs," but the solu-tion came too late.

But as to the game. Cooney quickly retired on a long fly to Hol-Hday, but Annis hit safe to short, only to be put out stealing second. Crooks sat down from short to Stearns.

For the visitors it was likewise one, two, In the second, Shannon hit one to Stearns.

Burns then stepped up and corked out a long one to Morton, which that gentleman proceeded to muff.

Then a great cry went up, but died away in a mournful wall, as Shannon, who had essayed to get home on the error, was caught at the plate. Gorman and Miller were posdily retired.

For the Prohibs, Macullar hit right at Burdick. The ball struck his shins and bounded off to third, and Maculiar was safe. The latter was caught a moment latter trying to score on Van Dyke's puny hit to

No more runs were made until the last half of the fourth, when Des Moines, got in three. Quinn and Stearns both hit safe. 'Then Ma-cullar and Morton fouled out, but Alvord hit safe and the first two came home, Alvord going to third on the throw in, and tallying on Van Dyke's safe hit.

They followed this up with two more in the fifth, and four in the seventh,

when satisfied, they quit.

In the eighth the Omahas struck a lucky streak. Annis smashed out a two-bagger, and on Crooks' safe drive he scored. Then Captain Shamon covered himself with glory making a home run, of course driving i Crooks before him.

In the ninth they secured a couple of runs. Burdick went out to Holliday. Nagle hit safe, and Cooney got first on an error, Nagle reaching second. Annis brought them home with a fine three-bagger to left.

THE BEE. |-Owing to the injunction against Sunday ball playing Sunday's game was played off teday, and the lads from the windy city won handily, although they failed to hit the ball any oftener than did the home team. Walsh was off in his fielding, being credited with four of the six errors charged against the home club, and three of their were responsible for as many runs by the visitors. The home team had men on bases several times, but the succeeding batsman usually fell a victim to the fascination of 5 range's curves. Sunday Games Enjoined.

MINNEAPOLIS, July 2 .- [Special Telegram Tax Bes.]-Judge Lochren has effectually stopped all Sunday base ball within the city limits by the permanent infunction which he granted Saturday against Manager Gooding and all his players. Mr. Gooding was afterwards disposed to believe that the decision would necessitate the sale If the franchise and the demise of pre-fessional base ball in Minneapolis. To-day, however, he said: "Some men are like rubber balls, and when you think they are downed they are liable to fly up and strike you back. I have a strong inclination to oin this class, I have thought over a scheme join this class. I have thought over a scheme whereby if I can make the proper arrangements Sunday games can be played. I shall know to day or to-norrow whether the scheme is feasible. It is in the form of an excursion to a convenient summer resort, a ride around the lake on a steamer chartered for the purpose, and a ticket for the ball game in the afternoon, all for one price. There should be a place somewhere in the universe where the lovers of the national game can go and enjoy their favorite amuseuniverse where the lovers of the national game can go and enjoy their favorite amusement without being hounded and persecuted as we have been in this city. There is a striking contrast in the order kept and the class of people present between the ball games, where 5,000 people have assembled without police protection and with no disturbance, and the came meeting at Red Rock testerday where there was a free fight with yesterday, where there was a free fight with about a dezen of the elders in it, and where it was necessary, in order to guarantee no further disturbance, to organize a vigilance committee of fifty. Brother Golightly should embrace the opportunity to repeat his ex-pression about 'Hell roaring and angels weeping.'"

Ninteen Brutal Rounds Fought on

Long Island Sunday. New York, July 2 .- [Special Telegram to THE BEE !- The great hard giove fight between Mike Cushing, of Troy, and Dan-O'Hara, of Greenpoint, credited as a victory for Cushing, was decided at daybreak Sunday morning. After twenty-one desperate rounds O'Hara was knocked senseless in the ring. For weeks the patrons of pugilism waited and watched for the event and the training quarters were at all times besieged by anxious men. The battle took place in a parn on Long Island. For several rounds the men played warily, each getting in several good blows on the face and stomach. It was about even until the fifteenth round, when the fighting began to be terrific. In the pineteeth round Cushing won two clear kneck-downs by lightning-like blows on the chin. The last was too much for the game lad from Greenpoint. He failed to rise within ten seconds and it required several minutes' treatment before O'Hara could

During Robberies at Earlville. Dunuque, July 2 .- [Special Telegram to THE BRE.]-Burglars entered the store of Bush & Klous, at Earlville, Delaware county, at an early hour this morning. They drilled a hole in a safe containing a large amount of money and attempted to blow it open, but failed. They then robbed the store of a large amount of clothing and other goods and proceeded to the office of Dr. Matthews. He was awakened by one of the burglars, who pointed a revol-ver at him and ordered him to keep ver at him and ordered him to keep still. The doctor sprang from his bed and knocked down the revolver and grappled with the burgiar. While engaged in the scuffle the other burgiar rushed in and fired two shots at the doctor, one of which grazed his head. Thinking discretion the better part of valor, he loosened his hold on the burglar and ran to a back room. The burglars then fled. Their Happiness Is Great.

