MINOR MENTION. N. Y. Plumbing company. Millinery display Friday and Saturday at H. Friedman's. An elegant display of millinery Friday and Saturday at H. Friedman's.

On Friday and Saturday you will find an elegant display of millinery and novelties at H. Friedman's. The board of trade will meet this evening at 8 o'clock, and it is earnestly desired to have a quorum present.

At noon yesterday Officer Olesen was transferred to day duty and Officer Isenberger was placed upon the night force. Hereafter but one change will be made each week, instead of two as formerly.

Protracted meetings will be held every night during the present week at the Overton mission. The work is not of a denominational character, and all persons are cordially invited to attend.

The ladies of the First Baptist church gave a harvest supper last evening in the parlors of the church. The attendance was very large and a goodly amount was realized for the state work of the church.

The bridge over Indian creek on Sixth street, which has been in a dangerous condition for some time, has at last been repaired, and there is no longer any danger of a horse falling through into the creek.

Charley Heister is making preparations to fit up bathrooms in the rear of his tenorial parlors. The tubs are to be furnished by the New York Plumbing company, and will be a plain lined affair of the largest size.

Last evening Mr. Charles H. Gilmore, for a long time past a clerk in one of the departments at the court house, was united in marriage to Miss Kate Sundebrand, recently from Boston. The ceremony was performed by Rev. T. J. Mackey.

The street railway track was relaid to Fourth street last night and the paving was torn up nearly to Bryant street. The pavers have reached a point just east of Seventh street, besides paving all of the intersections passed as soon as the track is laid.

A farewell and a greeting at the Methodist Episcopal church Wednesday evening for Dr. Rees, the outgoing pastor, and Rev. Franklin, the incoming one. The church, of course, will be present and the friends are most cordially invited.

Five imbibers of budge were fined $5.00 each in the police court yesterday morning. A. Slaten was relieved of $5.00 for disturbing the peace. Charles Keane was turned over to the tender care of Officer Tyson for fifteen days and the case of G. H. Hyde, charged with vagrancy and making improper advances to little school girls, was continued.

The paving of Vine street will be completed by noon today, and the paving force will then be transferred to North Seventh street, where a block yet remains to be paved, also one block on North Eighth street. As soon as these are completed work will be commenced on Fifth avenue. The latter street will be reached about the latter part of the week.

Straightening the Crooked. In the district court yesterday morning Murray and Lee, otherwise Gleason and Clancy, were arraigned for the larceny of a watch chain from Robinson Bros', jewelry store last May. They are a couple of notorious and desperate crooks, and it was expected that they would stand trial. Much surprise was therefore depicted on the countenance of the prosecuting attorney and the court officials when they pleaded guilty of grand larceny as charged in the indictment.

There was no question as to their guilt, but the testimony on that point was very scant, and it would have been difficult to have convicted them. They did their work very shortly after having been released from Douglas county jail, and were recognized in jail in this city by several of the members of the Grand Jury, who were attending the annual meeting of the city marshals and chiefs of police. The prisoners were decidedly averse to showing themselves on that occasion, fearing the inevitable recognition, and had to be driven from their cells by turning on the hose.

Detective Oleson, of the Omaha force, gave a full history of the career of both criminals, and they were evidently afraid that it would have its effect in court and secured pleas of guilty to escape as easily as possible. Gleason tried to create a feeling of insubordination among the prisoners a few weeks ago, and was compelled to recognize the head authority and yield implicit obedience. The pair will receive their sentences on Saturday.

The case of Peter Johnson, charged with the larceny of a horse and buggy from in front of the store of the Council Bluffs Carpet company, was tried in the afternoon. The case was submitted to the jury at 4 o'clock. One of the jurors snored audibly while the judge was delivering his charge, but was awakened to go out with his fellows and assist in arriving at a just and impartial verdict. The jury was out but an hour and returned a verdict of guilty, as charged in the indictment. Johnson claimed that he was drunk and took the team for fun, with no intention of stealing it. As grand larceny is a penitentiary offense, Peter will doubtless find his drunk a very costly one.

The case of Riley Sandshaw, who is charged with being an habitual vagrant, will come up for consideration to-day, and Riley will probably be sent to the reform school, much to the relief of the city policemen, who have on numerous occasions, in their indignation against him, as he was investigating swill barrels in the alleys at midnight.

The embezzlement case of James T. Lee, a former employe of the Boston Tea company, was continued until the latter part of the week. The trials of Stanley Vanderpool and Byrd will take place to-day, completing the criminal cases for the present.

