THE PERSONALITY OF SATAN.

A Learned Jewish Rabbi Declares to Be of Persian Origin.

Menovah (Jewish) Monthly: Taking the word Satan in the specific sense, as a proper name, we find it in the Bible signifying as a spiritual invisible being whose vocation is to tempt and mislead mankind, and who delight's in man's destruction and degradation. In the Book of Job Satan is described as being familiar with the Almighty: "And the Lord said unto Satan, whence comest thou?" (Job. i., 7). During the reign of David Satan is reported to have thou?" worked against Israel. "And Satan stood up against Israel." (Chronicles When the Prophet Zechariah xxii). beheld in a vision the High Priest Joshua standing before an angel he saw Satan by his side to resist him. (Zach-ariah, iii., 1). These biblical passages have given rise to a superstitious belief which has taken deep root, not only in the hearts of our people, but also in those of the numerous adherents of Christianity and Islam.

In the New Testament satan is identified with the devil, derived from the Greek Diabolos, and is believed to be as ubiquitous and powerful as God Himroom. self. In Matthew, iv., St. John calls satin a murderer, a liar. And in Rev-elation, xii., 78, it is said: "And there was war in heaven, Michael and his angels fought against the dragon, etc. And the great dragon was cast out, that old serpent called the devil, and satan, It is most astonishing that Jesus, ete. in whom christians believe as having been God Himself, was powerless in th presence of satan, while Michael and his angels vanquished him. In the second and seventh chapter of the Koran we read that "satan, who is valled there Eblis, having disobeyed God's order to worship Adam, was hurled down from heaven, etc." Thus has satan become the invisible ruler of Europe, western Asia and America. corrupting the innocent, defiling the pure, and degrading individuals as well is communities.

But the question arises spontaneously: Who is satan? Has Judaism given birth to such a phantom ? Are the peo-ple of Israel responsible for the exist-ence of such a demon? In order to solve these questions we must concur in the conclusions to which our great historians and modern bible critics have arrived, with reference to the period when those books which mention satan as a proper name were discovered. It has been ascertained that the books Job, Daniel, Chronicles and Kings belong to that time when the children of Israel, with the exception of a few who were permitted to remain in Jerusalem, were transported by Nebuchadnezzar to Babylon. There they came in con-tact with the Persians, whose religion consisted in fire worshiping and be-lieving in a deity of a dual form in Ormuzd, the creator of light and good, and Ahriman, the originator of darkness and evil. This belief of the Persians was during the time of Jeremiah and Ezekiel, improved by Zoroaster, who was the propagator of Monotheism teaching that there was before the world's creation but one omnipotent God, who, by his word, called into being two good angels, Ormuzd and Ahri-man, But the latter corrupted his ways, and thus became ruler of darkess and evil.

Now, as the people of Israel found in the land of their captivity a nation whose principal belief in God bore such a striking resemblance to their own. they soon became closely attached to them and imbued with their belief in Ahriman, whose name they changed afterward into Satan, which found entrance into the bible. Persian superstitious religious ideas took a strong Morino and the girl, who reached scarcely to the man's hips, said she was Louisa Bellino. Both of them reside in Mulberry street.

When the mayor heard that Alder-man Martin refused to marry the pair on account of the youthful appearance and small stature of the girl, he again proceeded to investigate. He tackled the girl's mother to find out the girl's true age, and an examination something like this ensued: "When was this child born!" with particular emphasis on the "child." "Sixteen years was the studied answer.

"In what year was she born?" "Sixteen years," triumphantly responded the mother. "Ha! I see you have studied your part. How is this girl-here, don't talk to her, you, or I'll have you arrested, and the mayor scowled at the brutalized Michael Augelo who was trying to coach the mother on the answer she should give. The woman appeared disconcerted and then said that the child was born in 1872."In what month?-will you keep quiet, sirrah?" this time to the prompter, also, who was now hustled out of the

"Sixteen years," feebly replied the woman, but somebody near her cor-rected her and she said 'Febrooar, Signor.

The mayor looked vexed at the persistence of the woman in asserting that her daughter's age was sixteen when she really appeared to be twelve, and not being able to shake her on that point he turned to the expectant bride and tried to find out whether anyone had coerced her into marrying her promising looking suitor.

