Ticket Agents 23 Reporters 17.

The much-talked-of match game of ball between the reporters and the ticket agents, for the benefit of the yellow fever sufferers, took place at Association park yesterday afternoon.

The reporters were natty attired in variegated uniforms, while the ticket agents wore hats, coats, vests, pants, and some of their stockings.

After a long and interminable wrangle Hon. Spud Parrish was accepted as umpire, and, unfolding himself, assumed a position like that of the statue of Narcissus behind the plate, and in flute-like tones cried:

"Play ball!"

Walters was the first man up. He knoeked a fly to center field, and Doc Tanner finally got it in a corner of the fence and out the daylight out of it with his knife.

Larke hit a little one toward second and Gollenbeck went for it. He stopped one of his fellows, however, and ran away from him, Walters and Larke both scoring. Channern then hit a high one to Honin and Dan A. Smith, who drove him.

James made an error big enough to eat scrap iron on De Bevois' hit, and Cooper scored both runners on a fly to Tanner, which the latter got out from under only by the nicest piece of springing seen for many a day.

Atfield struck out, and Moores died at first.

In their half the reporters came within three feet of the score.

James hit one of his batters and overalls on it at De Bevois, who knoeked it down with his fist, then jumped on it with both feet, and while he was tramping in the car Dan reached under the seats and from Stanhope to Larke, on a very close decision of the umpire, Smith being within twenty yards of the bag when Larke received the ball.

The reporters claimed that Stanhope had no right to throw the ball before Smith had started to run.

After a few hot words the battle proceeded.

Gallenbeck drove one like a horse car past Cooper, and Honin, amidst the glad shouts of the populace, ran home.

Tanner smashed the first ball pitched with crushing force, and it rolled nearly to the pitcher.

He was thrown out at first, and should have been thrown out of the lot!

James now stepped up, and with a fire burning in his eye, said: "Look out, Mr. Stanhope, if you sling that at me too awfully I'll strike you with my fan."

Then Stanhope fired at him, and he hit it below the belt. It went up into the air and came down in a couple of coal scuttles. Walters claims as his hands.

But why continue this harrowing description. To recount all the wonderful plays made yesterday would fill a volume as big as the Congressional Record.

The score will sufficiently tell the story. Here it is:

Kansas City Base Ball Teams.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 28.—The Kansas City American club having secured a franchise, it is stated on the highest authority that next season will see a consolidation of the Kansas City Blues and Cowboys, to play at Exposition park, now used by the Blues. The majority of the new club will probably consist of the players of the present American club, with the Blues pitchers Swartz, Conroy and McCarthy, catchers Gunson and Reynolds and shortstop Long will be engaged. It is possible that Phillips will be supplied by the new first baseman, and Stearns, of Des Moines, is on the list of probable new men.

On Account of Bedell's Forgeries.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—(Special Telegram to THE BEE.)—Messrs. Shipman, Barlow, Tall and others, through their attorneys, have begun suit against the Bank of the State of New York for $294,000, the amount involved in Bedell's mortgage forgeries. The firm had business with the bank and he drew their checks to the alleged mortgagees thereon. To those checks Bedell forged the endorsement of the payee. After going through the checks, which had been heretofore been described, they were paid by the bank. The suit does not indicate warfare on the bank, but is in the nature of a friendly reminder to the question as to which party is responsible, the firm claiming that the endorsement having been forged after leaving their hands the bank becomes responsible by accepting and paying the checks.

A Yacht Probably Lost.

RACINE, Wis., Sept. 28.—Grave fears are entertained for the safety of the yacht Pilot, which cleared from here for Chicago yesterday morning, bound for New Orleans by way of Lake Michigan, the Illinois and Michigan canal and the Illinois and Mississippi rivers. She was out in a severe north-westerly gale, and was reported to be in Chicago. Vessels arriving in Chicago report a terrific sea in which it would be next to impossible for such a vessel to live.

Probably a Fake.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 28.—A large silk balloon, its car deserted and drifting, was captured on Cumberland hill this morning. It was evidently a fake, as it was found on a hill, and was not seen in the air. "Carl Myers, Mohawk, N. Y." was found on it, and a bit of a Buffalo newspaper pinned to the basket, on which was pencilled, "Met our death in the clouds."