The Federal Court. The case of Kuppenheimer vs Eisman was concluded in the federal court yesterday afternoon just before adjournment and submitted to the jury. The case involves $14,000 or thereabouts, the plaintiff claiming that the defendant purchased, at ridiculously low figures, the stock of one Mossler, insolvent, for the purpose of assisting him to defraud his creditors. The defense denies the charge and alleges that a fair price was paid, and that Mossler represented himself as perfectly solvent at the time. The case has occupied three days. J. N. Flickinger, assisted by Mr. Carson of Omaha, appeared for the plaintiff and Judge Hildner, assisted by Wright, Baldwin & Haldane, conducted the defense.

The grand jury made its final report at 3 o'clock and was discharged. There were nearly thirty cases considered by this body, and indictments were returned in all but five. Of these latter some will be held to appear before the next grand jury, as the failure to indict was evidently unjust. District Attorney D. O. Finch, of Des Moines, asked the court to continue the bond of one Standfield, of Audubon county, to the next grand jury. Standfield is charged with sending indecent and obscene matter through the mails. He admits the writing and mailing of the missives, and as no opposing evidence was introduced, the action of the grand jury naturally excites comment.

Over twenty criminal cases are to be tried, but as the defendants are not yet under arrest, it is impossible to give the names of the indicted parties. It is expected that the docket will be completed by the latter part of the week, and that court will adjourn Saturday. The counterfeiting case of Dell Smith was called last evening. He pleaded not guilty, and will be placed on trial this morning.

We have no competitors in finishing collars, cuffs and shirts. Cascade Laundry Co. Not Confident About Shea. A well-known democratic ward worker was observed yesterday intently watching the work of the tracklayers on Broadway, seemingly taking special interest in the action of the men who were stringing the electric current return wires along the side of the rails. A BEB reporter noticed the absorbing interest with which he regarded the work, and inquired the reason. "Well," said the faithful democrat, "I have worked the wards in this city for many years, but my resources are exhausted, and I am looking for something new in the way of wire-pulling. I think I have it here. I shall do exactly like these workmen. They pull their wire and then they give it to the men who are to be pulled to the polls and voted before he is released. We must rivet them as fast as we get them, and even

City Council Proceedings. The city council met in adjourned session last evening. Present, Mayor Rohrer, Aldermen Waterman, Weaver, Laue, Knopfer and Bellinger. Just before the meeting was called to order Deputy Sheriff Connor appeared and served notices of writs of injunctions issued by the district court, on the mayor and members of the council, to restrain them from proceeding to issue a reasessment or special assessment on several lots along Broadway and Main street. The parties securing the injunctions have never paid for the stone paving done on these streets five years ago, and suits have been pending for some time. About a month ago the council decided to make a reassessment against the property, and these injunctions were secured to prevent same.

Mr. A. C. Graham asked certain concessions of the council in the interest of Fairmount park, and the matter was laid over until a future meeting. City Auditor Hammer presented the monthly batch of bills. They were all allowed with the exception of one amounting to $125, in favor of E. A. Burke, city clerk, for special services. He is attending board of health meetings, covering a period of several months. Wickham & Co. were awarded a contract for sewer work on an alley intersecting Pierce street, also an alley intersecting Willow avenue, and one at Franklin avenue.

A petition for opening up Thirty-first street from First avenue to Broadway was read and referred. A petition for the grading of an alley along block 15, Mill addition, was read and prayer granted.

Electoral clerks were elected as follows: Ben Haug, E. J. Abbott, A. L. Hendricks, John Fox, L. Swearingen, G. F. Smith, E. A. Troutman, H. A. Gallinger, T. L. Smith, T. C. Jackson. The city marshal read notice of service of papers on the new grading company to replace dirt taken from certain streets. Filed.

A lengthy debate ensued as to whether a bill of Wickham & Co. for grading on Broadway should be allowed. Several of the aldermen refused to vote and it was passed to a future meeting. See Forest Smith's special column.

Money loaned at L. B. Crafts & Co.'s loan office, on furniture, pianos, horse wagons, personal property of all kinds, and all other articles of value without removal. All business strictly confidential. A Tax Test. The crossing of Willow avenue at Pearl street was taken up yesterday and relaid in order to make it correspond with the grade of the brick pavement on the former street. The paving of the crossing, which is of cedar blocks, was found to be in a fine state of preservation, not a decayed block being discovered among those taken up. It had been down for two years, but was treated to a very heavy coat of tar when laid, and its perfect preservation was attributed to this cause. Paving in other parts of the city which was laid since that above referred to is rotting badly, and the property owners charge it to the failure of the contractors to use sufficient tar.

