WEDNESDAY IN THE BLUFFS.

Little Attention is Paid to Its Own Ordinances.

ANOTHER CHAPTER ON SEWAGE.

Wedding Bells—Sollitude at Manawa—How He Lost His Foot—Bar Docket and Grand Jury—Council Proceedings.

Not to be Admired.

The city council should take steps immediately for the enforcement of the ordinance relating to dirt wagons.

The ordinance was passed some time ago, but is a dead letter so far as any benefit from it is concerned. The wagons daily deposit their usual amount of dirt on the paved streets, and the street commissioner is compelled to keep a force busy cleaning up after them at a constant expense to taxpayers.

Some of the paved streets receive the greater part of their deposit from the dirt washed down from the bluffs by heavy rains, but this is the case only in a few instances. Streets that are not affected in this way in the slightest degree become coated with mud to the depth of two inches, which is the direct result of the negligence of the city officials to enforce the ordinance above referred to. This is the only particular that the council officials exhibit indifference. Yesterday afternoon a wagon loaded with corn husks from the cannery factory, piled high above the wagon box, was driven along Main street and Broadway, a quantity of the husks spilling out upon the paving at every step, but no one interfered, although there was any amount of kicking from citizens who objected to having the principal streets littered up until they closely resembled a hog yard.

In the same way loads of ashes and garbage are driven through the streets and the utmost indifference exhibited as to whether or not a part of it is deposited along the public thoroughfares. A few parties have been arrested, but have needed ignorance of the ordinance or that they were "doing the same as all the rest," and have been discharged. What is needed is a strict enforcement of the ordinance and a severe penalty upon those who are guilty of its infringement. A few good laws will not needlessly inflict the extra expense upon them. The streets were paved to get rid of the mud, and not to afford a foundation upon which to deposit a lot of filth and crude malaria. If the council proposes to allow the matter to continue as it is, it is folly to think of doing any additional paving, as a very fair grade and depth of mud can be secured on the unpaved streets for considerably less than $1.36 per square foot. There are now several miles of first-class paving in the city, and it certainly seems as if the council could keep it clean at a less expense than they now have. Prevention is better than cure—the less there is deposited, the less there is to be carried away.

Travelers! Stop at the Bechtels.

Not the Great Unwashed.

The sewer system of the city and its condition has lately been made the subject of some newspaper comment and criticism. The statement made that insufficient attention is paid to this matter by the proper authorities, that the sewers are clogged up and in a foul condition, is disputed by the city engineer. That official says that during the heated term and until this date special attention has been paid to this matter and all the main sewers have been kept as clean as it is possible to do. Some complaint was recently made of both the Fifth avenue and Ninth avenue mains and they were given prompt attention. As to the other mains there has been no complaint.

Said the city engineer: "These statements are ill-considered and harmful in the extreme, for a wrong impression has gone out among the people which materially interferes with the work we have yet on hand to do. Of course I am willing to be criticised for any failures in my office work, but a paper should be careful and state only facts; then no harm can result."

Charming Cupid.

There was a happy gathering of friends yesterday afternoon at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Wallace, to witness the marriage of their daughter, Miss Mabel Wallace, to Mr. James H. Wyman, of Des Moines. The rooms were elaborately and tastefully decorated, and especially the parlor in which the ceremony was performed. The arches beneath which the wedding party was to stand were wreathed in green and brightened by flowers, among the designs being a large horse shoe. Long white satin ribbons served as guides, reserving the center of the room for the bridal party, and making a clear passage way from the foot of the massive stairway. The guests being given their places, at the arrival of the appointed hour, 3:30, the music started. Prof. Lippert at the piano rendered Mendelssohn's Hochzeit March, and the bridal party descended the stairway and entered the parlor. The bride was leaning upon the arm of her father, and the groom and Mrs. Wallace followed. As they took their places, the Rev. Mr. Crofts, pastor of the Congregational church, began the service, which was in strict following of the Episcopal ritual. The bride was dressed in pure white, with veil, and her only jewelry was a beautiful diamond brooch. She carried a large bouquet, and her costume was very rich, yet apparently simple. The service was followed by the usual opportunity for the expression of congratulations and well wishes.

