

THE LINCOLN WATER SUPPLY.

Efforts of a Council Committee to Solve the Vexed Problem.

THE HOME OF THE FRIENDLESS.

Increased Activity Noticeable in the Y. M. C. A. Circles—The A. O. U. W. Excursion—New Notices Commissioned—General Notes.

LINCOLN BUREAU OF THE OMAHA BEE, 1022 F STREET, LINCOLN, Oct. 11. The special water committee of the city council met yesterday afternoon to sit in special session on the new well which has been dug in East Lincoln. The first question to be decided was, very naturally, whether it should be used for water or pumped out and turned into a gold mine, or used as an inexpensive source of natural gas supply for the council chamber. The suggestion was also made that possibly if the natural gas indications were followed up it might be struck. The debate over the question was long and bitter, but it was finally settled by Dean, who said in an expressive voice, "We need water."

Water Commissioner Lyman, whom the Herald correspondent has so unjustly criticized, gave the opinion that the well, if properly developed, would furnish 1,000,000 gallons per day. The plan he would advocate would be to sink horizontal tunnels about two feet to sand rock and from there drills could be sunk. Horizontal tunnels should also be driven to the south, which would not only furnish water, but would give a complete supply for the city even now, but thought the city could afford to put in other piping stations when more water should be needed. All the committee except Cooper agreed in developing the East Lincoln well and a resolution to that effect was passed. It will probably thus cost an additional $40,000 to $120,000.

Councilman Cooper looked into the twenty foot East Lincoln hole with a pessimistic grin. He thought it would not yield over 500,000 gallons per day, and would soon give out. The test will now be made. Probably it is best that it should be so. The citizens desire to get water from the ground in their vicinity if possible, and they are well satisfied if a thorough test were not made.

HOME OF THE FRIENDLESS. The state society having the management of the home of the friendless, finished their session yesterday. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Recording secretary, M. J. Dwyer; correspondence secretary, Mrs. Elliott; treasurer, Mrs. Heimer; financial secretary, Mrs. Parrish. A new board of managers for the home was also chosen, consisting of: Mrs. Davis, Hardy, L. G. M. Haldin, C. C. Munson, McCreary, Habcock and Dr. Sophronia Lane. The board of managers met and elected as president, Mrs. Dwyer; as clerk, Mrs. Habcock; Alice E. Huff was appointed physician to the home for another year. Mrs. Slough was reappointed as superintendent, and Mrs. Witt as matron.

THE Y. M. C. A. BUILDING. An increased activity has been observed lately in the Y. M. C. A. circles and it is hinted that the announcement of some definite move toward the completion of the new Y. M. C. A. building will be the result. It is something of an adverse comment on the literary and business character of the enterprise of Lincoln men that the magnificent offer of John H. Clark has remained so long unaccepted. Lincoln should have accepted it before this. It has not yet been commenced, but one thing may be said very safely, it will never be started earlier. Let it be commenced as soon as possible.

A DESEERED WIFE. In the district court yesterday Grace O'Brien filed a petition for divorce from her husband, Michael O'Brien. Ten years ago she married him in a little Illinois village, trusting with all her heart in his vows to love and cherish her.

But Michael was as other men. He forgot his light vows which his lip had spoken, but his heart had not heard. In plain English he got her drunk, beat her, and threatened her life. He deserted her and left his family without support. Since 1855 he has not lived in this country, but is somewhere in the world, and she has remained in the custody of his father. Under certain circumstances a divorce court is a good thing, but sometimes a divorce is better.

NOTARIAL COMMISSIONERS. The following notaries public were commissioned yesterday: M. W. Stuckey, Plum Creek, Davison county; Thomas J. Smith, Omaha, Douglas county; John Patterson, Central City, Merrick county; H. T. Arnold, Council Bluffs, Omaha county; John Stuffer, Columbus, Platte county.

THE A. O. U. W. EXCURSION. The Lincoln lodge, Ancient Order of United Workmen, has arranged by special excursion trains to-morrow over the Missouri Pacific to Omaha, where they will attend the reunion of the order at that place. Extremely low fares will be given, and the per head fare will be secured by letting the various lines bid against each other. The trains will leave the depot at 8:30 o'clock.