"No. sir," she replied in fair English 'I want to marry out of my own head. 'All right," said the mayor, "Every thing appears to be straight. But I'd advise to wait until you grow a bit bigger." The Italians laughed at the mayor's little joke and again he scowled at them, scaring them into very demure ilence.

Then the mayor, with very bad grace and in a half-hearted way, pronounced the marriage coremony. He asked for a wedding ring, but despite the fact that the bride had at least baif a dozen rings on every finger there was no marriage ring to be found until the mother took off the one she wore and the big lout of a husband looked at it with surprise

"Take it in your hand," said the mayor, who is an adept in marrying "Now put it on the third Italians. finger of her hand-not the right, you -on her left-her left, do you hear?" The poor fellow heard and saw the mayor and the ceremony was complete. "Kiss the bride," said the mayor, and Morino picked up his child wife in his hands and stooped over double as he tried to give her a smack.

The mayor went away disgusted and he rested his head on his hand in deep contemplation for an hour. He said he would have kissed the bride if she had been tall enough for him to reach.

Otis T. Nichols died in New London, lonn., the other day in the upper story of a building whose lower floor is occupied as a Chinese laundry. The best way of removing the coffin to the street was through this laundry, but its proprietor, Sam Wing Sing, positively re-fused to allow it. Persuasion was useless and money no object. The Chinaman was firm in his refusal, and as the undertakers saw no other way to conveniently reach the street, they called on Mr. Bentley, of the board of health, who, not being successful, sought the aid of the city attorney, Police Captain Hinkley and a couple of policemen in case

The paving being done in the fourth ward The paying being done in the fourth wird is without exception as fine a piece of this kind of work as has been done in this city. The city has been very fortunate in this re-spect this year. The high standard of excel-lence secured in the lower Broadway paving has been maintained throughout the season and the citizens have no reason to complain. The material has been first class and the work has been performed in a satisfactory manner. The only complaint made has been on account of insufficient tamping, and that has been remedied.

Yesterday morning's police victims were few in number, but the business done was fully as profitable as usual. After being landed in the cooler she pro-ceeded to kick down the door of the room in which she was placed on the second floor, and she was then placed in the cage. Her ardor was somewhat dampened when the bill was presented. Thomas Wilson contrib-uted $8.10 to offset a prolonged becze whirl.

Work on the main span of the new bridge is progressing satisfactorily. Twelve of the sixteen panels are already in place, and the remainder will be by Monday noon, if noth-ing unexpected in the way of delays happens to prevent. The faise work for the 250-foot span will then be put in, preparatory to placing position the connecting link in the huge from structure. Engineer Moore still holds to the belief that the bridge will be com-pleted by the 20th of October, although the formal opening may not take place for some time after that.

The auction sale of the Cochran lots in the western part of the city was completed yes-terday. In all, about one hundred lots were sold at a sum total exceeding $45,000. The attendance yesterday was much larger and the bidding was more spirited than on the preceding day. The highest price paid for one lot was $500. The lots in Central sub. will not be sold for some time yet, as there is a defect in the title, and until that is re-moved the property will remain in the pos-session of Colonel Cochran. The sale was eminently satisfactory, and the prices ob-tained show in what light the bottom property is regarded.

Where Did the Warrant Go?

