ADDITIONAL COUNCIL BLUFFS

An Arrogant Official. C An occurrence took place on lower Broadway last evening that created considerable teeling against the electric motor line. The last motor to leave the bridge for this city was heavily loaded. several hundred passengers being on board. On arriving at the car house, corner of Avenue A and Thirty-first street, Mr. Isaac Lovett, the superintendent in charge of the electric power department, announced that the train would go no further. Despite the strenwould go no lurther. Despite the stream oursurging of the passengers and the advice of other employees of the company he insisted in adhering to his determination.

The passengers were compelled to walk two miles to the center of the city. The gentlemanly (?) employe of the company gave as a reason for refusing to run, that it would soon be dark and there was no light in the power house. The run would not have than lifteen minutes and other officials said there was ample time. Not only was a needless task put upon a large number of passengers, but an unfavorable impression was created in regard to the company. It is to be regretted that such an occurrence closed an otherwise entirely successful day.

The Bluffs Band.

The boys of the home band are a little warm, and their friends are still warmer. "It shows the difference between Omaha and Council Bluffs," remarked one of them. "The Red Oak band, desiring a little prominence and free advertising, wrote to Omaha offering to play yesterday for nothing if they would give them the lead of the column. The Omaha folks would not accept the proposition, because they preferred to give the honor to their own bands. More than that the Omaha folks paid their band $100. The Red Oak band then made the offer to Council Bluffs, and Council Bluffs jumped at it. The home band here agreed to play for a merely nominal sum. It looks like an insult to our own band. It is rather discouraging for the boys to attempt to keep an organization here, and those who have stood by it are getting weary of the way the band is treated. For one I believe in protection, to a certain extent, anyway. If there is any honor to be given or encouragement shown, it should be to our own band, so long as it

A Broken Leg.

John Mikesell, the well known "Q" engineer, met with a serious accident while crossing the new bridge. He was on horseback and got jammed in between two buggies in such a way that the horse in turning to get out fell, his weight coming on to Mr. Mikesell so as to break his right leg near the ankle. One of the buggies run over his right arm but it was not broken. He scrambled out as best he could and climbed over the rail into the foot passage. There the crowd was so dense that it seemed he could not get out, but on its becoming known that his leg was broken the way was cleared and he was helped into a carriage and brought up to the office of Drs. Macrae & Thomas, who attended to his injuries.

Too Fast for Marshall. While returning from Omaha vester. day afternoon just before the parade started, a horse driven by M. M. Marshall became frightened and ran away. Fortunately Lower Broadway was not crowded at that time, and Mr. Marshall managed to keep the animal in the street without colliding with any other vehicles. After running nearly a mile the horse was driven into a fence near the Northwestern depot and stopped. Mr. Marshali was uninjured, and the only damage was to the harness. Mr. W. J. Davenport, freight and passenger agent, was in the buggy when the horse started but jumped to the ground with-out injury. The escape was a very for-tunate one for both gentlemen.

Personal Paragraphs. Judge Deemer and wife were among the prominents at the celebration.

E. W. Tichnor was in yesterday from North Bend, greeting old friends and celebrating with the others. Mrs. R. C. Shively, of Missouri Valley, is in the city visiting her sister-in-law, Mrs. S. A. Anderson, and her brothers, D. W. and H. R. Jones.

S. H. Carpenter, a young business man of Cedar Falls, Ia., is in the city visiting Prof. McNaughton and family and taking in the bridge opening.

Past Eminent Grand Commander Dewey, of Washington, Iowa, was in the city yesterday, and participated in the day's exercises with Ivanhoe Commandery. Electrician Bradley, of the fire department, has sufficiently recovered from his wounds received in the recent stabbing affair, to be out again, and was at his rost in the line vesture. at his post in the line yesterday. Mr. Fred Pullman, an expert in the employ of the Thomson-Houston Electric company, is in the city superintending the opening of the motor line and seeing that the machinery will work properly. Several Bluffs citizens "got left" so far as witnessing the parade was concerned. They drove across the river in the morning to look over the preparations going on in Omaha, and did not start to return until the Omaha procession moved. It was then almost impossible to get near either bridge owing to the jam, and after taking their place in line and waiting for nearly two hours. line and waiting for nearly two hours, they managed to reach Iowa soil, but it was too late to see much. Omaha turned out on masse, and the passage ways to the bridge were blocked.

A boy, who was trying to clamber upon one of the wagons in the parade yesterday, caught his hand in the endgate of the wagon in such a manner that one finger was mashed to a jelly before he could be extricated. He was taken to Dr. Macrae's office, where the end of the injured digit was amputated. The lad lives in the eastern part of the city. He will carry the mark of the day's celebration with him to his grave.

Judge Aylesworth did very little business in police court yesterday. Four drunks were the only victims in the cooler for his attention. With the four drunks were the only victims in the cooler for his attention. With the exception of the time spent in going to the bridge and returning, he passed the day at the city building, manufacturing voters. The naturalization machinery works very smoothly now, and Germans, Irish, Italians and Swedes are metamorphosed into Americans at a surprising rate.

Fourteen special police were on duty yesterday to assist the regular force in looking after the great number of strangers who flocked to the city to witness the ceremonies and demonstration in honor of the opening of the bridge. They were distributed all over city, but mainly along Broadway. A few were detailed for duty at the new bridge to assist in keeping back the growd during the progress of the anguital ceremony.