The repast which followed was very nicely served. The dining room was temptingly adorned, there being in the center a large mound of all fruits, with bouquets at the corners of the table. The bride and groom occupied a table in the doorway, thus honoring the guests in both rooms.

There was a very large number of remembrances in the way of gifts, varied and elegant, novel and useful.

Sollitude at Manawa.

There is a great contrast between Manawa in the afternoon and evening and in the forenoon. To see three or four thousand jolly folks gathered there on a gala evening, one can hardly imagine how dreary and lonesome the scene is the next morning. Yesterday forenoon a BEE Investigator took a run down to the lake. There were but two passengers on the motor. On arriving at the hotel there was a funeral hush everywhere about the house, drawn curtains and deserted piazzas. Of all the steamboats on the lake but one was steamed up, and this made the trip across to the beach, carrying the party, lonesome tourists. But one rowboat was on the lake, and that was out simply as an experiment. The navigators had fixed up a stern wheel and some sort of a device for hand propelling with a crank attachment. All else was as lifeless as a painted ship upon a painted ocean. At the beach there was a little scrubbing of both houses and wringing of bathing suits preparatory to the evening rush. The ice cream booths were closed, the bathing gallery deserted and everything as dead as the sand on the beach. One solitary youngster had perched himself on the end of the spring board and was drowsily waiting for some sucker to nibble his bait. It's a dreary sort of a place when the crowd is scattered and the lake is left alone.

How He Lost His Foot.

Henry Rohlfing, the boy who lost a foot in the "Q" yards Tuesday afternoon, is getting along as nicely as could be expected. His version of the affair is that he was on duty at the time, and was walking down the track to deliver a message. He was between the tracks, and saw an engine and three cars coming toward him. He stepped over to the other track, and was walking backward watching the cars that had passed, when his heel became caught in the "frog," and he was held there fast. A switchman came to his rescue, but was unable to release him, and pulled his body outside the rails, so that he might escape with the loss of a foot. The wheels passed over the foot from the point of the heel to the instep, tearing the flesh up to the ankle. The injured member was amputated by Drs. Lacey and Green, at a point a few inches above the ankle. The boy stood the operation splendidly, and will probably recover. Comparatively little blood was lost during the operation, and the patient was yesterday quite strong. His injury will keep him in the house for several weeks to come.

Four vags appeared in the police court yesterday morning, and were sent over the same road as others of their class, who have business with Judge Aylesworth in his official capacity. They will pose on the streets for the next ten days, as objects of public property.

Pat Murphy was relieved of $8.10 to satisfy the claims of justice. William Smith, R. O. Boyce, Arthur Wisner, Bert Sorenson and Charles Gilton figured in the case of "bleeds." They became very noisy on Upper Broadway, and were run in for disturbing the peace. Their cases were continued.

Patrons of the Pacific House have none but words of praise for the attention given them.

A Rouser For Manawa.

The Council Bluffs Rowing association is making an effort to hold a grand regatta at Lake Manawa about September 6, at which all the amateur champion scullers and oarsmen of the United States and Canada will be here, and if sufficient inducement is offered they will stop over and row for gold medals.

They are on their way to Salt Lake City, Utah, to attend a regatta given up by the railroad companies to advertise the salt lake, and only champion crews and scullers were invited to attend.

The following entries can be secured for Council Bluffs:

Double sculls—Hori & Wainard, twice on the lake; King, of Muchmore & King, of Minneapolis; Kilby & Schneck, of Ottumwa and Council Bluffs.

Single sculls—J. E. Corbet, champion of the world; J. E. Muchmore, of Minneapolis, and E. L. Kilby, champion of Iowa.

Pair oared shells—Gastriek and Malcom, twice champions of the world; Livingston and Malo, of the Sylvans, and Council Bluffs.

