

THE DAILY BEE. COUNCIL BLUFFS.

OFFICE, NO. 12 PEARL STREET. Delivered by Carrier in Any Part of the City at Twenty Cents Per Week.

TELEPHONES: BUSINESS OFFICE, No. 43. NIGHT EDITOR, No. 24. MINOR MENTION.

N. Y. Plumbing Company. Reuter, the tailor, 319 Broadway, has received a full line of fine fall goods.

L. J. Johnson was yesterday sent up for fifteen days for stealing a coat from a farmer's wagon.

A large number of the citizens of the Bluffs attended the old settlers' reunion at Malvern yesterday.

The Bluffs club visited Logan yesterday to try issues with the nine of that enterprising little city.

The offices of Dr. Cleaver have just come from the hands of the decorators, and they are very handsome.

A marriage license was issued yesterday to Elsworth E. Clark and Ida Garrett, both of Washington township.

Twenty-three car loads of steel rails for the electric motor line have just been received over the Northwestern.

Mrs. Ella Barker yesterday swore out a warrant against her husband for threatening to shoot her and her three children.

Patrick Quirk yesterday pleaded guilty to disturbing the peace by filling up with hudge and shooting off his gun in the "Mint."

The funeral of C. W. Dwinell took place at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon from his late residence, on Benton street.

The ladies of Harmony mission have arranged for a dime sociable at Mr. John Fair's, 247 Harmony street, this evening for the benefit of the Christian home.

Frank Trimble was arrested last evening in the moon called "The Mint" charged with having pocketed a pocket of a man who was in the saloon at the time.

As Miss Carrie Stevens, daughter of S. S. Stevens, was driving along Pearl street yesterday the horse slipped and fell, breaking the buggy, but the young lady fortunately escaped without injury.

Chris Markoben yesterday visited the office of the city clerk and swore out a warrant for the arrest of his brother Henry for assault. The case will come up for a hearing to-day before Judge Aylesworth.

The delegates to the "deep water" convention at Denver are requested to secure their sleeping-car accommodations not later than this afternoon. The delegation will leave Sunday noon over the Union Pacific.

The school board met last night and had quite a stormy session over the assignment of teachers and the cleaning of janitors. The matter will probably be fixed up this morning and the full list published in to-morrow's BEE.

Mayor Rohrer has made the following changes in the delegates to the Denver convention, owing to the inability of some of those formerly appointed to attend: Judge W. C. James instead of J. J. Steadman, and F. H. Hill instead of E. L. Shugart.

Workmen are being employed to put a protecting cornice upon the base of the spire of St. John's church. Through a fault in the architecture, during the rains have been allowed to leap through until no little damage has resulted. This cornice is to furnish the protection indicated.

To-morrow evening the Daughters of Rebecca expect to go to Omaha, where they will meet with the order in that city and spend an evening of pleasurable association. While the men of the two cities are forming a closer acquaintance and business relations the ladies think the same course should obtain with the ladies. And they are right.

The Y. M. C. A. is to have a new secretary, or one who will act temporarily. The choice has fallen upon G. S. Addams, of Chicago. This gentleman is young in years, but of fine attainments, being a graduate of Cornell university and having taken a complete course of training for this work at Geneva. Mr. Addams will undoubtedly find a warm place in the hearts of his people.

On the first of January last the Y. M. C. A. was more than $600 in debt. Those having charge of the association saw themselves to the task of clearing off this debt, and so well have they succeeded that the last dollar has been paid up. This, in addition to defraying the current expenses, was no easy task when it is considered that no "soliciting" was done. The association is to be congratulated.

Last evening Miss Mollie Rice gave a very pleasant party to about fifty of the young folks at the home of her parents, corner of Fourth street and Willow avenue. Canvas was spread on the floor of the parlors, and —, with canvas on the floor of an elegant home, with a charming hostess, the liveliest music and a congenial company, how could there be anything but a delightful time. Choice flowers tastefully arranged lent their beauty and fragrance to the occasion, and a dainty menu delicately served only tended to the complete enjoyment of the evening.

The paving of Harrison street is now well under way and the contractors expect to complete it on Monday next. On account of the treacherous soil that street has caused the city and the property owners on the street no little trouble. To prevent a washing out under the paving a bulkhead has been sunk at the head of the street. In addition to this the approach from the hills will be graded up with clay, thoroughly tamped. This, as is well known, is very hard and will undoubtedly give that point sufficient protection from the water. The contractors, Messrs. McAdam & Amberg, are receiving many compliments upon the character of the work they are doing, not only upon this street, but upon others embraced in their contract.

Watching "Q" Freight. Some of those who are interested in the result of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy strike have organized a systematic espionage for the purpose of ascertaining what firms and business houses are having freight shipped over the road. The intimation is that those firms which stand by the strikers and have their goods shipped over other roads will be given the preference in waters of business where preference can be shown. The list already gathered is quite large and all cases are being examined closely that the real facts may be ascertained. The gathering of this desired information is going on very quietly and very shrewdly. The result will probably be kept from the public save as it manifests itself in the course of business transactions.