AN INTERESTING CASE. Mr. Dennis Osborne, who spoke in the city last night, is an interesting man. He came from India and is accompanied by his son, a boy of perhaps fourteen years. He is making a tour of this country speaking and lecturing on the customs of his native country. His style is of the most interesting, interspersing his father's talk with sweet Indian melody. The couple went on the Missouri Pacific to Nebraska City yesterday, where Mr. Osborne speaks tonight.

DIOCESAN CONFERENCE. The diocesan conference of this Catholic diocese met yesterday, as announced. Thirty-five priests were in attendance, five being excused. A building committee on the bishop's residence met yesterday at the diocesan court, and trustees of the fund for infirm priests were appointed. The matter of immigration into the state was discussed, and the bishop empowered to appoint a committee to look after this matter. The members of the bishop's council have not been appointed. Bishop Boncourt is chairman of the committee. The bishop's house will probably be held early in the spring.

CITY NEWS AND NOTES. The case of the Missouri Pacific railway vs. John P. Young, error from Cass county, was filed today in the supreme court. Judge Stewart today issued a marriage license to Olaf Anderson Lindt and Mrs. Caroline Watson, both of Lincoln. Zenus O. Newton entered suit in the district court this morning against William E. Johnson et al for the forfeiture of a mortgage given as security for certain notes which the defendants have failed to pay. The state board of transportation, which in Omaha to-day, trying the case of William Guyver vs. the Burlington & Missouri River railroad company, and attending to some other business. The Odd Fellows will fall in line with the great procession a week from today with an excursion to Omaha. It will cost only a dollar per head the round trip. The paving contractors are working hard to get their work into shape before frost. Last night the burst of a street lamp machine could be heard far into the night. This evidence of good intentions is something new and particularly grateful to Lincoln citizens. Attorney General Leese went yesterday to Stella to address the voters of that vicinity. James Richardson escaped being killed, Richardson has lived at Eagle for some years. He is a good specimen of the restless, tobacco-stained, unprincipled frontiersman. Some days since he began to gather his family and goods together to go, as he said, further west, where civilization would not press so heavily on him. The family objected and a domestic row occurred in which a negro who sided in against Richardson, narrowly escaped being killed. Richardson will be tried for assault with intent to kill.

recently, when union soldiers were present by invitation to participate in the ceremonies, was referred to in a speech by Colonel W. J. Parkinson at the reunion of the Seventh regiment veterans on Saturday night. General Sherman heard the speech. He has just written on the subject to Colonel Parkinson. He says: "The public authorities of Richmond did invite union heroes including Governor Curtis, to participate in dedicating the monument to the rebel General Pickett, and did permit a rebel flag to be carried in that procession. It was a breach of common politeness, of common decency and a public insult to every citizen of the United States, north and south. I hope there is some mistake in the report and will await further information before forming or expressing a stronger opinion."

Liberated From Their Fetters. By the helpful, genial action of that most beneficent of apartments, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the beloved son-in-law of the late General Sherman was freed from the morbid conditions that paralyzed and weakened them, and resume their normal freedom of action. The action of the Bitters, unlike that of other purgatives, involves no griping or retching. If it did it would, like them, be valueless for ordinary use. There is nothing ungentle or unnatural attending its operation. It does not irritate, nor less than the bowels, its action is most benign, promoting a healthy bilious secretion and directing out of the wrong and into the right channel, jointly with its costiveness, other bilious symptoms disappear when it is systematically used, and the stomach is strengthened as well as regulated by the Bitters. All the troubles of rheumatism, nervousness and kidney troubles are completely relieved by it. Sleep and appetite are invariably promoted by it.

Defective Laws. SOUTH OMAHA, Oct. 10.—To the Editor of THE BEE: Our statistics provide that in cities of the first class and metropolitan cities the expenditure for school sites and buildings. In cities of the first class they cannot exceed $5,000, and in metropolitan cities the entire expenditure for any one year for sites and buildings must not exceed $25,000, without submitting it to a vote of the people. For cities of the second class no such provision had been made, presumably because such cities have not usually a large school population. All rules, though, have exceptions, and here in South Omaha, though a city of the second class, we are metropolitan in the number of scholars, having about sixty which pay a license of $500 each into the school fund. September 1st we had about $20,000 in the fund. It is down to about $4,000. Most of this money has gone for the purchase of school sites at extravagant prices and some buildings. One member of the board took legal advice and was informed that they could under the law spend the money for "school purposes" as they pleased. Another member suggested that the money be paid in for the purpose of paying it out, and he thought it was a good plan to pay it out as quickly as possible. I do not mean to say that a school site is better than a building made by the board. We should like your opinion, Mr. Editor, as to whether we have a remedy or not, something should be done to call a halt to this work, as we shall have no money to pay our teachers next spring for it must be borne in mind the entire school tax for the year has been paid and the state appropriation is also paid, so the present fund is all we have, until next May, to work on.

