Forgery and False Pretenses.

George Gasser, who lives at 1451 South Fourteenth, has sworn out warrants for the arrest of J. K. Longenhagen and John Dickover, who got $36 from him through false pretenses. He says that they have been building a house for him and when they set-tled with him they pretended to have paid the bill of $96 for lumber, and showed him a receipt for the same which has since proven to be a forgery. Dickover has been arrested but Longenhagen has fled from the city.

He Didn't Kidnap. Mr. Corey, who, it was stated had unlaw fully detained a child intrusted to his care by Michael Clark, of Decatur, tells a different story. The boy was given to him, he says, by the former's grandmother when his par-ents were killed because no one cise would take care of him. In answer to the state-ment that Mr. Clark has spent three years looking for him Corey states that he lived in the same town with Clark till last laye and the same town with Clark till last June and shows a letter received from Clark's wife since coming to Omaha.

The fellow with the amputated digit reported the matter at police headquarters, but a diligent search for Law-rence has proved fruitless. No doubt there is a sidewark inspector in this city, drawing a good salary, and if this article reaches his eye I would call his at-tention to the walks on St. Mary's avenue from Sixteenth to Twentieth street, on both sides. These walks are all wood; short boards, patched boards, and in some places no boards. One of the largest lumber dealers no boards. One of the largest lumber dealers has a miserable walk a foot above the curb. On the south side from Seventeenth to Eighteenth street in front of those old rookeries, the walk is narrow and patched and taken up by signs, fruit and vegetables, so that the thousands of people whe wend their way west on the avenue from Sixteenth street would bless the inspector if he would remedy that locality before winter. Where is the Open Board? "When does the board of trade open its open board?" was asked of a member of that organization yesterday. "The announcement was made some time ago," was the reply, "that the open board would be inaugurated about the first of October. But the promise has not been fulfilled. We have given a room away for a year for nothing, to a firm to aid in the establishment of a board of the kind you speak of, and yet we have done nothing ourselves to further the scheme. I'll tell you, I don't think we'll ever have an open board here. The members don't take enough interest in the matter, and there are some whose interests could be subserved by not having one. And yet we wanted a chamber of commerce, with a beautiful hall which is now loaded

UNION PACIFIC VS. WELLS.

The Transfer Case Comes Into the Courts.

The Union Pacific filed a bill of interpleader in the matter of Charles Wells, its transfer agent. It makes Wells, his wife, his employers, Joseph R. Clarkson and the Douglas county bank defendants, The plaintiff, as orator, states that the contract for transfer work was made Oct. 7, 1887, with S. F. Wells, who is the wife of Charles Wells. One of the conditions of the contract was that it might be terminated by either party by giving three days notice. The payments were to be monthly, not later than the 10th. The bill recites that the orator on September

10, 1888, gave Mrs. Wells thirty days notice of the termination of the contract, and such termination was agreed to by both parties concerned. It also states that Mrs. Wells, by her husband, had assigned the contract to Joseph R. Clarkson on August 10, and the latter, on the same day assigned it to the Douglas County bank as collateral for a loan. Mrs. Wells also, on September 17, signed an order, directed to F. D. Brown, local treasurer of the Union Pacific to that effect. The order was delivered to the treasurer the same day. The orator states that there became due on the contract, at the time of its ermination, less the deductions and charges against Weils and the defendants, the gross sum of $5,119.23. It is stated that Wells employed a large number of men to do his labor, who, it is asserted, have a claim in the money carned by them which should be paid by one of the Wells, by Clarkson or by the bank. The employees of Wells have notified the Union Pacific to withhold the payment of such a sum as will pay the wages due them, and the bank has made a claim for the whole amount. Then follows a list of the employ ces' claims, which aggregate $1,027.76. The nion Pacific is threatened with suits by the different claimants, and asks to be protected. It turns the $5,119,23 into court, and asks the latter to adjudicate the several claims to the money. The notice also asks the court to enjoin the various claimants from bringing any more suits of any kind or in any court.