Four oared shells—Sylvans, of Maline, who have never been beaten; Larlines, of Minneapolis; O-wash-tang-ong, of Grand Rapids; Farragut, of Chicago, and Council Bluffs.

For fast and exciting races this regatta will be equalled by none ever held in the United States, and Council Bluffs is very fortunate to have an opportunity to bid for it.

A meeting was held last evening at the office of Dr. Seybert to consider the matter, but owing to the small attendance it was postponed until tomorrow evening, when everybody interested in the matter is requested to meet at the board of trade rooms at 8 o'clock.

Such a regatta as that proposed would advertise Manawa and Council Bluffs very extensively, and the opportunity should not be allowed to pass. It would bring thousands of people to the city from surrounding towns. The associations will pass through this city on their way westward next Sunday morning, and it is designed to hold the regatta on the lake. Other interests would be benefited in proportion. It certainly seems as if there would be no difficulty whatever in securing the desired amount, and it is hoped that interested parties will not fail to be present at the meeting to-morrow evening.

The New First Reader.

Detroit Free Press: Lesson I.—"Let us go upon the street car and take a long ride. Do you see with what swiftness it goes? Other interests would be benefited in proportion. It certainly seems as if there would be no difficulty whatever in securing the desired amount, and it is hoped that interested parties will not fail to be present at the meeting to-morrow evening."

"You must hang on to your hat or you will lose it. Do you see the lady with pink strings on her bonnet?"

"Yes, I see her. Is she very pale and nervous? Is she afraid that the car will run off the track?"

"Not exactly. She is worried about the conductor."

"Is he not a good man?"

"He is a noble fellow, with a wife and ten children to support; but she is afraid of his eyesight. Do you see that coin in her fingers?"

"Yes. It is a silver quarter."

"No, my son; it is a lead quarter—one she has been trying to get rid of for a month. Now he comes along and she hands it out and smiles and sweetly exclaims: 'Tickets, please!'"

"And the conductor?"

"He smiles sweetly but sadly."

"And?"

"And returns it with the remark that she ought to have worked it off on circus days."

"And is she sorrowful?"

"Oh, no. She is mad as a wet hen, and she takes the number of the car and she tries to have the conductor bounced for incivility to passengers."

Lesson II.—"It is night, but if you have sharp eyes you can see a man in the shadow of the trees across the way."

"Yes, I see him. He seems to be spying out the house."

"So he is. Some folks might jump to the conclusion that he is a burglar, but he is not. He is, on the contrary, one of our most estimable citizens, and lives in that very house."

"Why does he do act so queerly?"

"They all do when out till this late hour. He is taking time to decide."

"Must he decide something?"

"He must. He must decide whether to walk in openly and boldly, or his wife, he was detained at the office on important business, or sneak in and hope to find her asleep, and then vow next morning that it was only 10 o'clock."

"But wasn't he detained at the office?"

"Oh, yes, but it's an old chestnut, you know."

"Perhaps she is asleep."

"Perhaps she isn't. That's her at the upper window, and she is watching him. Poor man! How sad his lot! But such is life in a great city."

Watermelon Juice for the Complexion.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat: Miss Carrie Townsend, South St. Louis, tells the following: "I always have a feeling of pity for girls who have florid or sallow complexions, or whose faces are bespattered with freckles, looking as if they had been about when a bean bin had exploded in their faces. I have not because of any harm that the freckles do, for really I think them nice, as they are evidence of a pure, light and healthy complexion, but because the removal of them or the sallowness is so easily effected by the use of my face wash. I accidentally discovered a sovereign remedy a couple of years ago, which cost next to nothing."

"One day the plumber shut our water off and I could get none in which to wash my face. I was fearful of soiled, and looking out of the window just when I saw a friend approaching to call on me. Glancing about me I noticed half of a watermelon from which the meat had been removed some time before. It was so full of juice that I had to wash my face in it. The result was so soothing that I repeatedly washed my face in that manner. Judge of my astonishment, a few days later, on seeing that there was not a freckle left on my
