The motor company are experiencing some difficulty in securing men to run their cars, from the fact that a bond for $500 is exacted to stand against accidents which are caused by carelessness or incompetency.

The petition for the creation of a Fifth ward is awakening much discussion. The growth of the city, and the stretching out towards the river is the cause of the new move. It is meeting with little opposition.

Deeds and mortgages, 200 and 400 respectively, were recorded yesterday as one of the results of the Evans lot sale. Among other transfers were Charles Officer to Edwin Wilkins, five lots in Highland place, $1,600; S. S. Rust to Daniel Bohan, several lots, $1,600.

The switch connecting the old street car line on Pearl street with the new double track was put in yesterday in front of the First fire office. The remainder of the stone paving torn up on Broadway at the head of Pearl street was replaced, and the block paving on the latter street will be re-laid to-day.

The slate roofing of the new Washington avenue school building has all been put in place with the exception of the lower which is not yet completed. The structure is daily growing into more beautiful proportions, as the tower nears completion. This building will be far handsomer than any other owned by the city.

The funeral services over the body of Anton Jensen were held yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence of the deceased, 1418 South Tenth street. The deceased had no relatives in this part of the country, and when he was taken to the hospital here he was tenderly cared for and all that was possible was done to effect his recovery. He died Wednesday afternoon, and was taken by friends and decently buried.

The Evans lot sale at auction was concluded Wednesday evening. Two hundred and three lots were sold. The price averaged $32.50 per lot. This, for a single day's sale, is remarkable, and what may be considered more so is the fact that nearly all the buyers were men who will proceed at once to build upon them either business blocks or residences. A large number of others were disposed of yesterday at private sale. Mr. Evans duplicating the prices paid during the auction on lots similarly situated.

The wedding ring displayed by Harkness Bros. on Wednesday was one of the neatest things designed and gotten up on that occasion. It lays in a cushion of cardinal plush, which gives it a pleasing background. The hoop is a combination of diamonds which blend beautifully. The set is a combination of pearls and different colored ribbons, which give a good imitation of a diamond. Above it is the date for which it is made, October 30, upon a field of blue. "A happy conception" say all who see it.

Mr. and Mrs. Jason Walker, of Wichita, Kas., are in the city for a few days' stay. Mrs. Walker, more familiarly known by her maiden name of Mrs. Ed. Walker, is a sister of T. B. Baldwin. There was but one booster in police court yesterday morning, but he was the "drunkest man in seven states," as the officer said who searched him. It required two men to hold him up, while the jailer unloaded his pockets. His name was Edward Cameron, and he was fined $8.10.

The case of "Reddy," alias G. Smith, for disturbing the peace on "The Row," was continued until this morning at 10 o'clock.

The case against R. D. Amy for keeping a vicious dog set for hearing, but was delayed by the non-appearance of the plaintiff's attorney. The information was sworn out by the divorced wife of Mr. Amy, who alleged that the dog had bitten her little daughter. Mr. Amy denied owning the dog, and Mrs. Amy No. 2 appeared in court as defendant. It was claimed that the whole affair was the result of spite work. Mr. Amy kept out of the way, and the case was set to fight it out in court. The case was of little interest except to the parties concerned.

Another dog case was announced as nearly ready for trial. It was that of Perry Hull, who accused Frank Graves of stealing his hunting pup. The plaintiff resides at St. Joseph, and his home is desolate since the dog's departure.

SHOWING OFF SPEEDY STEEDS

Opening Day of the Races at the Union Park.

THE DAY IN DISTRICT COURT.

Closing the Old Term, Making Ready For the New—A Tribute to Engineer Moore—Accident to the Motor Wire.

Opening Day of the Races.

The opening day of the fall trotting meeting at Union park was all that could be desired, so far as the weather was concerned, with the exception of a high wind that blew up in the afternoon during the latter part of the afternoon. The attendance was rather light, as is usually the case on the first day. The track was in fine condition, and the horses entered were excellently fitted to make fine races. The judges were M. Wilbur and John Mitchell, of Omaha, and G. D. Wilson, of Council Bluffs. Timer, J. H. McShane, of Omaha. The feature of the day was the wonderful performance of the two-year-old pacer, Ed Rosewater. The wind died down somewhat about the time of his great speed trial and made the difficulties of the race somewhat less. The track was a little too dry for record-breaking, but the wonderful gray succeeded in doing what he attempted—that is, to beat 2:31.4. Betting was heavy on the result, and the backers of the game animal coined money. Mr. Rosewater, the owner, is a native of Council Bluffs, and it is positive that this time can be beaten under more favorable circumstances. Another attempt will be made to-morrow.

