A heavy coating of cinders was yesterday pplied to Willow avenue, between Pearl ad Sixth streets, as a foundation for the J. G. Tipton yesterday sold a Broadway lot to a Des Moines gertleman. The lot is located in central sub near Streetsville, and is a fine piece of property. There will be a large attendance from this city at the annual rounion of the various branches of the Protective alliance at Parish's grove next Saturday. Cards are out announcing the marriage of Mr. Sherman E. Spoor and Miss Cora B. Marbie, at the residence of the bride's parents, 1502 Tenth avenue, at 8 o'clock next

Two boozers comprised the police grist yes-terday morning. Isaac Baily was cinched for $8.10, and Samuel Such for $7.60. Sam-mic could not furnish the necessary collateral, and was dropped back into the hole. A few of the handsome shade trees on the south side of Bayliss park were laid low yes terday. They sapped the ground so as to kill all of the grass near them. With the exception of this one spot, the park is beau-tifully carpeted with green. The company in charge of the Rescue company's benevolent ball are meeting with grand success in the sale of tickets. There will be a very large attendance. All should help the boys in their noble efforts to assist the sick and suffering in Florida. Charlie Durlin, a popular Broadway grocer, is giving away watermelons on account of the arrival at his home of a great big boy. The youngster in time will take a seat on the firm's delivery wagon, when he will intro-duce himself more fully to our people. The republican county convention will be held at the court house Wednesday, October 80, at 2 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of selecting candidates for the offices of county clerk, county recorder, county attorney and a member of the board of county supervisors. The iron columns for the new Merriam block were being delivered on the ground yesterday. Yesterday morning one of Welch's hacks was carelessly driven into a buggy belonging to a Mrs. Robinson. One wheel was nearly torn from the axle, but no further damage resulted. Mr. Welch promptly took the damaged vehicle in hand and had the necessary repairs made. Marriage licenses were issued yesterday to Barney McCrickard and Katle Monnin of this county, and Henry E. Lingle and Mary Moore, of Crawford county, Iowa. The latter couple immediately repaired to the mat rimonial parlors of 'Squire Biggs, where they were tied safe and sound by that genial

The case of Gus Murnhy charged with The case of Gus Murphy, charged with smashing a door of Mrs. Moffat's house, was continued until the 28th inst. Murphy had rented the house, but one day's experience was all that was required by the landlady to find out that she did not want him there. She was trying to keep him out when the trouble occurred.

J. G. Tipton yesterday sold the Pettibone homestead, near the fair grounds, to G. D. Wilson, of Missouri Valley, who will make it his future home. Mr. Wilson has a number of promising Wilkes trotters, and wanted to avail himself of the splendid track facili-ties here in order that his son, C. B. Wilson, might develop their speed.

Talk about a far reaching trade. A lady en route from Chicago to Fresno, Cal., stopped for a day in Council Bluffs, and visited the store of the Council Bluffs Carpet company. She examined the stock and prices and placed an order with that house for furnishing the carpets of her California home. She said she could get better goods for less money here than at Chicago or at home. Pretty good for Council Bluffs.

Miss Nelrie Ogden, aged eighteen years, died at 8 o'clock Tuesday night at the home of her parents, No. 7 Washington avenue. She has been ill for several weeks past with typhoid fever, and for the last four or five days the final summons had been hourly expected. She was a most estimable young lady, greatly beloved and highly respected by all who knew her. Her mother and a younger member of the family are reported to be very ill with the same dread disease that has robbed them of a daughter and sister. The funeral will take place at 2 o'clock this afternoon from the Methodist church, Rev. Dr. Cooley officiating.

The main span of the new bridge, nearly 400 feet long, was swung from the piers yes terday. The false work for the last span 250 feet, is being put in as fast as possible. The piling is all driven, and in a few days it will be ready for the iron. This span will not require as much time as the one just com picted, as it is not only smaller, but lower the iron work all being below the roadway whereas in the other it was all above. To main span is nearly seventy feet from the water, leaving the river open for navigation.

Colonel D. B. Dailey, county prosecuting attorney, has returned from Avoca as court was not in session at that place, owing to the illness of Judge Thornell, who is confined to his home at Sidney. It is probable that court will not open there until next week. The colonel found but one criminal case to come before the grand jury, and that prop-erly belongs here, and will be brought here for the consideration of the grand jury of the west end of the county, which meets again on the 16th of October. There will be several new cases by that time.

