Captain H. L. Henry, a former resident of craft which "moves upon the bosom of the waters" was also played at the disposal of the visitors, and the majority embarked and were taken to the beach. An hour was thus delightfully passed. As the supper hour drew near the spacious dining rooms of the Hotel Manawa were thrown open and the guests were seated to a bountiful repast. It was a joily crowd, to be sure. The funny man lost his humor and was once more a man among men. Crop rethe city, chancing to be here, put down $100 to help the hotel along. This ought to bring the blush to some of those who have thou-sands of dollars worth of property here and yet groan at investing $25 in this enterprise. The new steamer, the M. F. Rohrer, which is to ply upon Lake Manawa, will be launched this afternoon at 5 o'clock with suitable ceremonies. Those who are curious to know how these matters are done upon boats of a larger build should not fail to go to Lake Manawa to-day. Motor trains will leave the dummy depot every half hour dur-bre the afternoor ing the afternoon.

A Flower Festival.

The flower festival at the Congregationa church Monday evening proved truly enjoyable to those who attended, and highly creditable to the young ladies who planned the entertainment and carried it to a successful fulfillment. There were flowers of all varieties, and in abundance. Then there was a pleasing programme in which sentiment and humor were mingled. One group of little folks represented pansies, their faces being hidden behind very clever representations of hat beautiful faces. that beautiful flower. Then at the next rise of the curtain another view of pansles was given, a row of tin pans with "z's" below them. The four-o'clock was pictured with a riven, a row of in pans with "z's" below them. The four-o'clock was pictured with a clock. Daisies and rosebuds were prettily presented by a group of girls. Fuchias were represented by a group, mostly boys, there being "few shes." The humble perpe-trator of this fortunately withheld his name from publication. Altogether the entertain ment was very amusing, and many features were pretty as well as novel.

The two Omaha parties who were held for some crookedness over the river were discharged, as no one appeared to prose-cute the case. The case against James Ryan, held for forgery, was continued until next hangs the final decisions in all the applications. The ground upon which the attorneys based their application for a continuance was that neither side was prepared for a hearing. The engerness which the attorneys for the Cable Tramway company manifested Monday, and the fact that they were ready for a hearing at that time, made it seem a little strange that they were not ready. It is thought they had Monday. Esquire Barnett listened to a regular song and dance in the case of the State vs Pul-lard and Mills for swindling. John Lindt appeared for the state and J. R. Snyder for the prisoners. The case was set for 10 o'clock, but Lindt was not ready until nearly 11 o'clock, and then the case was continued until 2 p. m. Then the state's witnesses were not present and the defense asked for the discharge of their clients. Lindt demade it seem a little strange that they were not ready. It is thought they had learned some new facts in their case Mon-day afternoon that changed the mode of pro-cedure in the affairs of the case. The facts they learned were, it is said, that the mem-bers of the Cable Tranway company had owned negotiations with the motor company had manded a further continuance, which was re-fused, after which he demanded that bench warrants be issued for the state's witnesses.

Lindt also file1 an information against the above accused charging them with vagrancy. bers of the Cable Transverse company had opened negotiations with the motor company to occupy Twentieth street and Poppleton avenue conjointly. The only point at issue in the application is as to which company holds the priority of franchise on the streets. It is generally conceded that a compromise between the motor company and the cable By this means they will be held until their trial upon the first charge can be had. tions to himself and declared them carried by an overwhelming majority. It is not at all strange that the other members should object, as they are unwilling to be held responsible for his indi-vidual acts. At the last council meet-ing the mayor requested Mr. Waterman to call a meeting of his committee in the future when there was any question to be con-sidered and then report the result of their deliberations to the full board of councilmen for approval. The fact of the matter is that Mr. Waterman has not called a single meet-ing of the fire committee since he has been in office, but has rather trusted to the other members concurring in his idens.