The races are of sufficient interest to warrant the attendance of a large crowd, and it is expected that both Omaha and Council Bluffs will be well represented to-day. The result of yesterday's races is as follows:

FIRST RACE.

The first event of the day was the 2:35 trot. There were nine entries. Positions were drawn for as follows: Betsy Baker pole, Mollie H second, Weichman third, Peter Gardner fourth, Golden Wing fifth, Jennie Lynn sixth, Fannette seventh, Lady Leighton eighth. They were sent away at the pole, holding it to the half, where Weichman led, they went to the turn well bunched.

As they swung into the backstretch Mollie H. foraged to the front and led the way to the half, where Jennie Lynn began to open the race. The race down the stretch was not particularly pretty, and set the pace too fast for the others, Weichman being forced off his feet. The race to the wire was exciting, Mollie H. and Peter Gardner did considerable running and Fannette was pocketed, but was given the heat, as she would undoubtedly have won it if given a fair start, and trotted the mile without a break. Peter Gardner was placed second and Weichman third. Jennie Lynn took the lead at the turn, Mollie H. sixth, Lady Leighton seventh, Golden Wing eighth. Time—2:36.

Considerable difficulty was experienced in getting the horses to the heat. A start was finally secured which was the exact duplicate of the preceding one. Gardner took the lead at the turn, Weichman a close second, and the others trailing to the quarter pole. The race was a close one to the finish, Jennie Lynn was let out on the back stretch, and took an easy lead, but Weichman and Fannette stayed by her to the wire. Weichman was in the air half of the time, but the mare trotted handsomely.

At the finish they were Jennie Lynn first, Weichman second, Fannette third, Lady Leighton fourth, Peter Gardner fifth, Betsy Baker sixth, Mollie H. seventh, Golden Wing eighth. Time—2:34.4.

The horses were tired as they came out for the fourth heat, and it was getting dark. It was almost too dark to see the horses when they were finally got away, after countless attempts. As well as could be seen from the judges' stand, it was a running race the greater part of the way. Fannette was left at the start, but by square trotting and wonderful speed managed to secure second place at the finish.

Weichman continued to dance and run, and was well imitated by the majority of the country. The position of the wire was Jennie Lynn first, Fannette second, Weichman third, Lady Leighton fourth, Peter Gardner fifth, Mollie H. sixth, Golden Wing seventh, Betsy Baker eighth. Time—2:35.3.

The race will be finished this afternoon at 2 o'clock, and in the evening, Wilbur and heavily backed to win the last heat and race to-day.

SECOND RACE.

This was the 2:29 trot and pace. There were seven entries, but only three started. The phenomenal two-year-old pacer, Ed Rosewater, was one of the entries, and the owners of the trotters refused to start unless the distance was waived. This was refused until after the race was called, and only the pacer started. It was a walk-away for Rosewater. The only object was to place second and third mares.

In the first heat Rosewater drew the pole, Oliver E second and John third. Positions were unaltered at the finish. Time—2:30.

In the second heat Rosewater paced to beat the world record of 2:24 for two-year-old pacer. It was a splendid exhibition.

The wonderful gray went to the quarter in 1:45 and half in 1:57.4, the three-quarters in 2:05 and holding it to 2:24. The race was very interesting one, and well worth going miles to witness. The others were placed as before. In the third and last heat, Rosewater finished in 2:29.4. John second and Oliver E third. The race was won by Rosewater, Oliver E second, John third.

The Old and the New Terms.

The readers of The Bee will remember the cattle case which developed several months ago, and in which were interested J. C. Abbott, A. Greenan, the Citizens' State bank, as a corporation, and others.

The case was docketed, "The Citizens' State Bank vs. Abbott." A trial on its merits at the last term of court resulted in a verdict of $10,000 for Abbott. A motion for a new trial was made by plaintiff, which has just been overruled by Judge Loufowrow. This the judge refuses to disturb the verdict. The plaintiff has not yet given notice of appeal, but it is understood this will be the next move.

Court adjourned this morning until the 13th, when the new term opens with Judge Carson on the bench. There are on the new docket forty-six criminal cases, and then the Lee embroachment case, and that of Bernard Gross for receiving stolen property. There are also a number of cases against saloon-keepers for violating writs of injunction.

The juries for the coming term are as follows:

Grand Jury—James Rainbow, Silver Creek; A. T. Whiteley, Kane; N. Kirck Kerk, O. H. Dutton, Crescent; S. Pratt, Norwalk; Henry Wood, Garner; Thomas Leonard, Hazel Dell.

Petit Jury—J. J. Waugh, Kane; J. N. Tompkins, Garner; G. W. Hummer, Minden; E. D. Colomer, Kane; F. C. Miller, Minden; George F. Smith, John Fox, Kane; H. H. Thomas, Hardin; R. L. Breaking the Motor Wires.

