Mrs. Hannah Wych, wife of J. H. Wych, died Monday afternoon at her home on Canning street. The funeral will take place to-day, and the remains will be interred in Walnut Hill cemetery.

Unity Guild society which was to hold their regular meeting August 23, at the residence of Mrs. Harris, is postponed until further notice, on account of the dangerous illness of one of the members.

The carpenter work on the Neumeyer hotel is completed, and the building will soon be ready for occupancy. The contractor, A. W. Covatt, has performed a piece of work in the construction of the building that is highly creditable to him.

Mr. J. Neumeyer did not go to Chicago on any other city for the furnishing of his new hotel. The Council Bluffs Carpet company have the supplying of all carpets, curtains, shades, etc. Home dealers should have the benefit of home trade. This is a lesson all can learn with profit to themselves and all others.

Married, at the residence of the bride's parents in this city Tuesday at 4 o'clock p. m., Mr. Frank E. Lyon to Miss Jennie C. Vredenberg. Rev. W. H. W. Rees officiated. Mr. Lyon has been editor of the Gravit Echo and has gone with his bride to Chicago, where in Morgan Park seminary he will study for the ministry in the Congregational church.

The knitting factory will start up full blast to-day. The factory was shut down because of some difference between the manager and the stockholders as the best way to provide ready cash with which to tide over the time before returns begin coming in for goods manufactured. The financial arrangements have been perfected, so that the factory can carry its customers without crippling itself. The enterprise has demonstrated the fact pretty satisfactorily that it can be made to pay well if sufficient capital is put into the business to conduct it properly. The stockholders are very confident, not only of a profitable venture, but also that the factory will grow in size and consequent increase of business.

Money loaned at L. B. Crafts & Co.'s loan office, on pianos, organs, harness, wagons, personal property of all kinds, and all other articles of value without removal. All business strictly confidential.

Mrs. L. H. Douglas, who has been stopping in the city for several months, left yesterday for Cleveland and Cincinnati. She expects to return in October.

Motor Mince Meat. Last evening the motor train ran into a team belonging to P. H. Wind, at the corner of Fourth avenue and Ninth street, and a valuable gray horse was killed. It is stated that the boy who was driving the team was looking at some other boys playing ball, and did not notice the approach of the motor.

THE BEE has frequently remarked the absence of proper warning signals on the motors, and prophesied an accident as the result of it. In the present case a proper whistle or bell would have called the driver's attention, even if his mind was otherwise occupied. It seems that the accident is to be attributed directly to the negligence of the motor management, or to the carelessness of its employees.

That Deadly Frog Again. Yesterday afternoon Henry Rowling, a "Q" messenger boy, met with a terrible misfortune. He was off duty for a little while and was playing around the railroad yard, when his foot caught in a frog.

The little fellow upon a switch engine bearing down upon him and he vainly tried to release himself from his awful position. The engine did not realize the position of the lad until it was too late to entirely save him.

Just before the engine struck him the little fellow, with admirable coolness, threw himself to the outside of the track. After the engine had passed the boy was taken up, when it was found that the entire forward portion of the foot had been cut off. He was quickly taken to the parents' residence, 712 Twelfth avenue, where Dr. Lacy attended him. The accident means much to the lad, but that he escaped with his life is remarkable.

This accident is but one of many which have occurred in the yards here by means of these unprotected frogs. The law of the state specially designates that all frogs shall be "blocked," that is, planked across so that nothing larger than the flange of the wheel can enter it. If the law was obeyed these accidents would not be possible, but it is not obeyed. In all the yards fully one-half the frogs are entirely unprotected. In many cases the planking has been done, but has become broken and has not been repaired.

The condition of things, the non-compliance with the law, the neglect of life and limb, is little short of criminal neglect, and the railroads which thus either carelessly or willfully disregard the rights of the people should be given a lesson they will not be swift to forget.

There's Music in the Air. Arrangements are about completed by which a pipe organ manufactory will be located here. The matter has been handled very quietly, with no flourish of trumpets, but the fact that the business is in the hands of men who are thoroughly practical, and first-class organ builders as well, there is no question as to the fact, above stated. The builder is one who has already two of his best instruments in the churches of this city and has been here recently to look over the ground with the view of branching out the business as indicated. The location of the factory, in a rapidly developing country and other material things have conspired to bring this end about. The gentleman will be associated with local men who have both money and experience in this branch of manufactory. Within a short time the matter will assume a more definite and tangible form. These are the things upon which Council Bluffs must depend for a legitimate and healthy growth in the future. They are the initial points of self-support and everything which can aid in securing this result should be heartily done by all our people.

