THE WOULD-BE TREASURERS.

A Number of Them Already On the Ground at Lincoln.

PROSPECT OF A LIVELY CONTEST.

An Open Letter From the Hon. E. E. Brown-1 Gang of Swindling Horse Traders-Brevities and Personals.

LINCOLN BUREAU OF THE OMAHA BEE, ) 1029 P STREET, LINCOLN, August 20. On the noon train E. D. Einsel, J. E. Sutherland, D. B. Cropsy and John Clarcy, all candidates for state treasurer, put in their appearance and will dwell in Lincoln until after the state convention. These gentle men are possibly going on the theory that the early bird catches the worm. It is evident that they intend to attempt the capture of all straggling votes, and to make such combinations as will enhance their chances as the battle progresses. Spaculation is rife, but these politicians are too wary to give their intended moves on the political checkerboard to the public. They are en a still hunt. Large delegations are expected in on the night trains, and the picket line will be ex-tended to every quarter that gives any assurtended to every quarter that gives any assurance of capturing a prisoner or killing a vote.
It will decortless be red hot here to morrow.
There is considerable talk that Leese will be renominated attorney general by acclamation. But his best friends think that this is doubtful, but they entertain no doubt of his ultimate success. Einsel and Yost will play the skin game. That they are ready for any collusion that will down Graham or Hill, no one entertains the remotest doubt not a party to railroad schemes. And they do not seek to conceal this fact in any doubt not a party to railroad schemes. And they do not seek to conceal this fact in any way. Some plays are apparent even now. It is rumored that Bartley, of Holt, will be on the ground early to-morrow with a brass band and a following in badge and regalia that will swear by him until the end of the battle. This is said to be a scheme to knock Graham out, or to divide the North Platte boys on him as much as possible. Sutherland says he is playing second fields to no music. says he is playing second fiddle to no music, and is in the race to win the plum on merit. But in the rotunda of the Capital or on the streets, you find a jolly crowd and in universal good spirits. In some respects it seems that the political "bosses" of the state are here and congregating simply to review a body of men on dress parade, and not to par-ticipate in what every indication points to the greatest and most exciting political con-test ever hold in the state. The prominent politicisms will all be quartered at the Capital hotel and the music will commence to-mor-

AN OPEN LETTER.

Under date of August 20 the Hon. E. E. Brown has this to say:
I see by a "whereas" preceding a resolution purporting to have been passed at the recent county convention, held in Nemaina county, it was stated that "one E. E. Brown has in some manner unknown to this convention secured the delegation from Landau and the secured vention secured the delegation from Lanconster county to the congressional convention of the First district." The name of the late republican nomince for congressional honors heads both the state and congressional delegations, and it clearly appears that for all practical purposes he was the convention. His manner of securing delegations is so notorious that to those acquainted with his history it is unnecessary to speak. Knowing him as I do I can truly say that I am not surprised to learn that to get a delegation without the use of money or the distribution of railroad passes, or the prom-ise of other railroad favors, is to secure one in a manner entirely unknown to him.

The statement contained in the second whereas, "that I opposed the election of the republican nominee and worked for the election of McShane. a democrat," is false. In fact, I never tried to persuade, or prevent a man from voting for the republican nominee, and I never tried to induce any one to vote for Mr. McShane, nor did I vote for him myself. I may have stated that according to my idea a respectable amount of common honesty is an essential qualification to fit a person for the performance of the duties imposed by any important trust. I know I thought, and possibly I may have given it as my opinion, that Mr. McShane possessed this qualification, and judging from the returns of the last congressional election, there must have been from six thousand to eight thousand republicans the First district who agreed with me in this

In conclusion I will say that I most emphatically deny that during the entire congressional campaign referred to I said one word in favor of the politics of Mr. McShane or against the political principles advocated by the republican party.

E. E. Brown,

THE HORSE BRIGANDS.

For some time past a band of horse traders have infested the city that are little short of robbers. Every day or two complaints come to the police that some boy or greeny has been fleeced out of a horse or team. In consequence frequent arrests have been made and in a number of cases restitution has been made and the cases dropped, while in others.

made and the cases dropped, while in others complaints have been filed charging horse stealing, and parties have been bound over to answer to the district court, and in default of ball have been committed to the county These horse traders or jockeys are a hard lot of citizens, and cause the police officers almost as much trouble as the worst class of law breakers, and yet they continue at large, seeking whom they can fleece. They are slick enough to escape the law, but they are believed to be a class that ought to be for-bidden to practice their trade in the city. Young Howard, who was arrested a day or two ago for seiling horses that did not belong to him, was arraigned before Judge Houston this morning and in default of $500 bail was committed to jail. This young man was worked into his unfortunate posi-tiod by this band of traders, whose names are even unknown to the city authorities, and they escape because tangible evidence cannot be arrayed against them. Will Claypool, of Telmage, another victim of the gang was released from custody this morning. While he was not altogether blameless in his transaction, it became clearly evident that he was as much sinned against as sinning, and upon making matters right was released without any formal complaint having been filed against him. But something ought to be done to rid the city of this lawiess class of horse jockeys.

HELD TO COURT. Mmc. Dubach Will be Brought Before the District Judge. The case of Mme, Duback, in all its disgusting details, was up yesterday afternoon for preliminary examination. The girl Bessie Haloc testified that before going to the Dubach house, she was a virtuous girl, but while there was compelled to entertain men whom the madame solicited. The girl also testified that she had been competled to give Dubach half of her shameful earnings. Ida Smith first went to Dubach's to have her fortune told. While there, she mentioned to the madame that she was paying too much board, and the madame kindly asked her to share her home. In consideration of free board, she was to do sewing and teach the madame to play the organ.

