Democratic betters are not so plentiful in this city as they were a few weeks ago. They have "bet all they can afford to," and some of them are already wishing they had not bet so much. One republican yesterday managed to get a bet by offering $20 to $5, and the unwashed disciple refused to bet more than a single "fiver" that way.

The police state that the prostitutes driven out of Omaha by the recent action of the city council are coming to this city in large numbers. The Transfer Contractor Disappears Leaving Freight Handlers Short.

WOMAN'S BOARD OF MISSIONS

Its Closing Day-The Death Record-Another Gas Charter Wanted-Cupid's Doings-Personals and Brevities.

Where Is Contractor Wells? Charles Wells, the contractor who has been transferring the freight at the Union Pacific transfer for the past year, has disappeared, leaving over a hundred employes to mourn his departure. Wells' indebtedness to his men amounted to over $6,000, and they are left in an unenviable condition just as winter is coming on. Wells left here about the first of the month, claiming that he was going to Kansas City and would be back in a few days. The men's pay for September was due on the 10th of this month, and as the days passed, and their employer failed to return, they grew uneasy and sent a committee to Omaha to see if ne had made his monthly settlement with the railroad company. While the committee was in the Douglas County bank the vouchers were brought in, but the cashier did not pay the money, as he mistrusted that something was wrong. It seems that Wells turned over his accounts to his son-in-law before leaving the city. As soon as it was discovered that he had skipped the men turned to the railroad company for relief. At midnight, Octo-ber 1, the company assumed charge of the transferring business and the men continued work as usual Wells contract would have expired on the 17th of this month, and it is understood that the company has agreed to let him off on the 10th. No definite arrangements have yet been made in regard to the payment of the men's wages, but it is thought that the rail road company will assume this debt of the contractors. It is claimed by some that the company can not escape paying it, for the reason that the men were in the employ of the company a year ago, and were not discharged when the contract was let to Wells but were simply turned over to him. It is also claimed that as Wells was not under bonds to the company as a contractor, he was simply a manager for it, and it is liable for the debt. The company is holding back con-siderable money from the September settle-ment, to make good Well's indebtedness so far as possible. This amount is not quite enough to settle with the men. It is claimed that Wells took the contract at very low figures, and has been losing money from the start. He agreed to do the work for less disastrously, and a year ago he renewed his contract as stated. He was not particularly well liked by the men, being somewhat tyran nical and overbearing.

It is stated that he is considerably in debt in Omaha and that his affairs are so hope lessly involved that he fled to avoid a settle ment. It is not known which way he went. His only property left at the transfer, as stated by one of the men, is a desk and office chair. He informed his foreman that he had secured a place with the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe company at Kansas City, but the truth of the statement is doubted. The men appointed a committee consisting of Messrs. Lefferts, Reagan and Reed, who visited the railroad headquarters in Omaha yesterday afternoon, but they refused to divulge the result of their conference with the railroad official. The greater part of the employes are members of the local assembly Knights of Labor, and that organization will see that they do not suffer. One of the leading officials of Knights and yesterday. "We have not taken any steps as yet, but we do not propose to see our brothers suffer." The men expect to see the matter settled without any difficulty, and think the company will immediately. diately come to their relief. The pay due the men is a little over a month, the average money than the company thought it could do it for itself and pay its men fair wages. He did the same work for a number of years, but threw up his contract in February, 1884, and went to Kansas, where he engaged in the grain business. The venture resulted Planning For the Heathen.

The second day's session of the Woman's Board of Missions were, if anything, more attractive than those of the preceding day. The attendance was good, quite a large number coming from Omaha during the forenoon. They remained until near the close of the afternoon session.

At 9 o'clock a. m. the morning session was opened by devotional exercises, led by Mrs. A. M. Beman of Red Oak. The reports of the vice presidents of the various associatiations followed. These showed a very general increase both in membership and interest in the work of the organization.

The committee on the selection of a place for holding the next annual meeting reported in favor of Dubuque, which report was adopted.

The report of the treasurer suggested the thought "How shall the treasury be filled," which question was taken up for discussion. A very interesting hour was thus spent in advising as to the best means to employ in meeting the financial needs of the association. From 10:15 to 11 o'clock was set apart as a "prayer hour" under the direction of Mrs. C. K. Woodard of Decorah. This was followed by the "question drawer," conducted by Mrs. L. W. Ross of this city.

At 1:45 the board reassembled. After devotional exercises the discussion of "Mission bands" was taken up, Mrs. McCleland leading in the absence of Mrs. J. G. Miller, who was assigned to that part of the programme.