THE DEMOCRATIC TICKET. Various Views Expressed About It By Citizens.

C. V. Gallagher—The ticket is a strong one and, I believe, will make a clean sweep on election day. The only strong man on the republican ticket is Hascall. Gurley is a nice fellow and is very bright, but I begin to think he will be overwhelmed with the rest of the republican ticket.

Justice Kroeger—The Irish as usual have captured the best places on the ticket. However, I believe that with the exception of one or two candidates for the legislature that the whole ticket will be elected.

Fred Elsasser—I don't think much of the men running for representatives, but the three senatorial candidates are a magnificent lot of men, and will have a regular walkaway with the republicans opposed to them. There isn't a man on the republican ticket who will compare with Ijams. O'Keefe's unation is also a good one.

. W. Wessells—The democratic ticket

strikes me as being very strong, relatively. Property interests seem to be more repre-sented than in the other. Euclid Martin—It is a strong ticket be-cause it has all the elements and all the naionalities represented on it. It will be Henry Hornberger-The democrats will elect two of the senatorial ticket. Paxton and Ijams. They will also elect several of the legislative ticket. Joseph R. Ciarkson-Mahoney is an excel-Joseph R. Clarkson—Manoney is an excel-lent nominee and will give Gurley all the run he wants. I'll say that, although I am a republican. I don't know much about the rest of the ticket.

Dexter L. Thomas-I don't want you to note me, but the democrats have put Pax-on on the ticket to give tone to the rest of it. I consider the rest of it pretty weak. The same is true of the republican ticket. We don't send the men to the legislature that

A. P. Nicholas (rep.)-I am quite of the opinion that a portion of the ticket will pull through. The nominees for county attorney and county commissioner are both strong men. W. A. Paxton is the weakest man in the field. His action on woman suffrage while a member of the legislature will be a barricade in his pathway. As to the repre-sentatives, while some of the nominees are strong, I am of the opinion that by skillful engineering the republican ticket will be

C. K. Coutant-I regard the ticket as put in the field by the democrats to be one possessing but little prestige on the voting ele-ment in Douglas county. There is little doubt existing in my mind but that the maority of the republican ticket, as regards numbers to the legislature, will be elected. One thing that stands in favor of this is that the nominations made by our party tended toward harmony, while it is just the reverse with the democrats.

Frank E. Moores-It's a pretty fair ticket. Ijams' nomination is a strong one, and he is likely to be elected. Both tickets are good ones, but I think the republican is the stronger of the two. Register Megeath—It's a very fine ticket, and will be elected, I think, from top to not

tom. It is made up of representative men, and the county is naturally democratic now —about 600 to 800, I believe, It is as pretty a ticket from top to bottom as I ever saw nominated in Douglas county The republican who pulls through on election day will be a curiosity.

County Clerk Roche—It is a very strong ticket. There is not enough weakness in it do any harm. It is made up of men of means, men who are worthy of the places for which they are named, and it will sweep the board—sure! Mayor Broatch—The democrats have nominated some good men. The senatorial ticket is a strong one, but I can't say as much for the representative ticket.

Charles Conoyer—It is composed of two classes of nominees. One is strong and the other is weak. I was strongly in favor of William Neve for county commissioner, and in the sense of justice, he should have received the nomination instead of O'Keefe. Then, too, the legislative ticket might have been made stronger but the time for a mayon. been made stronger, but the time for a move-ment in that direction has passed. I think, however, we will elect a majority.

George Barker—The ticket is a strong one and I think will be elected throughout. While a little misunderstanding has existed in the democratic ranks heretofore, I am of the opinion that all differences in this respect will be laid aside during the pending campaign. I regard the senatorial candidates campaign. I regard the senatorial candidates as being a strong support to the entire ticket and will doubtless be instrumental in leading us to victory in Douglas county.

W. H. Crary-I intend to support the en-tire ticket, although it contains some weak candidates. There are some vague rumors affoat concerning a split in the democratic ranks, but they are of but little importance and will in all probability die out before elec-tion day. A stronger ticket could have been made up had the convention been thoroughly informed in that light.

