THEY BOTH WANT THE CHILD

A Strange Case on Trial in the Lancaster Courts.

AFFAIRS AT THE UNIVERSITY.

Bishop Newman at the Capital-An Alleged Artesian Well-General and Personal Notes and Gossip.

LINCOLN BUREAU OF THE OMARA BEE, 1 1029 P STREET, LINCOLN, Oct. 5.

There was something of a scene in the county court room when Judge Stewart heard the application for the appointment of a guardian of Richard Saunders, the little four-year-old boy who has been hustled about in the Lancaster county courts during the past two or three days. It will be remembered that Gus Saunders secured possession of the child by giving bond for his appearance et the command of the court in the sum of $500, and that subsequently Mary Clark, a well known prostitute of the city, undertook to counter Gus' deal on a writ of habeas corpus obtained from the district court, and that it missed fire by Mary's failure to in-demnify the sheriff for the service. Yester-day the case was tried in Justice Crocker's court, Mary having charged Gus with kid happing the child, but on a hearing the court napping the child, but on a hearing the court prompily dismissed the case. Mary claims that Gus is her lawfully wedded husband. Gus repudiates the claim, but judging from the testimony it looks to the man up a tree as though they have been living together as such. The child has been a special charge. Both Gus and Mary cared and provided for him. The bearing of the wowns in the court soon indicated that she woman in the court soon indicated that she had become deeply attached to the little fellow. She told her story amidst sobs and tears, and they certainly came from a deeply wounded heart. The testimony adduced bids to show that Gus and Mary have lived together for the past four years, and that when Richard was a babe they took him from the Richard was a babe they took him from the dying arms of some frail mother and since then have fed, clothed and cared for him. But the life of sinful love came to an end. Gus and Mary quarreled, cailed each other hard names and hurled lamps, dishes and other articles at each other indiscriminately, and finally they concluded to divide worldly possessions and separate. But the boy suddenly became a bone of contention. Mary asserted that she was abundantly able to provide for him in every way. Gus, however, had a different idea and secured possession of the child as stated above. He sates that the woman is not a fit guardian and asks that the court appoint one. He alleges that Mary gets drunk and raises cain and would abuse so sacred a and raises cain and would abuse so sacred a trust. It is understood that Judge Crocker has consented to take the child and care for him as his own, and the future welfare of the little fellow, it is alleged, alone is sought. The citizens of Lincoln in any way connected with the case say that neither the man nor woman are fit to have the care of the child. What the court will do remains to be seen. At this hour the case is being hotly contested and will probably hang fire during the entire afternoon. The lawyers seem to fear that the ground work is being laid for the criminal prosecu-tion of their respective clients. It is a notorious fact that the couple have lived together during the past six years as husband and wife, or at least it has been so understood. Richard is a bright little boy and under proper surroundings may become a useful man. "It is the clear duty of the court," said a prominent citizen this afternoon, "to take the child wholly from the influence of either Gus or Mary, and in that event Judge Crocker's guardianship will be denied.

THE UNIVERSITY MEDICAL COLLEGE. It is stated upon reliable authority that a special effort will be made by the board of regents to secure a sufficient appropriation to insure the reinstatement of the medical department of the state university. The medical fraternities of Lincoln and Omaha will co-operate with the board to this end. During the session of the board, which closed vesterday as Tur Bre intimated this mean yesterday, as The Bez intimated this morning, a conference was held with the board, which was attended by Dr. Lowery and other physicians of Lincoln, and, it leaks out to-day, by Dr. Moore, of Omaha, also. On the part of the Omaha medical college Dr. Moore stated that if a sufficient appropriation could be secured to properly sustain the col-lege as a department in the state university, the Omaha college would be disbanded in its

the Omaha college would be disbanded in its favor, and that the faculty there would heartily give every possible aid for its success and perpetuity. "This proposition," the doctor said, "is made because we have outgrown our present quarters and must get down deep into our pockets and erect a new college building and make other heavy expenditures, and we do not feel able or called upon to do this. And, above all, we feel that one good medical college in the state is much better than two or more poor ones. But the Omaha school will continue to live and operate until this proposition is acted upon in such a manner as will insure the success of the department in the state university. A sufficient ment in the state university. A sufficient appropriation and a competent faculty alone can give such assurance."