DES MOINES, 1a., July 2 .- | Special Telegram to THE BEE |- Dr. Kennedy, secretary of the state board of health, returned to-day from Tama county and reports that the sup posed case of small pox on a Mr. Stigers was not small pox at all. He found Toledo, where the case was supposed to exist, fenced in with the most rigid quarantine, and the in-habitants in sack cloth and ashes. They had expected to celebrate a glorious Fourth, when the news of small pox came and broke up their plans. But when the secretary pro-nounced the case not small pox, their happi-ness knew no bounds. They commenced to celebrate at once and gave the doctor a great ovation. So it turns out that there is not a case of small pox in the state, but the usual precautions will be continued at Toledo a few days longer to satisfy the incredulous and al-lay public alarm.

A CHICAGO HEROINE-

She Causes the Capture of a Burglar Bold. CHICAGO, July 2 .- [Special Telegram to

THE BEE.]-Miss May Mason, the daughter of railroad conductor residing at 503 West Congress street, is the heroine of the west Side this evening, having succeeded to-day in vanquishing a bold burglar. The family next door to the Masons had gone away for the summer and shut up their house. Miss Mason, knowing this, was surprised to see a man coming out of the house this afternoon. She was ironing in the kitchen at the time, and flat iron in hand, stepped to the door and asked the man what he was doing there. He became enraged and returned an angry reply. Seeing but and returned an angry reply. Seeing but the seventeen year old girl to bar his way, he so palpably acted the thief that Miss Mason turn became angry, and lifting the flatiren smote him right across the face with it. The blood spurted and he ran and the little maiden, whose fighting blood was up, chased him into the street. Passers by saw the him into the street. Passers by saw the unique procession and several stalwart men joined in the pursuit. The fellow was chased around the block and finally cornered and captured. He was locked up at the nearest police station and booked for burglary, and Miss Mason resumed her ironing. A quantity of valuables taken from the house were found on him. found on him. IN A BABY SLAUGHTER HOUSE

Where Little Infants Gradually Grow Weak and Die.

AND PLANTED IN PINE COFFINS. A Visit to the Farm Finds a Funeral in Progress-It Serves as an Aid to Unholy and Heartless Mothers.

Miss Maxwell's Baby Farm. It was Little Buttercup who, when she was young and charming, practiced baby farming, but that was many years ago. It was in those years, presumably, that Nan Maxwell, Buttercup's prototype in Omaha, lost her youthfulness and beauty, but it is at present that she is engaged in the somewhat remarkable occupation of "planting" cherubs. Miss Maxwell is a small, thin, careworn woman. She is the manager of a baby home on Twenty-eighth street, three houses south of Franklin. The home is a one-and-ahalf story frame building and very aged. It has two rooms and a half on the ground floor, with a fore-finger attachment on the left and in the rear. Upstairs there is a small cock-loft.

THE BEE reporter visited the scene vesterday. The board fence in front was hung with ancient blankets which steamed in the sun with the fragrance of seventeen generations. The grass was flecked with sheets and pillow-slips which were undergoing needed and almost impossible purgaion. The front door opened on a small room, and in this was a sight for the ceroner. An old lounge, a cradle, a table littered with books, baby-feeders and other truck and a sewing machine, the vencering of which was as faded as the blankets outside, wer-strung around the apartment. On top of the machine lay a small ironing board, and on top of this a pretty little baby who celebrated its first birthday by dying and going to heaven. It was dressed in white Marseilles. A glass of flowers lay beside it. Each of its ittle waxen hands enclosed a tiny bouque which a sympathetic lady neighbor had en-closed in it. On the lounge lay an infant a few weeks old, battling with the flies and a nursing bottle, and seemingly but a few days removed from the grave. Miss Maxwell said that the mother of the innocent was sup-posed to be Annie Morris, and its aunt was posed to be Annie Morris, and its aunt was Annie Keith. In the craffic lay a child also a few weeks old, so near the picture of death that everyone felt there were two dead infants in the place. The little one had not then, however, passed the portal of death, but ere this has perhaps bassed away. Miss Maxwell said the mother of the last mentioned child was a Mary Olstead. The mother of the dead child is Linda Swanson, She gave birth to it in the county house. She is now, it is claimed in New York, traveling as a narse with the family of F. C. Grable. She has not been heard from for six weeks. During that time Miss Maxwell has received no money for the care of the has received no money for the care of the

Rev. E. B. Graham, with some lady members of his church, was present and conducted a simple funeral service. Meantime The Bee man sought fresh air through the rear entrance, the atmosphere of the house being of about seventeen kinds, composed of vapors from scrubbed floors, drying posed of vapors from scrubbed floors, drying dispers and sundry odors such as are likely to display a fondness for a largely attended nursery. The room benind the front one was strung with lines loaded with baby clothes in process of baking, while in the rear of it was a hoyel in which one of the children, which recently died, was left over night on old rags, to keep, until a neighbor took it, dressed and prepared it for the grave. John Mahoney, the county agent, and his