Judge Berka—I feel confident that the entire republican ticket will be elected in this county and legislative district. The ticket put in the field by the democrats is not only weak but it is supported by factions which foreshadow anything but harmony. In my views, I can see very distinctly a republican victory resting in the sombre shades of the voting populace of this county and state. Assistant City Attorney Smith—The demo-crats have put up a fair ticket when taken as a whole. It is true that there are a few weak men that may prove more or less of a load-stone to the remainder of the ticket, but as a rule the nominees are possessed of consider-able strength. I have heard some talk concerning the nationality predominating, but on that issue I do not care to render an ex-pression. Mark it down, though, that the icket nominated has a strong opponent in the field.

James Creighton—The democratic ticket is constituted of fair material. The weakest man nominated is W. A. Paxton, and mark what I tell you, he will be snowed under by his own party, who will throw support to Judge Hascall, on the republican ticket. Paxton was nominated against the wishes of a large and respected element of the degree. ton was nominated against the wishes of a large and respected element of the democracy. I, for one, opposed his nomination because I regarded him as the weakest man for the position in Douglas county, and I am not the only man that thinks that way. The remainder of the ticket I think will be elected, but you can state Paxton as a victim, right now. I intend to support Hascall because he is well qualified as a legislator, both mentally and legally, while Mr. Paxton is deflicient in both respects. When he voted on woman suffrage, he did not know which way he was voting, and if he not know which way he was voting, and if he did, he should commence to wear long hair immediately.

W. J. Connell—I have not much to say. There are some strong men on the ticket and men that will meet with support, but the major portion of the ticket is weak. I am satis-fled with the outcome and the outlook, W. F. Bechel—The ticket put in the field by the democrats is composed of strong and weak men. The outcome much depends upon the existence of harmony in the ranks of both parties.

John B. Furay—It is quite favorable in the eyes of the republican nominees and their constituency. The prospects are bright for a republican victory in Douglas county. J. E. Riley—The ticket will go before the people on election day with universal satisfaction. From a general issue it is strong and is made up of representative democrats.

Justice O'Connell—I think we've got a pretty good ticket. I think that the nationalties are well represented, and that we hold the winning card. Lovis Boehne—I think the ticket is a good one, and one the republicans will find hard to Louis Heimrod—I think the ticket a strong one. Take Paulson among the Germans, he is as popular as any man we have. Everyone knows he is honest, straightforward, and can't be tampered with. Paxton is above reproach, and ljam's strength is well known. The legislative ticket is well selected.

The Army. Yesterday at 10 o'clock General John R. Brooke drove out to the garrison to inspect the troops. His presence was announced by a salute of eleven guns. The companies were marched to the centre of the parade grounds and drawn into line, after which General Wheaton took command. The order "present arms" was given and the trumpeters sounded the "salute of honor" to the department commander, which he recognized by raising his chapeau in return. The troops made an excellent appearance, and one could scarcely believe that they were the same soldiers who, a few days ago, came pledding into the fort covered with dust and piedding late the fort covered with dust and mud, tired out and foot-sore. General Brooke's staff was composed of Colonel Terrill, Major Hughes, Colonel Barriger, Drs. McParlin and Brown. His aides were Lieutenants Roe and Merritt. After the troops had been marched in review, the general proceeded to inspect the men. During the inspection, the bend played a number of taking airs. General Wheaton then marched the troops by divisions and platoons. The drilling of the men was excellent, making perfect wheels, performing with ease evoluperfect wheels, performing with ease evolu-tions both beautiful and complicated, and carrying out the most difficult commands with order and perfection. The battalion finally haited, and executed the manual of arms. It was marched in double-quick time arms. It was marched in double-quick time and dismissed. The spectacle was witnessed by a large number of city people. After the dismissal of the men, the general, accom-panied by his staff and aides, visited the company quarters, the hospital and other de-partments, which terminated the inspection.
