There was quiet in the district court room yesterday. The case of Vanderpool, Stanley and Boyd for larceny and malicious mischief was set for trial, but the witnesses failed to appear and the court adjourned until this morning. The criminal docket will be completed to-day and work will then be resumed on the equity causes.

The paving of Vine street is completed and the citizens residing on that thoroughfare will no more be compelled to drive through ten or twelve inches of mud every time there is a rain. The paving force is now at work on North Seventh street, which will be completed by noon to-day, and work will then be commenced on Fifth avenue.

Henry and Lizzie Seible, a couple on Ban-croft street, indulged in a debate vesterday, and in the course of his resticulations, Henry dropped a large discoloration under his wife's left optic. She immediately sought consola-tion from City Clerk Burke, who ordered Henry's arrest, and that gentleman will appear before Squire Schurz this morning, and explain why this is thusly, and pay his fine.

The paving of Vine street was completed yesterday and the contractors have received many compliments upon the manner of its execution. A portion of the intersection of Second, which was laid a year ago, was removed to allow a perfect flow of surface water to the storm sewer. This was not embraced in the contract of McAdams & Amberg, but was done without extra expense to the city. All points are being closely watched, so that the people are getting the best possible work for their money.

A BROADWAY GRADING BILL.

Who Shall Pay It?-The Boom Bettering A $6,000 Horse-The Court Doings-The City Clerk's Bill.

No Extras For the Clerk.

The city clerk has a "little bili" that he desires the council to liquidate, but that body is not disposed to accommodate him. The bill is for $125, and is to compensate the clerk for special services in attending meetings of the board of health. Similar bills were presented some time ago by the marshal and members of the council, but there was so much outside opposition that they were not allowed. Clerk Burke argues that his bill is perfectly just. and proposes to have it paid. He urges that it is perfectly proper for the council to receive pay for filing informations against parties maintaining nuisances, but the council has struck an economic streak and refuses to allow the bill, on the ground that the marshal and other officials would then present similar bills. In referring to the matter yesterday one of the aldermen said: "This matter ought to be settled at once and for all time. One of the greatest obstacles we have to contend with is on account of this very thing. We have a hard time to get nuisances abated. The marshal is entitled to a fee when he is ordered to abate a nuisance by the board of health, and he waits for all notices to come from that source. Enough complaints are made, but of course the marshal would rather made, but of course the marshal would rather wait for a fee when he knows he can get it. Now, this is all wrong. There is not an alderman in the city who cannot make $10 a day right along filing informations against nuisances at 50 cents each. This must be stopped, and the work done as it should be. An alderman is not supposed to make $3,000 a year, but he can do it easily if he is disposed to take advantage of this board of health ordinance, and the council will let him." The city clerk says that the council has suddenly become poverty stricken, after raising the salary of every city official except him. He claims that he has been cut down time after time, while the others are con-stantly increased. He wants justice, and is bound to have it.

A Valuable Horse. A deal was consummated yesterday by which another valuable horse was added to the already large number of standard bred horses of this county. This new acquisition s without exception the most valuable piece of horse flesh ever owned in this part of the state. The animal was purchased by Mr. Theodore Bray, of this city, for Mr. William Tompkins, of the Macedonia breeding farm, who paid $6,000 in cold cash for him. The horse is known as Copper Glance, was foaled in 1884, and is a handsome chestnut stallion, and as well bred as the best. He was sired by Mambrino Patchen, sire of London sired by Mambrino Patchen, sire of London 2:2014, Katie Middleton 2:23, Mambrino Kate 2:24, the Jewess 2:26. The dam of Copper Glance was Sir Patchen, by Busby, by George Wilkes, the latter being the sire of more trotters in the 2:30 list than any other stall-Wilkes, the latter being the sire of more trotters in the 2:30 list than any other stallion. Copper Glance is royally bred, having as he does the finest strains of speed producing blood. Mambrino Patchin, brother to Lady Thorn 2:1845, stands as the best son of Mambrino Chief, and George Wilkes was certainly the greatest horse left by Rysdyk's Hambletonian—both greater than their distinguished.

Mr. Tompkins will take the horse to Macedonia, where he will be placed in the stud. He was bred by W. T. Simmons of Lexing-ton, Ky., and was sold to S. E. Larabie, who took him to Deer Lodge, Mont. Mr. Larabie is disposing of his stock and the horse was being taken back to Kentucky when Mr. Tompkins bought him. He arrived in the city yesterday morning and is stabled in Mr. Bray's livery barn on North Main street. The Puzzled Druggists.

"This law in regard to druggists handling liquors was surely made by a set of cranks," remarks a Council Bluffs dealer. "I've been studying it over and over, and through and through. I'd give a round sum to have any man tell me how I can obey every bit of what is contained in these ten pages. There isn't a lawyer in town who will claim to un-derstand it. It's damn you if you don't take out a permit, and it's damn you if you do."

