A DAY AT BETHANY HEIGHTS

Laying of the Corner Stone of Lincoln's New University.

LINCOLN BUREAU OF THE OMARA BEE,) 1020 P STREET, LINCOLN, August 30.

At 8 o'clock this morning the state missionary convention of the Christian church was called to order at St. Paul's M. E. church, and after a brief sitting adjourned to Bethany Heights, the site of the new university, to participate in the exercises of laying the corner stone, plenicking and other pleasures. The day has been a memorable one in the history of the church in this city and state. It has been anxiously anticipated for some weeks past and proved a full fruition of the highest hopes.

On the morning's adjournment private and public conveyances were in active demand by a large number of people who were anxious to reach the grounds at an early hour, but prior arrangements had been so thoroughly made that waiting was scarcely realized. The K. of P. band paraded the principal streets of the city between 9 and 10 o'clock, and just after the latter hour the principal procession left for the university rounds from the corner of Eleventh and O treets, and from 11 o'clock to the lunchcon hour the time was employed in singing and

Lots sold for a fair price, giving evidence that, the Christian people have confidence in the greatest enterprise they have undertaken in the state. At 8 occlock the box containing the conv of

At 3 o'clock the box containing the copy of records, including the city papers and The BER, were ready for the receptacle and the exercises of laying the corner stone com-menced. The music was under the direction of Davis Errett, of Omaha, and was fine. The same can be said of all the exercises of the day. Elder B. J. Radford, associate editor of the Christian Standard, of Cincin-nati, O., but a resident of Eureka, III., was the principal speaker. His style is clear, happy and convincing, and he ranks among the great christian orators of the country. Dr. F. M. Kirkham, editor of the Oracle, of Des Moines, I.a. Elder T. J. Williamson, of Nebraska City, State Evangolist Barrow and Elder Johnson, formerly pastor of the church in this city, also talked briefly. The exercises throughout were interesting and impressive. At 3 o'clock the box containing the copy of

This club of winsome young indies nucl-bers over thirty members, all of whom evince deep interest in the success of democracy and the return of the first lady of the union to the white house. About half of the club attended the state convention yesterday. But hard hearts re-lented in this event and the ladies were treated with chivalric courtesy, but their counsels were not noticeably sought, and their faces beamed with intelligence upon all questions sprung during the deliberations of the convention. The members of the club here were also or present at the meeting of the here were also present at the meeting of the state league at Bohanon's hall has night. The fact of Omaha section is thigh and the business to the basis fact of Omaha's establishing an English and American syndicate (limited) in Chicago, was considered by most of the leading capi-talists an unusual and highly improbable un-dertaking. At all events, they knew nothing of the scheme and less, if that were possible, of the promoters, and were, in fact, disposed to look upon the whole matter as a fraud. This impression was atrengthendd by the suspicious manner in which the episode was brought to a close.

DAMAGE BY A MORTGAGE.

An Interesting Suit to be Heard in the District Court.

Nisson, Alvord & Co. have sued the Rector Withelmy company for $3,000 damages for the filing of a chattel mortgage for $800 held against the plaintiffs. The defendants were given a chattel mortgage on hardware stock of the first firm to secure the payment of four promissory notes.