Beware of Scrofula

Scrofula is probably more general than any other disease. It is infectious in character and manifests itself in running sores, pustular eruptions, boils, swellings, enlarged joints, abscesses, sore eyes, etc. Hood's Sarsaparilla expels all trace of scrofula from the blood, leaving it pure, enriched, and healthy.

"I was severely afflicted with scrofula, and took five bottles Hood's Sarsaparilla, and am cured." C. E. LOVEJOY, Lowell, Mass.

C. A. Arnold, Arnold, Me., had scrofulous sores for seven years, spring and fall. Hood's Sarsaparilla cured him.

Salt Rheum

Is one of the most disagreeable diseases caused by impure blood. It is readily cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier.

"William Spies, Elyria, O., suffered greatly from erysipelas and salt rheum, caused by handling tobacco. At times his hands would crack open and bleed. He tried various preparations without aid; finally took Hood's Sarsaparilla, and now says: 'I am entirely well.'"

"My son had salt rheum on his hands and on the calves of his legs. He took Hood's Sarsaparilla and is entirely cured." J. B. Stanton, Mt. Vernon, Ohio.

THE CAMPAIGN IN INDIANA.

Organization of a League to Prevent Election Frauds.

ITS METHODS OF PROCEDURE

Men of All Political Faiths Combine Against the Things and Healers—General Hovey's Return.

A Fair Election League.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 28.—The day with General Harrison is one of quiet. He passed the time in his library, at work. Tomorrow he will receive delegations from Cleveland, O., Chicago and La Salle, Ill. It is probable that there will be two public receptions.

A matter of the highest political importance here to-day. It is nothing more than the existence of a great league, known as the "Indiana fair election league," whose membership comprises men of all shades of political conviction. For the past two months the projectors of the league have been quietly perfecting its organization in every county in the state. The sole object of the league, as it is now understood, is to prevent the casting of fraudulent and illegal votes. So far as known, its existence is not attributable to anyone on the part of either the democratic or republican state committees. For the particulars touching the membership and organization of the league are withheld by those known to possess them, it seems that the members are not to be known to their respective localities unless occasion arises for an arrest or prosecution an illegal voter. A general letter to all counties, calling for local executive committees will be put forth publicly as members of the league to conduct the prosecution.

They Want to Debate.

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb., Sept. 28.—(Special Telegram to THE BEE.)—The following was issued last night and explains itself:

To the Chairman of the Republican Congressional Committee of the First Congressional District—Sir: The democratic congressional convention of the First district which met here to-day, has elected J. Sterling Morton, who respectfully invites your nominee, the Hon. W. J. Connel, to discuss the tariff issues as presented in this question. He is a member of their late national conventions, and in the letters of acceptance of their presidential nominees. You are hereby invited to meet the Hon. W. J. Connel, at any place, at any convenient date, to arrange the details of the debate. Yours respectfully,

Chairman Democratic Congressional Committee, Lincoln.

THE WOMING FAIR.

Yesterday's Track Events Marred by a Serious Accident.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Sept. 28.—(Special Telegram to THE BEE.)—The attendance at the Woming fair yesterday was larger than at any previous meeting. So great is the interest manifested in the races that the association has decided to continue the fair one day longer than originally planned, and a programme of races is arranged for tomorrow. The first event to-day was a quarter mile running race for a purse of $100.

Ocheca Hill won in 21 seconds with Pat second, and in 22 seconds with Pat second.

The second race was for four-year-olds, a purse of $500. It was forfeited to Boudoir, who trotted an exhibition mile heat in 2:40.

John J. of Denver, with Billy Harwood second, Laetta third, Ned Biddie fourth, and in 3:00.

In the fourth race, one and a half mile running, Wyoming and Colorado horses for Wyoming cup valued at $1,000, five horses started. He could not get there in a four-minute pace.

Chas. Conover—It's going to be a close fight. You can't tell where the assistance is to come from. I don't know how the farmers stand on free trade.

George Barker—Mr. Morton is undoubtedly a man of eminent ability, and entitled to the respect of all patriotic citizens. I don't agree with my countrymen in their opposition to his nomination. I am a free trader. I doubt Morton's ability to do anything like a McShane.

Marshall Herberow—I understand that he is one of the few Americans who belong to the Republican club, and who have a purpose is qualified to preach its principles through the First district, but whether they will meet the views of the voters will be fully ascertained in November. He stands no show on earth.

