

He Thinks She Is the Queen of the West—How the Boys Work Their Baggage Checks—Among the Omaha Boys.

Finance—W. B. Lanius, W. P. Mumma, W. H. Raynor, C. O. Lobeck, Clarence Hottel, and Ned Smith, all of Sulphur.

The plan of entertainment for the day discussed at the meeting is to have a grand reception of the traveling men and invite the merchants of the grand old city to give a very elegant reception with music, and perhaps dancing, will be held at some pleasant place in the city.

The plan is to have one grand good day for the boys. It was voted at the meeting that the "Turkey Trot" for September 6, be named as the time for the event.

The directors of the fair association have been asked to have the fair grounds and have stated that they will do everything in their power to co-operate with the boys and make it a grand success.

The jobbers of the city are equally in favor of the day for their men and are anxious the every arrangement possible may be made to have a grand day for the boys. It was voted not want the house to a penny any more.

The body of Grants Camp, a young Jewish agent from Beavertown, was found lying in a field a few days ago. A jury was called. A bullet hole was found in his forehead. A revolver was lying by his side. There were about twenty watch chains and two silver watches and $12 in money on the person of the dead man. His mind has been deranged for some time, and that is supposed to have been the cause of his suicide.