Kick Against Their Treatment. Yesterday's telegraphic columns of The BEE gave an account of the wreck on the Union Pacific road at Gardiner station on the afternoon of the 18th. Further details have been secured from persons who were passengers upon the ill-fated train. Several of these were from Council Bluffs and although no serious damage was done them they severely criticised the action of the railroad officials in the matter. Their story is as follows: The wreck oc-curred at 1:15 a. m. The eight cars contained curred at 1:15 a. m. The eight cars contained about three hundred passengers. At this point on the road there was no house nearer than one-half a mile. A train of freight cars was sent out from Columbus to take off the baggage. The passengers were uncomfortable, hungry and without protection from the sand during the afternoon and cold in the evening. The wrecked cars were thrown in such positions that no one could be ade. such positions that no one could be ade-quately protected. Men, women and chil-dren were thus left out in the corn field for nine hours or until the arrival of the relief train from Omana at 10:15 p. m. They be-sieged the conductor of the sleepers, but he refused to allow them to enter. One sleeper was upon the track and would have given protection to the children at least, but was denied, until after dark. When the train arrived from Columbus the passengers importuned the conductor to take them some-where where they could get food and shel-ter. He loaded up the baggage and went back to Columbus, leaving the passengers in their pitiable situation, It was a choice between trunks and lives their p and the officials chose the trunks.

At one time during the leng, cold hours of the night the conductor of the train inter-coded with the Pullman conductor, and that mogul did allow a few to enter those sacred

If these statements are true, and they are given upon the best authority, it is an exhibition of heartlessness from beginning to end, in the expression of which hard words can used. These passengers appropriately be used. These passengers naturally ask these questions: Why were they barred from use of the sleeper? Why was not the first train sent to bring passen-gers, instead of baggage? Was it to avoid possible litigation over any loss which might

Light For the Night.

It is understood that several extensive additions are to be made to the electric light plant of this city, which will result in a complete revolution of the lighting arrangements of the city. Mr. Thomas Officer, of the electric light company, returned yesterday morning from a month's trip through the east during which he attended the electric light convention in New York City, and visited several other large cities for the purpose of witnessing the practical workings of various systems of incandescent lighting. He in formed a BEE reporter that he was well pleased with the result of his visit, and was perfectly satisfied that a system of electric lighting for small towns, residences, etc. can now be introduced in the city, that will meet the demands of a great many business men and citizens. The present arc system is the only one practicable for outdoor lighting, and gives good satisfaction in large stores but there are many of the merchants who de sire something smaller and cheaper than a

2,000 candle power light.

For some time past the club rooms and a few other places in the city have been illuminated with sixty-five candle power incandescent lights attached to the principal circuit, but the system is nearly as expensive as the regular arc lights, besides being somewhat dangerous when children are around, as the current is very strong. In the new system this is changed, as the lights are of but sixteen candle power and are run by a different dynamo, the current being so light as to be perfectly safe. perfectly safe.

The cost of this method of lighting would be much less than at present. If a large number of consumers is secured the cost would be even more reduced. The matter will be pushed at once, and if sufficient encouragement is given the present works will be enlarged and the system of incandescent lighting introduced on a large scale through. lighting introduced on a large scale through-out the city. Such a change would be a bonanza to the greater part of our merchants, who would gladly welcome anything that promised relief from the present exorbitant gas rates.

The County $1,000 Ahead. The Linder forfeiture case was called in district court yesterday morning. John Linder and Conrad Geise became bondsmen in the sum of $1,000 for the appearance in court last fall of Arthur Rothery, charged with the larceny of a diamond from Burhom's jewelry store. The defendant failed to materialize and the bond was declared forfeited. The case has been fought in the courts but County Attorney Dailey pushed it sharply and it was finally decided that they might as well give it up and save further costs. Accordingly, Mr. Linder appeared yesterday moraing and paid the $1,000 over which the fight had been made. It is said that Mr. Linder was merely action for an Omaha party in broming Rothery's bondsmen, and that he does not sustain the loss himself. Colonel Dailey is to be commended for his perseverance in following up the case and seeing that the county was not cheated out of its just dues. The damage case of Voss vs Anderson was ready for trial and the witnesses all on hand, but it was laid aside to try the replevin case of C. forfeited. The case has been fought in the trial and the witnesses all on hand, but it was inid aside to try the replevin case of C. H. Markeson vs J. A. Boren, involving the ownership of some cattle. The latter case occupied the entire day. The damage case of Carr vs Odell Bros. & Co. was called but the plaintiffs' attorneys, Mayborry & Morrison were not present. The assignments for the remainder of the week are as follows: Thursday, Sept. 20—Nos. 5761, 5900, 5913, 5018, 5034, 5948, 6434, 6452