The line work on the wires of the electric motor company was completed about 10 o'clock yesterday when the last switch near the Methodist church was put in position. Scarcely had the work been done when the great wires began to stretch under an enormous strain. Immediately following this the wires suddenly slackened, the insulators along the cross wires began to unhook, as the main wires swung violently from side to side, and many rattling to the ground it was evident that there was a break somewhere. It was quickly located at the corner of Broadway and a steam shovel attached to a freight train had collided with the wires, which were twenty-three feet high at that point, and before the train could be stopped the damage was done. Both wires were broken, one of them in two places. The linemen were set to work repairing the damage as quickly as possible, but will require two days to undo the mischief. It was intended to have put on regular trains yesterday afternoon, but owing to the accident, but the accident prevented. It is hoped to get trains running to-day, and as soon as possible a regular schedule will be established. The breakage and consequent delay has called forth many unfavorable remarks concerning the railway company, and the train men who caused the accident. The electric motor line is dear to the Council Bluffs people, and they are very sensitive about any hurt to it. The train men had no knowledge of any such wires, and were on the lookout for them. Hereafter the railway men will be on the lookout that no more such accidents may occur.

The following letter is self-explanatory and voices the sentiment of many citizens besides those who caused its production:

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Ia., Nov. 1, 1888.—Hon. Frank D. Moore, Council Bluffs, Ia.

Sir—I am instructed by the directors of the Philadelphia and Council Bluffs Railway company, and it affords me great pleasure to transmit to you the resolution unanimously adopted by said board, in the words following:

Resolved: That the board of directors of the Omaha and Council Bluffs Railway and Bridge company, and each member thereof personally, do hereby declare their unlimited admiration and respect for the superior ability and excellent personal worth of Frank D. That in all things done, and in carrying out the construction of said bridge to final completion, we do fully recognize his efficient ability as a civil engineer, and do hereby testify to his uniform and unwavering fidelity to his work in charge, and to our interests in all things connected therewith.

Quarrel Over a Gambling Debt.

Joseph Durand, a traveling man in the employ of Chapman, Green & Co., of Chicago, was playing pool last evening in the Manhattan billiard parlors, with a stranger, and before the games were settled all parties were concerned. The stranger, who was a stranger to Durand, gained quite a little unpleasant notoriety. Both players were experts with the cue, and they played for a dollar a game, "just to make it interesting, you know." Durand proved too much for the stranger, and the latter was "out of soap" at the end of eleven games. He left the table and started toward the country in the front part of the room, and Durand supposed he was going to settle for the table. On attempting to leave the room a few minutes later he was surprised to learn that his opponent had left without paying, and he was re-quested by Mr. Durand to return to the table. This he refused to do, and an officer was called in, who took Durand to the station. He finally offered to settle his half of the bill amounting to 50 cents, and Durand was compelled to accept it, as a refusal would have been a tacit acknowledgment that the table was void for the night, and he would for its use. Durand was exceedingly "hot" over the matter, and promised to give the plaintiff plenty of free advertising among the traveling men who were in the parlors. Durand's half was paid, and he felt that he had been subjected to needless indignities. Both players had been drinking in the gambling houses farther up the street, and the case resulted disastrously. It is hardly probable that any of the parties concerned will be especially benefited by the occurrence.

The merchants on Upper Broadway are terribly annoyed by petty thieves, who take everything they can carry away without detection. The articles are mostly small and of little value. Several small boys have been caught doing a peddling trade, but have thus far, by tears and promises, escaped prosecution. One druggist confined to the reporter yesterday the fact that he did not dare to leave a sign of value upon the show case. At one time a large quantity of Seditz powders disappeared mysteriously and, notwithstanding he kept a close watch, they all went and he could not tell where. At another time a number of boxes of corn salve went away on a mysterious foot. The boys who have thus far been caught are sons of the table parlors, who would be sadly grieved could they know of these acts of lawlessness.

An Evening of Music.

The concert given in the Congregational church last evening was one of merit indeed. The programme was of high order, and pleasingly varied. Prof. DeNormandie opened with an organ solo, which was excellent.

Mr. Frank Westcott, who has one of the finest tenor voices now in a pleasing solo. Prof. Baetens, who is indeed an artist, handled the violin, as he only can. Mrs. Wadsworth gave several numbers which were thoroughly enjoyed, and called forth much applause. Mrs. Sletten divided the honors of the evening by her wonderful skill as a pianist. The concert was, as a whole, one of the best ever given in this city.

Musically Inclined.