"But what are you going to do about it?"
"I don't know; that's the trouble. If you take out a permit and try to obey the law, you're sure to get into trouble, for some blackmailer or bloodsucker will hunt up some technicality which gives him a chance to sue you. There isn't a man living that can follow out all that law requires. He can't make out even his reports without swearing to either a lie or to something he lon't know anything about. Of course you don't take out a permit then you're liable to get into trouble, for even if you don't sell any whisky, you are liable to get caught up in the way of alcohol, for it is used in almost every way in the drug trade."
"What are the druggists in Council Bluffs going to do about it?"
"I don't know, but I don't think they will not take out perpits and will in the take out perpits.

"I don't knew, but I don't think they will not take out permits, and will quit selling for any purposes. Three have taken out permits. Why, Judge Loofbourow himself had to take three weeks to study over the law before he could decide about even issuing these three permits. If it takes a judge three weeks to see if he can issue a permit, it will take a dealer three years to understend how to obey dealer three years to understend how to obey

"But in case of actual need for medicinal purposes, what can a citizen do?"

"Well, he will have to hunt up one of those three places or go without. There'll be lots of kicking. The druggists have never abused their privileges here. There's been no occasion too. There are enough saloons running, and the drug men have not been known here as running drinking places. When a customer wants intoxicants for medicinal purposes, he will be hot at being refused, but he mustn't blame the druggists, but the law. Why, you can't sell even a little alcohol, unless you've got a permit."

The wholesale drug houses are as seriously all druggists. "But in case of actual need for medicinal affected as the retail ones, and in some respects more so. The law does not provide for wholesale drug houses. There are several in this city, which do an extensive business. Since the lat of October any lowaring set, in ordering goods, will find that any alcohol or liquors which he desires, will have to be lopped off, unless the wholesale houses conclude to take out permits. They have not yet concluded to do so. The out-look is decidedly unpleasant for the whole-sale drug houses and their Iowa customers. The strange feature of the law, as affecting the wholesale trade of the city, is that an Omaha wholesale house can ship alcohol in any form to a Council Bluffs druggist, or to any in Iowa, but a Council Bluffs house can not ship to an Iowa druggist unless a permit is secured, and, as already explained, a per-mit opens the door to innumerable persecutions by disreputable persons.

"Yes, it's a bnd blow to the wholesale drug business in Iowa," remarked a wholesale man yesterday. "Not that we sell so much whisky, or that we want to. We never have been selling to s doons or anything of that sort. But suppose an lowa customer sends an order for goods, and among them orders some alcohol with which to make up some tinctures. We can't send it, and we have to the third seed of the says at once: Till get my goods somewhere else then, and get my stuff all at one place. Then, too, this permit business makes bad work with the customers. I know two retailers, who have been good customers, and who have always discounted their bills.

They have had permits, but got into trouble by some technical violation. It has cost them a good deal to straighten it up, although they intended no violation. One of them had to put a chattel mortgage on his stock. Such law breaks down credit, and destroys confidence. Why, you remember, under the old law, when a scheme was started to bleed the aw, when a scheme was started to bleed the druggists of this county for $i5,0.0. The fellows that had permits, and were trying to comply with the law, were the only ones sued. Ain't that so? The ones who had no permits were lucky. This new law is just such another trap to catch a big haul. That's the way it looks to me."

Bits From the Boom

"Twin City Place" is the latest addition to Council Bluffs. It embraces the tract between Twenty-seventh and Twenty-eighth streets from First to Eighth avenues-272 lots. It is owned by Messrs. E. A. Henson and C. J. Colby and will be put upon record to-day. Eight blocks of very desirable lots are thus placed upon the market. The pressing demand for first-class locations in that part of the city has made the platting of this 'ract necessary.

The matter of the location of the Red Oak

Buggy and cart company is settled and all details arranged. E. A. Benson, C. J. Colby and F. H. Keys, the latter of the Red Oak company, have entered into an agreement by which the buildings of the company are to be erected on block 2, Twin City Place. This location is at the corner of Twenty-eighth street and Tenth avenue. Ten lots will be thus occupied. A four story brick block, 60x150 feet, will be erected at once. It will be ready for occupancy by Debember 1—at least that is the present intention.

T. J. Evans' new office, at the corner of Broadway and Thirtieth street, is nearly ready for occupancy. Two weeks more will see the proprietor comfortably located where he can see the new buildings spring up around him like mushroons.

Every evening this week C. J. Colby will run a team from the waterworks to Benson's first addition, where he is putting up rest dences for persons who will guarantee immediate and continued occupancy.