Double Wedding at Dunbar. DUNBAR, Neb., Oct. 11.—(Special Telegram to THE BEE.)—The home of J. C. Boyd, a prominent citizen of Otoe county, living near Dunbar, was last evening the scene of the greatest social event of the season. The marriage of his son John, to Miss Martin, and his daughter Laura, a former teacher of the Papillon school, to M. P. Brown, of Papillon, took place at 8 o'clock. Rev. (Riole) performing the ceremony. The spacious rooms of his elegant home were crowded to their utmost capacity by invited guests from Papillon, Nebraska City, and various other places in the state. An elegant supper was served. Mr. and Mrs. Boyd will settle down in Otoe county, while Mr. and Mrs. Brown will become residents of Papillon, where Mr. Brown is a rising young business man.

All druggists sell Jarvis brandy. Affairs at York. YORK, Neb., Oct. 11.—(Special to THE BEE.)—The third annual convention of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor, has been in session at the Congregational church. About two hundred were in attendance from the forty-three societies in the state, Omaha being represented by a delegation of forty-five members, who came in a special car. The exercises closed last evening, with an address by Rev. W. K. Means.

W. G. Hastings, the democratic candidate for congress, spoke Tuesday night in the opera house to a small audience. The Salvation Army, headed by a fat woman with a tambourine, has swooped down upon this city. The democrats and the prohibitionists are beyond redemption, the stay of the army will probably be short.

Republicans Rally at Salem. SALEM, Neb., Oct. 11.—(Special to THE BEE.)—The republicans of Salem held their first rally at this place Tuesday night. The city was full of red hot republicans with torches and music. The crowd was addressed by J. J. Riley and C. A. Atkinson with the latest campaign songs. Salem is probably the oldest town in the county, first settled by democrats from northwest Missouri, and has always been the banner democratic precinct in the county, but will pass to other hands this fall. Republicans in this county look well to the legislative ticket. There is no other fight in this county except on the legislative candidates.

Doctors give Jarvis old brandy. Democrats at Columbus. COLUMBUS, Neb., Oct. 11.—(Special Telegram to THE BEE.)—The democratic county convention met at Humphrey yesterday afternoon and put in nomination the following candidates: For representative of the twenty-fourth district, J. C. Swartsley; for county attorney, John M. Gouding; for county clerk, E. O. Green, of Genoa, Nance county. The delegates to the Twelfth senatorial district convention were unopposed.

See Peyske Bros for pear cider. Major Anderson's Canvass. SINKER, Ia., Oct. 11.—(Special Telegram to THE BEE.)—Major Anderson, independent candidate for congress, spoke at Sinker last night to a large and enthusiastic audience of over 700 people. A special train was run from Sinker crowded with both ladies and gentlemen. Four bands and a torch-light procession helped to enthuse. The major spoke over two hours and left his audience spell-bound. The large hall wouldn't hold half of the crowd.

Oldest and the best, Jarvis brandy. Also Stele Flowers. The firm of H. & Co. sent Judge Anderson a box of Stele flowers, a mixture of roses and tube roses of the most delicate workmanship in porcelain, that he might gift the owner. This wreath, as well as a box of artificial flowers from some millinery establishment, were found among the many packages of boxes and letters in the room which Turtle hired in the Levy block. The firm's disclaim ownership. They are supposed to have been taken from the mails.

Peyske Bros. for Jarvis blackberry. only responsible for giving the bronzes. I would like to mention that, in modeling the figures, I was given most valuable assistance by an Italian of the name of Madressi. Many of the public authorities, particularly handsome man, very fair and wears a beard and moustache. He might have held a high political position in any English cabinet, but so strong is the artist's instinct in him that he relinquished politics and other holds where he would have been welcomed in order to give up his entire time to art and literature. He has been a success in his chosen path in life, and the magnificent work unveiled yesterday must hand him down to posterity as one of the most brilliant sculptors of the Victorian era.