Detective Ormsby said that he was told that the woman kept an assignation house, and he had been watching it. He and Officer Shields arrested the Dubach woman on the night of the disturbance, which led to the

There were several women on the witness stand who roomed at the house, one of them a married woman and one a widow. They were witnesses for the defense, and their testimony tended to prove the good character of Mme. Dubach. One of the girls who rooms there made the statement that she was "a nice, sweet woman."

The detense had a host of witnesses whose statements went to prove that the woman was of good character. There was adduced plenty of dirty testimony, and the result was that the madame was bound over to the district court in the sum of $1,000.

General Sherman as he appeared at Sheridan's funeral: "The figure was that of a tall, spare man, who looks some sixty years of age. His grayish blue eye is keen and straightforward, his face and neck are rosily sunburned, and his nose like an eagle's beak curves to the front with the suggestion of command. A closely trimmed gray beard covers the face and a well-clipped mus-tache clothes the long upper lip. A light alpaca coat hung easily from his strong, big-boned shoulders, under a high camp meeting collar a loose black scarf was tied en neglige across his polished shirt front, and blue flannel trousers fell squarely to a pair of old-fashioned, low-quartered calfskin shoes. Now and then he would lift from his grizzled brown hair an unprententious straw hat in reply to a particularly empresse salutation."

The Largest Tree in America.

Virginia City Enterprise: Mr. Warren, who has seen the big trees of Mari-posa, those of the Big Tree grove in Calaveras county, and all the big trees of the coast range, says there is in no place in California a tree that approaches in size that on the Kaweah. The men had with them no rule, tapeline or measure of any kind, but Mr. Warren measured the tree with his rifle, which is four feet in length. He found it to be forty-four lengths of his gun in circumference at a point as high above the ground as he could reach The top of the tree has been broken off, but it is still of immense height. This monster tree stands in a small basin near the Kaweah, and is surrounded on all sides by a wall of huge rugged rocks. There is so much brush in the vicinity that the little valley in which the big tree stands is almost in-accessible. A landmark, and a notable feature of the landscape, is an immense rock known as Homer's Nose. This rock stands on a mountain that has an elevation of from 8,000 to 9,000 feet above the level of the sea. The rock itself is about five hundred feet in height. It is visible above the pine forests from Tulare valley. The small valley in which the big tree stands is a mile or two east of Homer's Nose. About it are several giant trees, several larger than the big trees of Mariposa.

Lower down the Kaweah is what is called the Giant Forest. At this place a colony of socialists have taken up ten square miles of timber land. On their land are many trees that are from twelve to eighteen feet in diameter. The mountain men say the big trees (the sequoia) are a cross between the redwood and the fir.

Mr. Charles S. Melien came to Omaha last June to assume the office of general purchasing agent of the Union Pacific. His signal ability as exhibited in this short time has fairly won the confidence of his superiors, and his promotion, as a matter of course, is the outgrowth of his success in the subordinate position. his success in the subordinate position.

Mr. Mellen is thirty-seven years old and entered the railway service in 1879, in Now England, where he held confidential and responsible positions with the Northern New Hampshire and the Central Vermont railroads. For the past eight years, and up to last June, he was associated with the Boston & Lowell railroad, of which he was appointed general manager June 1, 1884.

Flying Fruit. During the month of July the Union Pacific railroad shipped over 13,600,000 pounds of fruit across the continent against 7,000,000 pounds in the same month a year ago, nearly doubling the amount carried. The officials attribute this to the increase of speed in the fruit trains. The average time from Ogden to Omaha-a distance of 1,032 miles-is a little over forty hours. One train traveled it in thirty-two hours and forty minutes. Expecting a continued increase of shipments, the company is building new fruit ears for use next year. These have the Miller brakes and platforms like the passenger cars.

News has been received that the fast train from Chicago on the Northwestern, Rock Island and Milwaukee roads will arrive here at 7 a. m., and the Burlington fast train at 7:30 i. m. The changes take effect next Sunday.

MAYNE'S HORSES.

They Once More Return to His Care and Possession.

C. E. Mayne and Charles Corbett have adjusted their difficulty in such a way that Mr. Mayne has been allowed to again take possession of his horses, which were taken from Redick's Saunders street barn Friday night and placed in the Omaha stables by the sheriff for keeping.

Mr. Mayne stated to a BEE reporter in the presence of Corbett's attorney that the atachment on the stock was taken out by Mr. Corbett to protect his mortgage, and that his action was based on a rumor that came from the Platte Valley ranch that he (Mayne) was selling and disposing of the stock to avoid the payment of this note held by Corbett. "As soon as I explained the matter to Mr.

Mr. Corbett's attorney stated that his client and Mr. Mayne had come to an agreement about the mortgage and attachment, and that the note would be paid all right, and Mr. Corbett would not ask for any $1,000 damages as claimed in his petition for atachment for the illegal detention of the

My Reason for Writing a Book Upon Private, Special and Nervous Diseases.

I have for many years made a specialty of diseases of the urmary and sexual organs, have become a recognized authority upon the subject, consequently 1 receive an immense number of letters from physicians and afflicted persons, asking my opinion and advice upon individual cases. For the benefit of such persons, I bavewrit ten a book giving a general description of the most common diseases and conditions, my treatment, success, advice, etc. After reading it, persons will have a clearer idea of their condition and can write me more intelligently and to the point. It will therefore be seen that our object in writing these pages is not to furnish reading matter to a class of persons who read out of mere idle curiosity, but for the benefit of the many who are suffering to a greater or less degree from diseases, or the effects of diseases or abuses, of the sexual or urinary organs. Not a day passes but we receive many calls or letters from persons suffering from this class of diseases, or their sequal. Many of them are ignorant of the cause of the difficulty that has wrecked their constitutions, thrown a cloud over their bright prospects and in shortening their days.