An able and entertaining paper on "Our Periodicals" was read by Mrs. M. R. Smith of Davenport.
The committee having in charge the selec tion of officers for the ensuing year made the following report, which was adopted: President, Mrs. G. F. Magoun, Grinnell President, Mrs. G. F. Magoun, Grinnell; vice presidents, Central association—Mrs. G. G. Tilden, Ames; Council Bluffs association, Mrs. A. M. Beman, Red Oak; Davenport association, Mrs. O. W. Rogers, Mt. Pleasant; Des Moines River association, Mrs. Charles Searls; Dubuque association, Mrs. H. B. Lewis, Dubuque; Grinnell association, Mrs. A. L. Frisbie, Des Moines; Mitchell association, D. W. Kinshall, Northwestern association, D. W. Kinshall, D. W. Kinsha A. L. Frisbie, Des Moines; Mitchell associa-tiog, D. W. Kimball: Northwestern associa-tion, Mrs. G. W. McK. Doren; Northeast as-sociation, Mrs. C. K. Woodruff; Sioux asso-ciation, Mrs. M. T. Dalton, Lemars. Secre-tary, Mrs. L. F. Parker, Iowa City. Treas-urer, Mrs. E. R. Potter, Grinnell. Auditor, Colonel S. F. Cooder, Grinnell.

The afternoon question drawer was ther opened by Mrs. Ross. Two questions were submitted: "What is the Best Method of Conducting Teas?" Delegates from the dif-ferent associations gave their everiences in this matter: "What is the Best Method of this matter: "What is the Best Method of Preserving Sinking Societies!" brought out several answers. The one most to the point and in the light of past experience in all reigious work was submitted by a lady, viz 'One Woman Who Says it Shall Not Die.'' A paper on "The Right Use of Money," by Mrs. M. L. Kelsey, of Grinnell, was, in that lady's absence, read by Mrs. Dr. Montgomery, of this city.

Mrs. Dean, president of the Nebraska board of missions, was present, and being called on gave some points of interest gath-ered from her experience as a missionry in

The thanks of the delegates were then extended to the citizens of Council Bluffs and all others who had in any way contributed to the success of this meeting, after which the closing prayer was offered by Mrs. Magoun,

The Grim Reaper. On the 25th of April last, little Ralph, the six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Cousins was run over by a dirt wagon and seriously injured. Since then the little life has censtantly hung in the balance-sometimes giving hope of recovery, then sinking away until death seemed sure. The best medical

A New Gas Rate Wanted. The gas company does not apparently have any fear but that its charter will be renewed in some form. It continues its charge of $1 a thousand for gas, or $3.50 for cash payment. The intimation is made that when the improvements are completed which are now being made there will be a reduction in price. The record of the company does not give the public much ground for hope that the reduction will be anywhere near what it should be. The citizens have been very patient, paying twice as much for gas as other cities. As the time draws near for the char-ter to come to an end, there is no little anxiety as to what the council will do. That the present charter has been grossly violated there seems little doubt. It provides that the company shall adopt from time to time new methods and machinery for manufactur ing and make corresponding reductions in prices. The city council must not be fulled to sleep or asphyxiated. Other companies should be encouraged to come in with bids and charters and such a reform made as will result in good gas at reasonable prices.

Four-Footed Opium Fiends. New York Mail: "Yes, I have had numerous patients with the opium habit," said a well-known physician, adding frankly, "and I never cured one of them. I had one," he continued, smiling, "that I never tried to cure." "How was that?" said the reporter. feeling sure that a story was to be had for the asking.

"It was a cat," said the physician. 'He belonged to a patient who had him for a pet for a long time, and the cat used to lay on the bed with his master while the latter smoked. He would breathe the smoke of eight or ten pipes that his master would smoke before he would show the effects, and then he would sink into a stupor for some twenty minutes, and afterward awake with every sign of excitement, and would frisk around like a kitten, though he was ordinarily as sedate as old cats usually are. I begged him from my patient and kept him locked up till he died after showing nearly all the symptoms of suffering which human opium fiends undergo. It wasn't a particularly remark able case, though it was interesting, for there are many such cases on record. They are not rare, it is said, in countries where opium is much used. I have read of two monkies in Cambodia who were kept as pets by an opium-smoker. They seemed to enjoy the heavy smoke greatly, and became such confirmed fiends that if they were not allowed to enjoy the smoke regularly they would scream loudly and try desperately to break their chains. One of them would chew the burned opium when the pipes were cleaned, and the other seemed to prefer the smoke. When ever his master would lay his pipe aside this one would sieze it and try and suck out all the smoke that was left. If their master would leave them a few days without smoke they would both become melancholy and grow exceedingly thin, rejecting all food until they were again ndulged. "Dogs and other animals have also been known to acquire this habit, and it is said that savage animals, such as tigers and panthers, have been trained by teaching them to enjoy opium. this last statement, however, I know nothing definite.'
