SEBASTOPOL'S DOOM.

The Historio Old Town Likely to Fall Again.

London Daily News: The historic old fortress town of the Crimean peninsula appears to be destined shortly to suffer another fall. This time it is the young and budding commerce which of late years has lent life and movement to wharves, assisted to rebuild and repeoples her streets, and attracted to her commodious land-locked harbor the flags of all the maritime nations of Europe, which is about to depart from her, and leave Sebastopol to regain the military and naval glory which she was so rudely bereft of thirty-three years ago. As the Novoe Vremya, writing on this subject, senteniously, remarks, "Commerce does not fraternize with war nor flourish under the Saturday, Sept. 8, 1888. The market was almost bare of desirable The market was almost bare of desirable beef cattle aside from one bunch which was held over from yesterday. For that reason the trade was very dull and few cattle changed hands. Values were nominally steady. There were plenty of feeders here and they were mostly natives and light weights. The demand was not very heavy, but a few loads changed hands at prices ranging mostly at $300(63.25]. Butchers' ranging mostlyat $3.00(23.25. Butchers' stock was in light supply and the packers paid $2.40 for some pretty fair western cows

CHICAGO, Sept. 8 .- [Special Telegram to THE BEE.]--The financial situation here and throughout the country is in much the same condition as a week since. The long predicted increase in the exports of gold to balance the deficiencies made by the failure of exports of produce and merchandise to equal our imports fails to materialize, and the pessimists who have predicted monetary stringency from such sources have so far been disappointed. Nor are there any reasons for anticipating the development of such conditions in the near future or the reverse. Europe continues to be a large buyer of American securities and bills drawn mouth of the cannon.

At the time when the construction of the Lozoff Sebastopol railway scheme was under the consideration of the imperial council, the question was fully discussed whether Sebastopol should be-come exclusively a military port or at the same time a port of commerce. "At the time," remarks the Novoe Vremya, "no one dreamt of the reconstruction of the Black sea fleet, except as a renote possibility in the uncertain future." It was the future uncertainty which at that epoch decided the government upon making Sebastopol a port of exportation, and as such the place has to a certain degree prospered greatly during recent years. It is impossible, however, to create great commercial centers at will. Sebastopol is situated at least 100 versts from the fertile regions of Taurida, whence her export industries are drawn.

It should also be remembered that Subastopol has never really possessed a diass of first-class merchants, properly to called, and those commercial agents who have of late years established themselves there are almost exclusively occupied in the shipment of grain. they are chiefly representatives of arge Jewish houses in England and France, or more particularly in London and Paris. These agents have never hid from themselves or their principals the fact that their establishment at Sebastopol was dependent on the temporary permission of the naval and military powers which have virtually controlled the place, and it is for this reason that, despite the immense profits realized of late years in the grain ex-port trade of Sebastopol, these merchants agents have never embarked a rouble in the erection of maga-zines and stores, but have hired the government granaries and magazines, or allowed their grain awaiting shipment to accumulate temporarily oa the open wharves, and protected it as best they might from the elements. Their economy and prudent foresight appear to have been well grounded in the result. Now it appears the government, act-ing upon the advice of the naval and military administrations, has decided to exclude all maritime commerce from the South bay, which in future will be reserved to the imperial navy. This exclusion is equivalent to a suspension of the cereal exports from Sebastopol. The maritime commerce of Sebastopol will certainly be transferred to Theodosia by coast, which is only four hours' sail further eastward. This sail further eastward. transfer will no doubt be easily and rapidly accomplished. The ancient Kaffa, at one time notorious as the groatest slave market between Europe and Asia, possesses natural advantages highly inducive to its future eminence ns a Black sea port of the Taurida. It will be necessary only to construct a branch line of railway from Djankoi, on the Lozoff Sebastopol system to The-odosa, a distance of 110 versts, but as Djankoi is only distant 159 versts from Schastopol, it will be seen that the new port of Theodosia will be reached from the interior with a saving of forty-nine versts of railway transit. Besides this advantage, Theodosa itself is situated in the fertile region of the peninsula, rich in export products of many kinds. good road connects Theodosia with Kertch, a distance of only ninety versts or about sixty English miles, and with the transfer of the commerce of Sebastopol to the former port, there will be every incentive to the rapid connection Theodos-a and Kertch by rait. A glance a the map will convince anyone that under these circumstances Theodosla is destined to become in future a fourishing industrial center.