C. J. Colby has just concluded an extensive deal which will add materially to the business interests of Council Bluffs. He has sold to the Plano Manufacturing company, of Plano, Ill., block 8, in Bryant & Clark's addition. This company will immediately proceed to the erection of an office and extensive warehouses upon this tract for their own occu-pancy. They have heretofore occupied this territory through another local warehouse and their greatly increased business throughout the northwestern territory has made this latter move necessary.

It may be stated incidentally that this is but one of several deals of a similar nature by the aid of which extensive manufacturing interests will be set the deals. interests will locate their supply houses here. These negotiations are being carried on through Omaha as well as Council Bluffs real estate brokers. The very liberal policy adopted by the owners of realty located be tween the two cities has attracted very gen eral attention to this point and inquiries are constantly coming in respecting this matter. Unless all signs fail, the next ninety days will be active ones in real estate transac-

Who Shall Pay For Folly?

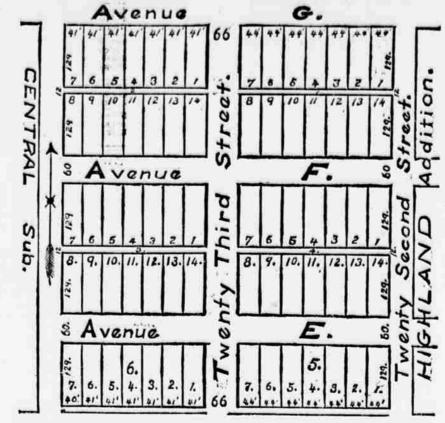

When the contract for paving Lower Broadway was awarded to Wickham & Co. it was specified that they were to receive usual rates for any grading that might have to be done, although it was supposed that the street was in readiness to pave, as the city engineer had so reported. The grading of this street, it will be remembered, was done in cold weather, and many huge lumps of frozen dirt were dumped in to raise the grade. The work was measured and approved before the frost came out and Contractor Callahan was paid the full amount of his contract on the recommendation of the city engineer Aldermen Lacy and Weaver opposed the matter at the time, arguing that when the frost came out the ground would settle a foot or two and more grading would have to be done. Time proved the correctness of these views, and when Wickham & Co. began payng they found considerable work to be done in the way of filling up depressions where these frozen lumps had been dumped. Some of the holes required between fifty and sixty wagon loads of dirt to fill them up. It is for this work that Wickham & Co. now demand pay. The aldermen concede the claim to be a just one, but opinions differ as to how it shall be settled. Some of the members of the counci are in favor of the city paying the bill, but others object to paying twice for the same work. Some claim that the city engineer should make good the amount, as he was re-sponsible for Callahan's bill being allowed, before the work was properly done. Others favor bringing suit against Callahan's bondsmen to recover the amount, but one of the aldermen, who is on the bond, objects to this and does not want to make any move in the matter. In the meantime Wickham & Co must wait for their cash until the council can fully agree as to who shall face the music and foot the bill.

The Board of Trade.

There was no quorum present at the special meeting of the board of trade. Representatives of the New York Sunday Jour nal were present and desired to make ar rangements with the board to advertise this city. The proposed article was read and re-ceived with favor. As no definite action could be taken as a board, those present decided to assume all responsibility, and in-structed the finance committee to attend to the matter, and appropriate $100, which, with $110 subscribed by private citizens would make the necessary amount. The article, which will fill two columns, will appear in next Sunday's issue of the morning Journal

Indictments were returned in twenty-seven ases, all but four of them being liquor cases. The case of A. F. Crawford was taken up in the afternoon, and a demurrer introduced by Attorney Sims for the defense. Crawford was a postal clerk at the transfer, and was charged with stealing a registered letter. He was indicted and his case came up for trial at the last term of court. After the case had been stated, it was discovered that one of the jurors had been on the grand jury that indicted him, and was therefore dis-qualified to act as a juror. The case was then continued to this term. The demurrer sets forth that such proceedings endanger the defendant, and that as he was not convicted at the last trial, he can not be twice arraigned for the same crime. The matter was taken under advisement by the court.

This term lasted but a week, and court is now over. Judge Love will return to Des Moines this morning, as will also District At-torney Finch, but Marshal Campbell will remain here several days.

The Rails on Broadway. Considerable complaint has been made concerning the manner in which the stone paving is being relaid on Broadway by the new bridge company who removed it to lay their new double track. It is claimed that the work is being improperly done, and that the paving is not laid to the top of the rails, leaving them in a condition that does not augur well for the safety of buggy wheels. The council is disposed to see that the work is properly done, and has instructed the city engineer to take charge of the matter, and see that the city's interests do not suffer. The councilmen claim that unless the work is under the supervision of the city engineer, the workmen would rush the job through as fast as possible, regardless of consequences, and that the city would be kept busy for some time repairing it, to restore it to its original solid state. The pavers are getting along as fast as possible, and reached Sixth street last night. The track has been laid to Glen avenue, and will reach the Methodist church by Friday night.
