The King's Daughters.

Among the secret orders in existence there s none which is doing more to benefit fallen humanity and aid the poor than the King's Daughters.

According to the latest enumeration of the badge-maker, the organization comprises 14,600 members. Yet it was so recently as January, 1886, that ten ladies met to consider some plan which should unite christian women into one great sisterhood of service. "Adopting the system of Edward E. Hale's "Ten Times One' clubs, they constituted themselves a 'central ten,' around which should crystalize other tens of workers, not assuming any authority or responsibility over them, but simply to form a nucleus around which they might cluster, and from which might radiate encouragement, advice and guidance. Of the various names proposed for the order that of the King's Daughters, for the order that of the King's Daughters, suggested by Mrs. Irvine, was most favorably received, and finally adopted; the badge of the society was selected in the small silver cross tied with the royal color; the watchword chosen was the simple "In His Name," of the apostics of old, and the mottoes of action selected were: "Look forward and not back."

'Look out and not in.'

Look up and not down.' Never was less said or written and never so few plans made for any work, as the de so few plans made for any work, as the de-sign of the society was to move sliently and steadily, and to secretly accomplish its pur-pose of bridging the channel between the rich and the poor, and to unite all women engaged in any kind of good work in such a way as to secure to each the sympathy and co-operation of all. Yet from almost every state in the union, and from the most remote countries over the sea-India, Australia and New Zealand—from people in every walk of New Zealand—from people in every walk of life, from pastors of churches, matrons of hospitals, teachers of schools, leaders of philanthropic societies, presidents of colleges, from the belie of Fifth avenue and the street gamin of the Bowery came tidings of the continual organization of tens upon tens of King's Daughters, until 8,600 silver crosses have been sold and 10,000 members have en-rolled their names among the King's Daugh ters, although the society has been organized only two years. "There are tens that visit the sick, tens that supply the hospitals and homes with flowers, tens that support foreign mission-aries, tens that sing and tens that sew, tens that endow beds in hospitals, tens that pro-vide pleasant country homes for deserving poor, and tens that simply 'bridal their tengue' and 'endeavor to live in love and charity with all inen' all 'in His name.'?" Tens have been formed in places so retired as shelters for deaf mutes, and in a home for incurables patients have banded themselves into a considerate ten, who shall endeavor to make their nurses' labors as light as possible. The cash girls in Macy's great store are known as "the little doorkeepers," with the motto, "Lord, Keep Thou the Door of My Mouth."

The young women who are so deeply interested in this work are the bright young soenery ludies and christian workers in every city where enarity is done.

Admission at Eighteen. The subject of admitting members to the Independent Order of Odd Fellows at the age of eighteen has brought about general discussion among the members of the order-Heother Kries gives the following as his opinion on the subject, in an article recently published in the Dominion Odd Peliow: 'In these days of flerce compution among

For wears efforts have been made to lower the nce at which young men could unite with us From twenty-one to eighteen years. Every year this is rejected by large majorities in the supreme grand lodge, so pronounced that to change the mind of this body on that question seems hopeless. As a substitute for this I had the honor to move at our last meeting in Denver that a committee be named to emaider the desirability of creating a juve-nile order, but as it was received late in the seasion, it met the fate of many good suggestions, and was 'hoisted' by vote of the bodge I now bring it before your readers, nopin that the question may be looked into by the several grand lodges and, if deemed best, le the supreme grand lodge be memorialized to take the matter up seriously at its next com

The entire programme was nicely arranged and well carried out. Addresses were delivered by the colone and a number of officers of the regiment which showed, for the most part, great carby thim affairs

In the evening a dance was enjoyed at the pavilier in the park. The Columbus visitors however, were obliged to return at 9 o'clock and did not get the enjoyment afforded by this feature of the occasion. Many pleasar acquaintances were made, and on the whole he affair will long be remembered as a ver-

New Lodges Formed. The reports have been received from the national jurisdiction of the Knights of Pythias order throughout the country to show that the gain in lodge organizations throughout the country during the past year was over two hundred. They are distributed as follows: Ohio stands at the head with 20 new lodges; Iowa follows closely with a gain of 24: Indiana comes next with 20: Kangain of 24; Indiana comes next with 20; Kan-sas has 13; Illinois, 12; Michigan, 11; Texas, 10, and New York, 8; Alabama and Ne-braska each report 7; Colorado, West Vir-ginia and Wisconsin, 5 each; California, Kentucky and Washington territory, 4 each; Connecticut, Dakota, Louisiana, Minnesota, Missouri and Pennsylvania, 3 each, Mon-tana, New Mexico, Outario and Tennessee, 2

Sound Advice.

