Gorman's minstrels appear at Dohany's this evening, and will doubtless be greeted with a packed house. On the occasion of their last visit standing room was at a premium.

The habeas corpus proceeding of A. M. Fairfield for the possession of his child, has been continued until the regular term of the district court, which convenes to-morrow.

Yesterday morning Rev. G. W. Crofts, pastor of the Congregational church of this city, who has returned from his summer vacation, preached to a full house on "The Work of the Holy Spirit." The music was effectively rendered by a quartette consisting of Miss Christie, Miss Liddell, Prof. McDermaid and Mr. Westcott.

There was a lively "scrap" at the Western house at an early hour yesterday morning. The police arrived and all of the participants were taken into custody. Henry Kaler had skipped out. George Rodney hired a team at the "Blank" store on Broadway, for the purpose of "driving his mother out home." The Printers and Grocers played a lively game of ball at the Driving park yesterday afternoon, resulting in a crushing defeat for the latter nine by a score of 23 to 4. The thief rode rapidly down Broadway and has not been seen since. The horse was found grazing in a ravine near the packing house yesterday morning. The harness and buggy have not been heard from. It is supposed that the thief had intended to get away from him and returned home. The identity of the party is unknown. The police are looking for him.

Yesterday was a very "heavy" day at Lake Manawa, the attendance being barely a hundred. The proposed ball game with the Crane Bros. team did not come off, as the visiting club failed to put in an appearance. The few visitors amused themselves in the usual manner. The hotel was opened for the day but the management are conducting the place in such a manner that no money can be lost there, even if none is made. If the regatta is secured for the 6th and 7th of September it will make things lively at the lake; otherwise it is probable that this season's business is nearly at an end.

made the commandments of God of no effect. There is truth enough in her creed to save every sinner. The speaker referred to notable examples of this fact, names made immortal by their connection of good deeds and heroic lives.

The other elements of strength noted by the speaker are: The devotion of the church to art and the esthetic part of nature. Its extraordinary organization. Her use of every talent in the church. Her relation to political parties and her flexibility, or her power to adjust herself to new conditions of society. She is cast in iron, her creed, so that here she never changes, but she has such power of adaptation that she fits herself to various conditions of society and forms of government. She is very different here in the United States from what she is in Italy and Spain. Different in England and Germany from what she is in Austria and Portugal. In one country she is the friend of education and learning; in another an enemy of the same. In one country she represents it. In one country she advocates the largest liberty of conscience and freedom from all interference by government in matters of religion; in another she calls upon the state to suppress all dissent from the most severe measures.

This sermon will be followed soon by one upon the "Weakness of Romanism," thus giving both sides of this question as reviewed from the position occupied by this revered gentleman.

Saturday afternoon a young man representing himself as the son of George Graybill, hired a livery rig at Dohany's stable to go a few miles into the country. He drove to Omaha and offered to sell the outfit for $175. One of the horses was recognized by a man named Peterson, who put the police on the track of the fellow. He was arrested and gave the name of Frank White, which proves to be his correct name. Mr. Dohany was notified of the capture and he sent Mr. James Brooks after the team and man. White consented to return to Iowa soil, and was accordingly brought back here yesterday afternoon and lodged in the county jail. Officer Ward, of the Omaha force, was detailed by Chief Seavey to bring the fellow across. The prisoner was recovered intact.