STRATFORD'S BARD IN BRONZE

Lord Ronald Gower's Statue Unveiled With Imposing Ceremonies.

AN ORATION BY OSCAR WILDE.

Description of the Artist's Magnificent Tribute to the World's Greatest Poet—How it was Designed and Carried Out.

Shakespeare Week in Stratford. [Copyright 1888 by James Gordon Bennett.] STRATFORD-ON-AVON, Oct. 11.—New York Herald Cable—Special to THE BEE.—This is Shakespeare week. Next Sunday a Shakespeare statue is to be dedicated on the Boulevard Hausman, the gift of an English gentleman. Yesterday there was unveiled here a statue of Shakespeare—presented, designed and executed by Lord Ronald Gower, brother to the duke of Sutherland. It has been several years in preparation. It is entirely Shakespearean in character, with a life-sized figure of the poet on a pedestal, and four of his greatest creations—Hamlet, Lady Macbeth, Falstaff and Prince Hal—at the sides. It is placed on the grounds surrounding the memorial buildings, within a few yards of Shakespeare's residence. The pedestal is Bath stone, sixteen feet high, and elaborately carved. A life-sized bronze figure of Shakespeare surmounts the figure, seated. The face bears a striking resemblance to the portrait shown at his birthplace. The effect is rendered more striking by the sculptor having adopted the double covered with the loose, sleeveless gown which distinguishes the portrait. The poet's gaze is directed towards the church, where lie his remains. The four Shakespearean figures stand on projecting bases. Hamlet is seated with a dejected mien of the visage, using Yorick's skull. The other seated figure is that of Falstaff. An empty wine cup is in the left hand, the right raised with the forefinger extended. Lady Macbeth is represented rubbing her hands to remove the invisible blood. Her dress is hard and cruel, but a shadow of remorse is on her face. Prince Hal is putting on his father's crown. The memorial is decorated with four laurel chaplets and faces, typical of comedy and tragedy. It is a generous tribute of a true artist to the poet's fame. The contrast is present between the white Bath stone pedestal and the bronze figures is strong and striking, but time will mellow the stone and bring the whole into more complete harmony.

There was an immense gathering, many coming from London and the large provincial cities, but the multitude were from within a radius of twenty miles. The monument was unveiled by Lady Hodgson—wife of the mayor of this city, who is a daughter of the chief justice of New South Wales—amid cheers and music. Sir Arthur Hoagson, the lord mayor, who is once an official in Queensland where he made an immense fortune, felicitously accepted the statue, pleasantly seconded by Sir Philip Cunliffe Owen of Kensington museum. Oscar Wilde, the orator of the day, made a terse and poetic speech. Lord Ronald Gower made a most modest, most remarkable, thanks and a large number of invited guests were given a princely luncheon by the mayor in the picture gallery of Memorial hall. Miss Ada Dehan dominated the entertainment gorgeously dressed as Katherine, that is to say her portrait by Ailary Bail recently presented by Augustus Daly looked down upon the table, surrounded by pictures of Mrs. Siddons, Mrs. Charles Kean, John Philip Kemble, Fanny Phelps, Edwin Booth, etc., etc. George Augustus Sala responded to the toast, "The Drama." Lord Leigh, lieutenant of the county, spoke for "Shakespeare's Birthplace," and remarked: "Since the visit of Ignatius Donnelly here our people have read more about Bacon and loved Shakespeare better than ever." Oscar Wilde received an ode from Mrs. George Daffon, of Stratford, four lines of which, referring to the bronze figures, read thus: Heard Royal Henry chide his self-crowned heir, The guilty queen moan for her white hand stain, Or Falstaff troll some roystering refrain, Or Hamlet juggle with his own sole's danger. After luncheon ended I interviewed Lord Ronald as to his work. He said: "I began the work in 1875 and, although I exhibited these Shakespeare groups some few years ago in the Paris salon, they have just recently been cast in bronze. It will interest Americans to know that I first conceived the idea when walking in Central Park, New York, with my mother and friend Sam Alard. I then saw an excellent monument to Shakespeare erected in the park. It was infinitely finer than anything we have here. I always felt it disgraceful that in his own land, and more, in his own birthplace, Shakespeare had no statue except that wretched one in the church and the equally marvellous production given by Garrick, which is placed outside the town hall here."