The Fraternal Indicator, in an editorial recently published, gives some very good advice to the members of secret orders. when it speaks as follows:

"Fraternal societies should in all cases "guard well their portals." Lodges are not organized to take in every one who will join, and then reform them. It sometimes occurs that those who are the least fit to become members are the most anxious to join. Do not hesitate to use the blackballs when and where they are necessary. One bad member will injure the good name of a whole lodge One growler will spoil the pleasure of every meeting. One unprincipled, selfish member will to a great extent prevent a lodge from exercising chartly and benevolence. One crank will destroy harmony among the members. Keep out the questionable characters. Let them reform first, and then take them in. A few members working harmoniously to carry out the principles of an order can do more good than a lodge, let it be ever so large. that is not composed of good, honest, true men. Strength does not always consist in

Against the Benevolent Order.

The full bench of the supreme court of Massachusetts recently handed down an interesting decision in the case of the Massachusetts Catholic Order of Foresters vs Cathering Callahan et al., which decides a question as to the disposition of a fund due upon the death of a member of the order. It appears that John J. Callahan joined the order in June, 1883, and designated in his application for membership his mother, Mrs. Catherine Callahan, as the person to whom he wished the death benefit paid. Callahan fterwards married, and died February 24 1888, but his designation was not change The fund on his death was claimed by Mrs. Callahan, and also by the administratrix of the estate of Mr. Callahan's widow, it being claimed that, as Catherine Callahan was not a "dependent" upon her son, she should could not take the fund. This, the court decides, is not the law, and holds that Mrs. Callahau, the mother, is entitled to the fund of $1,000.

The Knights' Holiday.

The Columbus division of the Knights of Pythias were the guests of the Second regi ment of the Omaha Pythians on Tuesda and enjoyed a day of encampment beneat the leafy shades of Hanscom park. The Columbus knights arrived in a special car, handsomely decorated, and were escorted to the park. Tents were pitched and a session of merriment and good feeling was inaugurated. Feasting, visiting and dancing on the platform consumed the time of the merrymakers. Many of the wives and merrymakers. Many of the wives and daughters of the "brave men" accompanied them from Columbus and received the distinguished attention of the Omaha knights. Boycotting Iowa Templars. The unfortunate difficulty which has arisen between the M. E. grand master of Knights Templar and the grand commandery of Iowa, which has resulted in the ssuing of an edict by the grand master prohibiting Templars of other jurisdictions to hold fraternal intercourse with those of Iowa, is an event deeply to be deplored. We have nothing further to say on the subject than to express our sorrow that such a thing could have happened, and to offer a fervent prayer that all things may be arranged peaceably and in the spirit of christian kindness. The brethren composing this body of Masoury are supposed to be faithful followers of Him whose title was meek and lowly. It is therefore not in keeping with the tenets of the order either to engage in rebellion, or on the other band perform acts which are liable to be designated as tyrannical.

Grand Commander Frederick Speed, of Mississippi, says the Baltimore Telegram, refused to recognize the command of Grand Master Roome, and gives nine reasons for his protest, and among them one that a rit-ual was not constitutionally adoped at St. Louis, and he cannot condemn the Iows his protest, and among them one that a bottles, and he cannot condemn the lows bretheren without due charges and trial. And still another refuses to obey the grand master. The grand commandery, Knights Templar of Tennessee, objects to the ritual as adopted at the grand encampment at St. Louis, and has resolved to memorialize the grand encampment at its next session to recall the ritual encampment at i ritual session for revision and correction, and further resolved: "That this grand com-mandery, deeply impressed with the inferior-B.