W. S. Strawn—I think Morton is too prominent a democrat and too closely identified with the failures and errors of his party in this state to succeed against any man standing on the broad principles of the republicanism.

Henry W. Yates—How do I like him! who is he, has he been nominated! Yes! Then, I suppose, I am in a measure responsible for his nomination over a week ago. I went to Charlie Brown, Poppleton, McShane et al, and said that it would probably be the best thing that could be done. Morton is a man of eminent ability, and entitled to the respect of all patriotic citizens. I don't agree with my countrymen in their opposition to his nomination. I am a free trader. I doubt Morton's ability to do anything like a McShane.

Louis Reed—Morton has been a candidate so long it has become quite a chestnut. However, he is in the Convention, but he can't come anywhere near beating Connel.

W. H. Hughes—He suits me exactly. I always liked him, and I think he is one of the best men in the state. His election is a different thing.

Charles Ogden—I admire him exceedingly. He is a very able man, and pronounced in his opinions, and should poll the full strength of his party. I think all factional feeling should be cast aside after a man has been fairly nominated in a convention of his party, and I think most of the democracy will be found in line on election day.

S. P. Morse—First class. I think the beautiful world will cover him—then he will be beautifully snored under. His free trade predilections will bury him. Connel is an able fellow and will be elected by a large majority.

Judge P. O. Hayes—Why, I think Mr. Connel should invite the democratic delegation who nominated Sterling Morton to a champagne spread, as they have, by this action, made his election more than certain. They have saved him about $5,000 that he will not be compelled to disburse among the democracy. Mr. Morton's well known free trade ideas and his isolation from many of the democratic leaders of this state, makes him a very weak candidate.

Pat Ford—Everybody knows that I am not in love with Morton, and as a choice between his nomination and the nomination of Connel, I know which I would prefer. I think it is a mistake to say anything against him, and do not desire to say anything against him. He makes a mistake, however, at the time in making me as a railroad attorney. The fact is that I never represented the railroad company, and while I believe railroads have done much toward building up our country, and I am encouraged and encouraged to a reasonable extent, yet I believe in maintaining the rights of the people, and in all my rights I have been on the side of the individual against the railroads and other corporations. I think he has made a mistake as reported in the Herald in styling me a railroad attorney.

A RAIL TRUST.

A Combine of American and European Manufacturers.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 28.—Information has reached here of the formation of an international rail pool. The combine was consummated at Glasgow and the continent. Carnegie, who was present, promised co-operation on the part of the American combine in the endeavor to advance and maintain prices.

Andrew Carnegie, who was present, promised co-operation on the part of the American combine in the endeavor to advance and maintain prices. The English Labor Tribune of the 15th inst., which is authority for this, says: "The announcement of the proposed formation of the syndicate of the steel-rail makers of this country and the continent for the regulation of orders and prices is a matter of first importance. The establishment of this syndicate is at once an assurance that one great branch of British industry is now, after a period of great depression, to occupy a better position. Belgium, Germany and France are united with their own railmakers to prevent the continuance of the unreasonably low prices which have so long prevailed, and the new syndicate is promised an existence of five years."

THE DEMOCRATIC NOMINEE

How J. Sterling Morton's Candidacy is Considered.

OPINIONS OF SOME OMAHA MEN.

The Feeling Among Republicans Emphatically Satisfactory and a Rousing Majority For Connel the General Verdict.

Morton's Candidacy.

The following are sentences views expressed in this city on the nomination of J. Sterling Morton as candidate for congress on the democratic ticket:

Inspector Michael Donovan—Well, I have always voted the democratic ticket, but I do not think much of the nomination. Morton will be swamped in this county, and that is the fact. He is a good speaker, and in many respects a smart man, and what ability he has, he has used against the interests of Douglas county. He is aristocratic, dictatorial and extremely vain, and in these grounds will lose not only a large proportion of the laboring vote, but of a great portion of his own party, who are moderate in their views on this question. He is a member of the Golden club, which also will hurt him, as will his own and his son's relations with the Burlington road. Connel will get a majority of $3,000 in this county, and I cannot say that I am sorry.

Internal Revenue Collector Calhoun—The nomination of J. Sterling Morton I consider the strongest and best that could have been made under the circumstances. He is certainly an extremist on the question of free trade, but I am not a free trader. I think possible date at any place that may suit your convenience, to arrange the details of the debate. Yours respectfully,

Chairman Democratic Congressional Committee, Lincoln.