UNDECIDED UPON HIS HOME.
Bishop Newman, of the Methodist Episco

Bishop Newman. of the Methodist Episcopal church, has been in Lincola since Wednesday evening. He is accompanied by his wife, and they are pleasantly situated at Hon J. J. Inhoff's cosy home, where they will rest and recruit for a few days. At an early hour this afternoon The Bee correspondent called upon him and received a most cordial greeting. To the question, Have you yet decided where you will make your episcopal residence? the bishop said:

"I am undecided; I shall locate where I can do Methodism the most good. It will matter but little where that shall be, for I will not be at home more than three months out of any one year. My work will be largely in conference fields, and my home will be chosen with that end in sight. Before making decision on so important a matter I shall have to look the field over very carefully. This will take some little time, and I shall not hurry. During the present month I shall travel over the state considerably, and when I have done so I can decide upon the matter more intelligently than now. But I shall locate where I can do my people the most good and reach them best."

AN ALLEGED ANTESIAN WELL.

The citizens of Lincoln are a credulous people. They now bank on the discovery of a genuine artesian well. This may or may not be true, but a strata of water has been reached across the Antelope that flowed forty-five gallons per minute for over twelve hours. The fact, however, that the water supply weakened within a day argues against the flow being continuous. It is said that the water of the well is pure and soft, and that if the vein will hold out the water question is settled in Lincoln for all time. Burns' proposition may yet have to go begging.

standard ladies' button boots of first quality, manufactured at Lynn, Mass. His samples were universally praised in Europe for their workmanship and appearance. From the information given to Mr. Shoenhof it appears that the cost of the labor in turning out a pair of such goods in Lynn is 35 cents. For the labor employed in making shoes of the same description there is paid in Frank-fort 6i cepts, in Berlin 57 cents, in Vienna 7l cents, in Stafford 63j cents and in Leicester 64 cents. Taking the American cost again as a basis, the ia-bor cost in Frankfort is 74 per cent greater than in Lynn, in Berlin 88 per cents greater, in Vienna 103 per cent greater, in Stafford 82 per cent greater and in Leicester 83 per cent greater. But on account of their superior skill, greater adaptability, more complete machinery and more active vital force, due to their better subsistence, etc., the weekly earnings of men and women in the American shops are very much greater than abroad. Yes, he loves you now, 'tis true, Lass with eyes of violet blue, Lips as sweet as honey-dew, Bonny little bride! Will be love you as to-day When your bloom has fled away,

A Bear Story.

Harrisburg Telegraph: Sergeant James Morgan, of San Carlos, Arizona Territory, writes the Telegraph, under date of September 5, of a fight a former Harrisburger had with a big black bear Sergeant Morgan says: "A little inci-dent happened near here which I think worthy of notice. Corporal William P. Battle, of Troop H. Tenth cavalry, while out hunting on the 31st of August, hap-pened upon a huge black bear. Corporal Battle is as good an average shot athe United States army affords, having been for five years a marksman and sharpshooter. His first shot at the bear was at a distance of 150 yards, striking the shoulder of the animal. Bruin never stopped in his advance, nor did Battle retreat. Aiming carefully and steadily, he continued to fire on the enraged bear until seventeen shots were pumped into him, every shot taking effect. On the last shot Mr. Bruin had advanced to within three yards of Bat-tle, who took good aim and hit him in the mouth, killing him. The bear had three shots in the head, two in the mouth and one in the eye. Corporal Battle, I learn, was formerly of Harris-

Killed by an Eagle.

A Wichita, Kan., special says that the baby of a farmer, William Beattle, who lives on the Cimmanon river north of the territory line, was carried off by an eagle. Beattie went to work in the morning leaving in his dugout his two children, one five years old and a baby eged two months. About noon Beattte returned home and found his girl in tears. She said she had taken the baby into the yard and left it while she went into the house. In a few minutes she heard a cry and looking out saw the baby "flying away," as she expressed it.

In about an hour the sound of a shot summoned the searchers together. One of the men had found the eagle and was engaged in a deadly conflict with it. He had emptied his gun at the big bird and broken a wing and was using his gun as a club when reinforcements arrived. The eagle fluttered into the bush, and then the father saw his infant dead, the body horribly lacerated and part gone.