A few days ago one of the city papers took the law and order league to task for going here. outside the regular constabulary for the service of their search warrants. As a reason for so doing the league say these officers were not only unwilling to do the work, but again it seemed necessary to have it done by "specials" if it was done at all. This position is apparently well sustained by the following facts as given by Mr. Overton: lowing facts as given by Mr. Overton: "After this article appeared," said he, "I was approached by Constable Wesley, who asked me why I did not place these search warrants in the hands of the regular con-stables. A Celebrated Case. Chicago Times: The celebrated Knights of the Golden Circle case is now on in the Martin circuit court, Indiana. Great interest in this murder trial is manifested and the peop'e crowd the court room at every session. The prisoners--Rev. John W. Stone, a christian preacher; John G. Jones, a county commissioner; Albert Quacken-bush and William Stanfield, farmers, and James Archer, likewise a farmer, were all present in court. Judge H fr-ron is on the beach. Although the murder occurred twenty-four years ago ---March 18, 1864---when Jackson Ballard, a union soldier, was riddled with bullets by the Knights of the Golden Circles, the public interest is just as intense as if it had occurred within the month. It is an unusal case. The social standing of all the parties concerned makes it one of thrilling interest and excites the people far and near. This trial has been postponed from one court to another until those accused were released from jail under heavy bonds of Less than a year ago a young lady Anna Belle Stanfield, daughter of William Stanfield, one of those charged with the murder of Ballarn was shot and killed. Charles Archer, her lover, was arrested for the crime, tried and acquitted. His arrest created a great deal of ill feeling. His father, James Archer, is lihewise a defendant in the Ballard case. The murder of the girl brought out all the old feud, and threats of the crimes committed during the time of war were indulged in, until one day Albert Quackenbush became thoroughly alarmed at the loud talk, and with a troubled conscience he went to Mr. Hiram E. Wells, proprietor of the celebrated French Lick springs, and confessed completely the terrible tragedy that had occured on the morning of the 18th of March, 1864. He said he wanted to tell the story first, and then turned state's evidence to save himself. He was promised immunity by the prosecution. The evidence, he said, in the murder trial of Charles Archer might reyeal this awful secret of twenty-four years' keeping. Quackenbush went from Mr. Wells to James Ballard, son of the murdered man, and told him the bloody details of the murder of his (Ballard's) father. The story spread from lip to lip and Quackenbush was advised hold of our people's imagination, yes even that of our people's imagination, yes, even that of our prophets. "The names of the angels,"—says the Talmud Jerushalmi of Rosh Hashana—"did the people of Israel bring with them from Babylon during the reign of Cyrus.

Thus the christian world is indebted for the invention of Satan, who embellishes the testament, not to the Jews but to the Persians. Also the believers in the Kabbalah are indebted for the nomenclature of angels and demons which they possess to nobody else but to the Persians. The Persian doctrine of angelology and demonology has impressed the majority of our people so that they adhere to it up to the present day. This doctrine has become the nucleus of many of our prayers. The Kabbalistic rabbis have even gone a step further and have identified satan with the ser-pent which enticed Adam and Eve to trespass against God's commandment. And gradually they have advanced him to the high position of Malach Ham-ovsess, angel of death. Hence, one of the sages says: "Hu Hasalan, Hu Haj-ezer hora, Hu Hamalach Hamovess," their doors. The satan, the enticer to evil, and the angel of death are one and the same being.

This view, however, was not shared by all rabbis. There were many who bitterly opposed it. The Talmud B'rachoth, page 33, relates: "In the place where Rabbi Chenina ben Dosa resided a serpent endangered the lives of the people. The rabbi succeeded in doing away with the serpent and convincing the people that not the serpent killeth, but sin." This story intimates the idea that Rabbi Chanina ben Dosa worked to destroy the prevalent belief that the old serpent, Nachash Hakad-mony, was the Malach Hamovess who hurls people into untimely graves. The endeavored to show that unrabbi timely death is due to some sheth, yes, some deviation from God's precepts which are compatible with the laws of nature.

A Midget Wedding.

New York Journal: When Mayor Hewitt raised his eyes from a weekly report of Chief Dog-Catcher John Me Mahon in the city hall he was con-fronted by a number of grinning Italians who chattered away at a great rate. He cast a fierce eye at the group, which was a typical marriage gathering, and cowed them into silence.

Then Clerk Berry told them that the crowd had come to have a marriage ceremony performed. The clerk incidentally remarked that the bride seemed to be a bit too young to marry yet, and the mayor shaded his eyes with his hand as he tried hard to get a good view of her. She was small-very small. So little was she that the mayor asked the reporters if the child were not a dime museum exhibit or something of that sort. He was staggered worse than he has ever been since his election to office when told that the girl had come to get married and was no midget at that, but a "fully" developed woman, as she claimed, of sixteen years of age.

The mayor did not believe it. He ordered attidavits on the matter from the mother, uncles, aunts and cousins of the girl, and when he read them over and over he was not satisfied. He looked at the girl who stood with down-cast eyes beside her foolish-looking and shabbily dressed lover and shook his to go before the grand jury and make a clean breast of the secret, which he did. Fifty witnesses have been summoned. The man gave his name as Prites