Money loaned on furniture, pianos, diamonds, horses, buggies, or anything of value at low rates of interest. No publicity; fair and honorable dealing. A. A. Clark & Co., office cor. Broadway and Main, over American express. Full line of sheet music at Council Bluffs Music Co., 224 Broadway. The City Finances. The finish on our collars, cuffs and shirts cannot be equalled. Cascade Laundry Co. Female Politicians. The Woman's democratic club of Milwaukee may probably fairly claim to be the original woman's political organization, outside of the female suffragists, in the country, and the most sensible organization of the sort, as well, if a recently published statement of its membership and methods is correct. The club is said to have been formed four years ago by Mrs. Edward Wall, wife of the internal revenue collector in that city. Mrs. Judge Jenkins, Mrs. Charles Schley, who met on the day after the state convention had named Wisconsin's delegates to the national democratic convention at Chicago and decided that it was necessary to devise some sort of a badge for those delegates, or the horrid things would go and deck themselves out in some garish combination of silk and gold that was sure to be a crying offense against the cultivated and esthetic eyes of the wives and daughters of the state. She decided to start a subscription to get money to provide real nice badges for the delegates, and went to work at once. In a few days they had all they needed, and the Wisconsin delegates were duly bedecked with badges that were admitted by the handsomest seen at Chicago that year, being of the design and manufacture of the three ladies mentioned.

During the several conferences incident to the carrying out of this plot to prevent the Wisconsin delegates from making gowns of themselves, Mrs. Schley, who is a southern woman and thoroughly imbued with the political principles of Jefferson, started the idea of founding a woman's political club, "not a woman's suffrage club," she explained, "but a club for the political education of women." The idea took, and within five minutes the Woman's Democratic club of Milwaukee was an organized entity. Mrs. William Pitt Lynde became the first regular president. She is the widow of the late Congressman Lynde. Mrs. Edward Wall was vice president. Mrs. L. W. Fensley treasurer, and Miss Lizzie M. Black secretary. Weekly meetings were held in the parlors of Mrs. Matthew Keenan, and the issues of the campaign were discussed by men invited to be present for that purpose.

After the election the organization imposed itself last June, when, at the time the democratic convention met in St. Louis, it was visited by the younger members, and the same officers were re-elected. Semi-monthly meetings have been held all through the summer, and now the monthly meetings are held at each alternate meeting the women listen to an address on the tariff or some other live political topic, and after that to the reading of selections from the literature sent out by the national democratic committee.

The club is not exclusive at all, although its members are said to include the leaders of fashionable society in Milwaukee. Any woman who is a sincere admirer of Mrs. Cleveland, the president, and the Old Woman is eligible for membership, and it is said that the membership is increasing every day, and, besides this, that the example of the Milwaukee women is being followed in several other cities, even beyond the borders of the state. There are some of the present members of the club: Mrs. Matthew Keenan, Mrs. James G. Jenkins, Mrs. Waltraute, Mrs. Kretz, Mrs. Boyd, Mrs. Frank Falk, Mrs. Governor Dewey, Mrs. Elias Friend, Mrs. E. Chapin, Mrs. Alfred Cary, Mrs. Phillis Lynde, Mrs. George C. Allen, Mrs. John L. Mitchell, Mrs. George Mitchell and Mrs. Stanley. Besides this a number of well-known men have, at their own solicitation, been invited honorary members, entitled to attend the meetings of the club. The list includes: James Morgan, democratic candidate for governor; John L. Mitchell, John Johnston, James Kneeland, John P. McGregor, L. W. Halsey, Edward Wall, Frank Falk, Glenway Maxon, J. J. O'Brien, L. E. Boyd, Postmaster George M. Paul and Charles Catlin.

Died by Halves. New Haven Palladium: Last June Master Leighton Foster, of No. 73 Kensington street, found a freak of nature in the shape of two headed turtle while on a fishing excursion at West river. The little curiosity was quite small and could sit comfortably on a silver 25 cent piece. Master Foster brought the queer little thing home and placed it in a glass case, where it was viewed by hundreds of people, including several Yale professors, one or two of whom secured photographs of the case and contents. The turtle grew quite rapidly until last week Thursday, when it had become twice its original size. On that day the family cat overturned the case and stuck one of her claws through the neck of one of the heads. The little turtle at once manifested signs of pain, and it grew less and less active until Wednesday of this week, when the injured head died. The other head lived until two hours later, when it died also, after having apparently suffered great pain. Master Foster will preserve the remains in alcohol.

Scientific men who saw the turtle pronounced it the only specimen of its kind ever reported to their knowledge. Master Foster was offered a large sum for his find by New York people, but he concluded that if the turtle lived it would be of much greater value when it reached maturity.