Laid to Rest. The funeral of the late Mrs. Kate M. Farrell occurred yesterday morning at 10 o'clock from St. Francis Xavier's Catholic church. At the hour named the pall-bearers entered the church with the casket, followed by the immediate relatives of the deceased and mourning friends. The casket was set upon a bier before the altar in the middle aisle, after which the choir commenced the ren dition of the Gregorian mass by singing "Kyre Elysion." Rev. Father McMenomy then said high mass, which was responded to by the choir singing "Dies Irae." The toll ing of the "Sanctus" bell and the singing of "Agnus Dei" concluded mass and the funeral services were commenced with the song, "Hail Mary," after which the priest de hvered a fervent prayer. Mrs. Darraugh sang "Rest, Spirit Rest." The services concluded in the regular form. An Old Resident Gone. James H. Burroughs, an old and respected resident of this city, died yesterday morning of oedema of the lungs, at the residence of Mr. A. A. Hazard, 706 First avenue, where he had rooms. The deceased was ill but about forty hours, having attended church last Sunday evening as usual. He was born near Buffalo, N. Y., in 1820, being therefore in his seventieth year. He had been a resident of this city for more than a score of years, and was widely known. He had no near living relatives. Although thrice married, his wives, children and step-children had all preceded him to the peyond. The funeral took place yesterday afternoon at 4 Fairview cemetery. The only relative present was Mr. James DeWolf, of Malvern, a brother of the first wife of the deceased. The estate is said to be quite valuable, and it is understood will revert to two nieces in

The Gallant Knights.

The ball given by the Uniform Rank, Knights of Pythias, at Masonic temple, was a grand success and netted the lodge a handsome sum, which will go toward defraying the expenses of the trip to Sioux City next week. out the country, will be stored in them.
As we entered the vault eight men were engaged in weighing the $500,000 that had arrived that day from Philadelphia. A mound of several hundred canvas bags, each containing 1,000 silver dollars, was in a corner. A middle-aged colored man took one of the bags, slit it open, and carefully poured its contents in a glittering stream into a large metal scoop. This an assistant placed on an exquisitely adjusted $1,600 scale; the scalesman touched a spring and the quivering indicator hovered over the central line of the scale. Other men poured and weighed dollars into similar bags, and, placing the corded bags on small trolleys, a burley porter dragged them to an assigned cell.

"Why can't these brawny fellows take an occasional dollar, Mr. Hyatt?" "No reason in the world: but we've all got to trust somebody. An assistant whom I know thoroughly is constantly present, and that's all I can do. These men are worthy colored men, whose common occupation is ordinary day They come here when I want them, and I pay them $2 a day."

"What do you do if a bag weighs

"Make a requisition on the mint whence it came and have the damage made good. That scale is so nicely adjusted that it will tell if there is one plugged dollar or counterfeit in a thous-and; so it saves a deal of trouble, you see. It takes these eight men all day to count half a million dollars, and at this rate silver dollars will pour in here until the vault is filled up. The old vault adjoining this is brim full, and contains ninety millions-twenty-five millions in gold and the rest silver." As I stood there looking at these treasure handlers, six of them dressed in the shabby garb of the day laborer, l tried to imagine their thoughts. Less than one-half of the contents of any one of these bags would be more than their dreary drudgery would earn for any one of them in a whole year. They tossed the glistening circles of silver and lugged the sixty-pound bags, their toil-lined faces quite impassive. They were as doggedly careless as though the material were ingots of iron instead of the open sesame to every creature joy. When the day was over they would go back to miserable nooks and think in their dull way if they could afford to buy one or two loaves of bread that night. The combined salaries of the eight men engaged here were $30 a day. so that it cost about $1 to count and pack

$17,000 in the great new silver vault. The vault cost $30,000 to build, and a year and a half was exhausted in its completion. It is held to be absolutely fire and burglar proof, and when filled with a hundred million silver dollars will probably be the richest spot on the Globe. King Solomon's mines will be little country savings banks in compar-

The treasurer took me down to the vault by means of a small elevator, which he ran himself. We made our exit by a flimsy, wooden, wire-screened door, which an expert cracksman could breathe against and demolish. There did not seem to be any especial espoinage over visitors. At least I know that I was not the recipient of any furtive glances, but perhaps I escaped them because I was escorted by the Mikado himself.

The last time that these vaults were robbed was, I believe, about eight years The money taken then was in the form of bank notes. It would not be an easy matter to steal a satisfactory amount in silver or even gold. The sight-seers, of which the attendant in charge thought he was one. He carried his hat in his hand and presently it was dropped on a bundle of bank notes which an employe had, with gross carelessness, left exposed. When the hat was taken up the bank notes were in it, and in it they were carried out of the building. The theft was quickly dis-covered and the thief was ferreted out by the secret service agents. If any money should be abstracted from the bags which are now being stowed away in the vaults, the loss, if not discovered at the moment, would probably not be known until Treasurer Hyatt's successor comes into office and orders the silver recounted. If a single dollar of the millions received is then found to be missing it will be charged to Mr.