CHICAGO, Sept. 8.-[Special Telegram to THE BEE. |-CATTLE-Trade was slow and prices lower on all classes. Some prime westerns sold from 5 to 10c lower than was bid yesterday, and anything in the native line that was not prime sold lower. Cow stock that has been selling so well for a week or two was 15@20c lower to-day with more of that class among the arrivals than any other. The pens were full of cows and com mon stock, which is rather unusual for Saturday, and just why shippers sent in such stock for Saturday's market is hard to tell. There were only a few loads of Texans on sale, and they were not wanted unless at lower prices. There were no range cattle among the early arrivals. The general mar-ket was unusually duil and unsettled even for Saturday; malives, $2.75@6.00; cows, bulls and mixed, $1.65@5.00; stockers, $2.00@2.50;

NEW YORK, Sept. 7 .- [Special Telegram to THE BEE.1-STOCKS-Sales of stocks aggregated 197,194 shares to-day, the market being strong on most of the list, with small gains recorded. Opening prices were nearly the same as last night's close. The feeling was strong, Western Union being one of the most attractive stocks, and while there were in some instances slight reactions from the best figures, the close showed small improvement in most of the list, the day being featureless and uninteresting. seidom, if ever, more active at this period in former years and prices for most descrip-tions of goods are firm. Trading in stocks in New York was inter-rupted by the observance of "Labor Day" on Monday which cut off one day's operations. Nevertheless a large business was transacted and a firmer feeling prevailed during the greater part of the week and prices averaged higher. Coalers and grangers received most attention. It was also noticed that several stocks that had been practically dead for some time past were brought prominently to the front and sharp advances were recorded. Reports of damage to the crops had a de-pressing effect on holders and the gen-eral feeling was less "Bullish" than at any time since the upward movement started. The coal business is good and the production is largely in excess of last year. This gives coal roads an increased tonnage, and at ad-vanced rates affords a chance to earn more money. The impression provailed that al-though the wheat crop has been damaged, there will be enough to give the railroads large business during the fall and winter. This is the theory that grangers are being bought on. Earnings are already on the gain and reports for August show a good increase over the same time last year. The only unfavorable report was from the Burington which showed a nat decrease of $217,000 decrease of $617,000. This was not wholly unexpected and had to great extent been dis-counted by the recent downward movement. Good realizing on advances caused sharp de-cines, but buyers took hold quite freely on all the depression. Money was bid up to 4 per cent on call loans, but it was only tem-porary and done to affect the market. The aggregate sales on the New York stock exchange for the week were $1,211,410 shares. The speculative fever that took hold of wheat so strougly last week showed a little abatement this week, and large business transpired. Wheat again had the lead in transpired. Wheat again had the lead in point of fluctuations and animation, and at times the excitement ran high. The general situation regarding crops remains the same, but if reports are to be relied on, spring wheat in the northwest which has been materially damaged by recent frosts, is turn-ing out badly. Prices advanced sharply, and induced heavy realizing by local and outside holders who wanted to secure profits, and moderate reactions followed. Corn and oats only received fair attention and at times a duliness reigned. Fluctua-tions were small and prices showed no im-portant variation from those of the previous portant variation from those of the previous week. An unsettled feeling prevailed in pro-vision circles and the opening a firmer tone was observable and prices ranged higher, en-pecially at the opening of the week, but mod-erate realizing caused a reaction.

Food makes Blood and Blood makes Beauty. Improper digestion of feed necessarily produces bad blood, resulting in a feeling of fullness in the stomach, acidity, heartburn, sick headache, and other dyspeptic symptoms. A closely confined life causes indigestion, constipation, biliousness and loss of appetite. To remove these troubles there is no remedy equal to Prickly Ash Bitters. It has been tried and proven to be a specific.

Forty-four huntired and eighty-two is said to be the exact number of the working butch-ers in Chicage.