John Mahoney, the county agent, and his undertaker drove up after the service. Neighborty, kind hands put a rough cloth into the coffin, and, amidst the tears of the ladies, the little motherless one was laid in the plain coffin. But the child was too large. The coffin was returned to town and burial was deferred until the arrival of another. The little one had been dead twenty-four hours. It was already "changing." This was the third child who nad died in the "home" within a week, one having been buried on Sunday and the third on last Saturday, also by the county. Inside of three weeks five children have died, but Miss Maxwell does not know how many children have died in the year she has been running the place. She has no register and only depends upon her memory. The frequency of these deaths aroused County Agent Mahoney's attention. He told the woman she had no right to continue the business. She had no accommodation and anyway should insist that mothers, should not ness She had no accommodation and any-way should insist that mothers should pay for the burial of dead little ones.

There is no doubt that Mr. Mahoney truth-fully diagnozed the case. Miss Maxwell means well, but is out of her subere. She has never married and has but two adopted children. She certainly does the best she can to take care of her charges, but that is of little use. They must die as they have died ittle use. They must die as they have died in such a home. No mother who cared for her offspring would trust it is such a place, and the only mothers who do, are those who are guilty and ashamed in their maternity. It matters little to them, as the circumstances show, whether their children

live or die. They simply leave their illegit imates, pay for them for a few weeks and then are heard of no more. That has been Miss Maxwell's experience. She can not, consequently, even if she knew how, care properly for children and should be prevented from further doing so. If illegitimate children are entitled to life, they should not be robbed of that right by this alleged disgusting baby slaughter house, which is more of an aid to unholy women to cover up their shame than it is of aimost anything else. The neighbors are warmly interested in the matter and say that they will take steps to see that she receives warmly interested in the matter and say that they will take steps to see that she receives no more of these waifs. From her scanty income she has been superting a buxon German girl, two adopted children and herself, while securing the house from the owner, an old man named Hill, whom she boards. Yesterday's proceedings especially insensed the pointhers, so that there is no scensed the neighbors, so that there is no doubt but the home will bereafter do some-thing else besides slaughtering innocents.

FIFTIETH CONGRESS.

Senate. Washington, July 2.—The senate to-day took up the river and harbor bill, some amendments to which had been reserved on Saturday for separate votes. The demand for a separate vote on the Hennepin canal amendment was withdrawn by Mr. Vest, on the suggestion that the question might be left to the conference committee, but subse quently the motion to reconsider was made

As to the amendment abolishing the Missouri River commission, Mr. Vest offered to withdraw it at the request of Mr. Paddock, but Mr. Plumb insisted upon a vote being taken, and made an argument against the further concurrence of the commission. Mr. Paddock argued against the amendment. The subject was under consideration, he said, by the Mississippi improvement com mittee, and until that committee had an op portunity to complete its investigation and make its report he did not think so radical a hange ought to be made. At the close of a oug discussion the amendment abolishing the Missouri river commission was dis

Sherman said he would not object on his motion to reconsider the vote agreeing to the Hennepin canal amendment, although he was opposed to it. The bill was then passed. It appropriates $22,474.783, having been in-creased by the senate $912,000. On motion the Hoar fishery treaty and Morgan's resolution thereupon were post-poned till Tuesday next.

Turple then proceeded to address the senate on the president's turiff message, Referring to the tariff issue and nomination made at Chicago, he said: "The platform and nominee of that convention were alike exponents of the views and interests of those privileged castes which had so long, under the loud and false clamor of protecting others, cared only for themselves; who had learned nothing of popular interests except to betray them. The candidate of the Chi-cago convention was the well beloved and chosen representative of the rank and law-less growth of incorporated power. He (the candidate) would faithfully be the friend of and protect and encourage American Indus tries by the highest, most prohibitory and unnecessary restrictions, and by the permitted immigration of Chinamen. Although he was made of no small capacity, and was of great mental force, he had that which was not often found with such qualities—a harsh intollerance which treated dissent as idiocy. Deeply touched and tinged with the projudices of an exclusive class of aristocracy, he belonged to that group of 810 reactionary statesmen, (tradi-tional paternists), whom the people had so often rejected, and whom they would reject At the close of Turple's speech the senate

This is the bill introduced by Mr. Anderson in April last, It is a very long measure, and Mr. Ander-son demanded its reading in full in order to consume time and prevent, as long as possible, the offering of a motion for the passage of the Union Pa-cific funding bill under suspension of the rules. For an hour and a half the reading clerk was uninterrupted in his monotonous reading of the bill, but at 12:30 the proceed-ings were diversified by Mr. Bland with a motion to adjourn, which was, however, de-clared out of order pending the reading, and again the weary clerk resumed his task.

A bill introduced in the house to-day by Representative Landes of Illinois authorizing the removal of certain obstructions in Wabash river, in Illinois, declares that the piers supporting the railroad bridge across the Wabash, opposite Mount Carmel, Ill., and at a point where the Wabash river flows on the line between Indiana and Illnois, and over which bridge the Louisville.