"Did you originally conceive of a monument such as the present one?" "No, not quite. My first idea was only to have the poet's statue. I did not propose, then, the surrounding groups, but now, as you see, I have added Hamlet representing philosophy, Falstaff comely, Prince Hal history, Lady Macbeth tragedy. You will see that each figure bears an appropriate wreath and allegorical plants. For instance: Lady Macbeth holds poppies emblematic of sleep and blood; Hamlet cypress and ivy, representing mourning and eternity; Falstaff holds a vine and hops, and Prince Hal the rose of England and the lily of France."

"Where and how was your work done?" "My first work was done at my studio in Paris. I think I may say I devoted the best years of my life to it, for I began when I was thirty years of age. I gave up everything to it."

"Why did you choose Paris?" "Because in Paris one's surroundings are so much more artistic. There is the Louvre to inspire one's imagination. Besides, I went there to get away from my friends. Had I remained in England social seductions would have prevented me giving my work sufficient time. You asked how I worked. Well, I stuck to it steadily, sometimes as long as three months at a stretch. Each of the figures took a year to complete. As the academy was not in the Paris salon. When the whole was finished in plaster a committee of the salon did me the greatest honor ever conferred upon a foreigner. They placed the statue and group in the center of the garden, which position had before been reserved for a national work. Later on the statue and groups in plaster were exhibited at the crystal palace."

"Is it true, as published, that the whole work cost you £10,000?" "Lord Ronald seemed rather taken aback by so direct a question, but after pausing, replied: "Well, I would rather not have said anything about the money part of it, but as it has appeared in print all I will say is that they have hit very near the mark. The work has been carried out by some local stone masons of Stratford-on-Avon, and the stone is of the same as that from which the memorial building was made. The funds for the pedestal were obtained by Sir Arthur Hodgson and the duke of Manchester. I am

Canada Bringing Up. TORONTO, Oct. 11.—The Empire, the chief government organ in Canada, asks: "Has it ever happened in the history of the world that one country took such liberty with the possessions of another as the United States are taking with Canada, without having first resolved upon going to war with the insulted nation?" After a long argument in the negative it says: "There are 5,000,000 British subjects, and although in the past we have submitted patiently to United States interference by methods more offensive than language can well express, the time has at last arrived, when our best interests of the international boundary, fair-minded men must agree that the dignity and honor of both countries demand an abandonment of the attitude which conveys a standing insult and menace to the Canadian Dominion."

Preparing for William. ROME, Oct. 11.—(Special Cablegram to THE BEE.)—Many of the stations which Emperor William will pass en route to Rome are decorated. King Humbert and Queen Margaret yesterday visited the departments designed for Emperor William, and expressed their satisfaction with the arrangements and decorations. A suite of five rooms has been set apart for the emperor. Over the suite a temporary tower has been erected, upon which the German and Russian flags will be displayed during the emperor's sojourn. The city is beginning to take a festive appearance. Visitors are flocking in from all parts of the country. The weather has been bad, but it promises to change for the better. Emperor William is timed to arrive at 9 p. m.

German Gospel. BERLIN, Oct. 11.—(Special Cablegram to THE BEE.)—The marriage of the duke of Sparta, the crown prince of Greece, and Princess Sophie, of Russia, has been fixed for October 18th. Emperor William will go to Athens to attend the ceremony, which will be held in the cathedral there. The Rielzer Zeitung says that the German training squadron will not go to east Africa, but leaves Malta for Piræus.

Wants It Stopped. BERLIN, Oct. 11.—(Special Cablegram to THE BEE.)—The Nachrichten holds that the publication of Emperor Frederick's diary in London and Paris is an act of piracy and legally punishable. The German authorities, it says, will institute proceedings to stop a further reproduction of the diary.

Forecasting the Reichstag. BERLIN, Oct. 11.—(Special Cablegram to THE BEE.)—The Boersen-Zeitung says that the reichstag will be convoked earlier than usual; that Prince Bismarck will ask a credit for emergency measures to be granted; and that Prince Henry will command the squadron which it is proposed to send there.