It is understood that a like move is being made in other places, the intention being evidently to bring all possible pressure to bear to induce business men to throw their freight to other roads as far as possible.

Postmaster Bowman's private office is fit for a king, and its luxurious apartments will be greatly appreciated by the favored few who enter its portals.

In fact, the entire building is well worth a careful examination, and the citizens should avail themselves of the opportunity to inspect it.

Latest Fashions. Woman's World for September: How much woman's fashions are influenced by the milliner? The universal "wearing of the green" can hardly be said to be becoming, pretty as prevailing styles in dress certainly are. The lightest Charles-tones suit only very young, fair-skinned and yet nothing dainty, blondes and brunettes, women of all ages, all forms, and all complexions, have accepted it, with the confidence of utter ignorance as to the disastrous results. It harmonizes only with cream and black, but a pink rose nestling in hat or bonnet goes specially well with apple-green, the pink being of the tone of apple-blossom. Palmerston defined dirt as "a thing in the wrong place," and many colors good in themselves and beautiful in nature are altogether ill-placed and ugly in dress.

Steel trimmings have come to the fore, either in or out of mourning. Sleeveless jackets, composed entirely of fine steel beads on an invisible ground, have a row of large, round buttons to fall over the shoulders, and these have been worn over green and black dresses, with panels of the same fine work on the skirt, and cuffs and collars on the bodices. Many of the coats have been ornamented with large, round buttons, and the pockets elaborately worked to match.

Yellow is the color which seems best to accord with late summer and early autumn, but the yellow worn this season is not the yellow of a deeper tone than the light corn-color, which suits a dark skin so well, and accords with sunshine. Yellow roses of all colors crown the leghorn hats, whose broad brims are now twisted into fantastic forms, and the old hats of this kind worn by the Miss Kenwigs (whom Dickens immortalized), flapping down well in the front and at the back, the long plaits of hair tied at the end with ribbon still beautify.

A wig described in the latest fashion in head gear as a "Home Rule" bonnet, because it had no crown, and some of the newest models, literally, have no crown at all, only an aperture bordered with a wreath of roses, the back of hair showing well through. It requires an education to tell a hat from a bonnet now, or certainly a bonnet from a toque. Most of the newest bonnets have no strings. The toques may be a little closer, and, when standing up in a point over the face, show the fringe of hair, which makes them becoming. They are often composed of plain un-plaited straw of rose wigs, and other unusual material, spring being quite the rage now. The new use is of a very light shade; the bonnet is made of it in a fancy plait, and the agrette of loops to match. The dress to wear with such a bonnet could be trimmed with coarse, wooly made-up wigs, ending the velvet cuffs and collars, and this forms a happy contrast. Feathers have yielded the palm to ribbons and artificial flowers, which are used in such profusion that the entire crowns of hats and bonnets are hidden by them. This is a step in the right direction. A superabundance of feathers has been worn of late, recalling the story of a certain Lady Cork, who, a century ago, wore so large a plume in her turban that the critic of the day said she resembled a "whistling-cock, all cork and feathers."

Coffee as a Disinfectant. Coffee is a handy and harmless disinfectant. Experiments have been made in Europe to prove this. A quantity of meat was hung up in a closed room until decomposed, and then a chafing dish was introduced and 500 grammes of coffee thrown on the fire—in a few minutes the room was completely disinfected. In another room sublimated hydrogen and ammonia were developed, and ninety grammes of coffee destroyed the smell in about half a minute. It is also stated that coffee destroys the smell of musk, castoreum and musafetida. As a proof that the noxious smells are really decomposed by the fumes of coffee, and not merely overpowered by them, it is stated that the first vapors of the coffee were not absorbed at all, but were actually absorbed, while the other smells gradually diminish as the fumigation continues. The best way to effect this fumigation is to pound the coffee in a mortar, add then steam it on a plate, which, however, must not be red hot.

Dear Curiosity. Eugene, eight-year-old son of Captain Rapall, met with a severe accident yesterday morning on Severance street. He was watching some house movers, and while standing behind the main rollers, attached to the windlass, the chain broke and the capstan bar flew back and struck him on the breast, breaking the collar bone and inflicting painful bruises. He was attended to by Dr. Pinney, and is doing well. It was a lucky escape for the little fellow, who narrowly escaped being killed.

The electric motor company is making arrangements for the erection of a car house, 75x200 feet, at the corner of Avenue A and Twentieth street. This structure will not only be used as a car house, but will also contain the repair shop of the company. Work on the building will be commenced immediately.

ately. The track is being laid on Avenue A at a lively rate, and arrangements are now being made for connecting with Broadway. The line will cross over to Broadway, just east of Indian creek, and the company aims to do away with sharp curves, thus increasing the speed and insuring the safety of passengers.