The Ladies' Musical society will open its season of 1888-89 this afternoon at 2:30, at Meyer's music hall, Omaha. Liszt's famous pupil, Miss Adela Seger, Ave, will give a piano recital before the society. All who join the society will be admitted to this as well as to other programmes of the season by the new membership ticket for 1888-89. Musicians will be given alternate Wednesday entertainments from November to June. Executive committee—President, Miss Poppleton; vice president, Thayer; secretary, Mrs. Mar. Cahn; treasurer, Mrs. Sletten. Secretary, Mrs. Tressner. Membership tickets may be obtained of the door. Single tickets will admit gentlemen only.

Present Your Bills.

All bills against the city of arrangements for bridge celebration must be made out and placed in the hands of the secretary of the board of trade before noon to-day (Friday), as it is desired to effect an immediate payment of the bills. All interested parties will attend to the matter without delay.

Notice.

All persons having bills against the committee of arrangements for the bridge celebration must present the same to me on or before Saturday morning, and to the proper attention. WILLIAM MOORE.

Eating the Old Mare.

New York Times: One day last week Dr. H. H. Hildekofer, chief of the veterinary school at the University of Pennsylvania and a prominent figure in Philadelphia society, gave a dinner to a number of friends at the Philadelphia club. For the last thirteen years Dr. Hildekofer has owned a famous gray mare, hunter and steeplechaser named Pandora. At the dinner last week one of the principal dishes on the menu card was "filet a la Pandora." The guests supposed that the dish was named in honor of the old steeplechaser, whom they had seen take many a ditch and many a fence and come in the winner of many an exciting race. After the filet had been eaten and pronounced very toothsome by the guests Dr. Hildekofer remarked that he was glad of his guests' appreciation for his favorite horse, "for," he said, "you have just eaten her." The guests looked at each other in amazement, and after a short interval of silence there was a roar of laughter. Then, at a glance, all seemed to remember Pandora as they had seen her at the last meet, and then, in reverential silence, the company rose to their feet, lifted their chairs to the table, and with a solemn silence to the memory of the old gray mare they had just devoured.

Pandora was shot. She was twenty years old, and on account of lameness in her fore feet she had become unprofitable to herself. It was not on account of her old age that she was doomed to death, but because her front feet were so sore that she could no longer take fences and stone walls. Aside from her lameness she was in the best of health, and her old age had not diminished her appetite. She was a horse of half her age. The gray coat, speckled with red spots, made her unprepossessing in appearance, but she was the heroine in most of the hunts in the Philadelphia club, that have taken place since the centennial celebration only missed one encampment since the reorganization of the national guard, ten years ago. After Pandora was shot the choicest meat was cut from her and a short time after she was buried in the Philadelphia club, where she was sworn to secrecy, and the meat was disguised as a joint of beef and served to Dr. Hildekofer's guests.

Dr. Hildekofer, this evening, in speaking of the dinner at which Pandora was devoured, said: "Five years ago one of the biggest restaurants in Berlin were sold out and the bills for beef furnished were all presented by horses in the name of the Berlin club. It is good as beef. It is a pity that horse meat is not eaten in this country. The horse would not have to be worn out and sold to hucksters at $10 and $12 a head, but would bring good prices for meat. The people in this city eat beef a great deal more unit for food than good horse meat. I can go to the stock yards in West Philadelphia and pick up a dozen head of any kind of horses, which are killed to eat that are sent to market. There is no inspection of meat in this city and the law is violated every day. The only beef that is properly inspected is that eaten by the Hebrews, which is killed according to their rule. The council of the veterinary school of Belgium even recommended dog meat for human food after being properly inspected. While in Europe several years ago I inspected the slaughter house and the meat returned home I wrote an article which was published in the Veterinary Review describing the Berlin system of inspection, which is the best in the world. There are 125,000 head of horses in this country every year from tuberculosis, and nearly one-half of them are the direct result of eating diseased beef."

Segato's Ghastly Tale.

Fifty years ago or thereabouts, says a writer in the New York Sun, Giuseppe Segato, a Florentine physician, announced that he had discovered a way of petrifying the human body so as to preserve its form without change of appearance. He submitted specimens of his work to the grand duke of Tuscany, who thought well of the discovery and offered to buy it from Segato. The physician refused the offer, and while he waited for a higher bid, either suddenly or after a very short illness, he never revealed his process, and his secret was his own.

The following description of Segato's best-known specimen, first published about a year ago in a medical journal, has since appeared in almost every newspaper in the world. It is a man in the Pitti palace at Florence in the matter of construction and gaitless in conception is probably without a rival. It was made by Giuseppe Segato, who passed several years of his life in its manufacture. To the casual observer it gives the impression of a curious mosaic of marbles of different shades and colors, for it looks like polished stone. In reality it is composed of human muscles and viscera. No less than a hundred bodies were requisitioned for the material. The table is round and about a yard in diameter. It is a perfect copy of the man, the whole being formed of petrified human