They All Want Protection. There is considerable complaint from citizens living upon the streets now undergoing improvements on account of the recklessness exhibited by many of the men employed. It is claimed that these men, while running the sewer ditches and laying the pipe, not only drive carelessly, defacing trees, fences, etc., but they mix their mortar, or cement beds, upon the parking, thus destroying the sod. The majority of the people having homes abutting these streets, take a great amount of pride in improving their places, and after they have been to this trouble and expense they naturally do not wish to have their places lessened. It would seem to be the duty of the contractors to see that the rights of the citizens are protected in these matters, and, possibly, with this reference to them, these practices will be abated.

The Unruly Ones. The boozers and peace disturbers had each goodly delegations in police court yesterday morning, and they were cinched by the judge in a manner that will make them rather careful for some time to come.

THE PEACE DISTURBERS.

The peace disturbers had also partaken of the deadly brewer at the Mint, which affected them strangely before they could even get out of doors. The result was a free for all "scrap," in which somebody would have been hurt, but for the fact that Captains Dyer and Anderson and Officer Fowler were watching the fun from the other side of the street, and a hand in the game immediately after the first blood was dealt.

Dyer held the ace of clubs and raked in the whole pot. Bert Smith concluded that he did not want to spend the night in the hole, and "lit out" followed by Anderson, who captured him after a run of three blocks. The autographs of the trio, as inscribed on the register, were E. Johnson, James Donohue and Smith. Johnson was fined $9.00, and the cases of the others were continued.

Getting a Chance For His Boy. The rumor was widely spread on the streets yesterday that W. R. Vaughan had bought the Evening Herald. The presence of Mr. Vaughan about the Herald office rather confirmed the report, but that gentleman, on being interrogated for the benefit of THE BEE reporter, stated that he had no thought of a controlling interest in that paper. He had for some time been determined to make a newspaper man out of his son, W. R. Vaughan, Jr., and in furtherance of that plan had been buying up some of the stock of the Council Bluffs Herald. Young Walter would take the position of solicitor, and would begin work right away. Mr. Vaughan has for some time been attending to the Omaha business of that paper, and naturally has not been in the success of this prohibition sheet, makes way for the young man to take a position with it. Young Vaughan has a good deal of his father's ways, and will doubtless develop into a like successful solicitor.

A Dark War Cloud. The illustrious Johnson family appeared in court yesterday. The Johnsons are colored aristocrats, but they are subject to failings common to more plebeian Ethiopians, hence their presence in Aylesworth's judicial parlors. A little misunderstanding among themselves resulted in an open breach, and hostilities were declared. The cause of all the trouble was a bonnet trade between the two dusky daughters, Cora and Maggie. The old lady Johnson resides in Omaha, and Cora lives in her mother's home on Pierce street. Maggie is a domestic at Stella Long's baggage, and Henry, a brother, keeps a hole-in-the-wall near by. The two girls traded hats back and forth a few times, and finally a quarrel ensued. The mother happened over on a visit, and espoused the cause of Cora. This greatly incensed Maggie, and she proceeded to "liff dem two black niggers" in a most unbecoming manner. As a result of this juncture, Henry, the chivalrous son and brother, took a hand and threw Maggie to the floor, where he choked her, pulled her hair, scratched her face, pounded her teeth loose, and in sundry other affectionate ways remonstrated with her for getting so worked up. As soon as possible she rang up the police.

In the course of the trial Cora became somewhat excited and embraced the girl marshal, who, in doing so, was charged with keeping the peace. The court reviewed the case at some length, and fined Maggie and Henry $14.00 each, and discharged the other two. Cora was profuse in her thanks to the court, and promised him a large slice of "watermelon" when next he visited his barn on Pierce street. It is probable that the judge appreciated the offer, although he failed to express his thanks.

Another Gasoline Blaze. There was a slight blaze at Chris Larson's grocery store, 907 South Main street, yesterday afternoon. A clerk took a lamp down cellar to draw some gasoline, and set it down about twelve feet away. The gas from the fluid came in contact with the flame, and for a few minutes things looked serious. The department was quickly on the scene, and the fire extinguished with a loss not to exceed $10. Gasoline has been the cause of several incendious blazes of late, still those who handle it do not seem to profit by the experience of others.

Fulton Explains. THE BEE yesterday morning gave a brief item in regard to a $5 gold piece being dropped accidentally through the grating on the Main street side of the Boston Tea company's store, and the refusal of the clerk inside to let the stranger recover it. It now appears that the person inside was Mr. Fulton, one of the firm. He is quite hot over the insinuation that he had any intention of keeping the money. He explains his refusal to let the man get the money by saying that he was afraid it was a put up job. He was afraid they wanted to rob the store. His refusal to admit Chief Lucas was indicated by him in saying that he did not see the chief. It seems that Mr. Fulton, by his peculiar actions, his timidity, or stubbornness, placed himself in a position to arouse suspicions which were not justly having no intention of keeping the money himself. He says he intended to let them get it in the morning. Another time he will probably act differently under like circumstances.

Ernest Feige, of East Saginaw, Mich., one of the contractors for the furniture for the new government building, arrived in the city yesterday morning, accompanied by Henry Melchess, of the same city.
